Universal regret among her long list of acquaintances and the numerous friends of the family will be felt at the announcement of the death of Mrs. Elizabeth McKee Webber, wife of Mr. Geo. Webber, of North Monaghan, which sad event took place at the family residence on Saturday evening, Feb. 27th. Mrs. Webber was the third daughter of the late Wm. McKee, of Kansas, formerly of Smith, and was the only member of the family residing in this country. About thirty years ago she was united in marriage with Mr. Geo. Webber, who is known and respected in all the country side, and spent most of her married life in Peterborough, removing a few years ago to North Monaghan. To this marriage were born four children, of whom there are three living,—Harry, the eldest son, Miss Lelia, the only daughter, and Master Frank, aged about seven years. They mourn the death of a mother who it is no flattery to call a pattern mother. Mrs. Webber was a lady of a quiet retiring disposition, but with a character of the most genuine worth. As a wife and mother her life might well serve as a model and as a friend and neighbour few have been so unusually loved and respected. This was evidenced during her long and painful illness borne with truly Christian fortitude, patience, and resignation; for the high esteem in which she was held was brought out conspicuously in the anxious solicitude and tender devotion shown by the many friends who ministered to her and sympathized with her in her affliction. She was ill with an affection of the liver for a long time, and all the tender care of a loving husband and family, and devoted friends, and all the resources of medical skill were unavailing to stay the hand of death. Mrs. Webber was a member of the Murray street Baptist church, and a faithful attendant at its services in her days of health. Though far separated from the home family, her last days were soothed by the presence of her sisters, Mrs. G. Fitzgerald and Mrs. T. Oakley, of Kansas, the former returning home about ten days ago and the latter remaining till the end. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. John McKee, of Kansas, arrived on Friday evening. The funeral will take place to-morrow at 2.30 o'clock from the family residence, North Monaghan, to the Little Lake cemetery.

—Mr. W. D. Scott, agent for the Manitoba government, is authority for the statement that the emigration of farmers from Ontario and eastern Canada to Manitoba this spring will be unusually large. A large number is also expected to emigrate from Michigan, as letters of enquiry are received every day.

—English advices report that the horseless vehicle boom has lost its vigor, and that where the machines are in anything like general use they are voted a nuisance for their noise and smell. If this is the case in England, where good roads make the use of self-motor vehicles generally possible, there will not be much chance for them in countries where rough roads are the rule rather than the exception. The horse will survive to laugh at the wreck of many a machine that some thought destined to supplant him.

—The twenty-five cent shin-plasters issued by the Dominion government some years ago were a great convenience to the country and their almost total disappearance is felt by those who used to send parts of a dollar by mail. One newspaper has made the suggestion that the government should send a quantity of this currency to every postmaster to be sold in the same way as stamps. Thus when people required to use these small notes they could be purchased like postage stamps. The idea seems a feasible and good one.

ORGANIZING MORE BRANCHES OF THE BOYS' BRIGADE.

St. John's, St. John's Mission and St. Luke's Churches Already Have one Each.

The Boys' Brigade movement in Canada has assumed giant proportions compared to what it was a few years ago. St. John's, St. John's Mission and St. Luke's churches each have flourishing branch, and a number of additional organizations will without doubt be formed at once.

A meeting to explain the objects of the brigade was held in St. Andrew's school room on Friday evening, and the core of that church were well represented, a number of others also being present.

Mr. A. C. McCallum explained that the brigade was founded about twelve years ago in Glasgow, Scotland, with the purpose of retaining the interest of the young people in the Sunday school. In Canada there were 143 companies, 426 officers and 5047 members. The object of the Boys' Brigade is the advancement of Christ's Kingdom among the boys and the promotion of habits of obedience reverence, discipline, self respect and all that tends toward true Christian manliness. The methods are military drill, gymnastic exercises, healthful games and sports, all coupled with religious and other useful instructions. Boys between 12 and 17 years of age are eligible as members, and the brigade shall be composed of companies to be connected with churches, missions, Sabbath schools and other Christian organizations. Each company shall be under the command of a captain, whose junior officers shall be lieutenants. The captain appoints non-commissioned officers by promotion from the ranks. Six companies form a battalion.

The boys present displayed much interest in the proceedings. St. Andrew's St. Paul's and George street Methodist churches will have a boy's brigade added to their list of organizations. Another meeting will probably be held next week, and the formation of brigades will be undertaken.

St. Luke's Boys' Brigade, No. 97, will give an entertainment in St. Luke's school house on Tuesday evening next, March 2nd. Tuesday next will be St. Pancake, Shrove Tuesday. The pancake is an emblamtic of the flattening out of all fun for forty days. Ash Wednesday is the beginning of sackcloth, salt salmon and a fifteen cent thirst with the slate full. Lent is a time of tribulation, of repentance and meditation—meditation chiefly on the composition of the most perfectly stunning millinery, and what high old devilment we will get into after Easter.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

In the Backwoods.

Mr. Wm. Creswell, of Bobcaygeon, foreman in the woods for the M. M. Boyd Co., states that the firm has but one camp in their limits this winter—near Bark lake, in the township of Glamorgan, about seven miles from Ironsdale. The gang number about 60 men, and Mr. Creswell states that since the camp opened not a day has been lost through illness. The weather has been extremely favourable for cutting. Work will be continued as long as possible, as the conditions for drawing are excellent.

A Sudden Success.

Everyone is asking "What is the new tune, which I hear hummed and whistled wherever I go?" It is no secret. It is the chorus of "The Land of the Maple," the new patriotic song written by Mr. H. H. Godfrey, and published by the Mason & Risch Piano Co., 32 King street West, Toronto, at 35c a copy, (mail stamps). The melody and words are both so simple that they are learned in a few minutes. Public singers are using it freely as an encore song, and apart from the musical quality of the sentiment expressed, ensures a round of applause at every verse. We have so few Canadian national songs that this one is bound to make a mark.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

Rink Talk and Items of Local and General Interest to Sportsmen.

HOCKEY.

It is quite evident, says the Kingston Whig, this is the last season Queen's can win on its reputation. A change will have to be made. 'Varsity has dropped on to Queen's combination and with ease can unravel it. When a Presbyterian in last night's match got the puck he was closely attended by a 'Varsity man, who seldom attempted to check. But just as soon as Queen's man passed over to another of the same team the 'Varsity man in waiting would reach out, gather in the rubber and decamp, thus breaking up the combination. A hundred times was this trick played and always with success. 'Varsity men acknowledge having put in considerable time practising the trick and they deserve all the success they gained from it. Besides working their team play Queen's will have to guard every man who has the puck in order to win. 'Varsity will, another season, rehearse a combination and with the same tactics as followed out here must surely win the championship.

These remarks of the Whig apply to the Peterboroughs as well as the Queen's. It will be remembered that the close "following back" of the First Frontenacs when here, kept the score down to a tie. Peterborough was not "on to" the new wrinkle and in consequence a big score was piled up against them in Kingston. The introduction of this style of play is certainly not a feature which adds interest to the game, but it rather deprives it of a great deal of the excitement, for what sends the blood flying through the veins faster than to see a forward line break through and go dashing down the rink, skilfully eluding the defence and ultimately making a shot on goal. Little or nothing was seen of this style of play this year, as by "following back" and reaching out the stick when the pass was made the opposing forward raked in the puck. As the play has been introduced it will probably remain, as there seems no "remedial order" possible as applying to the case. However, as the Whig suggests some new style of combination play may be introduced which will offset the objectionable feature just mentioned.

CURLIANA.

A curling match for the oysters took place at the rink on Saturday between Skips McNall and Fitzgerald, resulting as follows:

H Snowden,	Geo Brown,
T Rutherford,	A Blade,
J S Knapman,	D Belleghem,
A McNeil, sk.. 17	Geo Fitzgerald, sk 9

"Geordie Fitz" and his rink therefore are "stuck" for the oysters.

The two local rinks which won a couple of pair of curling stones at the Lindsay bonspiel, played off for the possession of the trophies Saturday night with the appended result:

G Giroux,	E H D Hall,
G E Whiten,	H LeBrun,
W L Allen,	T P Attrill,
H M Allen, sk.. 19	R S Davidson, sk 16

As there are just two pairs of stones the lead and skip of the winning rink will now play off for the stones against the second man and vice-skip.

LINES IN MEMORIAM,

INSCRIBED TO MR. AND MRS. JOHN HARRISON, ON THE DEATH OF THEIR INFANT DAUGHTER, MARGARET ESTELLA, WHO DIED FEB. 9TH, AGED 5 MONTHS.

Dear little one, how short thy stay,
A few short months, then called away
To the Shepherd's care, a Father's love,
To the mansions fair in the home above.
No more thy baby voice shall cheer
With happy glee thy parents dear,
While holding thee with fond delight,
Or looking on the features bright.

How calm thy sleep! dear little one,
As thou rested there, (thy short race run)
In thy casket white-robed for the tomb,
While o'er thee strewn sweet flowers did bloom.
Only a baby! some one might say
Of the dear little one that has passed away,
But how the fond mother longs to fold to her breast
The frail little form with its clinging caress.

But she has gone like a tender flower.
Transplanted to a heavenly bower—
Where she is free from every sin—
That strives each day some soul to win.
Of child-like dear the Saviour said
While on earth he walked with sacred tread,
"Come unto Me." Now on that breast
Your little one so safe doth rest.

Oh, how around our hearts they twine,
These cherished links of love divine;
When severed here by death to part
What sorrow fills the mourners' heart!
Oh, who can tell the mission here
Of the little one that your home did cheer
For a few short months, as a treasure given
Now to beckon you onward and upward to Heaven!

Then look by faith from you low mound,
Where her loved form rests 'neath the ground,
To yonder home where she doth wait
To welcome you at Heaven's bright gate.

EDUCATIONAL SUNDAY.

Special Sermons in the Charlotte Street and the George Street Methodist Churches Yesterday.

Educational sermons were preached both morning and evening in the local Methodist churches yesterday by Rev. T. M. Campbell, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, who occupied the pulpit of the George street Methodist church in the morning and that of the Charlotte street church at night, and delivered two excellent sermons. He took the 33rd chapter of Isaiah and 6th verse for his text:—"And wisdom and knowledge shall be the stability of thy times and strength of salvation: the fear of the Lord is his treasure."

Rev. R. P. Bowles, pastor of the Sharbourne street church Toronto, also delivered sermons in both churches. The rev. gentleman took for his text Jonah 1st chapter and 1st verse:—"Now the word of the Lord came unto Jonah the son of Amittai, saying, arise, go to Nineveh, that great city, and cry against it; for their wickedness is come up before me." "This," said Mr. Bowles, "is the call which was given Johah to go and preach, by the Lord. Whenever God calls a man to Him He raises him up to higher life. Christiaoity is nothing but the larger sphere of our manhood—that is true manhood.

In the olden time it was thought to be a wonderful and supernatural occurrence that God could touch a man's heart and life. It is true that He does not come to people to-day by miraculous dreams, visions, etc. In the olden time He came to Abraham in a vision, as an angel. He came to Moses by means of the burning bush, and He came thus to many of the olden-time prophets. When one comes to think carefully of God's way of manifesting himself in the olden times, one regards it as odd and rather supernatural. Still while God does not use the same means of converting people to him in this century, He suits His coming into the heart according to the circumstances. We are surrounded by God's love, as by the sun and the atmosphere which we breathe.

It needs storms, cyclones, lightning and thunder storms to warn us of God's power and love. This life of ours in God has its higher experiences. It has also its culminating force which reminds us that God is calling us to the greater and better world. In the present time men see God in the natural way as they never saw Him before. We see him in our varied experiences of daily life, and we need no proof to show that God is surrounding and protecting us. Again, some of the people of old were looking for a sign, as are some of the people of to-day. Perhaps it is God's will that there shall be no sign. We need more faith in God. He varies His coming into a person's life, according to the circumstances surrounding that person; as said before, when God causes a person to brood and be miserable over his sins, it is sign enough that he is trying to gain possession of that person's soul.

Take a young man who is leaving home. He has many and varied experiences. We will say he is a college student. Immediately upon entering upon his studies he feels a stimulus come over him. This should stimulate his spiritual as well as his natural life. He has more social connections; he forms new habits and everything is changed. He is in an entirely new sphere of action. Amid all these circumstances his thoughts turn toward God. Sad indeed is the young man who doesn't know of God's eventful coming into his life.

When President Garfield was a young man engaged as river driver, he fell into the canal one day and contracted a severe cold, which turned into an attack of fever. A Christian young man attended him while he was ill, and by his good example was the means of winning Garfield to Christ.

Do not forsake God for worldly gain. God begins very early in a child's life to exert his influence over him—the earlier the better for the child.

Some boys have some very strange ideas of goodness. Once a good old lady told a little boy that she would tell him the story another good boy. The little fellow instantly asked "Did he die?" If he did then he did not want to hear about him.

God does not forget what are called "hardened sinners, backsliders, etc." Some are careless, selfish and indifferent and are like Nero, who sat out on a mountain and fiddled while Rome burned. If you are waiting to try and live a life of worldliness and pleasure, do not do so. It will not satisfy you. It makes a man's life a hell. His life is like a world without a sky—length and breadth but no height.

The speaker urged all to come to Christ, and said he had been asked to make a special appeal to the young men of the church.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH NOTES.

The Following Were the Lenten Announcements in St. Luke's Church Yesterday.

Wednesday next being Ash Wednesday, there will be morning prayer at 10.30 and at 8 p.m. evening prayer with an address. Services will be held on every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, with an address. There will also be a short service at 5 p.m., with a reading, on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

A special course of lectures on Christian unity will be given on Friday evenings at 8 o'clock as follows:

Friday, March 5th—"The Nature and Benefits of Christian Unity," by Rev. Dr. Torrance.

Friday, March 12—"The Advantages and Disadvantages of Church Unity," by Rev. W. R. Young.

Friday, March 19—"The Spirit of Christian Unity," by Rev. J. G. Potter.

Friday, March 26—"Christianity. What may we Reasonably Hope for?" Rev. Herbert Symonds. Admission to these lectures is free, but to defray expenses a plate will be placed at the door, upon which those who feel disposed may place their offerings. With special reference to these lectures, Mr. Symonds preached a third sermon on "Unity" last night from the text Eph. ii, 19-21: "Ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow-citizens with the saints, and of the household of God; and are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ Himself being the chief corner stone. In whom all the building fitly framed together groweth into an holy temple in the Lord." Three figures of unity are employed in this passage: 1. Christians are fellow-citizens. 2. They are of the household, or family of God. 3. They are a temple composed of many parts, each part beautiful, but of little use or beauty, unless fitted into its proper place. The duty of Christians was not merely to seek to save their own souls, about which remarkably little was said in the New Testament, but their duty was to seek to advance the kingdom of God upon earth. Admitting, as all do admit, that there is room for a more perfect realization of unity than we have at present, the question was "what can we do?" He, Mr. Symonds, proposed this course of lectures as a first step, to the officers and workers of St. Luke's. Without their earnest co-operation he desired to do nothing. They were absolutely unanimous in favour of the proposal and for their sympathy and encouragement he was grateful. We ought to remember that the circle of our agreements was a vastly larger circle than that of our differences, and for the sake of emphasizing the smaller circle we ought not to ignore the larger, and wherever we have common ground we should seek to stand upon it for the sake of Him who prayed that all His followers might be one, that the world might believe that He came from God.

On the Sunday evenings of Lent the following course of sermons, on "Some Aspects of the Teaching of Christ," will be given:

1. The old teaching of the scribes and the new teaching of Christ.
2. Teaching by parables.
3. The Gospel of character.
4. The Gospel of progress.
5. The Gospel of self-sacrifice.
6. (Easter Sunday) The Gospel of the Resurrection.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Miss Headren's rendition of "The Holy City" was greatly admired in the Charlotte street church last night.

"Lead Kindly Light" was the title of the evening anthem in the Charlotte street church. Miss Florence Hall took the solo part in particularly good voice.

On March 17th the regular quarterly conference of the Peterborough Baptist ministers and deacons will be held in the Park street Baptist church.

Mr. Edgar Russel, of McMaster University, took the service yesterday in the Park street Baptist church. In the evening he preached a particularly interesting sermon on the second coming of Christ.

The anthems in St. Paul's church yesterday were "Praise ye Jehovah" in the morning, with obligato solo by Miss Mary Patterson, and in the evening "They that trust in the Lord." Both were admirably rendered.

The anthem which was sung yesterday morning in George street Methodist church was "Praise thy God," in which Miss Lillie Pascoe very ably took the solo parts. "I will Feed My Flock," was sung as the anthem in the evening, with fine effect.

The annual rally of the Peterborough Young People's Societies in connection with the Baptist churches will be held on March 16th, in the Park street Baptist church. Meetings will be held in both the afternoon and evening. Fuller particulars will be announced later.

RAILWAY NOTES.

Sparks From the Wheels—Cinders for the Eye.

It is whispered among railway men that Supt. Tiffin and General Manager McGuigan are considering changes whereby the Toronto mixed train and the Belleville way freight will run out of Lindsay in the morning. This would make Lindsay the central distributing point of this division, and would mean a gain of two train crews to the town's population.

The removal of the train despatchers' staff from Lindsay to Orillia or Allandale is again mooted. It is claimed that one staff would suffice for the Midland and Northern divisions, the result being a large saving. It is understood the idea was discussed at the time of the removal of the staff to Lindsay, but that the expense necessary to fit up the system deterred the management from making the change. The cost was then placed at about $20,000.

The G. T. R. earnings for the week ending February 21st, were $311.301, an increase of $38.911 upon those of last year. The old time seems to be picking up sharply. Those of the C.P.R. were $310,000, an increase of $12,000.

A Montreal despatch says: Happy, indeed, should the citizens of Belleville feel as a result of the business-like and appreciative treatment accorded to the civic deputation which waited on Manager Hays in Montreal Friday. The reception accorded them by Manager Hays was of the most cordial character and the result in a nutshell is: That Belleville and Madoc will promptly be given the desired connection with Eldorado; that a direct G.T.R. train from Coe Hill to Belleville will in all probability be arranged; that the Pinnacle street grievances as to allowing cars to stand and lack of a station will be remedied; that an attempt at proper connection from Marmora via Anson junction will be made; that there is every room to believe that the Actinolite-Madoc branch will also be operated once more; and that the Belleville-Peterborough service will be improved.

THE REASON WHY

MESS PORK selling under $8 per brl. is a safe and sure investment. The average high price for 32 years is $21.10: The average low price $12.67½. Stocks are light, exports above the average. I buy this pork on the Chicago Board of Trade on a margin of $1 per brl. From $2 to $4 profit is sure within the next four months. Do not give your order to Bucket Shops that buy or sell nothing but bet against you, and when there is more money in closing up than going on, they will close. The Beauty of Health

Features don't matter so much. Most any features will do if the complexion is clear, the eyes bright and the lips rosy. Hearty, healthy wholesomeness is better than mere beauty of features. A face full of the glow of good health—full of the kindliness and good humor that health brings, is bound to be an attractive face—a face that will make friends. The face tells the story of the whole body. "Murder will out"—and so will "female weakness" and nervousness and other disorders peculiar to women.

If there is a drain on the system and strength, the record of it will show in the face. If there is nerve nagging "bearing-down" pains, dragging and pulling at the most sensitive organs in a woman's body, the face will show it. Abused nerves draw lines of care and worry on the face. Nervous prostration writes its warning on the face long before it comes. Sleeplessness, nervousness and debilitating drains make more wrinkles than age.

Nine-tenths of the sickness of women comes from some derangement of organs distinctly feminine. Nine-tenths of this sickness can be cured and avoided by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. There is nothing miraculous about the "Favorite Prescription"—nothing supernatural.

It is the result of rational thought and study applied to medicine.

It has been prescribed by Dr. Pierce for over 30 years. It has made thousands of women healthy and happy, and has brought joy to thousands of homes.

In "female weakness" it acts directly and strongly in healing and strengthening the parts that are most severely tried. It clears out impurities and promotes regularity at all times.

ATTACK ON THE NORMAL COLLEGE

Accusations of Party Influence and Terrorism in Connection With Examinations—Hon. G. W. Ross Defends the System—Canada in Line With Other Countries.

Toronto, Feb. 26.—At the Legislature this afternoon Mr. Whitney enquired whether, pending the decision in appeal of the dispute between the Federal and Provincial Government as to jurisdiction over fisheries in inland waters, was any announcement made or instruction given to officers of the Government to refrain from interfering with persons offering fish for sale, and, if so, how, when, and to whom, and has any return of moneys realised from sales of fish been made by any officer of the Government?

The Attorney-General replied that no general instructions had been given, but that in correspondence with the officers they had been instructed that the existing construction of the law would remain until the decision of the Privy Council.

Mr. Whitney moved for a return giving copies of all correspondence between any member or officer of the Government and any person or persons, relating to the seizure and sale of a quantity of fish in the possession of a woman named Osborne (or Lebar) at Uxbridge, in the County of Ontario, said seizure and sale having been made by one Matthew Frankish during the month of February, 1897.

He stated that according to the information he had received a serious injustice had been committed, as others were allowed to sell fish without being interfered with.

The Attorney-General stated that the Game Warden had written to Frankish, who was a deputy game warden, reprimanding him and asking whether he had anything to urge in justification of his action. The motion was carried.

On motion of Mr. Whitney, a return was ordered giving a summarized statement of the amounts paid by the Government of Ontario in connection with the Dominion-Provincial arbitration, and to whom, year by year.

Mr. Matheson moved for a return giving the names of all High school teachers who have received specialists' certificates since 1885 as the result of examinations; the names of such teachers who received specialists' certificates on any other ground, stating the year in which such certificate was granted, on what grounds, and the university standing of the recipient; names of all applicants for such certificates who have been refused them, and on what grounds such refusal was based.

He said there was general dissatisfaction as to the working of the Normal College, formerly the School of Pedagogy, and complained that men having taken high university honors had been refused certificates by examiners who were their inferiors in this respect. He doubted the necessity for such a school, and quoted the opinion of some leading educationists to show that such institutions were superfluous and tended towards centralization. The training received at the university should be sufficient. He had repeatedly been told by graduates of the Normal College that the time spent there was lost. There was reason to suppose that political influence was brought to bear in the granting of certificates and a system of terrorism exercised over the teachers. If the institution was to be retained at all its opration should be confined to the lower grades.

Hon. G. W. Ross was very willing to furnish the information required. If the honorable gentleman thought he could substantiate his charge of terrorism, let him cite before the House those who had any complaints to make. He had no doubt been imposed on by candidates who had failed to pass and alleged political influence as the excuse. The same charge was brought against the medical and legal examiners. The Normal School had been opposed on similar grounds to those now alleged, but it had held its ground, and no one now would think of proposing its abolition. It was of still greater importance that High school teachers should be trained than the Public School teachers. Great strides were now being made in teaching methods and the science of pedagogy was now everywhere recognized. The opinions of educationists which had been so largely quoted, could be offset by abundant quotations to the contrary effect from men of equal eminence. It was only the other day that a large college was endowed in New York for the teaching of pedagogy, and the teachers of England had established a college of preceptors for the training of high grade teachers. In France, Germany and other European countries the special training of teachers for collegiate work was required. He denied that the High School teachers complained of the system, though probably some who would like to be teachers and had failed to qualify, did complain. As to the insinuation that the certificates were given by political influence, he could say that his conscience was free on that score. He did not even appoint the examiners. As to terrorism, it was absurd that he could terrorize over ten thousand teachers. The manner in which many of the profession availed themselves of the columns of the press and the freedom with which they expressed their opinions, clearly disproved any such ridiculous assertion. It was unfair, without a shadow of proof, to bring such accusations against the department.

Mr. Whitney complained that instead of teaching in the proper sense, the main concern of the teacher appeared to be to cram pupils so that they might pass examinations. To this end all real training of the mind was subordinated. The motion was carried and the House adjourned.

NOTICES OF MOTION.

Mr. Little gave notice of motion that in the opinion of this House the present mode of appointing registrars of deeds and other county officials is unsatisfactory and that the appointment of officials whose salary is provided for wholly or mainly by the localities for which they are appointed, should be vested in the people of the locality through their municipal bodies.

Mr. Mathieson gave notice of motion, that the House is of opinion that the tender system of purchasing supplies for public institutions, etc., should be adopted.

Mr. Garrow gave notice of motion that the House is of opinion that officers or clerks of the civil service, or permanent employes of the public service, should not participate in provincial or Dominion election campaigns, and that officers or clerks of the civil service should not become candidates for municipal councils.

Humors, pimples, boils, are very annoying. They quickly disappear when the blood is purified by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It Is a Roman Custom.

The practice of a woman changing her name on marriage originated from a Roman custom, and came into use after the Roman occupation, says a writer in the Commercial Tribune. Thus, Julia and Octavia, married by Pompey and Cicero, were called by the Romans Julia of Pompey, and Octavia of Cicero, and in later times women in most European countries signed their names in the same way, but omitted the "of." On the other hand, at the beginning of the seventeenth century, the usage seems doubtful, since we find Catherine Barr so signing herself after she had twice married, and we always hear of Lady Gray not Dudley Arabella Stuart, not Seymour, etc.

Some persons think that the custom originated from the scriptural teaching that husband and wife are one. This was the rule of the law so far back as Bracton, and it was decided in the case of Von vs. Smith, in the reign of Elisabeth, that a woman by marriage loses her former name and legally receives the name of her husband. The custom, however, is not universal. In Spain and Portugal married women do not take the names of their husbands, but continue to be known by their own. In many parts of the United States a woman never relinquishes her maiden name, and is called by it as by that of her husband. Even in the rural parts of England one often finds a married woman called by her maiden name, and in many country districts of Scotland it is sometimes found that both names are used. In many parts of France and Belgium the husband's and wife's names are used together when either of them is mentioned.

The blue-bird is hailed as a harbinger of Spring. It is also a reminder that a blood-purifier is needed to prepare the system for the debilitating weather to come. Listen and you will hear the birds singing: "Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla in March, April, May."

Nervous Prostration
Complete Recovery by the Use of
Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"Some years ago, as a result of too close attention to business, my health failed. I became weak, nervous, was unable to look after my interests, and manifested all the symptoms of a decline. I took three bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, began to improve at once, and gradually increased my weight from one hundred and twenty-five to two hundred pounds. Since then, I and my family have used this medicine when needed, and we are all in the best of health, a fact which we attribute to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I believe my children would have been fatherless to-day had it not been for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, of which preparation I cannot say too much."—H. O. Hinson, Postmaster and Planter, Kinard's, S. C.

MRS. BRADLEY MARTIN.

Her Most Magnificent Costume at the Much-Talked-of Ball.

Mrs. Bradley Martin's costume at her fancy dress ball was the most magnificent affair imaginable, designed after a painting by Sir Peter Lely. The period is just before the time of Charles II. It has not the uncomfortable Elizabethan ruff, which Mrs Martin objected to, as she has not a long neck. The materials were a pale blue sapphire velvet and a rich brocade of the same hue. The square-cut corsage widens as it recedes from the neck.

MRS. BRADLEY MARTIN.

This style was most becoming to Mrs. Bradley Martin. She wore magnificent jewels, which the style of the costume makes possible. The tapestries of the smaller ballroom, with canopied and rose-bestrewn dais, where Mrs. Bradley Martin received, were designed to harmonize with the costume by the hostess.

One of the best known residents of Tweed is Mr. W. H. Houston, who relates the following interesting facts: Mr. Houston says, "I have been very bad for several years with pains in my side and back.

"I had to urinate very frequently, in fact my rest was disturbed by frequent rising at night for that purpose. I got a box of Dean's Kidney Pills, at Newton's drugstore, and have experienced great relief from the first.

PROF. GOLDWIN SMITH

Talks to a New York Interviewer on the Leading Topics of the Day.

New York, Feb. 26.—Professor Goldwin Smith of Toronto, Canada, who is at the Fifth-avenue Hotel, will attend the banquet of the Alumnae of Cornell University to-morrow night at the Waldorf Hotel. When seen to-day he said that the people in Canada were greatly irritated by Congressman Corliss' clause in the Immigration Bill now before President Cleveland for signature. Congressman Corliss lives in Detroit and the clause he did insert prohibits aliens from residing in Canada and doing business daily in this country.

"It prevents those Canadians," added the Professor, "who reside opposite Detroit, and those small towns opposite Buffalo, and Niagara Falls from coming over daily and working. It is not only an absurd law, if it becomes law, but it is the veriest clap-trap imaginable. Congressman Corliss is evidently endeavoring to make political capital by it and I hope the President will veto it.

"I understand that the President has sent the bill to Secretary Olney to hear his report on it. As I said, it is clap-trap, and I will show how utterly absurd and uncalled for such legislation is. It is true many Canadians living in these small towns, the suburbs of Detroit, Buffalo and Niagara Falls, have employment in the latter cities. They take out of these places a little money. In fact I suppose they do their trading and their wives do their shopping in the larger cities. But say they do take much of their money into Canada, why, the entire amount would not equal the sum spent by a United States millionaire in one European summer trip. But I do not believe they save as much in Canada as they spend in the cities where they are employed."

"What will Canada do if the bill becomes law?"

"Canada will pass retaliatory measures, of course, and much irritation and unkind feeling will be engendered. Already there is much feeling on the subject and the Canadians who are anti-United States are not slow in expressing their opinions and making the best of the situation. What must the friends of this country in Canada think, if such a bill becomes law? I am not attacking the bill generally, but the clause that Congressman Corliss had inserted. It is unjust discrimination against a friendly and neighborly nation and is inspired by politics alone. I hope the papers of this country will point out the absurdity of such a clause and prevent, if possible, its enactment."

"Have you any idea what kind of retaliatory laws Canada would enact?"

"That is for the future. But why should not Canada resent any thing so preposterous and unjust?"

The Professor talked about the Cuban question and the situation in Crete in answer to questions. He said that it would be a serious mistake for the United States to annex Cuba. "It would give," he added, "great trouble to this country and be a never-ending source of discord and bickering. Look at Hayti, for instance, even as a republic; it has not cut a figure that liberty-loving people can be proud of. Naturally the United States would like to see the Cubans have complete autonomy."

In regard to Crete, he did not anticipate a war in Europe in the settlement of the question.

"Greece," he added, "must certainly have some great power behind her, or else she would not maintain her present bold and defiant attitude. I think that the power must be Russia. The latter Empire never changes her policy and she still has her eyes fixed on Constantinople.

"But what England fears most is a holy Moslem war. If the Turkish Caliph should proclaim a holy war, that would mean a general uprising in India and massacres of all the Christians in Asia Minor and other Turkish provinces. England has only about 30,000 soldiers to oppose the 300,000 soldiers of the Sultan. True, the Turkish soldiers are badly officered, but they are good soldiers, fearless and fatalists. They fight well. As for a sea fight with another great power, there is much speculation about the outcome. There is no glory, as there used to be in sea fights, when the vessels came near each other and often grappled and continued the struggle over the decks. It is all long range, and the brave marines and officers go down in an iron case to the bottom of the sea. Admiral Farragut, when they desired him to leave his wooden ship for an iron one, remarked something to the effect that he did not care to go to Hades in an iron pot. Naval warfare now means great destruction and much uncertainty as to the outcome. The great powers are of course careful and do not wish to get into a war with each other."

Mr. Smith said the jingoes in Europe did not know what they were doing and he called Gladstone's war utterances the talk of an old man in his dotage.

"Not Exactly Right."

WILL CANADA GIVE UP?

The Treaty in Regard to the Alaskan Boundary Said to Give Us the Worst of It.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—(Special.)—An examination of the treaty just signed at Washington by Sir Julian Pauncefote and Mr. Secretary Olney for the delimitation of the boundary between the Northwest Territories and Alaska makes a surrender to the United States in the matter of territory which it would be well for the Dominion Government to consider before assenting to the ratification of the treaty. As is well known, the 141st meridian of west longitude is, by treaty, the line of demarkation between British and American territory in the far northwest of this continent. According to the surveys made jointly by Canada and the United States surveyors, under the charge of Mr. W. F. King, astronomer for the Dominion, and Gen. Duffield, Chief of the Geodetic and Coast Survey of the United States, the summit of Mount St. Elias is agreed to be 2.41 miles east of the 141st meridian; that is, it is nearly 2 1-2 miles from the American boundary and in Canadian territory. A portion of the west slope, however, is on United States soil. In place of defining the boundary on the 141st meridian, the treaty provides that the line shall be run northward from the summit of Mount St. Elias for 20 miles until it there strikes the 141st meridian. In other words, Canada is giving to the United States a strip of territory 2 1-2 miles wide at the base and running northward for 20 miles gradually narrowing until it strikes the 141st meridian. In this territory there may be untold wealth. Why, then, should Canada concede this to our neighbors? In the past, when boundary questions have arisen between Canada and the United States, this country has generally come out of the small end of the horn, as, for instance, in regard to the boundary in Maine and that abortion known as the "Northwest Angle." It may be contended that the summit of Mount St. Elias, as an initial point from which to run the boundary, would be more readily recognizable than a row of mounds, pillars or monuments, but the principle is the same. It is a surrender of Canadian territory for which there appears to be absolutely no necessity. This is a defect in the treaty in regard to which the Canadian Parliament should speak with no uncertain sound.

The duty imposed upon the commissioners to be appointed by the two Governments under the treaty will be an arduous one, and the work will take years to perform. From the vicinity of Mount St. Elias northward for probably 500 miles the line will have to be run and marked every few miles with distinctive marks, either by earth mounds, cairns or iron pillars. On the international boundary between the State of New York, Vermont and the Eastern townships the boundary is defined by iron pillars, six feet high, placed a mile or so apart, and the same method of marking applies along a portion of the Manitoba boundary; over a greater portion of the prairies, however, mounds of earth have been substituted, and in the Rockies piles of stone are used. It is expected that the surveyors will run the line past Forty-Mile Creek, where the 141st meridian crosses the Yukon, a distance of about 175 miles further north, that is where the meridian line crosses the Porcupine River, a tributary of the Yukon. Up to the present time observations for determining the position of the 141st meridian have been made at two or three points only. At Forty-Mile Creek (Fort Cudahy) there was a difference of but six feet between the Canadian and United States observers. At another point the difference was 600 feet. The treaty stipulates that in the work which has to be done under it, where the difference is less than 1000 feet, such difference shall be split, a not unfair proposal. Where the difference exceeds 1000 feet the representatives of both countries are to jointly determine the location of the boundary. No one can object to this arrangement, but there does seem a grave objection to Canada at the very outset being asked to surrender a portion of the territory which is hers.

BOASTED OF HER SHAME.

Mrs. Robert Dobson Shot the Man Who Ruined Her Reputation and the Jury Acquit Her.

Harrisville, Mich., Feb. 27.—Mrs. Robert Dobson was last evening found "not guilty" of the murder of James Anderson. The jury was out eight hours. On the first ballot they stood six to six, then nine to three, and reported to the judge that they could not agree. Judge Simpson instructed them if they had any doubt of the woman's sanity they could not find her guilty. Mrs. Dobson never moved or said a word when the verdict was read, but was so exhausted she had to be carried out of the court room. The story of the tragedy is now well known, how she was drugged and betrayed by James Anderson in a Bay City hotel, how he boasted of her shame and refused to set her right before her neighbors, how she was expelled from her church, how she brooded over her terrible position, and, finally, as the jury decided, became emotionally insane and shot Anderson dead in front of a Harrisville hotel. Both parties came from Canada several years ago.

GOUGH'S Winter Wind-Up.

These are WIND-UP DAYS, and GOUGH BROS' Slashing Cut in Clothing, Cloths, Boots and Shoes, Gentlemen's Furnishings, &c., to Wind-up the Winter Selling Season, is an extraordinary event too important to miss. Never since the days of Adam has good Clothing and Boots and Shoes been sold so cheap as we're selling them now. THE STOCK MUST MELT!

The sudden thaw in prices must dissolve the Bargain Lots on Tables, Counters and Shelves, and the flood of bargains will lend spirit and snap to bargain lovers while they last. Our plan of campaign demands that all Winter Goods must be out of the way for Spring arrivals. Besides we want to do our share in alleviating present distress by helping the farmer, the mechanic, the business man, the women and the youth, and at the same time keeping our tailors and salesmen busy.

New Spring Goods are rushing in upon us faster than we can place them, so we have decided to let the "hide go with the hair" until our two big stores are clear of Winter lines.

More gigantic selling, forced on by tremendous buying, has never been planned for we dump everything into this Colossal Sale at an average reduction all round of.

20 Per Cent. Below Manufacturer's Prices!

These bargains now stare you in the face, and what is worth emphasizing is that in all the lines we show a large variety of patterns and sizes, both in Clothing and Boots and Shoes. It is not our policy to select two or three catch lines. You get the choice of the whole stock. You merely choose what you need—no question about the goodness of the material or workmanship.

NO DRIFTWOOD! NO BANKRUPT STUFF!

And we don't intend there shall be any in this store. This is a self-respecting business. The combination of the driftwood of merchandise with the bright New Spring Goods would be like the fly in the ointment—spoiling the spring like flavour of our whole store.

Our stock is ALL this season's New Goods. Everything is new and right up-to-date. Constant newness will mark this store from day to day.

New Spring Dress Goods
New Spring Trimmings
New Spring Dress Silks
New Spring Prints and Muslins
New Spring Prints and Hosiery
New Spring Mantles and Jackets

Don't ask for last years Muslins or Dress Goods, or Umbrellas, or Gloves. We don't keep them—they have all been sold. If you must have them, inquire down street.

Our store blossoms with New Spring Novelties and Rare Values.

And remember, we propose selling the newest of the new season's goods just as cheap as the Bankrupt Sale Prices will be.

You can come and compare goods and values any time you like. Remember, too, that the new goods of this year are different from last year. The New Table Damasks are in entirely new patterns; the new Towels have no fringe, and so on.

You'll want no ancient styles or last year's bird's nests when you once see the crisp new things we have to show you.

We could have had lots of Bankrupt Stuffs if wanted—there's lots of it thrown on the market—but we couldn't afford to mar our new stock or take any risks.

Opposition Call Attention to a Slander

WHICH THEY DARE NOT ENDORSE

Proposed Amendment to the Municipal Act—Premier Hardy on Parliamentary Second Readings—More Discussion Before Sending Bills to Committee—The Marriage Law.

Toronto, March 1.—There was a short session this afternoon, as is generally the case on Monday, the only business done being the answering of a couple of Opposition queries, the introduction of a bill or two and a couple of second readings. The most important feature of the discussion on Mr. Chapple's bill in amendment of the Municipal Act was the turn given to it by Premier Hardy in calling for a fuller consideration of the measure by the House before passing it on, to be disposed of by the Municipal Committee. It has of late come to be the practice to give such measures merely a formal consideration, to put them through a second reading almost as a matter of course, and trust to the committee to prevent any objectionable proposal passing into law. The Premier's suggestion, if carried out, would not only be beneficial in lightening the labors of the committee by killing off undesirable measures at an early stage, but might rescue some really good ones from the annual massacre.

Hon. Mr. Gibson introduced a bill to consolidate and amend the law respecting building societies and loan corporations.

Mr. Haycock enquired: Has the Government made any arrangements with the railway companies in regard to securing a special rate for transportation of members of this House in lieu of their yearly indemnity?

Hon. Mr. Gibson replied that no arrangement had been made with the railroad companies. There had been correspondence, but no conclusion had been arrived at.

Mr. Bush enquired whether John Dickenson had been dismissed from the office of Dominion Court bailiff at Kemptville. If so, what was the reason of his dismissal, and what is the date of it? Has any appointment been made to the vacancy, and, if so, who has received the appointment, and when?

Hon. Mr. Harcourt replied that Dickenson had been dismissed because he was careless and negligent and disregarded the rules. He had unduly withheld the money of suitors and neglected to make returns of executions. Michael Sweeny of Kemptville had been appointed in his place.

Mr. Whitney said that he would like to call the attention of the Government to a matter affecting the dignity of the House. He referred to a paragraph appearing in The Toronto World of that morning, purporting to give the proceedings at a Conservative gathering at Whitby. This meeting was addressed by William Smith, ex-M. P., who is reported to have said that the vacancy in the registry office of Ontario County just prior to the Dominion election "was deliberately sold by Hon. John Dryden to the highest bidder, and the money paid over and used to defeat the Conservative candidate." He drew the attention of the Premier to this serious statement.

The Attorney-General said that he had called the attention of the Minister of Agriculture to this statement. He did not think it possible that Mr. Smith had been correctly reported, or that he could have made any such statement. The falsity of which was apparent in view of the fact that even to this date there had been no selection of anyone to fill the vacant Registrarship. If Mr. Smith made such a statement it was the accusation of a candidate smarting under defeat.

Hon. Mr. Dryden had no idea that Mr. Smith said anything of the kind. If he did it was an infamous slander. He had written to ask him if he made the statement.

Mr. Chapple moved the second reading of a bill amending the Marriage Act of 1892. He explained that the object of the bill was to regard provision of the act which required the making of an affidavit before the issuer of marriage licences by the lady. It was a very unpopular requirement and it was a difficult matter to induce young ladies to comply with the law in this respect.

Mr. Whitney asked for some further explanation of the measure.

The Attorney-General said that there had been a great outcry over the working of the act. The objection raised touched a somewhat delicate question and he thought it just as well that the matter should go to the legal committee.

The bill received a second reading.

Mr. Chapple moved the second reading of a bill to amend the Municipal Act by repealing sub-sections 3, 4, and 5 of the Consolidated Municipal Act of 1892, which provides that every year the Municipal Council shall publish a nancial statement up to the 15th of December. He stated that the provision was unpopular through out the country and entailed needless expense.

Mr. Howland thought that the bill should be more specific as in many cases the House was called upon to pass upon measures which they did not clearly understand. It might, moreover, be just as wel ito give the Municipal Act a rest.

The Attorney-General said the clause which it was desired to repeal had been passed after due and careful deliberation. The expense incurred by the publication of the financial statement now retquired was but trifling and it was certainly desirable that the outgoing Council should publish an account of their expenditures so that the ratepayers would know the position of matters before nomination day. He would like to have the matter thoroughly discussed in the House, so that mowre light might be thrown upon it. It would be well, if, as a general thing, there was fuller discussion of such measures instead of sending everything to the Municipal Committee.

Mr. Gibson (Huron) was opposed to the bill regarded it as desirable that the people should be fully informed of the course of their representative previous to the annual election.

Mr. Haycock said that the act as it stood gave satisfaction. Unless some official statement of the kind were illustrative the members of the Council seeking re-lections would give their own financial statements and the people would be left largely in the dark. The best plan would be to have the annual audit take place in December which would accomplish the saving of expense aimed at by the introduction of the bill.

Mr. Little said the change would be popular on the ground of the saving it would effect.

How Mr. Dryden would not deprive the ratepayers of the right of knowing something of their affairs before election, which was secured then by the present law.

Several other members spoke, the consensus of opinion being that while some change in the law might be desirable, it would not be advisable merely to rescind the provision as it stood.

Mr. Chapple said that owing to the opposition the measure had received he would not at present press the bill, but would perhaps bring in another which might prove more satisfactory before the close of the session. The bill was accordingly withdrawn.

Hon. Mr. Davis presented the report of the Inspector of Prisons.

HIS ARM WAS TORN OFF.

Agonizing Death of James Hamilton at Uxbridge Yesterday.

Uxbridge, Ont., March 1.—This morning at 10 o'clock James Hamilton, who has been renting power and running a chopper at the Organ Company's factory here, met with an accident which caused his death an hour and a half later. It appears he was reaching over the main shaft to put on a belt, when his arm became caught in the shafting, and he was wound round the shaft. His right arm was pulled off at the elbow. Doctors Beacom and Clarke were soon on the scene and did all in their power to relieve his sufferings, but he died at 11.30, surrounded by his father, brother and young wife. Deceased was about 30 years of age and a son of Mr. George Hamilton, who lives about two miles south of this town.

HUGH JOHN ACCEPTS.

He Will Become Leader of the Opposition in the Manitoba Legislature—Interview With Mr. Foster.

Winnipeg, March 1.—(Special.)—Hon. Hugh John Macdonald announced today that he would accept the Opposition leadership in the Legislature, provided it was the wish of his friends. If unseated for Winnipeg he will not contest the city again for the Dominion House. A letter was received today from Sir Charles Tupper, assenting to Hugh John's retirement.

The budget debate did not take place in the Legislature to-day, as expected. It will probably begin to-morrow.

Hon. George E. Foster, formerly Minister of Finance for Canada, arrived in the city from the west this morning, and will remain here some days a guest at Government House. Mr. Foster stated that his impression of the vast mineral resources of British Columbia was greatly strengthened by his visit, which was in the interest of the British-Canadian Gold Fields Company, of which he is president.

Of the Crow's Nest Pass road, Mr. Foster said his opinion of it is already known. He is impressed with the necessity of it, and is convinced that the Government would not be wise in building it, as a company could do it cheaper and with better results to the country. It is a comparatively short line by itself, and would be dependent on the C. P. R. The Government has built as many roads as was required under the Act of Confederation, and the policy of building more would not be the right one to adopt. The road, he says, is necessary to the development of the country.

AFFAIRS IN THE EAST

The Greek Premier Addresses His Parliament.

PATRIOTIC REMARKS APPLAUDED

Blockade of Crete Not Justified by International Law—Continued Skirmishing Between Christians and Mussulmans—Insurgents Capture a Town and Mount Guns.

Athens, March 1.—After a recess that called for the protest of the Opposition, the Boule, the single parliamentary chamber of Greece, met to-day. Nearly all of the members were present and the gallery of the chamber was filled with visitors, all eager to listen to further authoritative statements of the Government's position in regard to Crete and the powers. There was an air of suppressed excitement, and all the patriotic references of the speakers were applauded.

Prime Minister Delyannis announced that he had received positive information that the fighting at Akrotiri, which had induced the bombardment of the Christians' position by the foreign warships, was provoked by the Turks, the Christians not having left the neutral zone.

M. Levides, Minister of Marine, read the joint note from the admirals of the foreign fleets, forbidding the Greek ships or troops to attack the Turks. This caused much excitement among the members of the Chamber, and Deputy Sesis sprang from his seat and declared that the reply to the note ought to have been a declaration of war.

M. Delyannis denounced the bombardment of the Christians as savage, impious and unjust. He said that the blockade of Crete by the powers was inexplicable from the view point of international law. Greece, he added, had instructed her representatives of the countries to which they are accredited. He further said he was convinced that the admirals had acted without instructions. In conclusion, M. Delyannis said: "We are a small nation and cannot prevent such acts, but we protest against them with the force of a great nation. We know that all great peoples are with us."

The Prime Minister was cheered again and again as he took his seat.

A despatch received here to-day states that the insurgents have captured the town of Kandamos, but gives no details of the engagement.

Many Skirmishes.

Canea, March 1.—Reports have been received to-day of skirmishes in many parts of the island. A number of houses have been burned. In some cases the fires were started by Christians and in others by Moslems.

The various Beys requested Tewfik Pasha, the new military Governor of the island, to invoke the aid of the Sultan to save the Mussulmans in the different towns that are besieged by the insurgents. He replied that the Sultan was powerless to act, and that any appeal in behalf of their endangered co-religionists must be made to the powers.

A despatch from Selino, the interior town which is in a state of siege, states that the insurgents have captured Fort Stavaros, which commands the village of Kandamos, or Cadano, where the Consuls were recently fired upon by the Christians, though they were bearing a white flag. The garrison of the fort, numbering 3700 men, were made prisoners. The Moslem officials have conferred with the British Consul with a view to securing their release.

The news from Selino is very grave, and it is evident that unless assistance is rendered by the powers the place will soon have to capitulate. This fact has caused the greatest excitement among the Moslems here, who fear that the capture of the town by the Christians will be followed by a massacre of the Mussulmans.

The insurgents have mounted four guns on commanding positions, and since yesterday have been delivering a hot fire on the town and fort.

A deputation of leading Moslems visited the Consul here to-day and declared that as the powers had practically cleared the Island of Turkish forces and refused to permit the Sultan to send re-inforcements to those remaining, it devolved upon the powers to protect the beseiged Mussulmans. They laid the utmost stress upon the imminent peril threatening the Moslems at Selino, and said that their only hope was in the powers. The British Consul proceeded immediately after the conference to Suda Bay to consult with Rear Admiral Harris, commanding the British fleet. The location of Selino is such, however, that effective assistance from the war ships is impossible, the town being in the interior, far out of range of the guns of the war ships.

Another cause of excitement was the action of the Italian patrol, who stopped a party of Moslem women in the streets, suspecting that they were men in disguise. Moslem officials allege that the women were roughly handled, but the Italians strongly deny the charge. The presence of the patrols from the foreign war ships is much resented by the Mohammedan officials and they have urgently requested that they be withdrawn. The road to Suda is clear and is patrolled by marines. The insurrents at Akrotiri are thus cut off.

Won't Pay for Ben Tillett's Arrest.

London, March 1.—The Globe says that it understands upon high authority that great tension exists between Great Britain and Belgium on the subject of the demands of Great Britain for indemnity as a result of the imprisonment of Ben Tillett, the Englishman who was arrested at Antwerp last year, charged with promoting a strike. Belgium, The Globe says, has refused to pay any indemnity.

THE RIGHTS OF MAN CONSIDERED.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—In your issue of the 23rd, in the Fortnightly Club column, appeared an article on the "Ethics of Citizenship or the Rights of Man." In reading it over it does not seem clear what stand the writer of that column takes in regard to such a vital question. The first paragraph states that through a century of criticism the rights of man, equality, fraternity and liberty have been torn to pieces and most of them shown to be utterly false in the form in which the French Revolutionists propounded them. Although it is not stated in the article by what way they were propounded, yet the writer seems to infer that it was by the guillotine. Human rights have been trodden down as long as men have existed, but they can never be torn to pieces or destroyed; those rights are as self evident as nature itself.

To state as the writer does that the rights of man as advocated by Thomas Payne and colleagues was the cause of the guillotining at the time of the French Revolution is a slander on such noble characters.

Thomas Paine, author of the Rights of Man, and member of the National Assembly, did all he could by appealing to the Assembly for the lives of Louis XVI and Queen, but the blunder was committed by some of the maddened members, led by Robespierre. The Reign of Terror was the natural outcome of the terrible oppression which the French people had suffered from the aristocracy for generations. The tables were turned, and through the short-lived and misdirected period of the revolution the punishment of the tyrants was not to be compared to the sufferings of the people who had borne the oppression so long.

I do not think that the writer has given those early advocates of human rights near the credit they deserve, but saddled on them much that they did not deserve. It is evident that it was through such champions of the rights of man that the question of slavery was brought to public notice to be followed later by the abolition of chattel slavery.

Was it not the assertion of these rights contained in the Declaration of Independence—That all men are created equal and are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, amongst which are self-evident truths of the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness which gave the American people that great moral crusade to abolish the horrible form of slavery, that denied the negro his rights. I fail to find any argument which has been given to refute those self-evident truths. It is futile to argue that a person has no right in the pursuit of happiness, as Bentham is quoted to have argued. That right is limited by the rights of others, but cannot be denied as natural and self evident. We are beginning to widen instead of narrowing our view of human rights. We see black slavery abolished only to be succeeded by industrial slavery. Instead of owning the slave in person to-day, the land is owned by which man must live. Own the land and you own the man. It cannot be reasonably refuted that man has a natural right to life. If a natural right to life, then he must have equal rights to the land by which he must live. He can only sustain it by the use of the earth, the foundation of our existence. Herbert Spencer in social statistics quotes:—'Equity attempts to which we have not yet listened and man may then begin that to deprive citizens of their rights to the use of the earth is to commit a crime in principle only in wickedness to the crime of taking away their lives and personal liberties.'

Mr. Maccuna, as quoted in the Fortnightly column, recognizes the right of man in its true merit of being, the beginning and end of true democracy.

YOUNG'S POINT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. Arthur Smith, of Peterborough, is spending a few days at the Point.

Mr. Jas. McPherson, of Peterborough, is visiting at Mr. Matthew Young's.

Miss Minnie Young returned home after spending a few weeks in Campbellford.

The entertainment given by the Young's Point football club and Literary Society last Tuesday night was a grand success. Mr. P. P. Young acted in the capacity of chairman for the evening, and after a few remarks introduced the programme as follows:

Song, Hungry man from Millbrook.....Mr G H [Adams

Miss A. Scrimegar's singing was very good, she receiving a number of encores. The principal feature of the evening was Mr. G. H. Adams' contribution to the programme. This gentleman's singing and dancing "brought down the house. The audience dispersed by singing the National Anthem.

Mr. Fred. LeCrone, advance agent for Buffalo Bill's wild west show, visited the village one day last week. He is advertising the show, which will visit Peterborough some time in May.

The ball given by some members of the Dramatic Club on Thursday night was a success in every manner. Mr. Scrimegar's orchestra, of Lakefield, furnished music for the occasion, and Mr. Wm. Brooks was master of ceremonies. About thirty-five couple were present and they danced until the wee sma' hours of the morning. Every one claimed it was one of the best hops they ever attended.

A cold wave passed over the Point on Saturday and the thermometer dropped below zero.

There is some talk of a "hop" at the Lakevew on Easter Monday night.

Floor Cleaning and Staining.

To stain a floor properly requires an infinite amount of patience, but if every detail is faithfully carried out the result attained will be ample payment for all the hard work.

First begin by thoroughly washing the floor. Then fill the cracks with putty. Scrape away any spots of paint or putty which may be on the boards. The stains can be obtained at such reasonable prices that it is not worth one's while to bother mixing them. Now begin with a flat brush and work it always in accordance with the grain of the wood, painting a few boards at a time.

It usually takes about 48 hours for the paint to dry, and it is better to keep the room closed during that time. By giving two coats of paint to a floor a room should not again need to be touched with a brush for a whole year.

Cross Women.

A druggist doing business in a large Ontario town recently wrote as follows: "I have lately met with some very cross women. For reasons best known to themselves they purchased common package dyes instead of the reliable and never-failing Diamond Dyes for home Dyeing. They were sorely disappointed in results, and had their goods spoiled. They came to me afterward, knowing that I sell only the Diamond Dyes."

Moral: When you are colouring goods at home use "Diamond" that guarantee success; refuse all imitations.

MR. DROLET VISITS THE PREMIER

What He Says About His Mission to Rome—Senator Miller is Against Building the Crow's Nest Road Now—Rebuilding of the Western Block—Ottawa News.

Ottawa, March 1.—(Special.)—Hon Peter Mitchell is to be appointed an Inspector of Fisheries in connection with the Fisheries Department.

Senator William Miller, who is here, is strongly opposed to any expenditure of public money in the Crow's Nest Pass Railway. Speaking to your correspondent to-night, he said: "I think before any policy is decided upon, the whole Dominion must be satisfied that the enormous expenditure contemplated will be a national benefit, in the interest of the whole country, not merely to the advantage of the section locally concerned, a benefit adequate to the burden to be assumed. It must not be forgotten that the heavy end of that burden, like the debt already incurred in connection with the Northwest and British Columbia, must be borne by the old provinces. It is refreshing to hear people locally interested demand the proposed expenditure as a matter of course, the great bulk of which must be borne by others, a comparatively small fraction of it only falling on themselves. I am not now and never have been animated by any narrow or sectional feeling in regard to further heavy expenditures in our western provinces, such as the Hudson Bay Railway, or the Crow's Nest Pass branch would entail, but our public debt is now quite big enough and should not be materially increased, except for the clearest necessity, and on the most justifiable grounds—conditions that are not yet self-evident in relation to the proposed outlay in the Rocky Mountains. One thing, however, is certain, if this railway branch is to be constructed at all, it should be done in the way that will impose the smallest possible liability on the country, not certainly as a Government work. It must not be forgotten," continued the Senator, "that the Senate will have a voice in this matter and that the Government does not control the Senate. It will be no harm for the powers that be to bear in mind that when a former Government attempted to force an expenditure of millions on the country in connection with the unnecessary Harvey and Salisbury branch of the Short Line Railway in New Brunswick, the Senate defeated the measure, and was applauded for doing so from one end of the Dominion to the other. We were then told in some quarters that our House saved more money by that one act than the Senate would cost the country for all time to come. I moved the six months' hoist to the bill on that occasion, and I or somebody else will be prepared to make a similar motion whenever any similar case arises to justify such a course."

Maj. Perley, a member of the Council of the Dominion Rifle Association, leaves for England in a very short time to take charge of the erection of the Canadian Bungalow at Bisley. Maj. Sam Hughes, M.P., who was in town to-day, examined the plans for the building, and is well-pleased with them. He made the excellent suggestion that the floors of the building should be deadened, which will be a great improvement.

You may get over that slight cold all right, but it has left its mark on the membranes lining your throat. You are liable to take another cold and the second one will hang on longer than the first. Scott's Emulsion is not an ordinary cough specific, but it is "the ounce of prevention." It builds up the system, checks inflammation and heals inflamed membranes. "Slight" colds never bring serious results when it is promptly taken.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville, Ont.

MR. G. A. DYKE of Montreal, who undertook the mission to Rome to lay before His Holiness the desirability of sending an ablegate to Canada to investigate the actions of the hierarchy in regard to the elections, is in the city the guest of the First Minister, to whom he presented a statement of what he had been enabled to accomplish at Rome. Mr. Drolet speaks freely of the result of his visit to the Vatican. He says the papal court was fully satisfied with the representations made by him in so far that they decided to lose no time in sending a representative to Canada. He was asked whether it was desirable to have this representative remain in the Dominion permanently or not, and replied that the Holy See could act as it saw best in that regard. Then the question arose as to a suitable choice for the office, and naturally there was some difficulty in making the selection. Mr. Drolet, however, expects a cable message any time informing him of the name of the prelate who will be sent over. When the ablegate arrives in Canada, he will take evidence from Halifax to Victoria in all matters where difference of opinion has arisen between church authority and the laity. Especially in Quebec will his investigations be full and thorough. He will investigate the actions and words of those members of the hierarchy, and of the Quebec hierarchy as a whole, in the late general elections, and the bitter party stand which they took against Hon. Wilfrid Laurier and the Liberals of Canada. "The papal ablegate will determine," said Mr. Drolet, in conclusion, "whether the French of Quebec are to be kept 60 years behind their fellow countrymen in all that pertains to intellectual and commercial advancement. The investigation by order of the papal authorities will be from the beginning to the end of the school question, and I expect will last fully two or three years."

Mr. Davies has under consideration the report of the commissioners, who investigated the wreck of the steamer Warwick, which was lost some weeks ago off the Island of Grand Manan. The case is an important one, involving some knotty points respecting marine law. It may be some days before the Minister's decision is finally handed down.

In connection with the work of rebuilding the upper storey of the west block, and the improvements to be made, as already projected, a plan to further render the block substantially fireproof from top to bottom is now being considered by the Department of Public Works. The proposition is made to renovate and improve the basement of the block and to remove the wooden flooring at present covering the floors of the corridors in the basement, substituting therefor cemented walks; also to remove all wooden or inflammable material in the basement that can properly be dispensed with. The Deputy Minister of Public Works stated to-day that nothing definite in regard to the matter had been determined upon, but that rough plans had been drawn up and submitted to the Minister, which were to be discussed later on.

Mr. Tarte was on the sick list again to-day, and kept to his room at the Russell House until 3 p.m., when he left for Montreal.

A deputation of Ottawa citizens, headed by Mr. Hutchinson, M.P., saw the Premier and Mr. Blair to-day to urge dredging of the Rideau River in Ottawa City, for the prevention of spring floods. The Premier promised careful consideration.

Owing to the snow storm to-day Her Excellency's skating party, which was to have been held to-night, has been postponed till to-morrow.

Mr. Edward Farrer was in town to-day and interviewed some of the Ministers.

Mr. A. G. Gilbert, poultry manager, at the experimental farm, returned to-day from the Maritime Provinces, where he addressed 10 successful meetings on the management of poultry.

Mr. Hugh Sutherland of Winnipeg left for Toronto to-night.

Hon. T. Chase Casgrain, M.P., of Quebec, arrived in the Capital on Saturday evening for the purpose of seeing Sir Charles Tupper and Sir Adolphe Caron. He had conferences with both these gentlemen.

Mr. Thomas Rubridge of the Cornwall canal, and Mr. R. B. Rogers, superintending engineer of the Trent Valley canal, are both here on business with the Department of Railways and Canals.

Hon. E. H. Bronson, M.P., is improved in health to-day. He continues to gain strength daily.

The American Bank Note Company will erect a $15,000 building on their recently purchased property on Wellington-street.

Sir Charles Tupper left for Halifax this afternoon to aid the Conservatives in perfecting their organization for the coming provincial fight.

WHAT DON DICKINSON SAYS.

He is Not at Liberty to Say Much About Behring Sea, But Thinks Uncle Sam Will be All Right.

New York, March 1.—Don M. Dickinson of Detroit is in the city. Mr. Dickinson is one of the counsel of the United States in the matter of the Behring Sea controversy, and for the last three months has been in Canada, where the commission has been taking testimony.

"The Behring Sea controversy has not yet been arranged and submitted, and I am not at liberty to enter upon a discussion of its merits at this time," he said; "but satisfactory progress is being made, and I am looking forward to a speedy settlement of the dispute. I may say that I am well pleased with our success in getting in testimony that we very much desired to have introduced, so that the three months' hearing was highly satisfactory. I am now at work upon the argument, which will be made in May. The case will then be in the hands of the commission, and I hope that a conclusion will be reached by this coming autumn. I have no reason to think that the United States will be unfairly dealt with."

Ex-Congressman Maybury of Detroit is in the city. Mr. Maybury does not endorse the views of the Detroit Congressman, who introduced a clause in the Immigration Bill prohibiting laborers living in the Canadian districts from crossing over to the United States to work. "There are several nice questions involved," he said; "but, in a general way, it may be said that this is a narrow position to take. There is not much of this sort of thing, anyway, and there does not seem to be any necessity for the prohibiting clause."

The blue-bird is hailed as a harbinger of Spring. It is also a reminder that a blood-purifier is needed to prepare the system for the debilitating weather to come. Listen and you will hear the birds singing: "Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla in March, April, May."

Annual Meeting in Montreal and Election of Officers—Sir Adolphe Chapleau Ill—Handsomest Not Read.

Montreal, Feb. 28.—(Special.)—The 12th annual meeting of the Royal Military College Club of Canada took place at the Windsor yesterday, some 50 members being present from all parts of Canada and the United States. The election resulted as follows: President, C. K. Kirkpatrick, Smith's Falls, Ont.; Vice-Presidents, Capt. J. B. Cochrane and Capt. F. M. Gaudet; Secretary and Treasurer, Capt. J. H. Lambe; Committee, Houliston, Three Rivers; McDougall, St. John's; Lambe, Quebec; Panet, Sherbrooke, and Leslie, Kingston. The reports were all satisfactory, and it was decided to hold the next annual meeting at Quebec.

Sir Adolphe Chapleau was so ill last evening that his warm friends, Postmaster Dansereau and Sir William Hingston were summoned to his bedside at Spencerwood.

The reading of the famous episcopal mandement has again been deferred because of a rumor to the effect that the Liberals had secured the appointment of a papal delegate to Canada in the person of Mgr. Tedesche, an Italian prelate of some eminence. It was also stated here to-day that Hon. Mr. Laurier would during his jubilee visit to England proceed to Rome to make a personal appeal to Rome against what he believed to be the prejudices created against him in the Eternal City.

The administrator of the archdiocese told your correspondent at a late hour that he had not yet received any official confirmation of the appointment of a papal delegate for Canada.

HAVE YOU CATARRH?

But One Sure Remedy—Obtain It for 25 Cents, Blower Included, and be Cured.

Catarrh is a disagreeable and offensive disease. It usually results from a cold and often ends in consumption and death. The one effective remedy so far discovered for it is Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

Physicians failed to cure Geo. Belfrey, toll-gate keeper, Holland Landing road. Chase's Catarrh Cure did it.

One box cured William Kneeshaw and two boxes James T. Stoddard, both of West Gwillimbury.

Division Court Clerk Joel Rogers, Robert J. Hoover and Geo. Taylor, all of Beeton, voluntarily certify to the efficacy of Chase's Catarrh Cure.

J. W. Jennison, of Gilford, spent nearly $200 on doctors, but found no permanent relief until he tried a 25-cent box of Chase's.

Miss Dwyer, of Alliston, got rid of a cold in the head in 12 hours.

Henry R. Nicholls, 176 Rectory street, London, tried a box with excellent effect.

Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure is for sale by any dealer, or by Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Price 25 cents including blower.

Coughs, colds and bronchial troubles readily cured by the latest discovery, Chase's Linseed and Turpentine. Pleasant and easy to take. 25 cents.

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry cures Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Cholera, Cholera Infantum, Cholera Morbus and all summer complaints and fluxes of the bowels in children or adults.

Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Asthma, Bronchitis, and all Lung Troubles are quickly cured by Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam.

Health and vigor are imparted to the system by the use of Adams' Tutti Frutti.

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Miss Edith Douglas and Mr. J. H. Simmons.

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place this afternoon at two o'clock at the residence of Dr. Morrison, No. 18 Gilmour street, when the marriage took place of Miss Edith Douglas, daughter of the late Andrew Douglas, to Mr J. H. Simmons, of Atlanta, Georgia.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. Rae, pastor of the Charlotte street Methodist church and only a few of the bride's most intimate friends were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Simmons left on the C. P. R. 4.45 Express for Washington, D. C., where they will witness the inauguration President-elect McKinley, afterwards proceeding south by steamer from New York to Savannah.

Mr. Simmons is a distant connection of the Douglas family and spent a few days in town about five years ago. He is the owner of a prosperous manufactory in Atlanta.

The bride will be greatly missed by her many friends in town, amongst whom she was most popular. The EXAMINER desires to extend the heartiest congratulations.

BRIDGENORTH.

The Late Mrs. Nathan Taylor.

Great regret will be felt at the death of Mrs. Hannah Stubbs Taylor, wife of Mr. Nathan Taylor, of Bridgenorth, who passed away at St. John's Hospital, Toronto, on Monday afternoon at the age of 46 years. Her comparatively sudden death will come all all the more as a shock, following, as it did, upon the news of the great improvement in her condition as the result of an operation for the removal of a tumour some time since. But on Monday, Feb. 22nd, she suffered a relapse, and that resulted in her death, as stated. The deceased was a daughter of Mr. Wm. Stubbs, formerly of Smith township. She was married 25 years ago to Mr. Nathan Taylor. Their union was not blessed with children, but an adopted daughter is left to mourn her death, together with the husband and one sister, Mrs. W. S. Northey, town, and one brother, Mr. Jas. Stubbs, also of town. Mrs. Taylor was a member of the congregation of the Gilmour Memorial church, and was a most active participant in Sunday school work. The funeral will take place on Wednesday, March 3rd, at 1 o'clock, from the family residence, Bridgenorth, to Little Lake cemetery.

"My Friend From India."

Who was it said, "laugh and grow fat?" Well, never mind. The person who believes in the saying and wants to grow fat should seek an introduction to "My Friend from India." The person who believes the saying and doesn't want to grow fat should stay away. For when once introduced he will find it impossible not to laugh, be the result what it may. That is, if the effect of the piece on last evening's audience is to be taken as a criterion of what it will be on others. The laughs began with the first uncouth gyrations of Tilly, the German maid, before the big mirror, and ended only with the fall of the curtain on the last act, having of course the waits between the acts, and some necessary intervals for a breath between laughs. In short, the play was a success from the beginning.—London Globe, Jan. 5. This attraction will be at Bradburn's Opera House next Friday night, March 5th. Prices 25, 35 and 50 cents, with a few of the best seats at 75c. 1d

ADDRESS TO MISS SHORTLY.

She Will be Missed by the George Street E. L. of C. E.

The usual monthly consecration meeting was held by the E. L. of C. E. last night, in the Sunday school room of the George street Methodist church. Just before the closing hymn was sung, Mr. W. J. Wattam, president of the League, stepped forward and stated that Miss L. Fries, who had always been a very earnest worker in the league, had said good bye to the town of Peterborough, and that what was the Peterborough League's loss would certainly be some other league's gain. Mr. Wattam then informed the League that it was going to lose, within the next few days, another of its most ardent workers—Miss Edythe Shortly. She had always, he said, been one of the mainstays of their society, and it was with general regret that the League learned of her intention. Miss Shortly is going to enter the Montreal Hospital Training School for Nurses. At the conclusion of Mr. Wattam's remarks, Miss Emma Might stepped forward and read the following address to Miss Shortly:

Miss Edith Shortly:

DEAR SISTER,—Knowing that you are soon to leave Peterborough the members of the Epworth League of the George street Methodist church desire on this occasion when so many of our friends are with us to give expression to our regret on account of the loss we will sustain as a League through your departure. As an active member of our League you have, from its organization, been a most efficient worker and in the many offices you have held you have always been prompt and faithful in the performance of your duties, and the success of the League has in no small measure been owing to the help you have given. We know that we shall greatly feel the loss of your counsel and assistance, but we shall remember as an incentive your example in the performance of duty. We shall miss your presence, but shall cherish recollections of the pleasant and profitable intercourse that we have had and shall feel that the friendship which has been so pleasant shall not be severed by distance. While we remain and endeavour to carry on the work here, in which we have been so long assisted, we know that you will also be engaged in work for the Master and that we shall still be united in the service of our Saviour. This will give us courage to bear parting with you, and we shall gladly welcome you at any time that you may be able to visit us. We heartily wish you all the success you hope for, and every blessing you desire, and will pray that God, who alone can give true success and happiness, may always bless you.

Signed on behalf of the League,
WM. J. WATTAM, President.
MARY BARCLAY, Secretary.
PETERBOROUGH, February 16th, 1897.

Miss Shortly, though taken by surprise, replied feelingly, wishing the League every success and expressing regret at severing her connection with the society.

Adopted.

THE STREET AND BRIDGE COMMITTEE, through its chairman, Councillor McWilliams, reported as follows:

1. That committee, as authorised, asked for tenders for stone suitable for street purposes to be delivered at the county gaol, and received eleven tenders. We awarded contracts for delivering twenty-five cords each to Philip Crough and Ned Murphy at $1.90 per cord, theirs being the lowest tenders received.

Adopted.

THE FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT COMMITTEE, through it chairman, Councillor White, reported as follows:

1. Your committee received a report from the Chief of the Fire Brigade regarding the Fire Department and its equipment, and after considering it we recommend that the following articles be purchased: Three pliable branch pipes, one cellar revolving branch, two dozen common hose keys, new cords for the harness hangers, and eight pairs of couplings.

2. Your committee also recommend that the chief of the brigade and the chairman be authorised to visit places were improved systems of fire alarms have been installed and inspect them with a view to ascertaining whether the system in Peterborough can be improved, and, if so what system would be best adapted for this town, and what the expense would be to put it in operation.

3. We recommend that the chief be instructed to visit the fire hall regularly to see that the hall and apparatus is kept in proper order.

4. The light given by the electric lights in the town offices has not been satisfactory, and the fact has been ascertained that since the building was wired for the lights additional lamps have been put in, which is said to have caused the poor light. We recommend that the lamps on the metre circuit be changed to 104 volt lamps, the Light and Power Co. agreeing to change the transformer and metre, as the company states that this will remedy the defect.

All of which is respectfully submitted

Councillor Davis suggested that the steam fire engine be insured with some boiler inspection company. The steamer, he stated, was frequently out of order and such an insurance would cause regular inspection and accidents would thus be averted.

Councillor Meldrum endorsed the suggestion, and Councillor White stated that he would be pleased to add such a clause to his report.

Councillor Best claimed that Peterborough, as well as other small cities outside of Toronto, were called upon to pay tribute through the manipulation of Toronto property holders. He thought that Peterborough should do its own insuring. (Applause.) If this was not the case he asked Councillor Davis, as an insurance man, to explain why the local rates, with better protection, had been raised from 65 to 85?

Councillor Davis stated that within the last 25 years 75 per cent. of the premiums had been paid back through losses. Toronto had agitated municipal insurance, but fires last year to the extent of $3,000,000 had caused this talk to cease. Peterborough was free from fires for several years, but within the last year over $100,000 had been paid out of his own office for losses, and doubtless Mr. W. H. Hill's office had paid out $75,000 more. Fire insurance stock did not pay more than five per cent. profit.

Councillor Best held to his argument that the smaller cities were paying for their own risks and partially for Toronto's also. All large places with high buildings were being favoured.

Councillor Dawson agreed with Councillor Best's view of the case.

Councillor Best held that when Mr. Maclean, of the Fire Underwriters, was in Peterborough he had promised to put the town in Class "B" and lower the rate if certain conditions were complied with. The conditions had been carried out, and the town put in Class "B," but the rate was the same.

Council Davis stated that the rate had been lowered.

Councillor Best was sure this was not the case, and moved that the report be referred back, and an investigation of the whole matter entered into.

Councillor White stated that the recommendations made by the committee were all necessary, and with the exception of the case of one nozzle, such recommendations were not made at the instance of the Fire Underwriters.

The report was then amended by striking out clause 2 in order that the Fire, Water and Light Committee might more fully investigate this matter. A clause was also added, as suggested by Councillor Davis, whereby the fire engine will be insured.

THE PROPERTY AND HEALTH COMMITTEE, through its chairman, Councillor Graham, reported and recommended as follows:

1. That no action be taken with reference to the letter from the Horticultural Society, offering to take charge of the Central Park.

2. That in view of the expense necessary to retain the property known as Dixon Park and of the proximity of other parks to it, that the property be conveyed back to Mr. A. E. Dixon in accordance with the terms of the deed from him to the town.

3. That this committee be authorised to advertise for tenders for a nuisance ground for the year beginning the first of May next.

Councillor Graham and White moved that the second clause be struck out, the former stating that it would be unfair to the property holders in the vicinity to do away with the park.

A deputation being present from that portion of the town Mr. J. A. Fife was invited to address the council. He stated that one of the conditions on which a number of the lots had been purchased in

Some men are afraid of death, some are not. Most of us would rather not meet the grim destroyer to-day. We would rather put it off until to-morrow, or until next year. Mere wishes do not count for much in the matter. A man may not want to die. He may not want to be sick. He may wish and hope and pray that he will not be one or do the other, but wishing and hoping won't help him. It is what he does, and not what he wishes that serve his purpose. If a man is losing flesh, and is nervous, irritable, sleepless and debilitated, he may wish he would get well, but one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will do more than an ocean of wishes. If a man is on the way to consumption, he should make a stop as quickly as possible. He should put on brakes. He needn't be afraid he has consumption if he will do the right thing—if he will just take the right medicine. The "Golden Medical Discovery" cures incipient and well developed consumption. Consumption is a germ disease and a blood disease. The "Golden Medical Discovery" kills the germs and purifies the blood. It increases the appetite, helps digestion, makes assimilation perfect, and so builds up solid, wholesome flesh. Hundreds of grateful people afflicted with consumption, bronchial, throat and kindred diseases, have testified that it has actually saved their lives. For the sake of the information they contain, some of these letters have been included in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a thousand page, illustrated book, which will be sent free on receipt of thirty-one (31) one-cent stamps to pay for customs and mailing only. Every family should have a copy for ready reference in case of sudden sickness or accidents. World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

DROPPING THE SKIRT.

Bloomers Have Taken a Permanent Place in Every Feminine Wardrobe.

If anybody doubts, simply because long-dress skirts, picture hats and corsets are still the fashion, that dress reform has failed to make any real impression on the feminine habit, she should only be allowed to peep into the well-stocked wardrobe of a genuinely modern and sensible girl or matron of the moment. A few years ago chiffonier drawers and closet shelves would have been found high piled, like snowdrifts, with amazingly flounced white petticoats, lace-trimmed pantaloon, long-skirted chemise, and gay little flannel petticoats. Beautiful to look at, but so expensive to buy, to have laundered, so clumsy to wear and so inadequate as a protection against the cold, the heat, the mud or the rain, it is hardly to be wondered at that women no longer wear them at all.

The fact is, except for occasions of elaborate toilet, the petticoat, all save the one top skirt, has been actually swept out of existence, and the knickerbocker idea has done it. No woman who professes to dress with anything like regard for cleanliness and comfort, wears the old-style petticoat any longer. Her one ambition now is to regulate her costume that everything except her dress skirt will cling closely to her body. In cold weather, when making a toilet, she draws down over her shoulders and up over knees and hips a vest and tights of silk stockinet or a weave of mixed silk and wool. Over these go her stays and then she is ready to get into her stockings, which are up and held by a slender elastic cord, drawn from a single hook in the front of her stays.

Days of Independence.

In dressing for indoors her next manoeuvre is to step into a pair of large easy silk bloomers. They are made on to a deep yoke, that fits flat over the corset, and hang full and slightly depending at the knee. On one hip there is a row of buttons and bands, and buttons hold them at the knees, and with these few preliminaries she is ready for her dress. If a corset cover is worn at all that is the merest skeleton bodice, with no skirts below the waist line, and is just as often woven of silk or thin lisle thread like the under vest. When the hour comes to go out the silk bloomers are slipped off, and a pair of woolen knickerbockers, made exactly like a man's golf trousers, but hung on a yoke, are drawn on. They are not very full, and hook flat on one hip, buttoning at both knees. A pair of high bicycle shoes, or soft brown, grey or black suede leggings are buttoned up over the calf of the legs. Upon this falls the dress skirt, and, for the first time, a woman walking is in actual comfort. By exchanging chemise, pantaloon, cotton petticoat and flannel skirt for tights and knickerbockers, neatness and perfect warmth have been gained. The same woman might on a cold day hang a dozen petticoats from her waist and some of them ponderous padded ones, but she never could be truly warm. She would carry just triple the weight needed, and be obliged to lift yards of heavy material over every mud puddle, where now her top dress skirt is her only care.

THEY WORKED WONDERS.

Two Years of Bladder Torment—Had Attacks of Inflammation—Cured by a few Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Owen Sound, Feb. 23, (Special)—The people of this town are talking again of another cure credited to Dodd's Kidney Pills. This is the case of Mr. W. Crase, caretaker of town buildings, who, when seen had this to say of the matter:

"For over two years I have been an intense sufferer from kidney disease with occasional acute attacks of inflammation of the bladder.

"Was under doctors' treatment and have been compelled to resort to instrumental relief many times.

"I have taken eighteen boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and am satisfied with results being perfectly relieved of all suffering."

Constipation Cured.

Gents,—I was in very poor health for over four years; the doctor said it was constipation. Not wanting to spend too much cash I got three bottles of B.B.B. and took it regularly. I can certify that I am now in the very best of health and feel very grateful to B.B.B.

LEO XIII'S LONGEVITY

A NUN'S SACRIFICE THAT HE MIGHT GROW OLD.

The Pope's Family and His Inherited Tendencies—The Delicate Boy Who Afterwards Became the "Teacher of the Church"—A Story of Devotion.

The Pope's family, the Peccis, come from noble Siennese stock. They located in Carpineto after one of the many petty wars that devastated that Tuscan province. They took the side of the De Medici, and as the Florentines were on the unpopular turn of the political tide a change of location was necessary. Both his father, Count Dominico Ludovico Pecci, and his mother, the Countess Anna Prosperi-Buzi, had many relatives and warm friends among the residents at the old home of the family.

Some of the most welcome of these old friends and relatives were the family of the Fosi. One of them, Joachim Fosi, was Bishop of Anagni, and when Count Pecci's fourth son was born this prelate was invited to baptise and stand sponsor to the babe. He did so, and gave to his godson the names Joachim Vincent Raphael Louis. In the Fosi family the greatest interest was taken in this foster child. When he entered the Church the most distinguished career was predicted for him. His subsequent progress as priest, Governor of Benevento and Umbria, Nuncio to Belgium, Bishop of Perugia, Cardinal and finally Pope was all taken as the fulfilment of the early predictions made in his behalf.

Among those who watched the Pontiff's career with the greatest interest and pride, and who read it in the light of the family tradition, was the young and beautiful Marchesa Caterina Fosi.

To beauty of person the Marchesa united mental ability and cultivated tastes of the highest order. The Pope, as is well known, in addition to the elaborate state papers that from time to time have been given to the world over "the seal of the Fisherman," is the author of many poems in Latin of the most classic form. In these the Marchesa found especial delight. Her literary studies, her charities and her devotions took up her entire day.

So the years wore on until the time of the Pope's golden jubilee, in 1887, when the whole Catholic world was sending bands of pilgrims to the Vatican bearing the expressions of its reverence, love and fealty. In his early youth he had been a delicate boy, and his bodily strength never seemed to attain robust vigor even in manhood. There were doubts, therefore, that he would live to fill out the years necessary to accomplish the aims and results of his now understood dynastic policy of "teacher of the Church and peacemaker among the nations."

Brooding constantly over this, she became possessed of the idea that if she could offer up her young life in all the fulness of its hope and strength the Pope's might be spared to carry on the great works of Church policy and progress.

It seemed to her next that retirement from the world was a proper step in the progression of her sacrifice, and she applied and was accepted as a member of the community at the convent of the brown-habited Observantines.

The mother superior and her associates knew of her long cherished hope. Her piety and exactness in the performance of the holiest and most ennobling qualities won their deepest regard and edification. They tolerated what was looked on as an almost childlike whim. But, in the new nun, as the time of her probation and full reception into the order passed, the conviction that her prayer was being heard grew stronger and stronger. Her health began to fail, and for several years she dragged along, in the eye of science almost a hopeless invalid.

Thus it went on until one morning, when the sister infirmarian came into her cell and found the wooer of death sleeping peacefully forever on her narrow bed. On the table, beside the night-light, was a meditation on St. Catherine, and a copy of the oft-read poem on death by the Pope. On this was written the line:

"At last! At last! I am accepted. He will live!"

The next day was Saturday, and when the Cardinal Vicar Parocchi was making his weekly report at the special audience in the Vatican he whispered the story. The Pontiff listened with closed eyes, and his lips moved in prayer as it ended.

TALKING IN THEIR SLEEP.

"You think I am dead,"
The apple tree said,
"Because I have never a leaf to show,
Because I stoop
And my branches droop,
And the dull grey mosses over me grow!
But I'm alive in trunk and shoot;
The buds of next May
I fold away
But I pity the withered grass at my root."

"You think I am dead,"
The quick grass said,
"Because I have parted with stem and blade;
But under the ground,
I am safe and sound,
With the snow's thick blanket over me laid.
I'm all alive and ready to shoot,
Should the spring of the year
Come dancing here;
But I pit ythe flower without branch or root."

"You think I am dead,"
A soft voice said,
"Because not a branch or root I own,
I never have died,
But close I hide,
In a plumy seed that the wind has sown,
Patient I wait through the long winter hours;
You will see me again—
I shall laugh at you then,
Out of the eyes of a hundred flowers."

Nervous Prostration

Complete Recovery by the Use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"Some years ago, as a result of too close attention to business, my health failed. I became weak, nervous, was unable to look after my interests, and manifested all the symptoms of a decline. I took three bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, began to improve at once, and gradually increased my weight from one hundred and twenty-five to two hundred pounds. Since then, I and my family have used this medicine when needed, and we are all in the best of health, a fact which we attribute to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I believe my children would have been fatherless to-day had it not been for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, of which preparation I cannot say too much."—H. O. HINSON, Postmaster and Planter, Kinard's, S. C.

SNAKES AS FIGHTERS

WOULD SOONER RUN AND LIVE TO FIGHT ANOTHER DAY.

An Observer Explodes Some Popular Fallacies—The "Spitting Snake" of South Africa One of the Worst of Its Kind.

Many persons believe that snakes, without provocation, often attack and even follow people. I have for years devoted my life to observing the ways of snakes, says a writer in the New York Sun, and have chased and caught them in many countries, but neither in North or South America have I had a snake molest or follow me without great provocation. We often read stories of persons being attacked or pursued by the common black racer. From my experience, and that of others whom I know to be absolutely fearless and cool observers, I must say that the black snake certainly never under any circumstances pursues and never attacks unless he is cornered. And as for his winding himself around people's legs, I can safely assert that no black racer would or could think of doing such a thing, unless the person continued to hold him down with the foot on his neck or back. In such a case any snake would use every endeavor by both biting and twining, to free himself, and there would be nothing strange in his doing so.

I have found it to be the universal rule in all parts of the world, that when a snake thinks he is unobserved he will lie quiet, and will run or prepare for action only when approached. In this country no snake attacks people by winding around them; nor, in fact, in any country do snakes use such a means of offense, except toward their prey; and even then only those by nature constrictors use this method. All others are absolutely ignorant of such a power, and among them must certainly be numbered the blacksnake, the rattlesnake, and the copperhead. For a blacksnake, rattler or copperhead to attack by constriction would be just as unnatural as for a bull to try to tear a man to pieces with his teeth, or, as for a lion to stand up on his hind legs and hug like a bear. Every blacksnake will make away the moment he finds himself in danger. If no avenue of escape be left for him he will bite, and bite fiercely, but still ineffectually, for in addition to his being absolutely innocent of venom, his tiny teeth are such poor weapons that they cannot cause even a respectable scratch, and are less to be dreaded than the claws of a kitten or the teeth of a half grown mouse. And even in his best biting humor the blacksnake will turn and make off at the slightest chance of escape. It is nearly the same with the copperhead, though he has more confidence in his power of fighting and less in his ability to get away.

One day last June I came upon a copperhead on a road on the Palisades. It was in the evening, a little after sunset. Even with an opera glass I had difficulty in seeing him at a distance of fifty or sixty yards, so much was he tinted like the brownish dust of the highway and the dried leaves and stones strewn in the vicinity. The moment I recognized him as a copperhead I pocketed my glass and ran toward him with all my speed.

Seeing me approach he at once coiled himself and prepared to strike. I stood within a yard of him and watched him in his posture of defense, ready to spring at me should I be bold enough to threaten him too closely. His cat-like eyes glistened with excited watchfulness; his two-pronged tongue flickered and quivered like the antennæ of an insect. Of course, I kept my distance and walked around him, but he turned his head and kept ever facing me. Two or three times I went around him, his excitement all the time increasing.

I will tease him, I thought, to see what he will do, so I put my stick out gently toward him. He felt it with his tongue, but didn't bite it. Then I put it to him abruptly, whereupon he promptly struck it and left the venom in glistening drops upon it. Again and again I poked it at him and danced about threateningly before him. As I did so he continued to strike at the stick, though I had not touched him.

Now he was near the side of the road, where there was plenty of grass and weeds for him to hide in, but he seemed to be so occupied with me as to be utterly regardless of everything else. A blacksnake would not have stayed five seconds in such a position without making a dash into the weeds. Thinking that I had, by my too close attentions, prevented him from seeing his real surroundings, I went backward for about ten or fifteen yards to give him a clear chance to look about him. In a few seconds he shot out his head and commenced going off in the direction of the weeds. Of course, I at once ran up, so as not to lose him. He was already half in the weeds, and, feeling that his escape was secured, he attempted to fight no more, but tried to get off as fast as he could, although I still poked him with my stick.

Thus it is clear that he didn't fight from choice, but from what he considered a necessity, and it is really so with all snakes, even those which are said to follow people. They never seriously seek to fight; they only wish to scare off the intruder.

Snakes of the boa and viper kind act as did the copperhead. In the forests of Venezuela I once came upon a boa constrictor quite inadventently. He was lying coiled, probably sleeping, in a short underbrush of young palms not higher than my knee, and my foot knocked against him. A loud hiss was his answer. With my stick I held the rank leaves aside to get a view of him. A most imposing sight confronted me. There was a huge snake of beautiful brown and fawn colored tints hissing like a demon, with his head and neck raised and turned toward me in position to strike. The noise of his hissing was prolonged and most astonishingly loud, more like that made by a donkey engine, it seemed, than any that could possibly be produced by a snake. As I moved a little to draw back, he hit toward me, with an increase in the force of his hiss. As he struck toward me, his impetus, perhaps, carried him forward a little; at any rate, he advanced, and I retreated a step or two further, somewhat apprehensive of his teeth, but too much charmed by the magnificence of his anger to leave him. It was one of the grandest exhibitions of majestic rage I have ever witnessed. Wishing to have it continue, I struck with my stick on the leaves in front of him. This excited him greatly. He hissed and struck toward me more fiercely than ever and began, between the bites, to advance slowly but surely toward me. Had I continued to stand where I was, he would undoubtedly have torn every shred of clothing from my legs and lacerated me most frightfully with his formidable teeth. His advance, was, however, so gradual that I could easily, at any time, have escaped by the slowest sauntering walk. Indeed, the advancing of an enraged boa against disturbers is always so gradual and so void of fatal results, in consequence of his being innocent of venom, that it does not deserve being seriously considered except as a beautiful picture of animal action.

Far otherwise is it, however, with the famous cobra de capello. There is a snake of this most poisonous class in South Africa called the "ring hals" or ring neck, and "spungh slang," or spitting snake. This fellow will not only squirt his venom into one's eyes, but will sometimes apparently go out of his way to attack and follow those who threaten or approach him too closely.

FOUND A JEWEL.

An Important Find by a Brockville Jeweller.

Mr. Joseph Lane, the well-known jeweller of Brockville, says: "For some years I have suffered with severe pains in my back and sides and flashes of heat between my shoulders. I had a tired, worneat feiling. "The numerous medicines that I took gave me very little relief. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills I thought I would try a box, and got one at Curry's drugstore.

"After the first two or three doses I felt much relieved, and the longer I took them the greater the change for the better in my condition. I am much better in every respect and recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all sufferers from kidney trouble as the best remedy I know of."

A New Dairy Breed.

Jersey, Guernsey and Holstein breeders, as well as the Ayrshire, Brown Swiss and Simmenthaler people, will have to look to their laurels, for a new dairy light appears in the east, this time in the form of the buffalo of India. The India buffalo, it will be understood, is the genuine article, and not the American bison to which we are accustomed in this country. According to the Sydney Stock and Station Journal, these animals, while not rivaling other dairy breeds in milk production, greatly surpasses them in butter-making capacity and in the total solids which the milk contains. The dairy experts of India declare that their buffalo is the best butter-producing animal in the world. By actual experiment eleven pounds of buffalo milk were required to produce a pound of butter, while seventeen pounds of cow milk were necessary for the production of the same amount. The buffalo in an India test was in milk 459 days, yielding 6669 pounds of milk; English-bred cows were in milk 471 days, yielding 5024. An analysis of the milk made at Poona India, showed the English cow's milk to contain 3.7 per cent. of butter fat against 7.9 for the buffalo. The total solids were 12.8 per cent. for the cow and 17.95 for the buffalo. If these analyses are a correct index to the normal production of the India buffalo, the breed will be an excellent one for dairy crossing, and some enterprising breeder in this country should import a few good ones and see whether the average cow in this country which produces 125 pounds a year, cannot be graded up.—Colman's Rural World.

THE EYES OF THE WORLD

Are Fixed Upon South American Nervine.

Beyond Doubt the Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

WHEN EVERY OTHER HELPER HAS FAILED IT CURES

A Discovery, Based on Scientific Principles, that Renders Failure Impossible.

In the matter of good health temporizing measures, while possibly successful for the moment, can never be lasting. Those in poor health soon know whether the remedy they are using is simply a passing incident in their experience, bracing them up for the day, or something that is getting at the seat of the disease and is surely and permanently restoring.

The eyes of the world are literally fixed on South American Nervine. They are not viewing it as a nine-days' wonder, but critical and experienced men have been studying this medicine for years, with the one result—they have found that its claim of perfect curative qualities cannot be gainsaid.

The great discoverer of this medicine was possessed of the knowledge that the seat of all disease, is the nerve centres, situated at the base of the brain. In this belief he had the best scientists and medical men of the world occupying exactly the same premises. Indeed, the ordinary layman recognised this principle long ago. Everyone knows that let disease or injury affect this part of the human system and death is almost certain. Injure the spinal cord, which is the medium of these nerve centres, and paralysis is sure to follow.

Here is the first principle. The trouble with medical treatment usually, and with nearly all medicines, is that they aim simply to treat the organ that may be diseased. South American Nervine passes by the organs, and immediately applies its curative powers to the nerve centres, from which the organs of the body receive their supply of nerve fluid. The nerve centres healed, and of necessity the organ which has shown the outward evidence only of derangement is healed. Indigestion, nervousness, impoverished blood, liver complaint, all owe their origin to a derangement of the nerve centres. Thousands bear testimony that they have been cured of these troubles, even when they have become so desperate as to baffle the skill of the most eminent physicians, because South American Nervine has gone to headquarters and cured there.

The eyes of the world have not been disappointed in the inquiry into the success of South American Nervine. People marvel, it is true, at its wonderful medical qualities, but they know beyond all question that it does everything that is claimed for it. It stands alone as the one great certain curing remedy of the nineteenth century. Why should anyone suffer distress and sickness while this remedy is practically at their hands?

ALTERATION AND CHANGE

FAIRWEATHER & CO.

Have decided that the next two weeks will be a hay-day for all bargain lovers, as we are going to push out our Furs at SACRIFICING PRICES to make room for the workmen during the renovation. The workmen are about to start a complete alteration on the interior of our store in the course of 2 weeks. New Ceilings, New Floors, New Front—enlarging of premises, etc., etc. This is but the forerunner of other changes which are to be made in our business arrangements, as we have announced through the press during the past month.

The most important of these changes to the public will be the placing of all our business

ON A SPOT CASH NO-MORE-CREDIT BASIS

ON AND AFTER MARCH 15th 1897, we will conduct our business on a cash basis exclusively, in order to save the large losses which a credit business necessitates. We find there are expenses incurred from losses through Bad Accounts—by interest in carrying both "Long-Winded" and "Short-Winded" Accounts—by loss of Discount in not having cash to pay for goods at once—by expenses of extra help required to keep track of and collect Accounts, etc. All these in the aggregate mean a very large expense added to any business. So we have determined to curtail this outlay and give customers the benefit of Cash Buying and Cash Selling on everything.

What we save in expenses our customers save in prices—as formerly those who paid, made up the losses, as above mentioned, incurred by credit. To all our old customers both cash and credit, we would say that you will find it to your advantage more so now than ever, to see our stock and prices, under this new regime. You will find goods that under credit system, must cost you $5, can now be sold, under cash, for $4. You will be better suited—we will be better pleased. The benefits of a Cash Business are mutual.

MIDNIGHT SESSION OF THE TOWN COUNCIL.

the vicinity was that the park had been taken over by the town and would be kept up.

Mr. J. C. Smith also spoke on the subject pointing out that through the park being established the property in the vicinity had been laid out in town lots and assessed as $1600 an acre instead of at $100 an acre as farm property. No money had been spent by the town in this locality, the streets having been given free, graded and water-tabled by Mr. Dixon.

Councillor McWilliams wished to have the matter laid over for a month, as he was not sufficiently acquainted with the subject to decide as regards it. As about $200 had already been spent on the park, the balance of the $500 promised should be expended.

Councillor Meldrum pointed out that the Park had been taken over in good faith and he thought it would be a shame to give it back. He would never vote for such action.

Councillor Dawson had been opposed to the accepting of the park from the start, and didn't see how $500 could be expended on it. If the balance of the sum could be spent on the streets, though, he would cast his vote that way.

The report was then adopted with the exception of Clause 2, which was referred back to the committee.

THE LICENSE COMMITTEE, through its chairman, Councillor LePlante, reported and recommend as follows:

1. That the pedlar's license given to Mrs. Geo. Lawson last year be renewed, and that she be given a new license in renewal without the payment of the license fee.
2. That James Condon be given a refund of $5.75 on account of an eating house license fee paid by him.
3. That the chairman of this committee be authorised to procure a supply of dog tags for this year.

Adopted.

THE DEPUTATION OF CARTERS

was then received. Mr. James Clancy acted as spokesman, and stated the grievances of the carters, consisting in the fact that the five dollar fee did not protect sufficiently, as others were allowed to do carting by the day without paying any fee or without having the proper requirements for doing a carter's business.

Mr. H. Wills also spoke, mentioning particularly the fact that both he and Mr. Clancy were charged ten dollars for having two horses, whereas they were hitched to a one-horse truck and, according to his views, should only be asked for a five dollar fee.

Mr. O'Brien also spoke.

Councillors McWilliams and White moved that the town carters' licenses be reduced to two dollars, and carters residing outside the town limits be charged ten dollars.

Councillor Dawson opposed such a motion. He did not want to see any discrimination against Ashburnham.

Councillor McWilliams pointed out that when tenders were called for the same discrimination was shown.

Mr. M. Flaherty asked that more attention be given to those carters who paid no license at all. He stated that the chief of police knew of these carters but would do nothing regarding the matter.

On motion of Councillors Meldrum and LePlante the matter was referred to the License Committee to draw up a bylaw to suit the carters.

POLICE INVESTIGATION.

Councillor Dawson brought up the matter of police investigation and the definition of their duties. He stated that on account of having so much to do the officers could not be tied down as were the police in large cities. They had constantly to leave their beats to look after sanitary matters, truants or something of the kind. He said that he would pay no attention to a motion passed at the last meeting of the council calling for an investigation into certain charges against the force. He wanted to hear what the charges were before he would call a meeting of his committee on Police Supervision.

The Mayor took the same ground also, stating that he would not call a committee of the whole council together to hear any charges unless he had them in writing first.

Councillor Leplante said that the charges would be forthcoming at the time of the meeting, but he did not think the trouble should be aired before the public until the facts were established. Personally he had no fault to find with the police, but others had complained to him and the matter must be sifted to the bottom.

Councillor Best was surprised that the Mayor declined to call a meeting of the committee of the whole, and stated that if he persisted in such a course of action the members of the council would sign a round robin and force him to call such a meeting. The police needed stirring up, and such an investigation would give them more energy. At present if any trouble occurred, the Chief would not go to look it up, but would quote law to the complainant and put him off with some plausible story. The complainant had to act as the policeman himself if he wanted anything done in the matter.

Councillor McWilliams pointed out that the duties of the police had necessarily to be defined. Complaints, for instance, came in about the boys swimming in the river. The police could not catch them on the logs, and some arrangement should be made to meet matters such as this.

Councillor Meldrum thought that after so much talk on the question an investigation was owing to the police.

The Mayor consented to going into the matter, and the investigation will probably be taken up this evening.

THE AUBURN BRIDGE.

Councillor White asked what steps had recently been taken with regard to making arrangements with the government to to have a highway bridge erected in connection with the Grand Trunk Railway bridge at Auburn. He wished to know how the matter stood at present.

Mayor Yelland explained that the government had stated that the bridge was simply being erected by them for the Grand Trunk Railway, in accordance with the conditions of a certain agreement. If the town wanted any favours they would have to be asked of the railway.

Councillor Meldrum thought the matter should be looked into at once, as matters at the present time were in just such a condition that the favour might be easily obtained. He therefore moved, seconded by Councillor White, that the Street and Bridge Committee look into the matter at once.

Councillor McWilliams promised to call the members of the committee together immediately.

A $500 GRANT.

Councillor Denne introduced the bylaw authorising the granting of $500 to the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society.

Councillor Laplante thought that $400 was quite enough to give in consideration of the many other grants which had been made this year. An effort should be made to keep the taxation down.

Councillors Meldrum and Laplante moved that $400 be granted, that connection from the fountain to the sewer be made by the town, and that the town team haul cinders to the park to be spread on the walk.

Councillor Denne did not think that this would meet the requirements.

Councillor Cobb stated that the fountain was sinking, the walks in disrepair, and the stone steps loose. The Society had estimated that $500 would barely do the work.

The mayor thought $500 should be given as the extra hundred dollars would be given indirectly anyway by the town doing the work.

The bylaw was carried fixing the amount of the grant at $500.

Councillor McWilliams introduced the bylaw appointing Messrs. Ranney & Innes to the position of street engineers and inspectors.

Councillor Best thought that the appointment under such a title would cause friction. There was already a sewer engineer and he did not see the necessity of appointing a town engineer also. If the appointment was made as inspectors he would have nothing to say, but he did not like the term "engineer."

Councillor McWilliams explained that this term was applied so that if there was any street grading to be done it could be looked after by Messrs. Ranney & Innes without extra charge. The sewer engineer would expect a commission for doing this work.

Councillor Best stated that the sewer engineer graded the streets by the manholes and if both engineers started to do the same work trouble would ensue.

On motion of Councillors Dawson and Graham the bylaw was referred to the Committee on Appointments.

EXTENSION OF THE STREET RAILWAY

Councillors McWilliams and Cobb moved that the Street Railway Company be notified to extend their line along Park street from Charlotte street to McDonel street, and along McDonel street from Park street to George street, in accordance with the franchise.

Councillors Best and Denne moved in amendment, that a committee of the whole council be appointed to meet the president and directors of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Street Railway Co. for the purpose of considering the farther extension of their railway system.

The amendment was lost and the original motion carried.

On motion of Councillor Davis it was resolved that whereas the Grand Trunk and C.P.R. have discontinued the issue of low rates tickets for use on Saturday and whereas it has been found by the merchants that their trade has been materially increased by the use of said cheap tickets, thus proving that the number of the tickets sold since the low price tickets were issued is much greater than the number issued before that period and as it is possible that the railway companies may not have lost any money through the issue of said tickets, it is hereby resolved that we appoint a committee consisting of the members of the Committee on Manufactures and Railways to interview the railroad authorities and urge upon them the reconsideration of their decision in this matter.

EXEMPTION OF MACHINERY.

Councillors Davis and Meldrum moved that the town solicitor be instructed to prepare a bill for the Legislature giving Peterborough the right to exempt all machinery from taxation.

The discussion on this motion was prolonged, but it was finally lost, the members agreeing to meet this evening and discuss the matter in full in order to ascertain if the privileges thus obtained would be worth the expenditure of $100, which is required to put the bill through the Legislature.

The town solicitor's suggestion regarding the meeting in Toronto of representatives from the various towns to arrange for legislation lessening the liability of municipalities in cases of street accidents, was referred to the Legal Committee.

The matter of the Indian Famine Fund was taken up and Councillors McWilliams and White moved that $100 be granted towards it.—Lost.

New Spring Goods are rushing in upon us faster than we can place them, so we have decided to let the "hide go with the hair" until our two big stores are clear of Winter lines.

More gigantic selling, forced on by tremendous buying, has never been planned, for we dump everything into this Colossal Sale at an average reduction all round of

FROM THE CAPITAL.

Ottawa Ship Canal Promoters Had a Hearing.

WOULD COST FIFTEEN MILLIONS

According to the Estimate of Its Chief Promoter—A Deputation of 200 Gentlemen Replied to by the Premier, Sir Oliver Mowat and Messrs. Blair and Scott.

Ottawa, March 2.—(Special.)—The Ottawa ship canal project received a full exploitation before a sub-committee of the Cabinet this afternoon. There were delegates present from all the municipalities from North Bay to Montreal, the deputation numbering about 200 persons. The Ministers who heard them were Mr. Laurier, Sir Oliver Mowat, Messrs. Scott, Blair and Dobell.

Mr. Belcourt, M.P., briefly introduced a deputation and presented memorials in favor of the project from Ottawa, Hull, Arnprior, Pembroke, Mattawa, North Bay and other places.

Then the energetic promoter, Mr. McLeod Stewart, took the floor and briefly and concisely explained the scheme, pointing out the advantages which the Ottawa ship canal route possessed over the Erie or even the St. Lawrence, as far as grain-carrying is concerned, and the enormous impetus which would be given to development in northern Ontario. In substance, his request was that the Government should pass an order in Council promising aid to the extent of $250,000 per annum for 20 years after the canal was completed and opened for traffic. The cost of the canal would be about $15,000,000 for a 10-foot draft.

The other speakers were: W. R. White, Q.C., Pembroke; A. J. Jeffery, Arnprior; President Foster of the Pembroke Board of Trade; Sir James Grant, Mayor Thomas Murray of Pembroke; C. R. Devlin, M.P., R. W. Shepherd of the Ottawa and Montreal Navigation Company, and W. J. Poupore, M.P.

The Premier, in reply, said the canal project was not a new one. Within his memory, he did not remember a day when he had not heard of this scheme. It was a more living project 30 years ago, perhaps, than 10 or 15 years ago. As soon as construction of railways commenced, then, seemingly, this scheme was laid aside. It was true, however, as one speaker had pointed out, that the Ottawa River 100 years or more ago had been the great artery of communication between the East and West on the Continent of America. The sum asked for by Mr. Stewart in the way of bonus, represented a capital of $6,000,000. This was a pretty large sum. Although the scheme was a good one the Government at present had many other schemes before it. The demands before the Government for subsidies at the present time exceeded $50,000,000 and the deputation would realise that it is quite impossible for the Government all at once to satisfy these demands. In due time the Government hoped to give the facilities required in every part of the country, but he was not prepared today to say that they could do this immediately. This question has been considered from the standpoint of public revenue and public interests. He promised that the matter should be laid before his colleagues.

Mr. Blair said this project was to him an entirely new one, and he was bound to say the deputation had made a great effect upon his mind. He realized fully the magnificent possibilities of this country, but it would be necessary for the Government to act wisely and prudently with regard to any undertakings which they might promote, applying a calm and careful judgment to them. If this were done there would be no mistake made in lending support to this enterprise. The Government was deeply sensitive of its duties and their action would only be restricted by the measure in which they would receive the approbation of the country.

Sir Oliver Mowat said the scheme was not unfamiliar to him. When he was Premier of Ontario his Government thought it was not one that they could aid at that particular time. He jokingly remarked that the Conservatives had been considering this question for 18 years and now a Liberal Government was expected to take it up and push it through in less than 18 months after taking office. He was glad to know that the Liberal Government was appreciated so highly. Neither he nor his colleagues were afraid of large schemes, but they have to act cautiously and prudently.

Mr. Scott, speaking as an Ottawa Valley man, said he had always been a warm supporter of this enterprise. He was surprised, however, that Montreal did not take more interest in it, as that port would benefit by it more than any other city along the route. He mentioned that the cost of insurance of vessels on the Great Lakes would pay half the interest on the capital required to build this canal. As to the great possibilities of the route he thought this was amply demonstrated by the fact that the Sault Canal in seven or eight months carried more traffic than did the Suez Canal, which was open all the year round. He was warmly in favor of the enterprise.

FREE SEED FOR FARMERS.

Over Ten Tons Sent Out From the Experimental Farms—General News From the Capital.

Ottawa, March 2.—(Special.)—The Experimental Farm authorities have decided that no further applications for free samples of grain seeds can be entertained after March 31. Letters asking for samples still continue to pour in day after day, with scarcely any diminution in the number. During the first 17 days of February last, 6000 applications were received. There had been 6717 parcels of seeds (more than 10 tons) mailed to farmers up to the middle of last month, each parcel being three pounds weight and grain true to name and pure in sample. The record of distribution by provinces shows as follows: Ontario 2513 packages, Quebec 1577, Nova Scotia 891, New Brunswick 690, P.E.I. 892, Manitoba 347, N.W.T. 201, B.C. 108. The distribution this year bids fair to exceed in volume that of the previous season, when 36,000 packages were sent out.

Dr. Milne of Victoria, chief promoter of the Vancouver, Victoria and Eastern Line, the B.C. projected railway from the Pacific Coast through the Crow's Nest to Alberta, left for home this afternoon. He believes the Government will not reach a definite conclusion respecting its railway policy in British Columbia until after further enquiries, possibly sending out a commission to investigate on the present needs of such a road, the possible amount of traffic, and so forth. Dr. Milne says his can build the line as cheaply as any other syndicate.

The Government thinks the country has had enough of patent ballot for which the late administration paid ex-Mayor Durocher of Ottawa $2500, and will drop it in connection with the new franchise measure to be introduced at the coming session, substituting a simpler ballot paper.

Chancellor Boyd presided over this morning's sitting of the weekly High Court. In the case of the Queen v. Butler, an action to unseat Ald. Butler, Dr. Wickstead appealed from the order of Judge Ross, dismissing the action. He moved for a new trial and to compel Mr. Andrew Masson to continue in the capacity of relator in the case. Mr. O'Gara appeared for the defendant and opposed the motion. Judgment was reserved.

Solicitor-General Fitzpatrick has consented to deliver a St. Patrick's Day oration in this city. Of course, if he leaves for Rome this week, as reported, the local society will have to look out for another orator.

To-morrow being Ash Wednesday, it will be kept as a holiday by the public departments.

Sir A. P. Caron has returned to the city.

The council had a two hours' session this afternoon, discussing the sessional program. The Crow's Nest Railway matter may be up to-morrow.

The at home given by the Countess of Aberdeen at Government House this evening was a great success. The weather was all that could be desired and a large number enjoyed the skating and tobagganing. Their Excellencies made all their guests heartily welcome.

Hon. William Paterson, Minister of Customs, returned from Toronto to-day.

Mr. Tarte returned from Montreal this afternoon.

In the contributions towards the Dominion fund for relief of famine-stricken India the $100,000 mark is now well within sight.

His brother, Henry, was with him, and removed him at once to his home, where he died a few hours afterwards. He never regained consciousness. Deceased was a brother of Jacob Wahl, who for the past 25 years held the office of Councillor and Deputy Reeve of Wilmot township.

LOCAL LEGISLATURE.

Continuation of the Debate on the Budget.

ONTARIO'S FINANCIAL SITUATION

Again Under Review—The Timber Policy of the Government Assailed Speeches by the Rank and File—Opposition Challenged to Come Down to Specific Details.

Toronto, March 2.—At the Ontario Legislature this afternoon a large number of bills were introduced, mainly private or local. After routine business the debate on the Budget was resumed, the first speaker being Mr. Miscampbell. He commenced by denying that the Opposition were simply carpers, taking objection to everything. They desired only to offer fair criticism. He commenced, from a comparison of the receipts and expenditure of the province since 1867, taking into account liabilities on annuities and railroad grants, that the province had gone behind to the extent of $2,041,000. Taking the last three years of 1894, 1895 and 1896, there was a shortage of $1,219,20, so that the province was falling behind at the rate of four hundred thousand dollars annually. Dealing with the education question, he urged that the schools were not receiving as much as they should. While the grants to the poor schools had been increased, the public schools in other localities were getting less than formerly. In place of the money going to educational purposes, it was given to office-seekers. The education given was not such as to encourage agriculture and fit young men for success as farmers. The timber resources of the province, on which the revenue so largely depended, were being rapidly depleted. The average size of timber cut on Crown lands had diminished from 120 to 80 feet. Trees of a diameter of 7 inches were being cut. According to the forestry report, the ravages from fire in the Crown domain were even more serious than those of the ax. He knew from personal experience that hundreds and thousands of miles of timber had been burned over and it was time that a careful and trustworthy estimate was made of the remaining timber supply, so as to ascertain where we stood. He urged that the expenditure on public institutions was extravagant, especially in the matter of furnishing.

Mr. Garrow said the discussion was productive of no good, inasmuch as the mere quotation of figures, without any consideration of what the country received for these expenditures, led to no conclusion. We had justice well administered and good institutions for the relief of various classes of the afflicted, well conducted and, as had been especially shown, run at a smaller expense than similar institutions elsewhere. Would the Opposition dispense with any of these? When they were asked to show in what the alleged extravagance consisted, they were unable to do so. They had been told again and again that the country was going to the dogs, owing to extravagance and officialism. But in spite of all this Ontario was the only province that had kept itself free from a public debt. The Government was charged with making unnecessary appointments of "heelers," "leeches," etc. Let the Opposition come down to particulars and give names. Who were these heelers who had been appointed to superfluous offices? The Liberal party believed in retrenchment, but they also believed that the province could afford to be well-governed. The budget was a matter of fact, rather than a Conservative or a Liberal question. It was like a grocery bill—if the people wanted the things they must pay for them. He would call attention to the fact that every year the expenditure was kept well within the estimates, which was regarded as a test of careful statesmanship. It did not lie in the mouths of those who had voted the items to turn round and afterwards accuse the Government of extravagance. As regards License Inspectors, Division Court clerks, etc., the army of officials whom the Opposition spoke of, their fees did not come out of the provincial funds at all, so their appointments could not increase our liabilities by a dollar. The same thing held true with regard to sheriffs and registrars. Nine-tenths of the expenditures were in the nature of fixed charges, which practically could not be discontinued. The real question to be considered was, does the Government get as much in return for its expenditures as any other government would be likely to do? While questioning Mr. Miscampbell's position on the timber question, he agreed with him that it might be desirable to have a close estimate of the timber supply. In reference to the charge of partizanship in connection with the schools, he would ask, as in the matter of the party heelers, for particulars. The Opposition, instead of vague and general denunciations, should give the names of any teachers who had been subjected to political interference. If the Opposition wanted to go back to the system of a non-political head to the Education Department, let them boldly put themselves on record to that effect. The real difficulty with the school system lay with the local trustees, who would not pay large enough salaries to get good teachers. The Government had been charged with seizing upon the control of the university, but ever since 1849 the university had been under Government control fully as much as now. Before resuming his seat he alluded to recent changes and paid a high tribute to the characters of the newly-elected speaker, Sir Oliver Mowat and Premier Hardy.

Mr. Beatty contended that a large amount of the timber which was counted upon for future revenue was inac-

LICENSE LAW AMENDMENTS.

There is a great accumulation of evidence that the framing and administration of the liquor license laws by the Ontario government have been distinctly in the direction of the restriction of the traffic, and consequently of the evils of intemperance. For, if the contention of the prohibitionist is tenable, that complete restriction of the drink traffic will destroy the evils of intemperance, it follows, one would think, that restriction of the traffic will have the effect of a prohibitory enactment in proportion to the extent of its application. It has been stated that the legislation of the government has kept pace with the development of popular temperance sentiment, presumably due to such legislation, and the amendments introduced by Hon. Mr. Harcourt, Provincial Secretary, a few days ago is a practical answer to the popular demand for restriction of the liquor traffic, without which public demand the enforcement of such legislation is surrounded with great difficulties.

A consideration of the bill will show to what extent the restriction goes. The unit of population for a license in villages, towns and cities remains at 250 as laid down in 1876. Under the old law for the first thousand of a population four licenses might be granted. The new bill proposes only three licenses for the first thousand of population; and under the old system an additional license was permitted for the next 400 of population. The new bill requires 600 of additional population for an additional license, and municipal councils are to have the power to still further reduce the number of licenses, and a bylaw limiting licenses passed by a council reducing the number of licenses shall remain in force for three years. This provision of the proposed law is on the lines of the Dunkin Act of 1864 and the Canada Temperance Act.

An important provision, that recognizes the time-honoured idea of an inn to be a place that furnishes entertainment (food and lodging as well as drink) for man and beast, is that which relates to the abolition of saloons, meaning houses in which liquor is sold, but which have no tavern accommodation. There are thirty-four of these in the province, and it is proposed to abolish half in the year 1897 and the remaining half in 1898-9, so that the province will enter the twentieth century without a saloon in its borders. It would, doubtless, give satisfaction in some quarters if the proposed amendments provided for the immediate abolition of saloons, but it would appear that the proposed gradual cutting off of saloons involves a recognition of vested rights, which, in view of their having been created by legislation, are entitled to a fair degree of consideration.

The bill also deals with the cancellation of licenses, which may be done in two ways. A Justice of the Peace may cancel a license where it is shown that, with the knowledge of the keeper of a licensed house, there has been gambling or riotous or disorderly conduct; or application may be made to a County Judge, who may cancel a license for sufficient reasons shown. It is now proposed that if a licensee is personally guilty three times in two years of an infraction of the license law, he shall forfeit his right to a renewal of his license.

At present there is a diversity of the hours of closing—in some places it is nine o'clock in the evening, in some ten o'clock and in some eleven. It is now proposed to make the hours for closing in township municipalities ten o'clock, and in cities eleven o'clock.

The age at which it was unlawful to supply liquor to a minor was placed at 16 years in 1894; in 1890 the limit was extended to 18 years, and now it is proposed to extend the age limit to 21 years. This provision, the Provincial Treasurer estimates, will place more than one-half of the population of the province under total prohibition.

The proposed bill provides for making local option municipalities, where, in a great many cases, no fines are collected, contribute to the license fund of the district an amount to be fixed by the license commissioners, as a fair proportion of the cost of enforcing the bylaw.

In addition to the clause restricting the quantity of liquor that may be sold by a druggist to six ounces, and making a medical certificate necessary for this or the smallest amount, there are several minor clauses in the proposed amendments looking to facilitating the administration of the license laws.

Since 1874-5 there has been a marked reduction in the number of licenses of all kinds. At that time the total number of licenses issued in Ontario was 6,185. Ten years later the number had dropped to 3,970, and ten years later still, or 1894, the reduced number only totalled 3,276. Last year the number of licenses was still further reduced, to 3,193, and it is quite certain that the reduction under the proposed amendment will be considerable, and that the accompanying restrictions will have a decided and distinct effect in diminishing the opportunities for indulgence of the drinking habit, which under the previous conditions, has shown, for a long time, a marked diminution. Under a well devised and administered license law, the people of Ontario have not only become more temperate, but the public sentiment in favour of temperance has shown great development.

Wherever the sun shines Dr. Chase's remedies are known, and no music so sweet to many a poor soul as the song of rejoicing over restoration to health in the use of them. Ask your dealer about them.

Thousands are suffering excruciating misery from that plague of the night, Itching Piles, and say nothing about it through sense of delicacy. All such will find an instant relief in the use of Chase's Ointment. It never fails.

Noticing the published cures of what Dodd's Kidney Pills were doing for others, I concluded to try them.

Couldn't Let Go.

A business man accustomed to hard work for many years usually finds idleness irksome. Men who have been actively in the harness as a rule do not like to retire, although retirement in old age is the goal of the average worker. A successful Chicagoan, who has reached 60 years, said to me the other day: "I am going to quit. I have worked for thirty years without a week's vacation; now I am going to rest for thirty years. I have earned every dollar I possess; and I intend to spend money and stop worrying about accumulating it."

I applauded this determination and inquired how he determined to spend his leisure.

"I have bought a homestead in Blank," he said, naming a small town in Michigan, "and I shall remove there with my family, and simply wallow in idleness and contentment."

"But how will you pass your spare time?" I insisted.

"Well, I'll hunt and fish," he said.

"Good; but that will not keep you busy the year round," I ventured.

"No; but I shall read. I'll take all the papers. I will get together a little library, too."

"What will occupy all your extra time?"

"Oh, I shall walk about a good deal, I dare say. Exercise—you know—great thing for an old man."

"Is that your entire program?"

"N—no, not exactly," he said, hesitatingly. "I'm going to organize a private bank down there and manage it."—Chicago Times-Herald.

MUNYON

TALKS ON

Dyspepsia.

HOW TO CURE YOURSELF

In all forms of stomach trouble Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure will promptly cure where there are such symptoms as pain or soreness in the stomach, indigestion or distress after eating, pressure and fullness in the stomach, shortness of breath, poor appetite, coated tongue, sour or bitter raising from the stomach, heartburn, wind on the stomach, constipation, dizziness, faintness and lost energy.

When these symptoms are associated with biliousness, yellow-coated tongue, nausea, bitter taste in the mouth and sallow skin take Munyon's Liver Cure in alternation with the Dyspepsia Cure, an hour apart. Where there is obstinate constipation keep the bowels open once a day by using Munyon's Constipation Cure until they become regular under the effect of the Dyspepsia Cure. When there are troublesome heart symptoms alternate Munyon's Heart Cure with the Dyspepsia Cure. If there is great nervousness or inability to sleep, alternate Munyon's Nerve Cure with the Dyspepsia Cure. If the blood is poor in quality alternate Munyon's Blood Cure and Dyspepsia Cure. By this plan of treatment one can eradicate the worst forms of stomach troubles and their complications, and make the cure permanent.

A separate specific for each disease. Sold by all druggists, mostly for 25 cents a bottle.

Personal letters to Prof. Munyon, 11 and 13 Albert street, Toronto, answered with free medical advice for any disease.

LOCAL LEGISLATURE.

sensible unless by means of railways to be built. The value of standing timber depended upon its locality. He quoted figures at length with the object of showing that the total revenue derivable from existing timber supplies would amount to $63,685,000, or less than one-half the amount estimated by Mr. Stratton. He condemned the land grant to the university on the ground that it would interfere with the free grant system.

Mr. Flatt vigorously combatted Mr. Miscampbell's statement that the size of pine timber had decreased to 80 feet, which he characterized as "rot and nonsense." The Government, instead of being reckless and extravagant, was as close-fisted as the bark of a tree. (Cheers and laughter.)

After recess the debate was resumed by Mr. Tuttle, who contended that the timber policy of the Government had resulted injuriously to the towns and villages along the Georgian Bay, owing to the exportation of logs to be sawn in American mills. He criticised the management of Government institutions and thought that the Guelph model farm ought to be self-supporting.

Mr. Hobbs, said the Provincial Treasurer, had shown a very satisfactory balance sheet, especially when it was considered that in addition to paying the current expenses of administration the Government had undertaken so many works of a progressive character. He proceeded to chaff the opposition over Mr. Marter's change of views on the subjects of prohibition and Separate Schools, which drew from that gentleman a strong disclaimer, the former Opposition leader denying that he had abandoned his position on either question. Mr. Hobbs, resuming, charged the Conservative Party with trimming on the prohibition and education questions. The Opposition had adopted a policy of antagonism to higher education and were they in power, the High schools would be deprived of Government aid.

Mr. McDonald thought that more might be done in aid of destitute settlers. While he believed in liberally aiding common school education, those who wished to become professional men should pay for their own training. He was strongly opposed, for more reasons than one, to the system of endowing universities with public lands.

Mr. McNish regarded the financial statement as creditable to the Government and satisfactory to their supporters. The Liberal policy was not to heap up a surplus, but to reduce the burdens the people had to bear, in which they were sustained by the best political economists of the day. They were charged with squandering the surplus, but the people would be very well satisfied if they squandered more in the way that they got rid of $2,500,000 in relieving the municipalities indebted to the municipal loan fund. It indebted to the Municipal Loan Fund. It is barely a few months since the Conservatives were accusing the Liberal party of preaching a doctrine of "Blue Ruin" in connection with Dominion affairs, and now they themselves were preaching blue ruin continually. (Applause.) The grant to High Schools was not increasing; it had been stationary for the last five years and the restrictions imposed by the Government had made it more difficult to establish High Schools than formerly.

Mr. Gurd considered that the much-debated question of whether the Government had or had not a surplus depended on the matter of railroad liabilities. By floating annuities the Government were able to meet the railroad obligations as they fell due without drawing upon current revenue, but this was only postponing the day of settlement. A portion of the assets, which made up the surplus were drainage debentures payable in the future, yet they were regarded as assets instead of putting them on the same footing as the railroad certificates. Again the public institutions and the Parliament building were classed as assets, but this was clearly wrong as, notwithstanding the money they cost, nothing could be realized on them. They had been asked to specify the items where retrenchment could be effected. The expenditure on Government House, the gratuities to ex-employes, and the immigration appropriation might be mentioned as affording an opportunity for cutting down the expenditure.

Mr. Farwell held the view that the government should be judged by the same tests as would be applied to those having the management of a large commercial concern. By repeatedly endorsing their course at the polls the people had shown that they recognised the honest capacity and prudence of the Ministry. The various reforms of a progressive character carried out by the Government was recapitulated. The efforts of the Opposition to fasten charges of misappropriation upon the great revenue-collecting branch of the Government, the Crown Lands Department, had been futile, and though it had handled millions of dollars, its management was untarnished by the breath of scandal. Attacks had been made on the Ministry in connection with the construction of Colonization Roads, but no specific acts of wrong doing could be shown. (Applause.) The policy of the Ontario Government in aiding railways, opening up new sections of country, was contrasted with that of the late Ottawa Ministry in giving assistance to competing roads through long settled districts, from motives of political favoritism. In attacking the High school system the Opposition assailed a popular institution by means of which the sons of poor men were able to fit themselves for professional careers. The speaker concluded by eulogising the natural resources and opportunities of Algoma and urging further government aid for the development of that section.

Mr. Kerns moved the adjournment of the debate, which was carried and the House rose.

MARTIN A C.P.R. MAN.

He Has Retired From Politics and Will Work for the Railroad's Interests —Winnipeg News.

Winnipeg, March 2.—(Special.)—At the Portage la Prairie Assizes, which opened to-day, the Macdonald election trials are to take place. The deputies charged with ballot box stuffing are being tried under section 100 of the Dominion Election Act. There are 400 witnesses to be examined.

Joseph Martin has confirmed the rumor that he has accepted a special solicitorship of the Canadian Pacific Railway and has retired from politics. He makes the announcement in connection with declining the nomination for Macdonald. Mr. Martin denies positively that he has been engaged to do lobbying for a railroad bill or any other bill.

In the Manitoba Legislature to-day Provincial Treasurer McMillan brought down the budget, delivering the budget speech, and claiming many economies for the Greenway Government. Mr. Roblin on behalf of the Opposition, replied, questioning these claims.

J. H. Brock is mentioned as the Conservative candidate for Winnipeg in the event of Hugh John Macdonald being unseated. Ex-Mayor Jameson is almost certain to run as the Government candidate.

A deputation of the Trades and Labor Council to-day asked the Greenway Government to establish a free labor bureau at Winnipeg.

At the Winnipeg Assizes to-morrow George Anderson, a Winnipeg horse man, will come up for trial charged with having incited deputies in the last Winnipeg Dominion election to stuff the ballot boxes.

Referring editorially to Hugh John Macdonald as leader of the Provincial Opposition, Premier Greenway's chief journal, The Tribune, says: "Mr. Macdonald, we believe, will cast in his influence on the side of decent politics, and if he does so the country will be the gainer."

Mr. Achille Carrier of Montreal has entered an action for libel against Mr. Louis J. Demers, proprietor of L'Evenement of Quebec, claiming $10,000 damages.

The blue-bird is hailed as a harbinger of Spring. It is also a reminder that a blood-purifier is needed to prepare the system for the debilitating weather to come. Listen and you will hear the birds singing: "Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla in March, April, May."

The Useful Peanut.

From all appearances the plebeian peanut is not properly appreciated in this country as it should be. In Europe this nut has various uses which are only beginning to be recognized in this country, the first recognition being that of a Virginia company which is about to handle the peanut products. According to the Manufacturers' Record the principal products are peanut oil for cooking and table purposes and confectioners' use, peanut cribble for confectionery, peanut grits for soap, etc., peanut flour for baking and peanut bran for stock feed. The oil is highly valued in Europe, and it is stated that fully $5,000,000 worth of peanuts are brought into Marseilles, France, annually for the manufacture of oil, which is used in toilet soaps and for other purposes. The peanut flour is quite extensively used in Europe and made into bread, cakes, biscuits, etc. It is one of the favorite articles of food, according to consular reports, in hospitals in Germany.

The estimated product of five tons of peanuts amounts to 235 gallons of refined oil, at $1 per gallon; 175 gallons of crude oil at 50 cents; 3685 pounds of flour and meal at two cents, and 3200 pounds of stock feed at 60 cents per hundred pounds, making $415.90 in all.

In the mechanical handling of peanuts they are first crushed and cut between suitable rollers, then the cut and crushed mass is submitted to a hot bath for separating the shells and kernels, and finally drying the kernels to separate them from their skins.

MRS. ROWATT IS DEAD.

Her Husband Shot Her Last June in Toronto and She Lingered Until Last Night.

Toronto, March 2.

Mrs. Aggie Rowatt died at midnight in the General Hospital, and a charge of murder will now be laid against her husband, Samuel Rowatt. The story of the sad episode, the result of a domestic row, will be remembered by readers

On June 12 last Rowatt fired two shots at his wife, both of which lodged in her body. One inflicted a wound in the shoulder and the other struck her spine, causing paralysis below the hips, and she has since been in the hospital lying on a water bed, hovering between life and death. On Saturday last she became unconscious and her death last night was not unexpected.

Two weeks before the tragedy last June Rowatt and his wife rented a room from James Douglas, 276 Victoria-street. They formerly resided at 23 Clyde-street. It is only about three years and a half ago that they were married, but their nuptial relations were not happy, and there were several separations. Mrs. Rowatt's maiden name was Watson. Her first husband was named Gosney and she has a sister in Cobourg.

On the morning of June 12 Rowatt left the house for McFarlane's woodyard, where he was employed, but returned home at about 9 o'clock and became angry because his wife refused to allow him to accompany her down town. He went out, returning before noon, and going upstairs to their apartments fired the two shots at his wife. He got away, but in the evening surrendered himself to the police.

The noise of the shooting had alarmed the neighborhood and Mrs. Rowatt was found writhing in terrible agony on the floor. Medical aid was summoned and but little hope was entertained for her recovery. She was taken to the General Hospital and if she had lived for a year, according to the statute, no charge of murder could have been laid against her husband.

Soon after admission to the hospital, Mrs. Rowatt gave Crown Attorney Dewart her story of the occurrence and this will be used as evidence against Rowatt.

Bonaventure Nominations.

Caplin, Que., March 2.—At the Conservative nomination convention, held here to-day for Bonaventure County, Mr. Charles Cyr of Quebec was chosen for the Federal, and J. B. Belanger of New Carlisle, Que., for local candidate.

THE TRAIL OF DEATH

It begins at the Throat and ends at the Grave How many a human life is unnecessarily sacrificed.

There are many remedies on the market for the cure of consumption, but consumption, once it reaches a certain stage, cannot be cured. In professing, therefore, to do what is impossible, these remedies prove themselves to be simply humbugs.

Consumption is a disease which destroys the tissue of the lungs. Once gone, no medicine can replace that tissue. Good medicine may arrest the disease even after one lung is wholly gone, as long as the other remains sound. Once both are attacked, however, the victim is doomed.

Just why people should risk their lives to this dread disease and go to great expense afterwards to check it, it is hard to conceive. It is much easier prevented than cured. Throat troubles and severe colds are its usual forerunners. A 25-cent bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine will drive these away. It is, without doubt, the best medicine for the purpose to be had anywhere.

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry cures Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Cholera, Cholera Infantum, Cholera Morbus and all summer complaints and fluxes of the bowels in children or adults.

A CHARGE OF CATTLE STEALING.

Geo. Monteith and John Ackerson Arrested Yesterday.

A great deal of excitement was occasioned yesterday in town through the arrest of Geo. Monteith, of North Monaghan, and John Ackerson, of Smith, charged with stealing a steer from Mr. Geo. Webber, of North Monaghan, about three years ago.

The prisoners were brought before County Police Magistrate Edmison and remanded until Friday.

The arrests were made by Detective Greer, of the Provincial Detective Department, and High County Constable Cochrane, and both arrests are enveloped in such an air of mystery that it is supposed other and far more serious charges are to be made. The witnesses against the prisoners will give their evidence with much reluctance, it is said.

A LETTER FROM REV. J. C. DAVIDSON.

He and Mrs. Davidson Have Had, so Far and are Having, a Delightful Tour.

A letter has been received by Rev. J. C. Davidson, detailing the pleasant experiences of himself and Mrs. Davidson on their honeymoon tour. The letter was written from Rome under date of Feb 13th. It sets forth what a pleasant passage they had from New York to Naples—the two most enjoyable days being the passing of the Azores and the day at Gibraltar, picturesque with its rocks and red coats. On arriving at Naples they went direct to the Bay of Sorento, at its eastern end. Here five days were spent and the description of the city discloses the peculiarity—of Hibernian flavour—of the back yards being in the front. A 27 mile drive around the beautiful bay of Naples was very greatly enjoyed. A week was spent among the gesticulating populace of Naples. From Naples they journeyed to Puteoli, Lake Averaus—of Incilis decensus fame—the Styx and to Pompeii, and the city buried with all its festal pomps at the time of the birth of our Lord, awakened strange reflections. They saw a baby volcano, but Vesuvius was on its good behaviour at the time of the visit. Rome, the next point, was at first a disappointment, but the Eternal City grew upon the visitors, though it required much search, reading and looking to get at results. A visit was paid to to the Catacombs, the early Christian places of worship as well as concealment, and the Three Fountains, the site of St. Paul's martyrdom. After three weeks in Rome, Mr. and Mrs. Davidson intended to proceed to Florence for ten or twelve days, to be followed by a week at Venice, and then via Milan to England. Rev. Mr. Davidson would be delighted to hear from any of his dear parishioners. His address will be care of Thomas Cook, Florence, Venice, or London, according to date. The only drawback to the pleasure of the tour so far has been the wet weather.

PERSONAL.

Miss Dollie Mason is visiting friends in Belleville.

Miss Rudkins is in Toronto attending the wholesale millinery openings.

Mr. Harry Neil left yesterday on a visit to the different lager breweries in Berlin, Waterloo and Toronto.

Mr. H. J. Kearney, of Young's Point, passed through town to-day on a visit to friends in Buffalo, Rochester and other places.

Mr. John Dixon, of Maple Creek, N.W.T., who has been in Boston for the last two week, is again in town, the guest of his brother, Mr. Albert E. Dixon. During his residence in town Mr. Dixon was one of the mainstays of the famous old Peterborough Cricket Club and was one of the best players of the district.

It is learned by the Daily News Advertiser, New Westminster, B. C., that Mr. H. W. Kent, Superintendent of the New Westminster and Burrard Inlet Telephone Company, is even going under water in his zeal for telephone extension. The paper reports the successful laying, under "Herb's" supervision, of a telephone cable across the inlet—probably the first cable laid in Canada for telephone purposes.

HOCKEY.

The Colts and Collegiate Institute teams met again yesterday, after each having won one match, and the result was a tie, each septette having three goals to its credit at the close of the game. The opposing teams were composed as follows:

Colts.		Collegiate.
McDonald	goal	L Best
E Graham	point	G Burnham
Hallahan	cover point	W Robertson
Bradburn	forwards	Dumble
H Armstrong		Dixon
R Armstrong		Hall
H McBain		McGrath

Mr. H. LeBrun's staff challenged the drygoods men of the town to a game last night, and the latter, though light, made it decidedly interesting for their heavier opponents. The match resulted in a tie, each side scoring a goal. The teams lined up as appended:

H LeBrun.		Dry Goods.
P Corkery	goal	W Squire
A McPherson	point	W Meagher
F Logan	cover point	J Picard
L LeBarr	forwards	T Manning
A Picard		R Dunne
E Hickey		W Davidson
M Hickey		Geo Wesley
S Cheate	umpires	P Rubidge

Referee—R Davidson.

In the beginning of the game the referee was driven up on the fence, from which safe point of vantage he gave his decisions which however didn't cut any ice with the players.

CURLIANA.

Skip McNeil won from Skip Ferguson yesterday in the LeBrun Medal contest by the appended score:

C LeBrun,	Alf Terrill,
D Bellegham,	C N Brown,
C Rutherford,	Gus Hay.
A McNeil, skip.....17	W G Ferguson, skip.. 8

Amongst the scratch matches played off at the rink last night was a particularly close one between Skips Weller and Attrill which resulted as follows:

A E Flanagmore,	G Dunsford,
John McClelland,	John Stanger,
Geo Brown,	D Bellegham
Judge Weller, sk ..11	T P Attrill, sk..... 9

Skip J. H. Connal won from Skip D. W. Dumble by 20 to 17. Each rink scored a six end in the game.

A big crowd of curlers accompanied the curlers to Toronto to-day. About 150 went up on the C. P. R. alone.

As the Peterborough Colts are now the permanent possessors of the Midland Colts Association cup, they propose to put it up in annual competition between the Thistles and the Granites. If this is done a twelve-rink bonspiel will be held before the close of the season to decide which club will hold the trophy this year.

THE SUPERVISION COMMITTEE

through its chairman, W. H. Hill, reported as follows:

In arranging for the supplies of chemicals, stationery, etc., for the current year, your Supervision Committee advertised for tenders.

Of those submitted your committee found that for chemicals that of Messrs. Ormond & Walsh was the lowest, and for stationery, etc., that of Messrs. A. H. Stratton & Co. was the only one presented. In the case of both, the prices were slightly lower than those paid for similar articles last year.

Your committee therefore recommends that the contract for the chemicals for the present year be given to Messrs. Ormond & Walsh and that the contract for stationery, etc., be given to Messrs. A. H. Stratton & Co.

INSPECTOR HODGSON'S REPORT.

An extract from the last report of Inspector Hodgson was presented. In regard to buildings and grounds: water supply, halls, waiting rooms, cap rooms, teachers' private rooms, desks, heating and ventilation were rated at I. Class rooms, water closets and lighting were rated at II and school grounds, school buildings and blackboards at III.

Reading, drill, etc., and other subjects are reported in accord with the requirements of the regulations, divisions of duties amongst teachers satisfactory.

All the members of the staff are legally qualified; the discipline is "excellent," and all pupils have been regularly admitted.

The character of the teaching in all subjects is marked at the highest point, I.

The character of the pupils's work—the last class of entrants, of 12 examined in reading, 6 were good, 4 fair and 2 poor. Drawing books, drill, calisthenics, etc., are satisfactory. The general remarks of the inspector in summing up are worthy of special attention:

"I have to report that in respect to equipment, organization and teaching power, the (the Peterborough Collegiate Institute) continues abreast of the best in the province. I do not doubt that new quarters will be provided at the earliest convenience of the board.—Received.

Mr. Hill pointed out that the report was the most favourable ever received by the Board, and he thought due credit should be given to the teaching staff. He remembered the time, not so very long ago, when the Peterborough school was simply a competitor against Omemee and such small schools, but now it had taken a standing ahead of Norwood and Lindsay, and was ranked amongst the very best in the Province.

Dr. Burnham moved that in the matter of Mr. Russel's application for increase of salary, the communication be referred to the Property Committee.—Carried.

Grover C. Connelly, of Richmond Corners, N. B., says of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure; "I am pleased I used Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure. I had it in a very severe form for nearly five years. When love knocks at a woman's heart he usually comes in disguise. Doesn't want it known what he's up to. If she knew all about the little rascal, would she let him in? That's a question.

Women are apt to look upon love and marriage as purely a matter of sentiment and affection. That is pretty nearly right; yet there is a practical side to it too; and the best way to preserve the ideal aspect of marriage and maternity is not to forget the practical part of it. A woman cannot be a thoroughly happy wife and mother unless the distinctive physical organism of her sex is in a healthy and vigorous condition. The best friend that woman ever had is the "Favorite Prescription," of Dr. R. V. Pierce, Chief Consulting Physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. The "Prescription," is a perfect and infallible remedy for every form of "female weakness." It cures by restoring health and strength to the internal organism, which cannot be reached by "local applications;" thus the cure is radical, complete and constitutional.

Dr. Pierce's eminent reputation as a physician of wide learning; and his special knowledge of the delicate and intricate organism of women, accounts for the unparalleled confidence, which women place in his "Favorite Prescription," over every other remedy. Its use obviates the necessity of dreaded "examinations" and the stereotyped "local treatments."

Dr. R. V. Pierce, Dear Sir:—I suffered fourteen years with female weakness, nervousness, and general debility, trying everything I could find to help me—all to no avail. I then heard of Dr. Pierce's medicines and although I was thoroughly discouraged, I thought I would try once more to find relief. I took your "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription," and too great praise cannot be given for the rapid relief they gave me. I am now free from the former troubles. Very sincerely yours, (Mrs.) Mary J. Stewart.

ONE MAN WAS KILLED.

A Bit of a Riot at Knoxville, Tenn., Which Arose Over Street Railway Litigation.

Knoxville, Tenn., March 1.—A small-sized riot occurred on the streets of Knoxville early this morning, in which one man was killed and a dozen others were more or less seriously hurt. The trouble grew out of pending street railway litigation. A rival street car company wants to occupy a street which the Knoxville Street Railway has occupied for several years. The Citizens' Railway, a new corporation, wants to parallel these tracks, but the City Council refuses to give them the right of way. Early this morning the latter company put 200 men to work laying tracks. The city authorities stopped the work under the ordinance that the streets shall not be dug up during the winter months. The Citizens' Railway people claim that they have an injunction from the United States Court restraining the city from interfering. The police were ordered to arrest the laborers, and as fast as the men were arrested they gave bonds and went back to work. The police became powerless, and the Fire Department was called out to disperse the crowd with water. When this was attempted a negro tried to cut the hose, but was prevented by Chief McIntosh, whereupon another negro struck the chief with a club. Lieutenant of Police Hood shot the negro and this enraged the crowd. The entire police force was arrested by the sheriff and his deputies, and the laborers put back to work. Later an injunction was issued by Circuit Judge Snead, restraining the company from tearing up the streets. This stopped the matter temporarily.

Mayor Heiskell appealed to the mob to disperse, but he was hooted down. Excitement runs high.

The latest movement is the arrest of all the Citizens' Railway officials for inciting a riot. All the city officials, from chairman of the Board of Public Works down to the firemen, are under arrest.

THEY WORKED WONDERS.

Two Years of Bladder Torment—Had Attacks of Inflammation—Cured by a few Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Owen Sound, Feb. 23, (Special)—The people of this town are talking again of another cure credited to Dodd's Kidney Pills. This is the case of Mr. W. Cruse, caretaker of town buildings, who, when seen had this to say of the matter:

"For over two years I have been an intense sufferer from kidney disease with occasional acute attacks of inflammation of the bladder.'

"Was under doctors' treatment and have been compelled to resort to instrumental relief many times.

"I have taken eighteen boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and am satisfied with results being perfectly relieved of all suffering."

His Kindly Suggestion.

An old man was breaking stones one day on a country road in Wales when a gentleman came riding along.

"Bother these stones! Take them out of my way!" he said.

"Where can I take them to, your honor?"

"I don't care where; take them to hades if you like."

"Don't you think, your honor," said the old man, "that I'd better take 'em to heaven? They'll be less in your honor's way there."—Spare Moments.

Of Sufficient Strength.

Landlady—Shall I pass the cheese?

Boarder—No, leave it alone. It will walk over here in a minute.

Constipation Cured.

Gents,—I was in very poor health for over four years; the doctor said it was constipation. Not wanting to spend too much cash I got three bottles of B.B.B. and took it regularly, I can certify that I am now in the very best of health and feel very grateful to B.B.B.

BRITISH PARLIAMENT.

Some Questions Asked and Answered General News by Cable.

London, March 1.—In the House of Commons to-day Sir Charles Dilke asked the Government whether they had any information that the King of Corea is under the protection of Russia; that the Corean military are being drilled by Russian officers, and whether, in the opinion of the Government, the action of Russia in Corea is consistent with the pledge given by that power when England abandoned Port Hamilton.

Mr. Curzon, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, said, in reply, that it was true that some Corean troops were being instructed by Russian officers. The King of Corea, he continued, left the Russian Legation on Feb. 20 and returned to the palace. Nothing was happening, Mr. Curzon said, that could be regarded as being at variance with the guarantee given by Russia in 1896 that she would not take possession of any Corean territory.

Mr. Curzon made a statement to the House in regard to the situation in Crete, in which he said that instructions had been given to the admiral commanding the British warships in Cretan waters to prevent, as far as possible, any acts of aggressiveness on the part of the combatants in the island. In line with these instructions, he said, the admirals commanding the several squadrons had issued a proclamation, declaring their purpose to oppose any hostile acts on the part of the Greeks, Turks or Cretans by the presence of warships at any point where disturbances may occur. In regard to Selino, Mr. Curzon said the situation was critical, and four warships had been sent to the relief of the beleaguered garrisons, and to facilitate the departure of the refugees. Mr. Curzon added that Col. Vassos, commanding the Greek army of occupation, had promised to send an officer to induce the insurgents to allow the departure of the blockaded Turkish troops, and a despatch just received from Canea announced that the officer had already been sent by the Greek commander.

Mr. Patrick O'Brien, Nationalist member for Kilkenny city, asked the Government whether they had communicated with the United States or any European power concerning the disturbed state of Cuba, and asked for information whether the Government would use their good offices with a view of securing the freedom of that island.

Mr. Curzon replied that the Government had had no communication with the United States or any other power concerning Cuba, and he was not aware that there was any intention on the part of Great Britain to use her good offices to bring about a settlement of Cuban troubles.

AWFUL WEATHER.

Steamers Arriving in the Clyde Report Fearfully Rough Passages—One Captain Drowned.

London, March 1.—Trans-Atlantic steamers arriving in the Clyde report having experienced terrific weather for the past few days. The British steamer Heathfield, at Bristol, from Newport News, had her deck swept by a tremendous sea, which carried overboard and drowned one of her crew. The British steamer Caspian, at Glasgow, from Philadelphia, lost 88 head of cattle from her deck by the heavy seas. The British steamer Scandinavian, from Boston, Feb. 11, arrived at Glasgow to-day, with the loss of 42 head of cattle. The British barque Vilalta, from Tacoma, Nov. 9, for Freemantle, West Australia, is ashore 60 miles north of that place. Capt. Harland, her comamnder, was swept overboard and drowned. Assistance has been sent to the barque from Freemantle.

WOMEN BACHELORS AND MASTERS.

Degrees Will be Granted to Ladies, But They are Barred From Membership.

London, March 1.—The report of the syndicate appointed by the University of Cambridge to consider the question of granting degrees to women was presented to the University authorities to-day. Though the committee are not in favor of admitting women to membership in the University, they recommend that the degree of bachelor of arts be conferred by diploma upon women who have passed the final tripos, and that in due course such women may proceed to the degree of master of arts. The committee also decides that the University may grant honorary degrees in arts, law, letters, science and music to women who have not complied with the usual conditions, but who have been recommended for such degrees by the Council of the Senate.

STRUCK BY AN AVALANCHE.

The Left Wing of the Great St. Bernard Monastery Demolished.

Berne, March 1.—The left wing of the great Monastery of St. Bernard has been demolished by an avalanche. No lives were lost, nor was anyone seriously injured, but the monks occupying the monastery were in serious danger for some time before their safety was assured. When the great masses of snow and ice descended upon the building the occupants took refuge in that part of the building which remained intact, and from there they were able to dig a tunnel under the snow, through which they crawled. Most of them were seriously frost-bitten.

The Indian Famine.

London, March 1.—Advices from Delhi, India, state that in Sirsa, in which district there is more suffering from the famine than in any other section of the southern Punjaub, the death rate has reached 23 per cent. of the population, 40,000 persons having died. The killing of the cattle by the Mohammedans is causing trouble with the Hindoos. The usurers are reaping a harvest.

Complete Recovery by the Use of
Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"Some years ago, as a result of too close attention to business, my health failed. I became weak, nervous, was unable to look after my interests, and manifested all the symptoms of a decline. I took three bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, began to improve at once, and gradually increased my weight from one hundred and twenty-five to two hundred pounds. Since then, I and my family have used this medicine when needed, and we are all in the best of health, a fact which we attribute to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I believe my children would have been fatherless to-day had it not been for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, of which preparation I cannot say too much."—H. O. HINSON, Postmaster and Planter, Kinard's, S. C.

THE GREATER NEW YORK.

Some Statistics Showing How Big a City It Will Be.

Much has been written concerning "Greater New York," but few have any conception how great a city it will be. Only London will exceed it in population, wealth and business. Its area will be 306 square miles, or 195,840 acres. It will have an estimated population of 3,430,000. Its bonded debt will be $216,471,593. Its annual tax budget will exceed $55,000,000. The assessed value of its real estate (New York, Brooklyn and Staten Island) will amount to $2,307,091,000. Its parks and park lands will comprise 7336 acres, not counting several noted roadways, such as the Harlem Speedway and the Coney Island Boulevard, which are under park control.

It will contain sixty-four monuments and statues, including Grant's tomb, to be dedicated next April. It will have forty-eight cemeteries, comprising 3600 acres and containing a silent population of 4,000,000. Its public schools will contain 326,090 pupils and 7282 teachers. Its police force will aggregate 6500, and its firemen 2125. New York and Brooklyn alone have 2138 miles of streets and 901 miles of sewers. The capacity of the water works will be 500,700,000 gallons, and the miles of water mains will number 1278.

Within the mammoth city there will be 1093 churches, with 720,771 parishioners, and 300,000 Sunday school scholars. The seating capacity of the churches is 469,169. The aggregate value of church property is $68,718,000. There will be sixty-three libraries, containing 1,924,000 volumes, thirty art galleries, fifty-four theatres, with a seating capacity of 38,000, eleven halls for music and oratory, with a seating capacity of 28,000, eighty-one clubs of established social standing, having 48,000 members, two big universities and ninety-three other educational institutions.

There will be 112 hotels within the city, not to mention several thousand Rains law "hotels." The city will have seven bridges across the Harlem and one across the East river. Another East river bridge has been started, and one across the North river is projected. There are thirty-three different ferries. The forty-five lines of street railways carry 792,000,000 passengers every year over 464 miles of track. There will be upwards of sixty exchanges and other commercial organizations. There are 218 banks and banking institutions in New York and Brooklyn alone, and the clearings of the Clearing House aggregate $38,000,000,000 a year. The big city will transact considerably more than one-half the foreign commerce of the country. —Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Shot and Instantly Killed.

Windsor, March 1.—Michael McCarthy was accidentally shot through the left breast and instantly killed in Malden, near Amherstburg, Saturday afternoon. Isaac Thresher had called to get McCarthy to go rabbit shooting. Thresher carried his shotgun beneath a sweater, and, as he was removing it, the hammer caught, and the gun was discharged. The coroner deemed an inquest unnecessary.

Mrs. James Davenport Makes a Statement for the Benefit of Others.

Mrs. Davenport is well-known in Tweed, and this is how she spoke to our representative concerning Doan's Kidney Pills. Said Mrs. Davenport:—

"I have suffered for some years from dizziness puffing under the eyes, pains in the side and back, sleeplessness, poor appetite, and in fact, was in a bad state generally.

"I took two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills which I got at P. K. Newton's drugstore, and experienced immediate relief from their use.

"I am now very much better indeed; appetite improved, pain almost disappeared and I feel stronger and healthier in every particular.

"I heartily recommend them to all sufferers from kidney trouble."

Joint Note Not Delivered.

London, March 1.—It is learned that the joint note of the powers, addressed to Turkey and Greece, has not yet been delivered. Its delay will probably be now deferred until Wednesday. The Athens' correspondent of The Times, says it is believed that the reply of Greece to the note will inevitably be an absolute refusal to evacuate Crete.

He adds that the destinies of the country are now in the hands of neither Government nor King, but of a violently excited democracy, who are swayed completely by enthusiasm. The moment anybody ventured to plead moderation or suggest deference to the Consuls of Europe, he would be denounced as a traitor. The leaders of the Opposition insist that the withdrawal of the Greek fleet and troops from Crete must be resisted to the bitter end. They propose to meet the ultimatum of th powers with a counter ultimatum, declaring that Europe must allow the Greek army to remain in the island or face the prospect of a general war, resulting from a struggle in Macedonia. They believe they can thereby compel the powers to yield.

Russia's Severe Rebukions.

Berlin, March 1.—The Frankfort Zeitung publishes a despatch from Constantinople saying that relations between the Russian and Greek courts have been completely severed.

A mirror could lie if it wanted to. The glass has nothing to gain by flattery. If the roses of health and plumpness of beauty are leaving your face your mirror will tell you so. Health is the greatest beautifier in the world. When a woman sees the indications of ill health in the face, she may with almost absolute certainty look for the cause in one or both of two conditions—constipation and derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure permanently and positively any so-called "female complaints." Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will cure constipation. There is no reason in the world why a woman should not be perfectly healthy. She will gain in health, strength and flesh. Hollows and angles will give place to fullness, and grace. She will be that noblest and most beautiful of all creation—a perfect woman.

THEIR FAMILY MEDICINE.

SO SAY THOUSANDS CONCERNING DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

Mrs. John Wood, of Notre Dame, N. B., Says They Restored her to Health and Strength After Other Medicines Had Failed.

From the Richibucto, N. B., Review.

In the village of Notre Dame, N. B., live Mr. and Mrs. John Wood, respected by all who know them. Mrs. Wood had gone through a trying illness from which she is now happily recovered, and this recovery created so much comment that your correspondent called upon the lady with a view to getting the facts for publication. The reporter was cordially welcomed and was told by Mrs. Wood that she had no objection to making a statement for publication if it were likely to benefit any one else. She then gave the following particulars of her illness and cure. "For some time previous to February, 1896," says Mrs. Wood, "I had been feeling unwell and from that time out my health seemed to be going from bad to worse. I suppose the words general debility would best characterize my condition. I was weak, my blood seemed as thin as water. I felt continually drowsy, and yet could not get sound, refreshing sleep. My appetite was poor and I had no relish for food. I was reduced in flesh, and yet my limbs were bloated and swollen and I was told that I had dropsy, but really I cannot say if this was the case. I tried several medicines but they did me no good, and I almost felt like giving up in despair. One of my friends urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I began using them in the early spring. It did not take very long to see that I had at last found a medicine that would cure me if anything could, for after taking a couple of boxes I felt both better in health and spirits than I had done for some months. From this out I gained strength continually. My flesh became sound and healthy, the bloating left me, my weight increased, and I soon found myself restored from the position of an unfortunate invalid to a strong and healthy person. I can say nothing but words of praise for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I can strongly recommend them to all who may be suffering." Mr. Wood endorsed what his wife said, and added that Pink Pills would hereafter be their family medicine.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills strike at the root of the disease, driving it from the system, and restoring the patient to health and strength. In cases of paralysis, spinal troubles, locomotor ataxia, sciatica, rheumatism, erysipelas, scrofula troubles, etc., these pills are superior to all other treatment. They are also a specific for the troubles which makes the lives of so many women a burden, and speedily restore the rich glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. Men broken down by overwork, worry or excesses, will find in Pink Pills a certain cure. Sold by all dealers, or sent by mail postpaid, at 50c a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady N. Y. Beware as imitations and substitutes alleged to be "just as good."

SPECIAL LENTEN SERVICES AT ST. JOHN'S

An Appeal to the Congregation—Programme of Special Services and Addresses.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, PETERBOROUGH,
Quinquagesima Sunday, 1897.

To the Parishioners of St. John's Church and St. John's Mission:

DEAR BRETHREN,—Once more the solemn season of Lent is upon us. It is a season in which our beloved Church, in the name of her Divine Master, calls His willing subjects to a season of more complete retirement from the ordinary course of social life, to a closer communion with Him.

It is gratifying to see that many bodies of Christians, who otherwise view things from a different standpoint to our own, have come to recognise the spiritual value of such seasons of abstinence and prayer. Many have their week of self-denial and prayer; others perhaps a few days of greater spiritual exercise; but one main object forms the basis of their efforts and of our own. And it is the greatest and most earnest desire of our clergy, who have the privilege of serving you, that the approaching season of the church's retirement, should be one of great benefit and value to our Christian life. To enable us to accomplish this purpose of our beloved Church in the highest sense, may we ask for the earnest and hearty co-operation of each man, woman and child within our care. May we not confidently hope that for us all our Lent may be one of reality. That our attitude throughout shall be that of seriousness, sincerity and earnestness; and not one of indifference to the call, much less one of formal compliance with it.

To this end our Church's ministrations to her people will be designed, not merely to edify the intellect, nor to excite the bodily sentiments of our worshippers, but to quicken the spiritual life; to deepen and strengthen our devotion to the Master. Let us be reminded that our personal aim is not simply to "put on" a religious form; but to weave into our lives the principles of Christ; not to put away our besetting sins for a season, but forever; not a brief communion with Christ, but the beginning of a closer walk with Him.

We would further venture to suggest a few simple thoughts for our guidance in private and public life.

In Private Life—

1. To try and read daily some portions of the Gospel story of the life of Christ.

2. A closer attention to prayer and self-examination.

3. And to exercise some simple but real act of self-denial for the love of Christ and for the advantage of His church.

And our Public Attitude

Is one of equal importance. It should be such as will tend to prohibit the least possible reflection or criticism of our church's rules at the instance of those who do not recognize her obligations or sympathise with her aims. The world, we know, is ever watchful to discover a weakness in such an attitude of Christian life as seems to claim for itself a more definite righteousness. We can avert such unwelcome criticisms only by a simple, secret, unostentatious, yet loyal adherence to our principles. Said our Lord, "When ye fast, be not as the hypocrites, of a sad countenance."

A complete severance from social pleasures of any kind will help our cause, and strengthen our lives. And so far as possible we should avail ourselves of the ministrations which the Church has to offer for our welfare.

Brethren, it remains with us, entirely, what our Lent shall be. Shall we rejoice while the Church rests, fasts and prays, or shall we with her watch and pray? Only let us think what blessings and what power Almighty God, through the ministrations of His Church, may pour into our lives in the retirement, thought and discipline of this solemn season of Lent.

We shall not lose our reward, but, with the glad Easter morning, we shall awaken to sing with feeling and with power, the triumphal song which shall encircle the world: "Christ is risen from the dead and is become the first fruits of them that slept."

On behalf of the clergy of the parish, believe us to be,

Your humble servants in Christ Jesus.

W. L. ARMITAGE,
E. VICARS STEVENSON.

The following arrangement of service has been made:

Every week day (except Wednesday), evening prayer and short address at 5 p.m.

Wednesday evening, prayer and sermon at 8 p.m.

The special Lenten addresses will be as follows:

Wednesday, March 3rd—Rev. E. V. Stevenson.

Wednesday, March 10th—Rev. C. L. Ingles, M.A., Toronto.

Wednesday, March 17th—Rev. J. S. Broughall, Whitby.

Wednesday, March 24th—Rev. F. H. Hartley, Young's Point.

Wednesday, March 31st—Rev. H. Symonds, M.A., Ashburnham.

Wednesday, April 7th—Rev. G. Warren, Lakefield.

Wednesday, April 14th—Rev. W. L. Armitage.

My baby had Eczema in its worst form. The top of her head was as raw as a piece of beef, the hair eaten down to the scalp by applying tar poultices, and I thought if she ever got well she would be bald. The best physician in the city attended her, but she continued to get worse all the time, and he finally admitted "it was the most obstinate case he had ever seen," and that he was "at his wits' end." Some one suggested CUTICURA REMEDIES, which I purchased and tried. In a few days I noticed a great change. She continued to improve, and to-day is entirely cured, has a nice head of hair, is lively and hearty, and the disease shows no signs of returning. I send you her photograph to show her as she is to-day.

NEWS FROM OTTAWA

Hon. Mr. Mulock on the Money Order System.

WILL TRY TO IMPROVE MATTERS

Bill as to Facilitate Transmission of Small Amounts—The Appointment of Queen's Counsel — Col. Hamilton's Case Not Yet Settled—Meeting of the D.R.A. Council.

Ottawa, March 3.—(Special.)—The Postmaster-General was asked to-day if he purposed making any changes with a view to the introduction of postal notes for the remittance of small amounts, such as are issued in the Mother Country. Mr. Mulock replied that the matter had been under consideration by him, but, in view of the many subjects requiring attention, arising out of the administration of his department, he had not yet evolved a method of procedure, although he is a thorough believer in simplifying the money order system and facilitating the transmission of small amounts of money through the mails. It is the intention of the Postmaster-General to ask Parliament for an appropriation for the extension of the money order service next year by the opening up of additional offices. At the present time there are about 1200 money order offices in existence, and it is proposed to increase this number by about 800, many important places having hitherto been without the facilities which such an office affords to business men.

A report was current to-day that Sir Oliver Mowat proposed to recommend to His Excellency a list of barristers for appointment as Queen's Counsel in view of the recent decision of the Court of Appeal. Your correspondent learns that this report is altogether premature. The Court of Appeal for Ontario in effect decided that the Dominion Government had the right to appoint Q. C.'s for the federal courts, and the local governments for the provincial courts. It is the intention of the Minister of Justice to appeal from this decision directly to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. If appeal had been made to the Supreme Court, leave would have had to be obtained from the Judicial Committee to secure a final decision there, but by going direct to England from the Ontario Court of Appeal the Judicial Committee, under its rules, must hear and decide the appeal.

The statement telegraphed from Toronto that Col. Hamilton is to be reinstated commandant of the Queen's Own is without foundation. Gen. Gascoigne informed me to-day that, owing to the unfortunate accident which befel Dr. Borden, and his subsequent abstention from public duties, he has not been able to look into the report of the commission of enquiry, of which Col. Maunsell was chairman, and until such time as the Minister is in a position to sift the evidence and reach a conclusion, it is obvious that no decision can be reached.

The Dominion statutes for the second session of last year have just been issued from the Printing Bureau. The volume is the smallest volume of statutes since Confederation. It only embraces 60 pages.

Messrs. Cross and Munro of Toronto, who were requested two months ago by the Postmaster General to investigate into the accounts of the Postoffice Department, have completed their work and handed in their report to Mr. Mulock. It will doubtless be embodied in the annual report of the department.

The Council of the Dominion Rifle Association met here to-day to approve of the annual report, which is to be presented to the association when it meets there next month. Major Perley's appointment as superintendent of the construction of the Bisley bungalow was approved. The Major will leave for England on the 15th of next month. Among the officers from a distance who were present at to-day's meeting were Major J. J. Mason, the prospective commandant of the Bisley team; Col. Starke and Major Blaiklock of Montreal. The meeting authorised Secretary Col. Bacon to notify the Bisley 20 to send in their acceptances. Lee-Enfield rifles will be issued to them right away, so that they may commence practice with the weapon immediately the snow is off the ground.

This being Ash Wednesday, it was duly observed as a holiday in the departments.

The Fire and Light Committee tonight adopted the report of the subcommittee, recommending sweeping changes in the Ottawa Fire Brigade. Chief Young, Deputy Chief Favreau, two guardians and one fireman are over the age limit and are retired with gratuities. Capt. P. Provost of No. 4 Fire Station, Montreal, is recommended for appointment as chief at a salary of $1700 per annum, with full scope to change the personnel of the brigade as he thinks fit.

A large delegation arrived here from Montreal to meet the Government in regard to obtaining a subsidy for the South Shore Railway Company to build a road from Sorel to Levis. The road is now built from Montreal to Sorel. The idea is to get the Government to operate the road after its construction as part of the Intercolonial system, which would, in that case, extend as far as Montreal. They saw Messrs. Laurier and Blair and discussed the matter with them, receiving the usual promises.

The Cabinet has decided that the sentences of death passed on "Charcoal," the Blood Indian, who murdered another Indian, and killed Sergt. Wild of the Mounted Police, and Sullivan, the Moncton, N. B., murderer, shall be executed. The former will be hanged on the 12th and the latter on the 16th.

Hon. Mr. Bronson was not quite so well to-day. His progress towards recovery is but slow.

The Government will soon appoint a fishery inspector for Quebec.

Mayor Bingham is still making himself solid. To-day he sent a letter to City Treasurer Kirby, instructing him to distribute his salary for the month of February to five public institutions. The Mayor did the same last month.

ROBBED CANADIAN MAILS.

The Charge Against Henry Laraway, Who is Now on Trial in Detroit What Inspector Larmour Says.

Detroit, March 3.—The trial of Henry Laraway, charged with rifling mail pouches at the Fort-street Union depot last September, is in progress in the United States District Court.

Postoffice Inspector James L. Larmeur told how he laid the trap for Laraway's detection. He said it took him about nine months to secure evidence, although he knew that the pouches were being cut open and rifled. The Inspector next bored a hole through the wall under a platform, which ran along one side of the room and on the night of Sept. 14 last, claims to have plainly seen Laraway cut open a mail pouch, extract a package of letters, and sew the bag up again. The arrest was then made.

Inspector Larmour stated that $25,000 was too low an estimate of what had been missed from the mails. One bank had lost more than that amount. "I think at least 10,000 letters were stolen," he said. "They were all from Canada, and were taken from Canadian pouches."

Alexander Findlay, railway mail clerk, between Montreal and Toronto, described the method of handling letters. Superintendent of Mails Fuller, of the Detroit Postoffice, testified that he examined the through mail pouches with Inspector Larmour on the train before it reached the depot on the night of Laraway's arrest, and found them all right. The day mail agent at the depot, James Crouch, said he remained at the depot with Larmour and Chief Clerk Swan, who were watching the movements of Laraway. He found that the through Canadian pouch for Chicago had been ripped and sewed up again. Laraway was called in and asked for a package of letters taken from the pouch. He denied knowing anything about it. There was a wooden box under Laraway's table and when Inspector Larmour searched that he found the package of letters inside of a paste-board box.

Laraway's wife and two daughters are constantly in court. During a brief recess to-day the younger daughter threw her arms about her father's neck and clung to him, weeping as if her heart would break.

State—John Sherman of Ohio.
Treasury—Lyman J. Gage of Illinois.
War—Russell A. Alger of Michigan.

A LIBERAL RETURNED.

The Halifax District in England Rejects Tom Mann, the Labor Candidate.

London, March 3.—The election to fill the seat in the House of Commons for the Halifax district, made vacant by the retirement of William Rawson Shaw (Liberal), was held to-day, and resulted in the return of Alfred Billson (Liberal) who received 5564 votes to 5353 for Sir C. Crossley, the Conservative candidate, and 2000 for Tom Mann, who stood in the Labor interest. At the general election in 1895 the result of the polling in this constituency, which returns two members, was as follows: A. Arnold (Conservative) 5476, W. R. Shaw (Liberal) 5085, J. S. Booth (Radical) 4283, J. Lister (Labor) 2312.

CONCLUSION OF BUDGET DEBATE.

Hon. G. W. Ross Vigorously Defends the Educational System—Mr. Willoughby Moves a Want of Confidence Motion—Main Motion Carried —Bills Introduced.

Toronto, March 3.—Among the bills introduced in the Ontario Legislature this afternoon were two by Mr. German, amending the Game Protection Act and the Division Courts Act respectively. The first order of the day was the resumption of the budget debate. Mr. Kerns reiterated the arguments of previous Opposition speakers with the object of showing that the surplus did not exist, contending that it was practically mortgaged by railroad certificates and annuities. He made the mildly sarcastic suggestion that the Minister of Education should embody the Government methods of financing in a text book for schools, entitled "Finance Made Easy." He assailed the succession duties as wrong in principle and easily evaded, and did not see why we should adopt bad laws simply because there was an English precedent for such legislation. The Government would make a great mistake if they resorted to the taxation of banks and monetary institutions.

Mr. Chapple, after some personal references, dealt with the question of Government patronage. If the object of the Ministry were merely to secure patronage they would hardly pursue their present policy of reducing the number of license holders. As far as his experience went, a very large proportion of hotel keepers were Conservatives. The action they were taking in dealing with the license question was in response to the demands of public opinion. The Government deserved credit for the Succession Duties Act, which compelled the rich man out of his abundance to assist the poor in bearing the expenses of government. It had been urged that the Model Farm should be self-sustaining, but it was an absurd idea that any purely educational institution should be expected to yield money enough to pay its expenses. The new County Council Act had worked very satisfactorily in effecting a saving of time and money and was popular throughout the province. He criticised the action of the Opposition in prolonging the debate, asserting that it had cost the country more than any sum which they could show had been recklessly expended by the Government.

Mr. Marter began by a few remarks personal to himself, denying that he had ever swerved in his views on prohibition. He recapitulated the features of the London election, when a Conservative Prohibitionist was defeated by the votes of Liberal Prohibitionists. He had then said that it would be foolish for the Conservative party to trust to the votes of the Reform temperance men in future. He hoped that his explanation would be accepted, and that he would not be again accused of wavering on the prohibition issue. Proceeding with the debate, the speaker objected to the treatment of the proceeds of the Crown Lands Department as revenue, instead of capital. The day would surely come when the last stick of timber would be sold and the only resource would be direct taxation. The issuing of annuities was really borrowing money—and at a high rate, too. For every dollar thus borowed two had to be paid. The Public Accounts Committee was a very ineffective safeguard against extravagance. That committee had not yet met, and the Legislature would probably not sit more than a month longer. They did occasionally bring something to light, however, as when they showed the country how Dr. Chamberlain had put an accident policy of $10,000 on his life at the expense of the province. Such incidents showed a very loose way of doing business. The accounts of the province should be published in detail, as is done at Ottawa. Under the system now pursued no one could tell whether the amounts charged as having been spent on colonization roads were really expended or not. The Government, if they excluded the annuities and railroad obligations from the list of liabilities, ought to exclude from the other side of the account those assets which could not be converted into cash. As a matter of fact, the Government, instead of having a surplus, were in debt. Referring to alleged favoritism in educational matters, he read a bitter attack from a school teacher on the system of examination, stating that the author had afterwards been placed on the Board of Examiners. Hon. Mr. Ross asked for the name of the party, which Mr. Marter refused to give.

Dr. Baxter ridiculed the chronic Opposition outcry over the prospect of direct taxation. The Government had pursued a wise and generous policy in spending the surplus in a way to lessen the burdens of the people, in place of hoarding it. That the succession tax was in force in so many countries was, to his mind, an evidence that it was a good law, in spite of what Mr. Kerns had said of it. The Opposition had continuously assailed the Agricultural College, but the farmers were well satisfied with it and willing to give it their support. The last speaker favored a non-political head for the educational system, but he would remind them that Dr. Ryerson, the late Superintendent of Education, had favored making it a regular department of the Government. He justified the assumption of the licensing power by the Government on the ground that the change was imperatively demanded by public opinion. The Liberal party had given the people all the temperance legislation they had ever had.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE annual report of the Canadian Pacific Railway shows that the gross earnings for the year were $20,681,689.84, the working expenses $12,574,015.10, leaving the net earnings $8,107,581.74. The working expenses for the year amounted to 60.80 per cent. of the gross earnings and the net earnings to 39.50 per cent., as compared with 60.50 and 39.50 per cent. respectively in 1895.

SOME journals which oppose the granting of government aid in the construction of the Trent Valley Canal on the claim that it is a local work do not seem to have much trouble in advocating government expenditure to the tune of twenty and twenty-five millions to build a local railway in the north-west corner of the Dominion. Admitting, for the sake of comparison, that the Trent Valley Canal is a merely local work (which it is not) does not the same argument apply in both cases?

EXIT Grover Cleveland; enter Major McKinley. To-day the fourth of March, Major McKinley, the president-elect of the United States, becomes the real president. That is, about five months after the people of the United States declared for, what we call in Canada under genuine representative rule, "a change of government," the change comes. Whatever the character of the new president's rule may be, we know that during 12 years Grover Cleveland has worthily filled the presidential chair showing himself to be a broad minded non partizan ruler. Grover Cleveland in 1884 came into office over the head of the champion British Lion tail twister, James G. Blaine, and he signalized his retirement from the president's chair by a friendly act towards Canada, the favourite colonial protege of the British Lion. If we could hope that his successor, Major McKinley, may be as broad minded and manly a neighbour as Grover Cleveland, we could regard with equanimity the latter's retirement, and hope for a continuation and enlargement of the amity that will enable neighbouring nations to pursue their course, and perform the duties, arising out of international relationship, with the largest degree of mutual advantage.

FORESTERS' ANNUAL SERMON.

On Sunday morning last the members of Court Lakefield No. 63 attended service in the English church, where they listened to an eloquent sermon by the incumbent, Rev. Geo. Warren, who took as his text I Corinthians 14, 1:, "Follow after love." In commending the Order, the speaker referred to its progress during the seven months ending Dec. 31st—42 new Courts being added, the membership now standing at 24,082. The funds are also in a satisfactory condition—$69,000 be paid to the beneficiary during the seven months, which including those having $500 and $1,000 insurance, would number about eighty—a great relief to the widows and orphans. The income from the insurance account for the seven months—$117,814, goes to show that the finances of the Order are on a sound basis.

It is a good thing to see that Canadians, Englishmen, Scotchmen and Irishmen unite together and are desirous of providing for their families and seeing that they are not mendicants on the country. Should a member die he feels that his widow is not left to the cold mercies of the world, but at her husbands death is at once put in possession of a modest sum of money that will keep herself and family from want.

We must acknowledge the good that is done by this and similar societies—not only mutual good, but mutual benevolence and mutual insurance.

Follow after love. Make it your aim to follow it closely. How many there are whose hearts are not illumined by love.

Follow after love. Follow after charity, both of which are important. In the authorized version of the Bible it reads, "Follow after charity," and in the revised version "Follow after love."

Charity to-day means the money, food, or clothes which we might give to another to relieve their needs. But love means far more than charity; it is what fills the heart, and draws our affections one to another.

Are we aware of the important place Christ demands that love should take in a man's heart, it is one of the things we must not leave out of our hearts at the peril of our soul's salvation. We have been surrounded by love from the time of our birth. It leads to friendship, then marriage, and eventually to the unity of of life. This love is exemplified in the love between father and mother, brother and sister, which unites a family notwithstanding their diverse characteristics. There is also the love of David and Jonathan, even surpassing the love of women, and also such love as exists in friendly societies, such as the Canadian Order of Foresters.

The preacher closed an eloquent and earnest discourse by treating of the diverse quality of love in a manner that must have greatly edified his attentive hearers.

The brethren then marched back to their lodge room, where a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Rev. Mr. Warren for his able, eloquent and convincing sermon, to which all listened with great pleasure and profit.

AS WELL AS EVER.

A Brickmaker Listens to Reason—Uses Six Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and Tells It.

Brockville, March 1st—(Special)—Mr. W. H. Odell, perhaps one of the best known citizens of this town, has lately recovered from a long continued and painful kidney ailment. He tells the story of his experience to the correspondent as follows:

"I have suffered for over a year from kidney disease, the pain in my back being so severe that I was unable to stand to my work.

Noticing the published cures of what Dodd's Kidney Pills were doing for others, I concluded to try them.

"Having used only six boxes I can say that I am perfectly cured and well so that I can attend to business as well as ever I could."

Constipation Cured.

Gents,—I was in very poor health for over four years; the doctor said it was constipation. Not wanting to spend too much cash I got three bottles of B.B.B. and took it regularly, I can certify that I am now in the very best of health and feel very grateful to B.B.B.

A LABORING MAN'S LEG.

A RUNNING SORE RENDERED IT USELESS. HE COULDN'T WORK TILL HE HAD IT CURED BY KOOTENAY WHICH CONTAINS THE NEW INGREDIENT.

It goes without saying that the average working man finds it difficult to ply his daily avocation without the aid of a pair of good sound legs. To have either of his lower extremities incapacitated by disease is a serious matter. It means inability to provide for himself and those depending on him for support, to which is added the distress and suffering both mental and physical he is called upon in consequence to endure.

Mr. John Dawson, a respectable laborer living at 77 Jones St., Hamilton, Ont., states under oath that about seven years ago an inflammation appeared upon his knee, which continued to grow worse until about three years ago when it got so bad he was unable to work. He tried ointments and various remedies, but the sore continued discharging and the pains in his back were very severe. Last winter he commenced taking Ryckman's Kootenay Cure and in a comparatively short time the sore healed up, the pain disappeared from his back and he was able to resume his work. He thinks there's nothing can beat Kootenay, and he's right.

The whole secret of the cure lies in the thorough blood cleansing properties of the "new ingredient," which is the essential element of Kootenay.

It goes right through the system and eradicates all humors from the blood and in consequence there is a rapid replacing of diseased or decaying tissue by a healthy healing process. Don't be cajoled into taking any substitute for Ryckman's Kootenay Cure. If your druggist does not keep it, send $1.50 for a bottle to the Ryckman Medicine Co., Hamilton, Ont.

FOUGHT TO A FINISH.

After recess Mr. Whitney spoke at some length in review of the principal points raised during the debate, and, replying to several of the Liberal members, he asserted that the policy of the Opposition was unchanged, and in speaking of the budget, urged a return to the principles laid down for the management of provincial affairs at the time of Confederation. He referred extensively to the course of the party in the past and the education question to show that they were not hostile to the High schools. The examination system came in for severe criticism on the same grounds as have been repeatedly urged in the course of the debate. Instead of the teachers being allowed to discuss matters freely in the Teachers' Institute, an official called a director of the Teachers' Institute, was sent out to muzzle free discussion. Premier Hardy, he charged, had delivered speeches at London and Owen Sound, calculated to lower the tone of political morality.

Hon. G. W. Ross good naturedly rallied Mr. Whitney on the claims he put forth as to the achievements of the Opposition, pointing out that though he might be under the impression that Sir Wm. Meredith secured the disputed territory to Ontario, the people persisted in crediting Sir Oliver Mowat with having done so. He saw not the slightest impropriety in the words used by Mr. Hardy at London and Owen Sound, which simply asked fair play for the Government. Sir Charles Tupper, who the leader of the Opposition supposed habitually, appealed to far baser motives. (Applause.)

Where were the "heelers," when Sir Charles left his London office to travel in parlor cars all over the country? Mr. Broder, a customs official, helped Mr. Whitney in his constituency, yet he never objected. (Applause and laughter.) Reverting to the Budget, the Minister of Education argued that the increase in expenditure was justified by the growth of the country. All the Government had done was to keep pace with the progress of the times. There were more examinations under Dr. Ryerson than at present. Since he (Mr. Ross) took office he had abolished many of the examinations which then obtained. Of 23 then in force, he had preserved only 10. He entered largely into detail as to the mode of appointing examiners, showing that no political influence could be brought to bear in the selection. When he took charge, there were 24 different kinds of teachers' certificates. Now, there were only six. The school examinations were cheaper now than in 1876, and cost four or five times less than the civil service examinations. The cost of text-books had been complained of, but the cost per pupil in Toronto, where the text-books were furnished free, was only 17 cents. If scribblers, pencils, etc., were included the cost per pupil was 43 cents—a much more moderate figure than in other countries. It was charged that agriculture was not taught in the public schools, but that was the fault of the boards of trustees, who had power to order it to be made a part of the curriculum. He proceeded to give a number of statistics proving the increased efficiency of the public schools. High schools were not established by the Government, but by the County Councils. The Government grant per pupil for public schools had increased 74 per cent. since Sandfield Macdonald's time, while for High schools it had only increased 40 per cent. Was this starving the public schools for the sake of the High schools? It had been said that the educational system was "dying at the top," viz., the university, but this year there were no fewer than 1350 students attending Toronto University. Referring to the charge that the exodus from the country to the cities was due to the educational systems, he said this was a world-wide tendency—a great sociological change which no process of education could stem. At the conclusion of Mr. Ross' brilliant speech, in which he completely refuted the assertions of the Opposition, he was loudly applauded.

Dr. Willoughby followed up his leader's assault upon Premier Hardy and deprecated the "subtle cunning" displayed by the Minister of Education in his defence, and went rapidly over several of the arguments adduced by the Government speakers, dealing with the surplus, the succession tax, the license question, and the interference of office holders in election, etc. He moved, seconded by Mr. Kerns, an amendment "that this House regrets to observe the steady increase in provincial expenditure and also regrets that the present value of the indebtedness for annuities and railway certificates does not appear in the statements of the liabilities of the province over and above which a surplus is declared."

Hon. Mr. Harcourt replied briefly, urging the impossibility of keeping the expenditure stationary in a growing and progressive country. Only one-tenth of the expenditure could be classed as controllable. An educated people was the best asset they could show and they could only have it by a liberal expenditure for public instruction. The Government need not hesitate to accept the challenge if the maintenance of Ontario's public and educational institutions was to be the issue. The amendment was a simple vote of want of confidence and he could confidently appeal, not merely to Government supporters, but to every independent man, to vote it down.

Mr. Mathieson spoke in support of the amendment.

The Attorney-General briefly explained that as he was suffering from a severe cold he was unable to take part in the debate, but would take an early opportunity of replying to the personal accusations brought against him.

A division was then taken on the amendment, with the following result: Yeas 35, nays 51. The following is the division list:

Yeas—Beatty (L), Brower, Bush, Carnegie, Crawford, Dynes, Fallis, Gamey, Gurd, Haycock, Hiscott, Howland, Kerns, Kidd, Langford, Little, McCallum, McDonald, McLaren, McNaughton, McNeil, McNichol, Magwood, Marter, Matheson, Meacham, Preston, Reid (Addington), Reid (Durham), Ryerson, St. John, Shore, Tucker, Whitney, Willoughby—35.

Nays—Auld, Barr, Baxter, Beatty (Parry Sound), Bennett, Biggar, Blezard, Burt, Campbell, Carpenter, Chapple, Charlton, Cleland, Conmee, Craig, Dana, Davis, Dickenson, Dryden, Farwell, Ferguson, Field, Flatt, Garrow, German, Gibson (Hamilton), Gibson (Huron), Harcourt, Hardy, Harty, Hobbs, Macnish, McKay (Oxford), McKay (Victoria), McLean, McPherson, Middleton, Moore, Mutrie, O'Keefe, Pardo, Paton, Pattullo, Richardson, Robertson, Robillard, Rose, Smith, Stratton, Taylor, Truax—51.

The following were paired: Bronson with Miscampbell, McKee with Hagarty, Loughlin with Currie.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. German—An act to amend the Ontario Game Protection Act, so as to exclude that species of duck commonly known as whistlers, sawbills or sheldrakes from the protection afforded by the clause, which makes it unlawful to kill ducks between the 15th of December and the 1st September following.

NOTICES OF MOTION.

Mr. St. John—Bill to amend Division Courts Act.

Mr. Reid (Addington)—Bill to amend the Municipal Act.

Mr. German—Bill to amend the acts respecting cemetery companies, chapters 178 and 176, R.S.O.

Mr. Magwood—Bill to amend the Public Library Act.

ENQUIRIES.

Mr. Carnegie—What are the regulations which govern the distribution of the statutes to justices of the peace and clerks of municipalities?

Mr. Langford—Is it the intention of the Government to refund actual settlers the money paid by them for licenses to shoot deer during the past year? Is it the intention of the Government to amend the regulations passed in 1896 to the Game Act?

Mr. Bush—Order of the House for a return of copies of report of inspector, of Division Court bailiffs and all other documents in connection with the dismissal of John Dickinson, bailiff; also the names of all applicants for the position, and copies of correspondence regarding the same.

The blue-bird is hailed as a harbinger of Spring. It is also a reminder that a blood-purifier is needed to prepare the system for the debilitating weather to come. Listen and you will hear the birds singing: "Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla in March, April, May."

AN ACTIVE DAY.

President Elect McKinley Received a Large Number of Callers and Dined With Col. Hay at Night.

Washington, March 3.—The President-elect passed a very active day. He received a large number of callers and made a formal visit to the White House and took dinner to-night with Col. John Hay.

Major McKinley's most important callers from a political point of view this morning were Messrs. Platt, Bliss and Hanna. Mr. Hanna and Mr. Bliss met at breakfast and had a long talk about the New York situation. Mr. Bliss, who had steadily and stoutly declined, up to that time, to reconsider his determination not to become a member of the Cabinet, finally agreed to do so, and authorized Mr. Hanna to say to Major McKinley that he would accept the position of Secretary of the Interior if it were offered him. Mr. Hanna went over to the Ebbitt House at once. In a short time Mr. Bliss was summoned, and a few moments later Mr. Platt. A full, frank discussion followed, and then Mr. Bliss was offered a portfolio in the Cabinet of Major McKinley. He will be Secretary of the Interior, unless ex-Governor Long of Massachusetts should indicate a willingness to take that place, and if he does, Mr. Bliss will probably become Secretary of the Navy.

Mr. Platt and Mr. Bliss understand each other thoroughly, and it is said they will be jointly consulted about all important New York appointments. The Republican leaders here express great satisfaction over the appointment of Mr. Bliss.

They Wish Him Well.

London, March 3.—The Standard to-morrow, in an article on the incoming administration at Washington, will say: "There is every disposition in this country to judge President McKinley favorably and to wish him success. On the whole, his Cabinet promises fairly well. Its most doubtful member, unhappily the one with whom foreign countries will be brought most directly in contact, has been both aggressive and moderate in foreign affairs, and it is to be hoped that the latter influence now prevails with him."

HE DIED A CATHOLIC.

Henry Lacroix Joined the Spiritualists, but Repented on His Deathbed. Spirit Band Wanted to Bury Him.

Montreal, March 3.—(Special.)—Henry Lacroix was a spiritualist, living on Urbain-street, and consequently wandered away from his mother Church of Rome. Before he died, however, Mr. Lacroix was visited by a Sulpician priest and his family gave out that he had returned to his first love and died a good Catholic. The breath, however, had scarcely left his body when a crowd of Montreal spiritualists, of whom there are said to be 7000 among the French-Canadians alone, invaded the death chamber, and demanded their brother's remains. Mrs. Palmer, daughter of the deceased, having objected, the spiritualists remonstrated, saying that the spirit community would have a great deal to answer for if the body of their late brother slipped out of their hands. "He was not a brother," replied the daughter, "he died a Catholic," and up to a late hour this evening Mrs. Palmer held the fort and the body, too, to the discomfiture of the spirit band.

DROPPED DEAD!

Suddenly Stricken Down by Heart Disease.

"A sad and sudden death occurred to a well-known citizen on one of the leading streets this morning."

Nearly every large city paper contains daily some such heading. The number of deaths from heart failure is very large, but it is only when they occur in some public and sensational manner that general attention is drawn to them.

Palpitation and fluttering of the heart are common complaints. With the heart itself there is nothing radically wrong. But the system is disorganized, the kidneys and liver are out of order, and the stomach is not in condition to do its work properly. Between them all, they throw too much responsibility on the heart, and the latter is unable to stand the strain.

A box of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills at a cost of 25 cents will regulate the system, purify the blood and make a new person of every sickly man, woman or child.

Dr. Chase's Liver-Kidney Pills may be had from any dealer or from the manufacturers, Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. One pill a dose, one cent a dose.

Harris Tweeds

From the Highlands o' Scotland.

We have been fortunate in securing a limited supply of these rare and much admired Scotch Tweeds, so highly prized by the aristocracy of the old country.

The chief beauty of the Harris Tweeds lies in their rough finish, being home-spun and dyed, and deftly woven on hand looms by thrifty and ingenious hand weavers of the Highlands of Scotland, never having been inside of a factory.

They are guaranteed pure Scotch Wool, and retain the peculiar odor of the heather and peat, so susceptible to the olfactory nerves of the sons of Auld Scotia.

In neutral shades, devoid of anything like conspicuous pattern, for Shooting, Cycling and Outing Suits.

The demand for the Harris Tweeds is always in excess of the supply—only 25 pieces having been secured for Canada, of which we obtained a select number. Ask to see these Novelties at

From Auld Scotia.

A rare novelty in Scotch tweeds — little known in this country, but much admired and worn by the town and country gentry of the old sod—is at present on exhibition at the store of A. Mercer & Co., merchant tailors, George street. They are known as the Harris tweeds, and their peculiar rough make, home spun and home dyed qualities, enhances their value. The pure Scotch wool is woven on hand looms by ingenious Highland weavers, who scorn the aid of every factory artifice and finish. The supply of these novel tweeds has always been under a limited control, and only a few pieces have found their way into Canada. Mr. Mercer is very proud of the samples he was fortunate enough in securing this spring, and gives a hearty invitation to all his friends—especially Scotchmen—to come and get a sniff of the heather and peat odour, which the Harris tweeds always retain.

PETERBOROUGH CURLERS IN TORONTO AND HAMILTON.

They Lose Two Matches and Win One—The Boucher-Davidson Medal Lost by Five Points.

The curlers annual excursion to Toronto was well patronized yesterday, a large number taking in the trip besides the curlers.

The Toronto Club wrested the Davidson-Boucher medal from Peterborough in the Queen City, but only after a bitter struggle. At the close of the day's play they had a majority of 12 shots, and as they were only beaten last week in Peterborough, in the first half of the match, by 7 shots, the score at the close being 86 to 79, they thus win in the total by 5 shots and the trophy is theirs. Peterborough won last year what was really the first match of the competition. Score:—

WHERE IS "DR." MORAN?

Jimmy Blaine's Grip said to have Dis appeared With Him.

(Belleville Intelligencer.)

"One day the latter part of last week a man calling himself 'Doctor' Moran of Peterborough, came to this city and registered at the Queen's Hotel, says the Belleville Intelligencer. With him came Jimmy Blaine of Peterborough, ostensibly to show the 'doctor' the town. Moran announced himself as the proprietor of a medicine that was a veritable cure all, and in order to introduce his 'wonderful discovery' he hired a hack and opened out on the market square on Saturday last. It was the old story. The farmers and many townspeople flocked about him, and notwithstanding the fact that money is scarce and hard to get, they showered it at the "doctor."

"Moran, after getting what he considered a goodly sum, closed his little store and went out to see the town. Blaine lost sight of him and to his sorrow, for when he returned to the hotel he found the "doctor" had skipped and taken his (Blaine's) grip and most of his wearing apparel, besides the proceeds of the morning sales."

"It now turns out that Blaine came to the city to get even with Moran on a little deal in Peterborough. It is alleged the "doctor" was arrested there for being too familiar with a young lady and Blaine and some friends paid his fine of $20. Moran promised to square the account here, and the above narrative shows how he did it. Blaine longs for information that will lead to the recovery of his valise."

The "Doctor" when leaving the town on leaving Peterborough, neglected to pay his board bill at the hotel where he was staying, as well as forgetting those who so kindly paid his fine for him.

JAS. S. KEMP HONOURED.

Montana Oddfellows Make Him a Presentation.

In a recent issue of the Northwestern Oddfellow, published in Darby, Montana, a long report appeared of a presentation to Jas. S. Kemp, brother of Mr. E. A. Kemp, of Peterborough. We reproduce a portion of the article:

"One of the greatest surprised men in Missoula was Jas. S. Kemp, the newly-elected Grand Master of the Oddfellows in Montana. It was the regular meeting of Covenant Lodge and the attendance was unusally large, which Mr. Kemp thought was due to the desire to hear the reports of the grand lodge representatives, but in this he was partially mistaken. After routine business had been finished, about fifty members of the Rebekahs were admitted and given seats. Mr. Kemp was then presented with a "Veteran Jewel" and an address. The jewel is one dear to Odd Fellows, and, can only be won by being a continuous member of the order for 25 years. Mr. Kemp has been a member since 1868. The jewel is a beautiful thing and on the back is the following inscription: "Presented by the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of Missoula, Montana, to James Sheppard Kemp, Grand Master of Montana, Oct. 28, 1896." Below this is "VIII," showing it to be the eighth jewel of its kind in Montana. After the presentation all sat down to a splendid feast, followed by several hours of entertainment never to be forgotten."

In the same paper appears a rousing article from the pen of Mr. Kemp on "Odd Fellowship" in which he gives some good advice to members of the order.

THE SEX DEFENDED.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In attending the excessive meetings of the Fortnightly Club, one is always sure to be entertained to a feast of good things. Last evening's paper on Amiel was no exception to the rule; the pity was that when the public were invited they did not respond more heartily by their presence. The thoughts laid before us last evening were worthy of a crowded hall and an admission fee.

Answering to some mysterious trait in my composition, which sides over always to the weaker side, I must confess that I felt very much in sympathy with the fair sex, who were indeed the greater part of the audience. I felt it really was too good to bring them into such prominence, seeing that there was no courageous champion in the midst willing to trample down the barriers of etiquette. All they could do was to sit steady under fire, laugh and—blush. Illogical, and all the rest of it! when not an hour before I had read in the evening papers a paragraph announcing that the University of Cambridge had thrown open to them its doors of learning, and that they might now obtain from the highest university in the world degrees in arts, law, letters, science and music. Did the speaker really believe all that, or did he only roll off the well-rounded sentence because it was "a fine mouthful," like "the concrete realization of absurdity."

Among the many gems given us in the shape of extracts I was most impressed with the beautiful aspect given to religion. Not having a good memory I cannot recall the words exactly, therefore I refrain from repeating them, but as I listened I thought that they were so beautiful that they deserved to be illuminated on the walls of every church and meeting house in the world. And that if they were included in every creed the "unity of the churches" would be a given fact.

Another idea crossed my mind. If Geneva is a city which has given to the world the greatest number of intellectual men of the highest culture and predominate influence, having her primary schools unsectarian, could we hope to better her record by introducing into ours "Christian religion as a subject of compulsory education?" It seems to me that the condition of the world must be as that of the millenium before such education would be enjoyably expedient.

Thanking you for the space taken up with this,

I am, etc.,

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB.

An Interesting Paper Read by Sheriff Hall at the Last Meeting.

At the meeting of the Fortnightly Club on Tuesday evening a most interesting paper on Amiel's works, of which a synopsis is appended, was read by Sheriff Hall:

In 1884 two small volumes appeared at Geneva entitled "Journal Intime," de Henri Frederic Amiel. The writer had been during his life time quite unknown to the general European public, and even in Geneva had been looked upon as one who had missed his mark. The book, however, won its way first to the notice of the reading and thinking classes of France, and afterwards to those of England by means of the translation of Mrs. Humphrey Ward, who, in her admirable introduction, says: "It is not too much to say that this remarkable record of a life has made its way to what promises to be a permanent place in literature."

Amiel was born at Geneva in 1821, and was the descendant of one of those Huguenot families which had left France on the revocation of the edict of Nantes. In 1848, after spending some years in visiting Europe, he was appointed professor of moral philosophy in the University of Geneva, where he lectured for about thirty years. As a lecturer he made little mark, for, as he says, he considered it unworthy in a teacher to impart to instruction any artificial graces which might tend to make it attractive. He was, however, a highly gifted man, a brilliant conversationalist and a delightful correspondent, a keen observer both of nature and of society and his journal shows him to be not only a careful observer and a deep thinker, but one capable of clothing his thoughts in words of classic and poetic beauty. His journal was written daily during thirty years, not for publication, but as he says, for his own consolation and warning. In it he seems to stand on an eminence and to survey modern society in all its aspects. There is scarcely any field which he has not explored—religion, philosophy, science, art, letters, music; and he seems equally at home with them all. The book will never, in all probability, become what is called a popular book, but it is one which will furnish ample food for thought and reflection for the student and the thinker, for as Renan says: "These two volumes may certainly be reckoned among the most interesting philanthropical writings which have appeared of late years."

THE COMPLICATIONS OF THE LAW.

Is Mr. Dalton McCarthy, Q.C., Likely to be Committed to Jail?

Lawyers are accustomed to laying down the law for poor lay mortals with unmistakable vigour, and it is sometimes entertaining to see a lawyer himself get a dose of his own medicine. Mr. Dalton McCarthy, Q.C., is an example of Jupiter nodding—he is said to be in danger of being jailed for contempt of court in connection with the recount in the North Ontario bye election. A brief resume of the circumstances:

Mr. McCarthy, acting as counsel for Mr. Duncan Graham, the successful Liberal candidate for North Ontario, was opposed to a recount of the ballots taking place before Judge Mahaffy, on the ground that that judge was a business partner of the defeated Conservative candidate, Angus McLeod. Mr. McCarthy therefore went to Judge Dartnell, the other county judge, and got him to issue an order for a recount before himself (Dartnell). The opposing party went then to Judge Robertson in Toronto and got a High Court injunction forbidding the returning officer to hold the recount before Judge Dartnell. This injunction the returning officer, on Mr. McCarthy's advice, disregarded, and the recount was held before Judge Dartnell. In this course consists, it is claimed, the contempt of court of which Mr. McCarthy is accused. It is to be hoped that the eminent Q. C. will not be jugged. Yet many a witness who has writhed under the thumb-screws of cross-examination would be glad to see Mr. McCarthy a little "bothered."

BATTALION NOTES.

The last issue of the Canadian Military Gazette notices the standing taken by Mr. Garnet Bell, of town, in his recent examinations in Toronto. He averaged 78½ marks on the entire examination.

Col. J. Z. Rogers, who resigned his commission some time ago, has been placed on the active force again, under the title of Lt. Colonel, together with a large number of retired officers, who will represent a reserve force.

The old rifles, which have been called in, were boxed up at the drill shed, yesterday, under the supervision of the officers, and shipped away. The new Lee-Enfield rifles are expected immediately.

The issue of the Canadian Military Gazette for March 1st contains a fine photogravure representing the Canadian quarters which are to be built at Bisley. The building will be a handsome one, and the picture gives an excellent view of it. A short description of the new quarters accompanies the picture. Several valuable items of present interest to the militia are printed, among them "Canadian Cavalry," by "The Ground Scout," and "Field Battery Establishment," by a Battery Commandant.

IT MAKES BACHELORS SMILE

To watch the manoeuvres of the ladies — who are ever inveterate match-makers—to bring about a Marriage which they fondly dream will be of heaven's own ordering.

Husbands, however, can only be legally secured through the medium of the Marriage Licenses. Applications and appointments for drawing up the permit, promptly attended to by One's physical feelings, like the faithful setter, search and point out plainly the fact of disease or health.

If a man is not feeling well and vigorous—if he is losing flesh and vitality, if he is listless, nervous, sleepless, he certainly is not well. The down hill road from health to sickness is smooth and declines rapidly.

At the first intimation of disease, the wise man takes a pure, simple vegetable tonic. It puts his digestion into good active order and that puts the rest of his body in order. The medicine that will do this is a medicine that is good to take in any trouble of the blood, the digestion, or the respiration, no matter how serious it may have become.

The medicine to take is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a remarkable remedy. It cures diseases in a perfectly natural way, without the use of strong drugs. It cures by helping Nature. It has a peculiar tonic effect on the lining membranes of the stomach and bowels. By putting these membranes into healthy condition, stimulating the secretion of the various digestive juices and furnishing to the blood the proper purifying properties, it reaches out over the whole body and drives disease-germs before it into the usual excretory channels. It builds up firm muscular flesh, makes the skin and the eyes bright.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been found wonderfully efficacious in the treatment of skin diseases—eczema, tetter, erysipelas, salt-rheum—from common pimples or blotches to the worst case of scrofula.

TURKISH GENDARMES MUTINY.

They Wanted Their Back Pay and Threatened to Burn the Town if They Didn't Get It—One Officer Killed.

Canea March 2.—The Turkish gendarmes in this city refused yesterday to perform further duty unless they were at once paid 15 months' arrears of wages. The money, of course, was not paid, for the reason that the officials did not have it. To-day the men openly mutinied, threatening to burn the town and massacre the inhabitants. This afternoon Major Bor, the Irish officer who commands the gendarmerie, summoned the mutineers to assemble. Trouble being expected, British marines and French, Italian, Russian, German and Austrian sailors were ranged in the square in front of the site of the palace of the Governor, which was burned a few days ago. The mutineers, who numbered about 45, were addressed by Major Bor, who offered to pay them immediately three months' arrears on account. The offer was refused. The men were then commanded to lay down their arms, but they refused to do so.

Major Bor repeated the order three times, but no attention was paid to it. Another officer then laid his hand upon the shoulder of the nearest gendarme, saying, "Lay down your rifle." Immediately a voice from behind cried, "Don't give in. Fire, gendarmes!" Then several shots were discharged, one of them killing a Turkish colonel who was standing by Major Bor's side. Thereupon the Russians were ordered by their commanding officer to advance and fire upon the mutineers. The British marines were ordered to make ready, but they did not receive the command to fire. The gendarmes replied to the fire of the Russians, wounding an Italian sailor. Then five of the mutineers having fallen, the gendarmes yielded. In the confusion the leaders of the mutiny managed to escape. The remainder were surrounded by the foreign sailors and marines, and were soon lodged in prison.

Major Bor assured the men that they will all be released with the exception of those who first fired. Two of the mutineers were killed and two others are dying from their wounds. The affair created the most intense excitement in the town, where Col. Suleiman Bey, the Turkish officer who was killed, was greatly liked. His murderers are confined on board the British warship Barfleur. A lieutenant-colonel and some other officers were wounded by the fire of the mutineers.

Evacuation Demanded.

London, March 2.—The Athens correspondent of The Daily News telegraphed that the diplomats this evening presented an identical note to M. Skouzes, Minister of Foreign Affairs, demanding the evacuation of Crete by the Greek forces within six days, under a threat of coercion. The note informs Greece that the powers are agreed upon two points: First, that they will not allow Crete to be annexed in any form at present, and, second, that they are prepared to endow Crete with a complete scheme of autonomy. The powers express the hope that Greece will respect their decision.

The correspondent adds that he is assured by the highest authority that Greece will reject the ultimatum.

THE BILL STRANGLED

Mr. Cleveland Vetoes the Immigration Measure.

MESSAGE TO REPRESENTATIVES.

The Corliss Measure is Narrow, Illiberal and Un-American in the President's View—A Radical Departure From the Policy That Has Built Up the Country.

Washington, March 2.—The President sent the following message vetoing the Immigration Bill to the House late this afternoon:

I hereby return without approval House bill No. 7864, entitled, "An Act to Amend the Immigration Laws of the United States." By the first section of this bill it is proposed to amend section one of the act of March 3, 1891, relating to immigration, by adding to the classes of aliens thereby excluded from admission to the United States the following: All persons physically capable and over 16 years of age, who cannot read and write the language or some other language, but a person not so able to read and write who is over 50 years old, and is the parent or grandparent of a qualified immigrant over 21 years of age, and capable of supporting such parent or grandparent, may accompany such immigrant, or such a parent or grandparent may be sent for and come to join the family of a child or grandchild over 21 years of age similarly qualified and capable, and a wife or minor child not so able to read and write may accompany or be sent for and come and join the husband or parent similarly qualified and capable.

A radical departure from our national policy relating to immigration is here presented. Heretofore we have welcomed all who came to us from other lands except those whose moral or physical condition or history threatened danger to our national welfare and safety. Relying upon the jealous watchfulness of our people to prevent injury to our political and social fabric we have encouraged those coming from foreign countries to cast their lot with us and join in the development of our vast domain, securing in return a share in the blessings of American citizenship. A century's stupendous growth, largely due to the assimilation and thrift of millions of sturdy and patriotic adopted citizens, attests the success of this generous and free-handed policy, which, while guarding the people's interests, exacts from our immigrants only physical and moral soundness and a willingness and ability to work.

A contemplation of the grand results of this policy cannot fail to arouse a sentiment for its defence, for, however it might have been regarded as an original proposition and viewed as an experiment, its accomplishments are such that if it is to be uprooted at this late day its disadvantages should be plainly apparent and the substitute adopted should be just and adequate, free from uncertainties and guarded against difficulty or oppressive administration.

It is not claimed, I believe, that the time has come for the further restriction of immigration on the ground that an excess of population overcrowds our land. It is said, however, that the quality of recent immigration is undesirable. The time is quite within recent memory when the same thing was said of immigrants who, with their descendants, are now numbered among our best citizens. The President then goes on to argue against the claims of the restrictionists.

The prohibition against the employment of aliens upon any public works of the United States is in line with other legislation of a like character. It is quite a different thing, however, to declare it a crime for an alien to come regularly and habitually into the United States for the purpose of obtaining work from private parties, if such alien returns from time to time to a foreign country, and to constitute any employment of such alien a criminal offence.

When we consider these provisions of the bill in connection with our long northern frontier, and the boundaries of several of our states and territories, often but an imaginary line separating them from the British Dominions, and recall the friendly intercourse between the people who are neighbors on each side, the provisions of this bill affecting them must be regarded as illiberal, narrow and un-American.

Nervous Prostration

Complete Recovery by the Use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"Some years ago, as a result of too close attention to business, my health failed. I became weak, nervous, was unable to look after my interests, and manifested all the symptoms of a decline. I took three bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, began to improve at once, and gradually increased my weight from one hundred and twenty-five to two hundred pounds. Since then, I and my family have used this medicine when needed, and we are all in the best of health, a fact which we attribute to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I believe my children would have been fatherless to-day had it not been for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, of which preparation I cannot say too much."—H. O. Hinson, Postmaster and Planter, Kinard's, S. C.

PICTURE WRITING.

Three Miles of Bluff in Oregon Covered With Hieroglyphics.

W. B. Whittemore, while in Alturas, Ore., recently, told the Plain Dealer of some remarkable hieroglyphics or picture writing discovered about 15 miles northeast from the north end of Warner valley, on the edge of what is locally known as the "desert," in Lake county. Mr. Whittemore is one of the officers and principal owners of the Warner Valley Stock Company and is thoroughly conversant with the locality. He says the hieroglyphics have been cut with some sharp instrument in the surface of the hard basaltic rock and are perfectly plain to be seen. They cover the face of the bluff for a distance of about three miles and consist of pictures of Indians with bows, arrows and spears, besides deer, antelope, dogs and wolves, geese, ducks, swan and reptiles of various kinds. Intermingled with these animals are characters, which, of course, he could not decipher. Mr. Whittemore says the execution of the pictures is very good and he is satisfied it could not have been the work of ordinary Indians. Throughout the entire distance the characters and pictures are in rows.

The Indians in the vicinity have no knowledge of the meaning of the hieroglyphics or of the people who ages ago chiseled them on the surface of the rocks. One old Indian said there was a tradition among his people that many ages ago a people came there who were very bad. They remained for a long time and went away —where, he knew not.

Now, the question arises: Who were these strange, bad people? They were not, as Mr. Whittemore says, ordinary Indians, for their knowledge of sculpture could never have enabled them to execute the pictures so remarkably true to nature. From the description given the picture writing bears a close resemblance to those found in Mexico and Central America. If this supposition is true a careful study might reveal to the archaeologists some insight into the origin or wanderings of a dead and forgotten civilization.

THE TROUBLE IN THE EAST

Discussed in Both Houses of the British Parliament—Gingerly Speech of Sir William Harcourt.

London, March 3,—In the House of Commons to-day Mr. G. N. Curson, Under Foreign Secretary, read telegrams received from the British Consul at Canea, saying that the Mussulmans in the Island of Crete decided that they would not consent to a union of Crete with Greece and placed high hopes in the action of the great powers to prevent it. The admiral commanding the British warships in Cretan waters, Mr. Curson said, wired that the flags which are hoisted at Selino, Kandanos and Kirstons show that those towns are under the protection of the powers. The Moslems at those places, however, are in great danger of being massacred. The despatch added that a report was in circulation that Christians were exterminating Moslems wherever they went.

Sir William Harcourt raised a debate upon the statement made by Lord Salisbury in the House of Lords on Feb. 25, declaring the policy which the Government intended to pursue in regard to Crete involving the autonomy of that island and the withdrawal of Turkish and Greek naval and military forces, and threatening to impose force in the event of the refusal of Greece or Turkey to withdraw their forces when required to do so. He began by asking whether the powers had assented to the proposals, and pursuing the subject inquired how far it was believed that the autonomy of the island would rid the island of Turkish rule, which was the cause of the present evil. Mr. Curson said that the powers would not allow Crete to be taken out of their hands, as the arrival of the Greek forces upon the island had excited the Christians and infuriated the Moslems.

The House debated the Cretan question until midnight. The speech made by Sir William Vernon Harcourt, the leader of the Liberal party, was a lengthy one, but it consisted merely of eloquent rhetorical platitudes. He created the impression in the lobbies that he had been requested by the Government to treat the question gingerly, as the situation is too critical for outspokenness.

Arthur J. Balfour, the Government leader, said that by autonomy for Crete the Government meant that, subject to the suzerainty of Turkey, the Porte would be powerless to intervene in the local affairs of the island. The Cretans would certainly be enabled to appoint a Christian Governor. If the island should be handed over to Greece it would not add an iota to its freedom, while on the other hand its transfer would imperil the whole peace of Eastern Europe. Greece, he added, had attained her object and if she acted further she would incur the suspicion that she was not animated solely by pure motives.

John Morley said that he believed that to compel Greece to withdraw her fleet and troops from the island would endanger peace. He regarded the Government's scheme with doubt and dissatisfaction and feared that they were only now beginning what would prove a most formidable series of transactions.

At the close of the debate Sir William Vernon Harcourt said a division would be contrary to the interests of Crete, and he therefore withdrew his motion that the House adjourn, which he had made in order to furnish an opportunity for the debate.

In the House of Lords to-day the Earl of Kimberley raised a debate upon the subject of Lord Salisbury's statement of Feb. 25, by asking questions similar to those asked by Sir William Harcourt in the House of Commons, adding that in his opinion it would have been wiser to have joined Crete with Greece than to have given the island an autonomous administration.

Lord Salisbury replied that the proposals setting forth the policy it was intended to pursue in Crete had been accepted by the powers, though that part relating to the withdrawal of the Turkish troops had met with some opposition. They must consider, he said, the interests of the Cretans, and take into account the question whether they desired to become a part of the Hellenic Kingdom. Moreover, they must sympathize with those wider views which favored the preservation of the paramount blessings of European peace, views that had greatly influenced the nations in deciding upon the granting of autonomy to the island, which would be effectual and mean the withdrawal of the arbitrary power of the Sultan. After remarks on the subject by other peers the House adjourned.

Men Who Were Thorns in His Path.

A bright Washington girl was talking to the young man who has the reputation as the life of the party. She found him in a morose mood, but she attributed his taciturn manner to intellectuality, and formed her conversation accordingly, says The Washington Star.

"I'm very fond of books, aren't you?" she said.

"It depends a great deal on what kind they are," he answered.

"Of course. People's tastes differ. I suppose you admire the polished wit of Addison or Steel or Swift."

"I don't read them," was the answer.

"I'm surprised to hear you say that."

"Of course, I have looked into their works. But I don't hang over them and strain my eyes as some people do."

"Perhaps you like the pungency of Dr. Johnson."

"I particularly object to Dr. Johnson," was the answer, in a tone which was unmistakable in its emphasis.

"But you enjoy the bon mots of Sydney Smith?"

"Not a bit."

"Does Douglas Jerrold appeal to you?"

"No."

"They were all very clever."

"That's exactly my objection. It may sound small to admit it, but my grievance is a personal one."

"But they all lived long ago!"

"Of course. I don't say it's their fault. But I can't help regarding them as men who slipped in ahead of everybody else and said all the bright things so that it is almost impossible for a man to be original nowadays."

A card on the outside of office door says—"Gone to lunch. Be back in ten minutes." And the man will be there on time. That is for some days, weeks or even months he will. Then he will be at home occasionally for a day. He'll tell you he had a headache, a turn of cholera morbus, or maybe he'll say he had a lump in his stomach and felt too miserable to move. The lump was probably two or three ten minute lunches condensed.

The man who "bolts" his lunches will find Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the best friend he ever met.

There is no case of biliousness, constipation, indigestion, "heart burn," or trouble of the heart of the nightmare breeding brood that these little "Pellets" will not cure. They cure permanently. Send 31 cents in one-cent stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association Buffalo, N.Y., and receive Dr. Pierce's 1008 page "Common Sense Medical Adviser," profusely illustrated.

James A. Bell, of Beaverton, Ont., brother of the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., prostrated by nervous headaches

A victim of the trouble for several years.

South American Nervine effected a complete cure.

In their own particular field few men are beter known than the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., and his brother Mr. James A. Bell. The former will be recognized by his thousands of friends all over the country as the popular and able missionary superintendent of the Royal Templars of Temperance. Among the 20,000 members of this order in Ontario his counsel is sought on all sorts of occasions. On the public platform he is one of the strong men of the day, battling against the evils of intemperance. Equally well known is Mr. Bell in other provinces of the Dominion, having been for years a member of the Manitoba Methodist Conference and part of this time was stationed in Winnipeg. His brother, Mr. James A. Bell, is a highly respected resident of Beaverton, where his influence, though perhaps more circumscribed than that of his eminent brother, is none the less effective and productive of good. Of recent years, however, the working ability of Mr. James A. Bell has been sadly marred by severe attacks of nervous headache, accompanied by indigestion. Who can do fit work when this trouble takes hold of them and especially when it becomes chronic, as was, seemingly, the case with Mr. Bell? The trouble reached such intensity that last June he was completely prostrated. In this condition a friend recommended South American Nervine. Ready to try anything and everything, though he thought he had covered the list of proprietary medicines, he secured a bottle of this great discovery. A second bottle of the medicine was taken and the work was done. Employing his own language: "Two bottles of South American Nervine immediately relieved my headaches and have built up my system in a wonderful manner." Let us not deprecate the good our clergymen and social reformers are doing in the world, but how ill-fitted they would be for their work were it not the relief that South American Nervine brings to them when physical ills overtake them, and when the system, as a result of hard, earnest and continuous work, breaks down. Nervine treats the system as the wise reformer treats the evils he is battling against. It strikes at the root of the trouble. All disease comes from disorganization of the nerve centers. This is a scientific fact. Nervine at once works on these nerve centers; gives to them health and vigor; and then there courses through the system strong, healthy, life-maintaining blood, and nervous troubles of every variety are things of the past.

Open Meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Mark Street Church.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Mark street church held one of the most successful open meetings they have yet had last evening in the church.

The president, Mrs. M. W. Matchett, presided, and after singing, Mrs. (Dr.) Fife of Peterborough, led the audience in prayer.

A very pleasing vocal trio by Misses Howson and Armstrong, and Mr. H. S. Armstrong was next given and was well received.

Part of the last chapter of Matthew's gospel was then read, and Misses Smith and Armstrong and Mr. Armstrong sang a trio.

The audience then had the pleasure of listening to an interesting address on the work of the Women's Missionary Society by Mrs. Orr of Hastings. The address was full of useful information and helpful hints.

Miss Carrie Boyler followed with a pleasing selection on the mandolin, after which a humorous and instructive reading on Japan was given by Mrs. Wand. A duet by Miss Howson and Mr. Armstrong, and prayer by the pastor, brought a very interesting meeting to a close.

FEBRUARY WEATHER NOTES.

A few notes on the weather for the month that has just passed, compared with the corresponding month of former years may be of interest.

January was an exceptionally mild month ; the average temperature for the month as a whole was a fraction under 18 degrees, or some 4 degrees above the average of former years. February, however, was even milder, and a month which is generally associated with storms and cold dips, was comparatively mild. The average for February was 18.73 degrees. The temperature went below zero three times during the month, viz., on 13th, 26th and 27th. The coldest day was the 27th, last Saturday, when the thermometer stood at 11 degrees below at one time. The warmest day was the 17th, when 41 above was marked. The day of greatest range (that is, the difference between the highest and lowest temperature) was on the 14th, when there was a difference of 35 degrees. There were no storms worthy of the name during the month, the nearest approach to one being on the 12th, when about 3 inches of snow fell with a strong north-east wind. Though the snow fall was light and not nearly up to average, yet the heavy rain of the 6th and 7th brought the total precipitation of the month up to the average. Rain fell on the 6th to the depth of 1.02 of an inch—a heavy rain for one day at any time, and very unusual during a winter month. The three last days of February were the coldest of the month, and March was ushered in with the regulation winds and a low temperature.

SALEM—OTONABEE.

Letter of Condolence

To Sister Ethel and Bros. Herbert and Willie Hunter on the sad Loss they sustained through the death of their beloved mother :

We, the members of Salem E. L. of C. E., wish to convey to you our heartfelt sympathy in the trial which you have been so lately called upon to bear. The very word "mother" has its charm, and we feel that we can only dimly realize what it must be to have the dear living presence removed from sight. But even in the saddest moments there comes a bright ray of light and hope. Though you cannot see her, rest assured her spirit will hover over and around her loved ones here below ; from the bright upper world where the weary are at rest, she is watching and waiting with beckoning hands, calling her loved ones to heavenly lands. While here below, she suffered and languished in weariness and pain. You miss her bright presence, you feel that the future is dark and dreary, but remember the promise. "When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee, and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee." He whose loved her that He hath removed her to a mansion of glory and peace, where no suffering comes, will not forget her motheless children, but will come with especial tenderness and blessing. "I will not leave you comfortless." The very thought of a mother in heaven should act as a powerful magnet to draw you to the heavenly goal. Mourn not her departure, for safe from the world's temptation she lives, whom we call dead. May you so order your lives that in the heavenly kingdom you may be one united family to dwell forever where all tears are wiped away.

We ask you to accept this heartfelt testimodial of our sympathy and sorrow. Signed on behalf of the E. L. of C. E.,

EMMA E. HOWSON, 1st Vice-Pres.
MRS. GEO. SEANEY, 2nd Vice-Pres.
H. S. ARMSTRONG, Secretary.

GREAT RUSH OF LEGISLATION.

Hon. Mr. Gibson's Bill to Regulate Child Immigration a Drastic Measure—Some Agricultural Bills—The Cheese and Butter Makers' Amalgamation.

Toronto, March 4.—There was a great rush of legislation at the House this afternoon, as the term for the introduction of private bills is nearing its close, though it was extended to-day until the 11th of March. In addition to this always numerous class of measures there were about half a dozen bills brought in amending the Municipal Assessment Act.

Mr. Biggar introduced a bill to amend the Game law, which repeals the provisions passed last session preventing hunting or killing deer in the water, and provides that no person is to expose or keep for sale, sell, barter or exchange any venison no matter where killed, until Jan. 1, 1899.

INTRUDERS ON CROWN LANDS.

Hon. J. M. Gibson introduced a bill to remove from Crown lands persons unlawfully thereon. The measure, he explained, provides for the summary eviction of persons whose presence is considered dangerous to the public peace and was only intended to apply to the unorganized parts of the province and not to older settled localities. It relates only to Algoma, Thunder Bay, Rainy River, the part of Nipissing north of the Mattawa River, the township of Ferris and the French River.

CHILD IMMIGRANTS.

Hon. Mr. Gibson moved the second reading of the bill to regulate the immigration into Ontario of certain classes of children. He explained that the bill was supplementary of previous legislation, and would bear close relation to the Children's Act of 1893. Many Children's Aid socities had been established in pursuance of the latter measure, and had done good in taking charge of neglected and dependent children. The measure now introduced dealt with the immigration of children of an undesirable class. Many of those introduced by various societies and agencies had turned out badly, owing to criminal propensities, or hereditary taints of disease or weak-mindedness. As some 2000 children were brought in every year it would be seen that if any considerable proportion of them were thus affected it would be most injurious to the future of the province to allow the process to continue unchecked. He gave figures showing the large number of children brought in by some of the homes and agencies of late years. The bill provided effective machinery of inspection by an examiner before the children were allowed to leave England. No certificate was to be granted in the case of any child who, owing to physical or mental tendencies, was unable to follow a trade or calling, or who was of vicious tendencies or a habitual criminal, or whose parents were criminals, lunatics, idiots, weak-minded paupers or diseased. Heavy penalties were fixed for any violation of the law, a fine of from $10 to $100 being imposed in each case. Agencies undertaking the responsibility of bringing in children, were required to inspect the homes where children were placed by them, and the Superintendent of Neglected Children was commissioned to inspect all agencies for the introduction of children and exercise control as to their placing out. It would be his duty to see that they were properly cared for and educated.

Mr. Whitney expressed his approval of the object of the bill, saying that legislation in this direction had become absolutely necessary. Following the same line as their leader, Messrs. Meacham and Willoughby gave the measure a discriminating endorsement. Mr. McKay (Victoria) thought that "charity begins at home" and would abolish the importation of children altogether. Mr. Howland saw a defect in the bill owing to a lack of classification. No distinction was drawn between quite young children and those who were old enough to be apprenticed or placed out with farmers. The bill received a second reading.

SOME AGRICULTURAL MEASURES.

Hon. John Dryden moved the second reading of the bill to further improve the act respecting the Department of Agriculture. He explained that the object of the measure was to enable the department to secure returns from municipalities by sending an official to obtain them in cases where the municipal officers neglected to send complete returns. In many cases the returns, as sent, were extremely defective. After some discussion the bill received a second reading. A supplementary bill, amending the Municipal Act to secure the same object, was also read a second time.

The second reading of the bill to amend the Agriculture and Arts Act was moved by Hon. John Dryden. The principal object of the measure, he stated, was to carry out the scheme recently arrived at by the members of the Eastern and Western Dairymen's Associations and the Creameries Association, by which they were reorganised as the Butter and Cheese Associations, East and West, to be represented by a number of delegates to be called the Advisory Board. Another clause of the bill allowed firms to become members of the Agricultural Association. In reply to questions from Mr. Crawford and Mr. Whitney, the Minister of Agriculture pointed out that the amalgamation of the cheese and butter-making associations would result in a saving, as one inspector could inspect butter and cheese.

Mr. Crawford regretted that the amalgamation had not gone further and resulted in one general association instead of two bodies for the east and west.

Hon. Mr. Dryden replied that he was opposed to coercion.

Mr. Miscampbell stated that many of the members of the Creameries Association were opposed to the measure and pleaded for delay before adopting the measure.

Mr. Pattullo said the resolution for the amalgamation was carried unanimously and after the matter had been thoroughly threshed out. The work of the associations overlapped and the conviction of dairymen had been growing for years that in keeping up three associations instead of two they were wasting means and energy. There was a geographical reason for maintaining the division between east and west.

Mr. Whitney said that coercion was the leading feature of the bill. He contended that the Creameries Association was opposed to the change.

The bill received a second reading and the House adjourned.

NEW BILLS.

Mr. Moore—To amend the Municipal Act, enabling township councils to pass bylaws for permitting, regulating and licensing the pasturing of animals upon the highway and for fixing the rates of such licenses.

Mr. Stratton—To amend the Municipal Act, where an iron bridge upon stone piers or abutments crossing a navigable river which forms a boundary between two counties, and which is 300 feet in length, and which has been erected from municipal, provincial and Dominion sources, shall be deemed to be a bridge forming a boundary line between two counties, and shall be maintained jointly by the two counties.

Mr. O'Keefe—To amend the Assessment Act, enabling councils to exempt Y.M.C.A. buildings from taxation.

Mr. Stratton—To amend the Assessment Act, where a council adopts the provisions of the Assessment Act, enabling them to take the assessment between the 1st of July and the 1st of October in any year, and there has already been an assessment made for that year, the Council instead of taking a second assessment in the same year may adopt the assessment roll already prepared.

Mr. Gibson (Hamilton)—For the removal from Crown lands of persons unlawfully thereon. The bill provides for the summary eviction of persons from Crown lands whose presence thereon is deemed dangerous to the public peace. The Act applies to Algoma, Thunder Bay, Rainy River, that part of Nipissing lying north of the waters of the Mattawa River, the township of Ferris and the French River.

Mr. German—Respecting cemetery companies. This bill is to enable cemeteries to be established within the limits of towns, where it has been shown to the satisfaction of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council that the cemetery may be established with safety, and where the Municipal Council, the Local Board of Health and the Provincial Board of Health sanction the same.

Mr. Stratton—To amend the Municipal Act; to enable cities, towns and villages to purchase water-power and lands connected therewith, and giving them power to issue debentures therefor, subject to the approval of the electors in the usual manner.

Mr. Biggar—To amend the Game law, repeals the provisions passed last session preventing hunting or killing in the water. No person is to expose or keep for sale, either directly or indirectly, sell or barter or exchange, venison, no matter where killed, until the 1st day of January, 1898.

NOTICES OF MOTIONS.

Mr. Auld—Bill to amend the Municipal Act, also bill respecting affidavits and declarations made before Notaries Public.

Mr. Dynes—To amend the Registry Act by entitling every Registrar to retain to his own use in each year all the fees and emoluments received by him in that year up to $1800 and of the further fees and emoluments received by him in each year in excess of $1800 and not exceeding $2500, he shall be entitled to retain to his own use 75 per cent. and no more, and of the further fees and emoluments received by him in each year in excess of $2500 and not exceeding $4000 he shall be entitled to retain to his own use 50 per cent. and no more, and of the further fees and emoluments received by him in each year in excess of $4000, he shall be entitled to retain to his own use 25 per cent. and no more, and that the expenses of the Registry Office in joint registry divisions be borne by the municipalities in proportion to the fees collected from each.

THE INAUGURATION.

McKinley Goes In and Cleveland Goes Out.

BRILLIANT DAY IN WASHINGTON

The New President Favors an Improvement in Coinage and Banking—Stands by the Protective Principle and Favors the Treaty of Arbitration.

Washington, March 4.—The inauguration of William McKinley as President of the greatest republic on earth was attended by ceremonies which could scarcely be exceeded in pomp and splendor. To-day also Grover Cleveland for the second time passed from the exercise of the high office of President and re-entered private life. In his capacity as ex-President he has but one living contemporary, his immediate predecessor, Benjamin Harrison.

The proceedings of the day were characterised by all the imposing spectacular effects and demonstrations of popular interest which have become a growing feature of inaugural ceremonies as the nation has advanced in population and wealth. Between forty and fifty thousand men formed in procession, partly military, partly civic, and escorted the retiring President and President-elect to and from the Capitol. At least twenty thousand people witnessed the administration of the oath of office on the eastern portico of the Capitol, and listened, or attempted to listen, to the delivery of the new President's brief inaugural address, and at night a gorgeous state ball, at which the people and President will be present, will close the proceedings.

No grander theatre for such a pageant could well be found. Pennsylvania-avenue, 125 feet from curb to curb, along which the procession passed from the White House to the Capitol, presents an uninterrupted vista of over a mile, commencing with the massive Grecian facade of the Treasury Department, which intersects the view at one end, and terminating in the beautiful white dome-crowned Capitol at the other end, with the needle-like shaft of the Washington Monument standing sentinel guard on the right hand, towering 550 feet upwards to the clouds.

All street car traffic was, of course, suspended along the route of the procession; the sidewalks were roped off and were so crowded with people that locomotion was impracticable. Mounted police prevented anyone from attempting to break through the "trocha." It seemed as if Washington's normal population of 200,000 had been swelled by more than an equal number of visiting strangers, and that all were out to see the sight.

Every building on the line of march was draped in bunting of the national colors, and every window and point of vantage was occupied.

The President's personal escort was troop "A," of Cleveland, O., 80 cavalrymen mounted on coal-black chargers, and, still more interesting, a detachment of grizzled veterans from the Twenty-third Ohio Volunteers, Maj. McKinley's old regiment. Gen. Miles, commanding the United States Army, and Rear-Admiral George Brown, ranking officer of the navy, in full uniform, rode immediately after the Presidential party. The second brigade of the First Division consisted of the superbly-drilled and handsomely-equipped National Guard of the District of Columbia. A more brilliant and inspiring scene than this part of the pageant presented could hardly be pictured.

It was a dignified procession that walked from the blue room to the carriage waiting under the portico.

As the President and President-elect approached the carriage Major McKinley stepped back to allow Mr. Cleveland to enter the victoria. Mr. Cleveland was President still, so, by virtue of his office, he took a position on the right hand side of the rear seat. Mr. McKinley sat by his side, facing Senator Mitchell, with Senator Sherman occupying the fourth place.

There was an awkward wait at the west entrance to the driveway, while the military escort was being marched into position. When the last file of regular troops had gone by troop "A" of Cleveland wheeled into position, the gates were opened and the triumphal progress of the new President to the Capitol began. All the stands erected along Pennsylvania-avenue and Fifteenth-street were fairly well-filled with spectators, though the crowds were not quite as great as expected. Every window along the line of march framed half a dozen heads or more. For that entire distance of a mile and a quarter the sidewalks were packed several deep.

Just as the carriage containing Mr. Cleveland and Major McKinley turned the corner of Fifteenth-street into

CROW'S NEST PASS "CONSPIRACY."

A certain Toronto paper is making frantic charges of conspiracy—that certain parties who have acquired valuable coal and other mineral lands in British Columbia, have entered into a conspiracy with the Canadian Pacific Railway to get the Canadian Government to build the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, with the understanding that the C. P. R. will own all, and thereby enter practically into possession of the immense coal and mineral lands specified, less the share of "loot" due the other "conspirators." If the affair was half as fishy as the charge, there would be real cause for alarm. But in the classic language of the late Mr. Pope, "there don't seem to be nothin' to it." In the present condition of the finances of the country there seems to be very little probability of the Government undertaking to build the railway under the conditions charged in this "conspiracy," or any other condition; there is no probability that the Government will enter into a fight with the C.P.R. for the privilege of spending twenty or twenty-five millions in building a provincial railway line, especially when the great railway corporation in question is itself actually engaged in building the Crow's Nest Pass railway. In illustration of the fact, the report of the directors contained in the sixteenth annual report of the Canadian Pacific Railway, just to hand, may be cited. The section of the report referring to the Crow's Nest Pass Railway is as follows:

> Your directors are strongly of the opinion that any delay in securing your interests in that direction will be extremely dangerous—that unless your Company occupies the ground others will, the demand for shipping and travelling facilities being most urgent. The directors feel that they cannot too strongly urge the immediate construction of a line from Lethbridge to a connection with your Columbia and Kootenay Railway at Nelson, a distance of 235 miles, and anticipating your approval, they have already taken steps towards commencement of the work on the opening of spring.
> The unfavourable conditions which have prevailed for the past three years have prevented any effective action towards providing for the traffic of the mining country, but the directors feel now that the improved position and prospects of the company, together with the magnitude of the interests at stake, will fully warrant this important step. The interests of the country at large are so much concerned in this question that your directors confidently expect reasonable assistance at the hands of the Dominion Government.

Not only is it highly improbable that the Government will make a fight for the privilege of building the road and handing it over to the C.P.R., but it is highly probable that, in case any "reasonable assistance," as hinted at in the concluding sentence of the portion of the report quoted, is extended, the Government will insist on any such "reasonable assistance" being made, if made at all, in consideration of certain well defined conditions. The Globe, which may reasonably be supposed to know something of the Government's mind in the matter, suggests these conditions substantially as follows:—

Government regulation of rates on the western section.

Government control of coal lands if the Crow's Nest Railway is built under the British Columbia Southern Railway charter.

Maximum fixed rates for carriage of western staples.

Government approval of construction contracts.

Regulation of through charges by a National Railway Commission.

This doesn't look as though the Dominion Government had much interest in the alleged "conspiracy," which is more, it is safe to assert, a creation of political malice and journalistic imagination than a superstructure of probability built on a foundation of fact.

THE Crow's Nest Pass, or rather, mare's nest, "conspiracy" is a vision seen by the green eye of political jealousy and envy. When the Conservative Government was in power the journals of that ilk regarded the C.P.R. as an angelic creature of light, which must be devoutly worshipped. Now that a "Grit" government is in office the C.P.R. is quite a different sort of angel with Van Horne and hoofs and a forked tail, represented by the western termini, the Crows Nest Pass and the Roger's Pass lines.

THE INAUGURATION.

Pennsylvania-avenue at the south-eastern end of the Treasury building, a halt occurred and while it lasted one of the four mettlesome horses that drew the White House victoria, quivering with excitement, at the music and the shouts, slipped on the asphalt and fell in a heap, after an exciting performance on its hind legs. This excited the other horses, and for a minute or two the mishap gave evidence of serious results. President Cleveland and the President-elect were laughing together at the time. Neither appeared in the least startled, and continued their conversation when the fallen horse had regained his feet.

The approach to the Capitol building was made through a vast concourse of people and the appearance of the retiring and incoming Chief Executive was announced by vociferous cheers that were distinctly heard within the walls of the Senate Chamber. Mrs. McKinley arrived ahead of her husband and repaired to a committee room for a short rest before taking her seat in the gallery.

The Presidential party walked up the main steps of the outside entrance to the Senate. The ascent was evidently burdensome to Mr. Cleveland. He walked with a distinctly rheumatic tread, and supported himself upon a strong umbrella which he carried in his hand. When he reached the top of the steps Mr. Cleveland was puffing considerably, and only recovered from the exertion after he had had a short rest in the President's room.

Mr. McKinley walked briskly, but measured his tread to correspond with that of his companion. He was accompanied to the room of the Vice-President by Senator Sherman. Vice-President-elect Hobart and Senator Elkins received Mr. McKinley. The first question Mr. McKinley asked as he stepped into the room was as to whether Mrs. McKinley had safely reached the Capitol and been taken care of. Assured that this had been done, the President-elect sat down for a short rest, during which he chatted with Senators Sherman and Elkins and Gen. Porter, Grand Marshal of the parade.

At 1.10 o'clock a ringing shout announced the approach from the Senate of the official Presidential party. It was headed by Marshal Wright, of the Supreme Court of the United States and Marshal Wilson of the District of Columbia. Following them came the members of the Supreme Court of the United States, headed by Chief Justice Fuller, with Clerk McKenny carrying the Bible. Then came the Committee of Arrangements, Senators Sherman, Elkins and Mitchell of Wisconsin, and next President Cleveland and Major McKinley. Following these the other occupants of the Senate chamber, headed by Vice-President Stevenson and the Senators, reached the patform and were seated. While this was being done the crowd enjoyed themselves by singing "America" and cheering for McKinley, Cleveland and Sherman.

The first feature of the ceremonial was the administration of the oath of office. The Bible upon which the President took the oath of office was radically different from any that had previously been used on similar occasions. Heretofore the book has been of the style known as pocket Bibles, and was easily held in the hand of the Chief Justice in administering the oath, but to-day the Bible was an immense affair, weighing fully 20 pounds. It was a magnificent specimen of typographic and bookbinders' arts, bound in flexible covers of black seal. In one of the bibs was inserted a silver plate, inscribed: "William McKinley, President of the United States, inaugurated March 4, 1897." The Bible was prepared by the bishops of the African M. E. Church. It is the intention of the bishops to formally present the Bible to President McKinley.

The tumult was so great while the oath was being administered that the ceremony was more pantomime, the voices of the Chief Justice and the President being wholly inaudible to those within a few feet of them.

THE INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

Mr. McKinley in Writing for a Reform in the Coinage and Banking Laws.

After the oath had been taken by the President he delivered his inaugural address, in the progress of which he said: "The responsibilities of the high trust to which I have been called are augmented by the prevailing business conditions, entailing idleness upon willing labor and loss to useful enterprises. The country is suffering from industrial disturbances from which speedy relief must be had. Our financial system needs some revision; our money is all good now, but its value must not further be threatened.

"If, therefore, Congress, in its wisdom, shall deem it expedient to create a commission to take under early consideration the revision of our coinage, banking and currency laws, and give them that exhaustive, careful and dispassionate examination that their importance demands, I shall cordially concur in such action.

"The question of international bi-metallism will have early and earnest attention. It will be my constant endeavor to secure it by co-operation with the other great commercial powers of the world.

"Economy is demanded in every branch of the Government at all times, but especially in periods like the present of depression in business. The severest economy must be observed in all public expenditures, and extravagance stopped wherever it is found, and prevented wherever in the future it may be developed.

"The best way for the Government to maintain its credit is to pay as it goes—not by resorting to loans, but by keeping out of debt—through an adequate income secured by a system of taxation, external or internal, or both. It is the settled policy of the Government, pursued from the beginning and practised by all parties and administrations, to raise the bulk of our revenue from taxes upon foreign productions entering the United States for sale and consumption, and avoiding, for the most part, every form or direct taxation except in time of war. The country is clearly opposed to any needless additions to the subjects of internal taxation, and is committed by its latest popular utterance to the system of tariff taxation. There can be no misunderstanding, either, about the principle upon which this tariff taxation shall be levied, Nothing has ever been made plainer at a general election than that the controlling principle in the raising of revenue from duties on imports is zealous care for American interests and American labor. The people have declared that such legislation should be had as will give ample protection and encouragement to the industries and the development of our country. It is, therefore, earnestly hoped and expected that Congress will, at the earliest practicable moment, enact revenue legislation that shall be fair, reasonable, conservative and just, and which, while supplying sufficient revenue for public purposes, will still be signally beneficial and helpful to every section and every enterprise of the people.

"To this policy we are all, of whatever party, firmly bound by the voice of the people—a power vastly more potential than the expression of any political platform. The paramount duty of Congress is to stop deficiencies by the restoration of that protective legislation which has always been the firmest prop of the treasury. The passage of such a law or laws would strengthen the credit of the Government, both at home and abroad, and go far towards stopping the drain upon the gold reserve held for the redemption of our currency, which has been heavy and well-nigh constant for several years.

"In the revision of the tariff, especial attention should be given to the re-enactment and extension of the reciprocity principles of the law of 1890, under which so great a stimulus was given to our foreign trade in new and advantageous markets for our surplus agricultural and manufactured products. The brief trial given this legislation amply justifies a further experiment and additional discretionary power in the making of commercial treaties, the end in view always to be the opening up of new markets for the products of our country, by granting concessions to the products of other lands that we need and cannot produce ourselves, and which do not involve any loss of labor to our own people, but tend to increase their employment.

"Business conditions are not the most promising. It will take time to restore the prosperity of former years. If we cannot promptly attain it, we can resolutely turn our faces in that direction and aid its return by friendly legislation.

"Our naturalization and immigration laws should be further improved, to the constant promotion of a safer, a better, and a higher citizenship. A grave peril to the Republic would be a citizenship too ignorant to understand or too vicious to appreciate the great value and beneficence of our institutions and laws, and against all who come here to make war upon them our gates must be promptly and tightly closed.

"Congress should give prompt attention to the restoration of our American merchant marine, once the pride of the seas in all the great ocean highways of commerce. Commendable progress has been made of late years in the upbuilding of the American navy, but we must supplement those efforts by providing as a proper consort for it a merchant marine amply sufficient for our own trade to foreign countries.

"It has been the policy of the United States since the foundation of the Government to cultivate relations of peace and amity with all the nations of the world, and it accords with my conception of our duty now.

"We want no wars of conquest; we must avoid the temptation of territory aggression. War should never be entered upon until every agency of peace has failed.

"Upon our invitation a treaty of arbitration was negotiated between the United States and Great Britain, and transferred to the Senate for its ratification, in January last. Since this treaty is clearly the result of our own initiative, since it has been recognized as the leading feature of our foreign policy throughout our entire national history, the adjustment of difficulties by judicial methods rather than by force of arms—and since it presents to the world the glorious example of reason and peace, not passion and war—controlling the relations between two of the greatest nations of the world—an example certain to be followed by others, I respectfully urge the early action of the Senate thereon, not merely as a matter of policy, but as a duty to mankind. The importance and moral influence of the ratification of such a treaty can hardly be overestimated in the cause of advancing civilization."

The President, having decided to convene Congress in extraordinary session on the 15th inst., submits his motive:

"There could be no better time to put the Government upon a sound financial and economic basis than now. The people have only recently voted that this should be done, and nothing is more binding upon the agents of their will than the obligation of immediate action. It has always seemed to me that the postponement of the meeting of Congress until more than a year after it has been chosen deprived Congress too often of the inspiration of the popular will and the country of the corresponding benefits. It is evident, therefore, that to postpone action in the presence of so great a necessity would be unwise on the part of the Executive."

When President McKinley arose to read his inaugural address there was a great cheer, but when it subsided the crush and tumult of the restless, moving crowd were so great that it was impossible to hear a word. The crowd surged around the stand and many ladies were almost crushed. Cries of "police" were the only words that could be recognized in the confusion. Many of the crowd were compelled to climb the fence surrounding the platform in order to escape serious bodily harm. In the midst of all the confusion President McKinley read his address, standing with bared head, while his predecessor sat at his right, heavy tile on head, and gave his attention not so much to what was being said, as to the noise and tumult about him. The situation was somewhat relieved by the people on the edges of the crowd moving away and giving more room to those near the speaker.

Major McKinley read his speech from manuscript. His hat rested by his side, his head was thrown back, as is usual with him when speaking earnestly, and his fine face stood out with silhouette distinctness against the background formed by the massive Capitol building. He was dressed in dark colors, and wore the badge presented to him yesterday by Postmaster-General Wilson at the request of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon, the college fraternity of which the President is a member.

Toward the close of the reading of the address the commotion in the crowd stilled and Mr. McKinley's clear, ringing voice penetrated to a great distance from where he stood. His patriotic declaration that the institutions of the country must be preserved and the law of the land recognized and obeyed evoked loud cheers. The colored people in the crowd tumultuously applauded the sentiment that lynchings must cease, that courts, not mobs, enforce the extreme penalty of the law. The sentiment that Civil Service reform must go on evoked loud applause, but the most enthusiastic reception was given to the assertion that in our foreign policy the recognition of the utmost rights of American citizens would be insisted upon. Equal almost was the pleasure expressed at the announcement that he would convene Congress in special session on Monday, the 15th of March, only 10 days distant.

At the close of the address President McKinley was congratulated by ex-Vice-President Stevenson, Hon. Galusha A. Grow, the venerable ex-Senator of the House of Representatives and others.

The new President and ex-President then left the stand and were conducted to the room of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs, where a luncheon was spread for them and their immediate attendants.

While the inaugural ceremonies were progressing in the Senate Chamber, the vast throngs on the plaza of the Capitol resorted to various devices to pass the time waiting for the appearance of the Presidential party. At 12.30 someone started the familiar strains of Bethany, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and they soon swelled into a mighty roar.

The new President's mother, assisted by her son Abner and his wife, and her daughter Helen, were next welcomed by Mrs. Cleveland, and then several others of the McKinley party.

Within three minutes Mrs. Cleveland had said a pleasant word to each of these and had bidden Mrs. McKinley an affectionate farewell. Then, with tears in her eyes, she entered Secretary Lamont's carriage and was driven rapidly to his house, where the retiring Cabinet ladies were awaiting her at luncheon. She was compelled to hasten her departure, however, and, with a hurried handshake and a kiss to those who have been her nearest friends, she was off again to the station with Secretary Thurber, and at 3.17 o'clock, the very moment Mr. Cleveland was leaving the White House, his wife, in a special car, left Washington for her future home at Princeton.

It was 2.20 when President McKinley ascended the steps leading to the reviewing stand. As he appeared at the rear central door the relatives, friends and guests on the platform gave him round after round of hand-clapping. Bowing to right and left, with smiling countenance, he walked, hat in hand, to the sheltered niche selected for him. He was cheered, as was also Vice-President Hobart, as he stepped forward, followed by Mrs. Hobart. The appearance of the President was the signal for the halted procession to resume its progress. A cannon boomed off in the distance and the grand review began.

The Governors of States, as they marched past with their brilliantly caparisoned staffs, were loudly cheered, especially Gov. Bushnell from McKinley's own State.

The marching of the regulars, cavalry, artillery, infantry and marines was all that could be desired, and drew cheers all along the line.

A FAMOUS MAN!

What His Researches Have Done for the World.

DR. CHASE.

All successful and distinguished men have imitators, and Dr. Chase, the well-known author of Chase's Recipe Book, proved no exception to the rule. Dr. Chase's discoveries have many pretended rivals, but no equals.

Long scientific researches produced Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Chase's Ointment, the first a certain cure for all kidney, liver, stomach, bladder and rheumatic troubles; the latter an absolute specific for chronic and offensive skin diseases. Among his other discoveries were Chase's Catarrh Cure and Chase's Linseed and Turpentine for colds and bronchitis.

During 1895 the Canadian manufacturers, Edmanson, Bates & Co., 45 Lombard street, Toronto, gave away free 500,000 samples of Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and 100,000 samples of Chase's Ointment. The return they brought proved how much they were appreciated. The same free distribution of samples will be continued during 1896. Those at a distance should enclose a 5-cent stamp and also receive a sheet of the latest music in return.

Harris Tweeds

From the Highlands o' Scotland.

We have been fortunate in securing a limited supply of these rare and much admired Scotch Tweeds, so highly prized by the aristocracy of the old country.

The chief beauty of the Harris Tweeds lies in their rough finish, being home-spun and dyed, and deftly woven on hand looms by thrifty and ingenious hand weavers of the Highlands of Scotland, never having been inside of a factory.

They are guaranteed pure Scotch Wool, and retain the peculiar odor of the heather and peat, so susceptible to the olfactory nerves of the sons of Auld Scotia.

In neutral shades, devoid of anything like conspicuous pattern, for Shooting, Cycling and Outing Suits.

The demand for the Harris Tweeds is always in excess of the supply—only 25 pieces having been secured for Canada, of which we obtained a select number. Ask to see these Novelties at

AN EXEMPLARY PENALTY.

Thomas Brady is Found Guilty and Sentence Imposed by Judge Weller.

The Brady trial was resumed before Judge Weller this morning, the Crown being represented by Mr. R. R. Wood and the prisoner by Mr. W. A. Stratton.

For the defence, Mr. E. Brown testified that the stock was not worth more than fifty cents on the dollar.

The judge, in reviewing the evidence and the case, pointed out that intent to defraud creditors was shown, inasmuch as the prisoner after assigning, instead of turning over the proceeds of the sale of his stock for the benefit of his creditors, disposed of it otherwise and to their disadvantage. He found the prisoner guilty, and the sentence that was imposed was a fine of $250 and two months in goal. In the case of the fine not being paid, the term of imprisonment will be extended four months longer.

THE CATTLE LIFTING CASE.

It Has Been Enlarged Until Monday Next.

The investigation of the charge of cattle lifting preferred against John Ackerson and Geo. Moncrief has been postponed until Monday next.

This morning the court room was crowded with residents of the county when the case was called. It appears that the credit of the arrest is due to the exertions of Constable Archie Moore and not Detective Greer.

Mr. O'Connell, counsel for Ackerson, stated to the court that the prisoners would elect to be tried by a jury. Bail to the amount of $1,000 is asked for each.

Mr. R. M. Dennistoun is acting for Moncrief.

HEADLIGHT OF THE "PIONEER" CANADIAN RAILWAY LOCOMOTIVE.

Presented Through Mr. J. B. McWilliams to the Historical Society.

Mr. J. McWilliams was to-day presented with the headlight of the first locomotive engine that ever ran on a Canadian railway by Mr. J. L. Aunger, ex-reeve of Belmont, to whose generosity the public is indebted for the fine cairn of mineral specimens now on the Court House lawns. The locomotive to which this headlight belonged was used on what is said to have been the first railway line in Canada—from Montreal to Lachine—and was afterwards placed on the old Cobourg Railway, when that road was opened in the early fifties. Many will remember the old "Pioneer" with its two driving wheels. The headlight which has been presented by Mr. McWilliams had a seperate platform to itself in front of the boiler. It is 14 inches in length and 9 inches in diameter, with plate glass front, and resembles in shape an immense "dark lantern." It was made by a Sheffield firm, though the brass plate bearing the maker's name is too deeply encrusted with repeated layers of paint to be decipherable. When, many years ago, the "Pioneer" was broken up at Blairton, the headlight passed into Mr. Aunger's possession, together with the plate bearing the name "Pioneer," which will also come into possession of the Historical Society later.

GOOD TEMPLARS.

An Entertainment by City Lodge I.O.G.T.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the City Lodge open meeting last evening. All numbers did credit to the performers, but, perhaps, the recitations by Misses Edna Armstrong, Alberta Mark, Sadie Rutherford and Ethel Bradshaw are deserving of special mention. This is the first time these young ladies have appeared in this role, and the unanimous decision was that they all possessed decided talent. Should they again favour the lodge a larger audience is promised, but not a more appreciative one.

Grover C. Connelly, of Richmond Corners, N. B., says of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure; "I am pleased I used Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure I had it in a very severe form for nearly five years. I used several so-called cures, but got no relief. None of them did me any good. One box of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure completly cured me.

The Jameson raid in South Africa and subsequent events, touching the matter, have become of world-wide interest. Owing to the fact that our countryman, Hon. Edward Blake, one of our greatest statesmen, is acting on the Parliamentary Committee appointed to enquire into the circumstances which resulted in Jameson's raid, Canadians feel something like a local interest in the matter, and the people of Peterborough no doubt will feel a little pardonable pride from the fact that they are to be the first audience in the new world having an opportunity of seeing those beautiful coloured views, which comprise over sixty, of the most thrilling scenes of this historical event. The entertainment will also consist of vocal and instrumental music. Reserved seats 50c, general admission 35c. Plan of hall at Sallabary & Co's.

A SHOCKING FATALITY.

Little Roy Morrison Falls off a Sleigh and is Fatally Injured.

A shocking and fatal accident occurred on Albert street, between five and six o'clock Thursday evening, which caused the death of Albert Roy Morrison, only son of Mr. Robt. Morrison, a respected citizen, employed in the General Electric Works.

The little fellow had been on the street, watching for his father's return from work, as was his regular habit, and jumped on a sleigh driven by Mr. Mat. Johnston. A number of other children had also got on the rig, and were enjoying a merry sleigh ride, when, from some cause or other, little Roy Morrison fell off in front of the runners. The sleigh, which was heavily loaded with bags of grain, must have passed over the body in such a way as to cause almost instant death. A young girl, the daughter of Mr. Shambo, picked up the unconscious child and carried him into his father's house, a short distance from where the accident occurred, and laid him in the arms of his mother.

Dr. Pigeon, who was passing a few minutes later, was called, but found the unfortunate boy past all medical aid. On examination it was found that the right arm was broken, one side of the body crushed, and the neck and spine injured sufficiently to cause his death.

Coroner Bell was notified and found that as the fatality was purely accidental, no inquest was necessary. It may also be stated that Mr. Morrison attaches no blame to Mr. Johnston, the driver of the sleigh, who, it seems, did not know until this morning that the boy met his death.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrison, who have been so suddenly bereft of their only son in so shocking a manner, will receive the sincere sympathy of the community in their sad affliction.

The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock from the family residence, Albert street.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

Rink Talk and Items of Local and General Interest to Sportsmen.

HOCKEY.

A strong picked team comes over from Lindsay this evening for a game of hockey and the following seven has been picked to give them a match: Goal, Wasson; point, Hollingshead; cover point, Thorne; forwards, King, Crossley, Belleghem and Davidson. As this is the last match of the season and promises to be very close, the rink should be liberally patronized.

In the deciding game of the series between the Collegiate Institute and the Business College the latter team won by 8 goals to nil, thus bringing the set of hockey sticks offered by Mr. Calcutt, to the victors. The teams were composed as follows:

Business College.		Coll. Inst.
J Campbell	goal	L Best
S Johnston	point	J Burnham
J Comstock	cover point	L Hall
H Spence, W Ackerman, H Labbe, H Snowden	forwards	T Burnham, G Dunnie, J Dixon, — McGrath

Umpires—T Ames and H Morgan.
Referee—A Hubbs.

The moulders and canoe-builders came together at the rink last night, and though the canoe-builders scored the first goal, their opponents are credited with first blood, as Richardson had to retire early in the game with the "claret" streaming from his nose. The two teams were composed as follows:

Canoe Men.		Moulders.
A Hearn	goal	W Logan
R Burley	point	W Menzies
J Smith	cover point	A Elliott
W Rogers, J Richardson, W Mountief, J Comstock	forwards	W Law, J Green, A Bell, C Campbell

Harry King—Referee.

The game was a rusher from start to finish, but the canoe-builders knew too much about it for the moulders, playing their men in position, whilst the moulders followed the puck all over the ice. If the moulders would leave a man or two on defense the game would be closer. The score was 5—6 in favour of the canoe-builders.

CURLIANA.

Three rinks of Bobcaygeon curlers drove into town last evening for a friendly match, which resulted as follows:

Peterborough.		Bobcaygeon
H R H Keener, C N Brown, W Salisbury, J H Connal, skip	20	F Minns, T McCamus, A E Bottum, W J Read, skip	12
H Snowden, C Rutherford, J Stanger, J B Pentland, skip	27	C Arnberg, Jas Robinson, A P Ross, W A Davis, skip	7
Geo Giroux, Geo Whiten, W L Allen, Judge Weller, skip	23	J Wilson, Dr Baker, W McIntyre, W Robinson, skip	6
	60		24

Majority for Peterborough, 45.

At the conclusion of the match the visitors were given an oyster supper at McCallum's restaurant, and a couple of hours were passed most pleasantly, during which the 'Cayugeon men pressed for a return match before the season closed.

THE WHEEL.

The Bicycle Club held a meeting last evening and decided to support Brantford for the meet. Another meeting will be held at a later date to select delegates to the annual meeting of the C.W.A. on Good Friday.

LOCAL NEWS.

Primary Sunday School Teachers' Union.

A Primary Union was organized in Peterborough in connection with the County S. S. convention, held in February. The local meetings are being held weekly in St. Paul's church parlour. All primary workers will be made welcome every Friday evening at 7.45 o'clock.

Lost.

A small pocket book bound in superior eel skin and faced with red flannel, containing something less than $14,000 in bills of various denominations, tied up with an order for $5 00 worth of best groceries obtained in town on E. BROWN & Co., 394 George street, Wholesale and Retail Grocers.

No Stone Crushing Machine.

The Street and Bridge Committee met last night, when the principal business discussed was relative to the purchase of a stone crushing machine. Councillor McWilliams, the chairman, was much opposed to such a course of action, and succeeded in getting a motion passed, whereby the corporation labourers will continue to break the stone with hammers. At present there are seventy of these men engaged on the stone piles, and the loss of work would mean a great deal to them.

Gough Bros. Premium Clock.

Men need good clothing and furnishings, but they need to keep good time as well. Not satisfied with squeezing the prices of their merchandise down to a mere skeleton of old-time figures, Gough Bros., the Wonderful Cheap Men, are now making free gifts to their patrons. Their latest offer is that when your purchases of clothing, boots, shoes, hats or furnishings amount to $25, you will receive from the "live hustlers" a present of a handsome $4 mantle clock, set in plush. There can be no thrift without saving, and if you can only save the price of your clock, you've made a "timely" start. GOUGH BROS. 3dw

Fire Inspection.

The Orillia Packet says: Inspector Howe of the Fire Underwriters' Association, came to town on Monday at the request of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and spent the afternoon examining the town's new electric fire alarm system, new fire hall and appliances. Mr. W. J. Hickey, chairman of the committee, and ex-mayor Jupp accompanied Mr. Howe in his tour around town. The inspector expressed himself as much pleased with all that he saw, pronounced the alarm system first-class, and fire hall one of the very best buildings of the kind in Canada. He had no fault to find with the equipment, and intimated that his report would give the town a most favourable rating. The horses were hitched and the hose wagon run out in 15 seconds, but Mr. Howe did not consider a water test necessary as he knows the pressure, and not long since expressed pleasure at the prompt service of the fire brigade. There seems nothing in the way now of a Class C rating for Orillia, and the authorities should not relax their efforts until this is secured. The driver states that the horses are much more keen at night than during the day, and have been hitched and out in ten seconds.

The blue-bird is hailed as a harbinger of Spring. It is also a reminder that a blood-purifier is needed to prepare the system for the debilitating weather to come. Listen and you will hear the birds singing: "Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla in March, April, May."

The weather will be moderate, with local snowfalls.

OUR PETERBOROUGH SIXTY YEARS AGO.

HISTORICAL PAPER BY MR. HAMPDEN BURNHAM.

As Read Before the Town and County Historical Society Last Evening—An Art Loan Exhibition to be Held—Arrangements for it to Begin Immediately.

Last night's meeting of the Historical Society was fraught with especial interest inasmuch as a paper was read by Mr. Hampden Burnham, on the settlement of Peterborough, which besides being most interesting is also of great historic value. The paper was read as appended:

It is not my purpose to attempt anything of an ambitious kind in this little paper. I simply wish to recall the settlement now known throughout the province as the town of Peterborough, as it was more than 60 years ago, and I shall omit all reference to times subsequent to 1837.

Those of us who have gone far into the trackless forest or have sought the little lakes with which this country abounds, placed as they are frequently in situations at once romantic and picturesque, will have some idea of the beauty of this part of the Newcastle District as it was a century ago. If scenes such as I speak of are pleasing to us how much more delightful were they to those who fled from the arena of the American revolution or who left the older countries when the lapse of fortune or the pressure of population required it. Though the incomers felt, as the history of those times shows, all the sadness of exiles from their native lands, yet the glorious country to which they came, free from the objectionable features of those they came from, presented to their eyes not only the prodigality of nature in wood and water and fertile soil, but the vision of a future of their own building, the vision of a freedom bound by the narrow will of no man. In talking over old times with some of the early settlers, many of whom now lie in the quiet churchyard, I have invariably found that the hardships and privations suffered in the early days in the new and unbroken country instead of destroying the pleasures of life enhanced these delights when they came.

EARLY HARDSHIPS.

When men and women walked thirty or forty miles to see each other they did so because they rejoiced in the visit and not because of the fatigue of leisure and idle hours at home. In this district, as in many others in Canada, some of the settlers were people of education and culture, and these have left behind them materials from which we may gather both the natural and social history of the country. In Peterborough there is but little documentary evidence of events previous to 1845. The story of the district prior to that time has depended largely on the memory of the "oldest inhabitant." Before 1818 the county of Peterborough was uninhabited by white settlers in the northern part. An odd surveyor or explorer had been through, but that was all. The Indians, chiefly of the Ojibway and Mississagua tribes, with a few Mohawks, held undisputed sway. In order to give a just idea of the appearance of the country at that time I shall quote from Mrs. Dunlop's edition of the letters of her mother, the wife of the Hon. T. A. Stewart, written, many of them, to her friend, the distinguished novelist, Maria Edgeworth, and also from a letter or two of Mr. Stewart's, as well as from Major Strickland's history of twenty-seven years in Canada West. This extract is from a letter of Mr. Stewart's to his wife at Cobourg, where she remained until her husband had placed their new home in the back woods in order:

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO.

"Dec. 15th, 1822.—I was waiting till I had seen our lands before I wrote to you (these lands were situate along the river above Auburn Mills). I went up there some time ago with some provisions and warm clothing for Mr. Reid and the party we have working building houses and clearing land. The township we have got land in is called Douro, and is just thirty-six miles due north (of Cobourg.) I will give you a short description of my little journey up there. . . . I hired a yoke of oxen to take us and our baggage to Rice Lake, so called from the great quantity of rice that grows in it which is very nice for soup, etc. We had a rough ride of it as the road is very bad through the woods. We got to the ferry-house at dark and the next morning the boat with our luggage and ourselves was ready to start about 12 o'clock. We went right across the beautiful Rice Lake. All it wants to equal Killarney is the mountains. There are some beautiful islands covered with woods and long points running out into the lake. . . . After rowing about three-quarters of an hour we entered the fine and noble river Otonabee. To describe the river is beyond my pen, but you may conceive a deep and slow running river about three times as wide as the Liffey, lined at both sides to the water's edge with large trees and the banks in general rising from the water to a considerable height, except here and there you could see a few acres cleared away and a neat log-house built. Almost all are inhabited by naval or military officers."

REFERENCE TO THE CLIMATE.

I will now proceed to read an extract bearing on the climate also this time from Major Strickland's account of this district before 1830. "The dry air of Canada, though so low in temperature, has not such chilling effects on my frame as that of England. Besides the sharp piercing cold of the Canadian winter is really invigorating and warm thick clothing can guard the frame from damp which we continually breathe in England and which no precaution can really exclude." . . . "It is indeed impossible to exaggerate the autumnal beauty of the forests. Nothing under heaven can be compared to its grandeur. Two or three frosty nights in the decline of autumn transform the boundless verdure of a whole empire into every possible tint of brilliant scarlet, rich violet, every shade of blue and brown, vivid crimson and glittering yellow. The stern inexorable fir tribes alone maintain their eternal sombre green. All others on mountains or in valleys burst into the most glorious vegetable beauty, and exhibit the most splendid panorama on earth." These extracts give an idea of the feelings excited in the early settlers, and if there is one thing more than another of profit to the present generation in these experiences it is the evidence of a disposition on the part of these early settlers to be content with their surroundings—so different from the frivolous and complaining tendency of to-day, when it is difficult to find the least trace of that resignation and quietude of mind which is so conducive to bodily health and mental happiness.

AMUSEMENTS OF THE PERIOD.

It must not be supposed that these people did not amuse themselves, but their amusement was the recreation of people who enjoyed entertainment after care, and not the idle frivolity of people who neither think nor spin. Their reading and reflections, as we see, were of the deepest and purest kind, so that we find more food in a page of one of these old settlers' letters than in a week of much of the conversation of the present. The lesson of patience and simplicity is I think the very best legacy they have left us.

From Poole's History of Peterborough we learn a variety of things, more especially regarding the rise of the business portion of the place. In the year following the settlement of the township of Smith—i. e. in 1819—we find a party landing just above what was afterwards Spalding's Bay, and selecting a mill site about where the Peterborough Canoe Co's building is situate. This mill (saw and grist under one roof) was established there about two years after, which would be in 1821, and was known as Scott's Mill. Up to 1825 the present town of Peterborough had only two inhabitants, Mr. Scott the owner of the the mill and one employee. The line of travel from "the front" was across Rice Lake and up the river, leading from the town of Cobourg, already a place of some importance, past Scott's mill to the townships of Smith and Douro in the north and in the East Riding to the township of Otonabee, &c. The East Riding, especially in its southern part, was a considerably older settlement than the west, although all told the number of settlers north of Rice Lake at this period did not exceed 500. The autumn of 1825 was signalized by the arrival of Hon. Peter Robinson's immigrants at the infant village of Scott's Plains, after 1827

TO BE NAMED PETERBOROUGH

in honour of Mr. Peter Robinson. They were brought up in a large boat 60 feet long and 8 feet wide, propelled by oars, which by repeated trips, landed them all at the same spot which Scott and his party had landed at six years before. Provisions were furnished by the Government. Roads were then cut in various directions to allow of these and other settlers' getting to and from their locations in the townships. A few families remained permanently in Peterborough. It will be better now to confine ourselves more strictly to Peterborough, which began, with the populating of the townships, to increase also in population and importance. Poole says that "a reserve was made in the survey of the township of North Monaghan in 1818 for the site of the future town of Peterborough, but it was not until 1823 that the town plot was laid out by actual survey by Richard Birdsall, Esq., surveyor, under the direction of the Hon. Zaccheus Burnham, to whom this task, together with the survey of some of the neighbouring townships, had been assigned. In the spring of 1825 the general site of the town was still in a state of nature. The ground west of the creek (i.e. English's Creek) was densely wooded with a heavy growth of pine, interspersed with beech and maple, while between that stream and the river the character of the soil was that known as the 'plains,' and the trees were of stunted oak and scrubby pine, with smaller brushwood and occasional grassy spots, some of which bore traces of the Indian's camp or hunter's solitary fire." Mr. Scott's own house, the first in Peterborough, and recently pulled down, was just behind the present Huffman house. The buildings next erected were four log houses

FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE IMMIGRANTS,

one being a church, one the surgeon's surgery, one a provision house and one a business office. A large log building known as Government House, was erected also just behind where the Bank of Montreal now stands, having an extensive garden which included what is now the eastern portion of Simcoe street. The immigrant families who intended to remain on "the plains" also put up small log shanties. The various trades were shortly after represented by little shops in the same vicinity and two frame taverns graced the landscape. The "cash business" was then a thing unknown and the difficulties of the credit system were numerous since the incoming tradesmen did not know the settlers by name. Consequently entries like this had to be made, "a bar of soap to the woman with the red cloak." In 1827 and 8 the number of business houses increased so rapidly that they lost the charm of novelty. To show how the value of land changes on the coming in of population that corner now occupied by the Bank of Toronto was offered as a free gift to Mr. Robert Reid, in 1825, but declined by him, being so low and wet as to be worthless. The first school house was a log building near the present site of the Central School. Rev. Mr. Armour, the first Church of England clergyman in Peterborough, was the head and staff. It is interesting also to note the occasion of the first law-suit. A man named Crawford put up a little frame tavern in 1828 about where the Bank of Commerce stood. This building was afterwards drawn down to the piece of land occupied by Stenson's shoe shop. But the reputed owner of this land, one Graves, had failed to pay for it to the real owner, Mr. Birdsall, and to make matters worse Crawford insisted on retaining possession. Hence the first lawsuit was Birdsall vs. Graves and Crawford. Now let us go back to 1825. You will remember my mentioning the Government House on the present site of the Bank of Montreal. To the consternation of the small band of inhabitants a visit of the Governor, His Excellency, Sir Peregrine Maitland, was announced in the winter of that year. He was accompanied by a suite, consisting of Col. Talbot, Sir John Robinson, Hon. Z. Burnham and Mr. Bethune. The journey from Cobourg was made in sleighs. After crossing Rice Lake they drove up through the township of Otonabee and were entertained at dinner by Captain Rubidge, R. N. At "The Plains," as they were yet called, they were met by the chief settlers and were entertained in the Government House. The honours were done by Hon. T. A. Stewart, Capt. Rubidge and Mr. Reid. His Excellency held a reception and was presented with addresses by the inhabitants of the different sections of the Newcastle district. His Excellency also drove up to Ennismore to inspect a new colony there and visited the house of Mr. Eugene McCarthy, I mention this visit of His Excellency to Peterborough and his inspection of the district to show the care taken by the colonial department of the Home Government of the interests of the colonists. It is interesting to note the change in our governmental relations with England since that time. It was upon the occasion of this visit, too, that the name of Peterborough was given to the "Plains," at Mrs. Stewart's suggestion. In response to the appeals of the people in their addresses, the government built a new grist mill. In urging the appeals, one Smithstown farmer said that he had to get up in the night and chew grain for the children's bread for the next day and that his jaws were giving out. It was put up on the Dickson property where the first dam was built and was sold to Messrs. Hall & Lee, who operated it. At the same time (1826) the government built a bridge across the Otonabee near the site of the present one. It was carried away, however, and when the river was not fordable a rope was stretched across to which a boat was attached and then by the manipulation of the rudder, on the principle of the car of a gondola, the car-

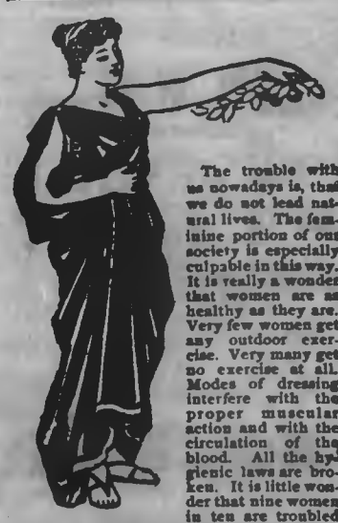
HOURS—11.30 to 4.



The trouble with us nowadays is, that we do not lead natural lives. The feminine portion of our society is especially culpable in this way. It is really a wonder that women are as healthy as they are. Very few women get any outdoor exercise. Very many get no exercise at all. Modes of dressing interfere with the proper muscular action and with the circulation of the blood. All the hygienic laws are broken. It is little wonder that nine women in ten are troubled with some derangement or irregularity in the action of the organs distinctly feminine. Neglect and wrong living will show themselves first in the most delicate organs of the whole body. With such weakness and sickness so prevalent, it is to be expected that the bearing of children would be fraught with dread and danger. It should not be so, of course. Nature never meant it to be so. The performance of the highest function of which a woman is capable should not be accompanied by pain. If perfectly natural living were the rule, it would not be so. As lives are lived, something else must be done. A remedy must be found. For over thirty years, Dr. Pierce has been chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. During that time he has treated thousands of women. He has found in his "Favorite Prescription" a never-failing specific for female complaints. It strengthens the whole body and when taken during gestation, shortens the period of labor and makes childbirth well-nigh painless. It also promotes an abundant secretion of nourishment for the child.

GALE AND FLOOD IN ENGLAND.

A Number of Vessels Wrecked Off Yarmouth—Some Loss of Life—The Storm Still Raging.

London, March 3.—A terrific southwesterly gale is prevailing along the coasts and in the interior of England. A number of vessels have been wrecked off Yarmouth and isolated cases of drowning are reported. Heavy seas have swept over the decks of the Channel packets, all of which are greatly overdue in arriving at their destinations. The gales have been accompanied by heavy rains and immense tracts of land in Hertfordshire and Bedfordshire are inundated.

Details of the damage done by the gale continue to come in, but owing to the general prostration of the wires they are still meagre.

A train running was overturned by the force of the wind, but no loss of life is reported.

Along the coast and in the interior as well miles upon miles of telegraph wires have been broken off. Weymouth harbor is filled with wreckage of all kinds and all manner of craft in the harbor is adrift. The extensive harbor works which were in course of construction at Hastings have been demolished and a great quantity of valuable machinery and material carried away. Scores of fishing boats have foundered at and off Lowestoft, but in some cases nobody was on board, and in others the crews were rescued by hard work on the part of the life-savers. The pier at Fremington has been crushed to pieces by the tremendous seas and a large number of wrecks are reported on the Devonshire coast. The gale is still raging with no indications of abatement of its fury.

Reports of the havoc wrought by the gale are still being received. A despatch from Cardiff says that a boat containing six workmen was swamped in the harbor there and its occupants were drowned.

The schooner Amaranth arrived at Cowes, Isle of Wight, to-day and reports that her captain was carried overboard by a heavy sea and drowned.

Many sailing vessels were reported to be ashore on the south coast of England and a large number of deaths are said to have been caused throughout the country by falling trees and walls. There is a perceptible lessening of the violence of the gale this evening.

A Lunatic Hanged Himself.

Kingston, March 3.—A patient named Millard in the Rockwood Asylum today suicided by hanging. He took a towel, broke several panes of glass, and put the linen about the frame, put his neck through the end of the towel, pulled it up tight, and strangled himself to death. He came from Renfrew and was 45 years of age.

IT IS ALL TALK.

Yes, but it is Norwood Talk—The Kind That Tells in Norwood.

Talk that tells.
Talk that is endorsed.
Every day talk by people that know.

Kidney talk.
Do the kidneys talk?
Well, yes, both loud and long.
You are learning the kidney language.
Backache in kidney language means kidney ache.
Lame back means weak kidneys.
Weak back means weak kidneys.
The kidneys are talking trouble.
Here is some Norwood talk:

Mr. George Taylor, well known in Norwood, has this to say about Doan's Kidney Pills:—

"For a great many years I have been a sufferer from kidney disease. Terrible pain in my side and back made my life a burden. The urine was a dark wine colour, and I was greatly troubled with frequent urination. My sleep was destroyed because of this annoying trouble.

"I have taken scores of medicines, but could get no relief, and thought that I would never be cured. Happily I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills, and got a box at J. C. Moffatt's drug store, and have continued their use for one month.

"I am thankful to say as a result that they have fixed me up. I feel like another person. I do not now have to get up at night, and in fact am entirely cured.

"I think they are the grandest medicine ever placed before the public, and I heartily recommend them to all sufferers from kidney disorder of any kind."

THE WAR SITUATION

People of Greece Still Show Determination.

SUPPORT THE KING'S ATTITUDE

If Greek Troops Were Ordered to Withdraw From Crete Only the Commander Would Return — The Troops Would Join Insurgents —Feeling in Great Britain.

London, March 3.—The Daily Chronicle will to-morrow publish a despatch from Athens saying that the contents of the joint note addressed by the powers to Greece have caused a solemn realization of the critical moment which has arrived. The Palace Square, the despatch says, is constantly crowded with groups discussing the situation. The people are absolutely unanimous and everybody appears to have perfect confidence in the King's firmness. On all sides are heard declarations that should the King order the withdrawal of the Greek troops from Crete, Col. Vassos, who commands the army of occupation, alone would return and all the other officers would join the forces of the insurgents.

A great demonstration, the despatch states, has ben arranged for March 4, to urge the King to remain inflexible in the stand he has taken.

A despatch from Athens says that Commodore Reineck, commanding the Greek war ship Hydra, who in reply to a demand by the foreign admirals at Canea that the Greek war ships withdraw from Cretan waters, declared that he would only obey the orders of his own Government, has been recalled for his failure to fire upon the Turkish ship Fuad, when that vessel joined with the foreign warships in the bombardment of Cretan Christians.

The Daily Chronicle will print tomorrow a leaded article, a column in length, appealing to the nation to protest against and take steps to prevent the unparalleled humiliation which would be caused by Great Britain becoming an ally of the Sultan of Turkey against Greece.

Turkey's Fleet.

London, March 3.—The Standard will to-morrow print a despatch from Constantinople saying that the commission, appointed to enquire into the condition of the Turkish fleet, has reported to the Sultan that there are now 22 ships in condition for active service, including the Admiral Fuad. The despatch further says that the Sultan has issued an order directing that the 72,000 troops already mobilized be increased to a total of 120,000.

Volunteers From Sicily.

Rome, March 3.—A despatch to The Tribune from Athens says that Sig. Barbato, a Socialist member of the Italian Chamber of Deputies, in command of 100 Sicilian volunteers, has arrived there and sailed for Crete for service under the Greek Government.

Danish Volunteers.

London, March 3.—The Daily News will to-morrow publish a despatch from its Berlin correspondent, saying that a party of volunteers has been raised in Copenhagen for service in the Island of Crete and started to-day to join the Greek army there. The recruits were addressed by the Crown Prince just prior to their departure for Crete.

Gradual Withdrawal.

London, March 3.—The Post to-morrow will publish a despatch from Constantinople to a news agency here, saying that the collective note from the powers presented to the Porte yesterday mentions the gradual withdrawal of the Turkish troops from the Island of Crete, and suggests a military convention between the powers and the Porte for the settlement of the details. The despatch also says that negotiations are proceeding between the powers' representatives and the Porte regarding the appointment of a Governor for Crete, who, it is stated, the Porte insists shall be a Turkish subject.

Took the Oath.

Athens, March 3.—M. Metaxas, the newly appointed Minister of War, took the oath of office to-day.

Asking Anglicans for Help.

London, March 3.—A despatch from Athens to the Central News says the Greek Metropolitan has telegraphed to the Archbishop of Canterbury, invoking the support of the Anglican church for the Greek cause.

Durant Refused a New Trial.

San Francisco, March 3.—The Supreme Court this afternoon filed a decision denying a new trial to Theodore Durant, the murderer of Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams.

In an interview to-day expressed himself as pleased with the results of the efforts made by the United States to arrange for the settlement by arbitration of the dispute between his country and England. He had no fears, he said, but that the Venezuelan Congress would ratify the arbitration treaty. Senor Andrade spoke in high praise of President Cleveland's efforts in helping to bring about arbitration. A bust of President Cleveland, he said, had been erected in a town near Caracas, named Miranda.

A SPECIFIC
—FOR—
La Grippe, for Colds, Coughs,
AND LUNG TROUBLES,
AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally, my husband,—reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,—procured, for me, a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, whenever we have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMILY WOOD, North St., Elkton, Md.

RAVISHING STYLES.

THE LATEST FASHION TALK ON THE PARISIAN NEW MODES.

Midwinter Novelties and Elegancies Which the Despotic Modistes of the Gay French Capital Dictate to Their Fashion-Loving Subjects.

(Specia Correspondence.)

Paris, (Special).—After a few days in Paris I begin to get used to the imperative. Elsewhere it is, "Would you not like?" Here it is, "You must have." The superiority of French taste has been conceded so long that Parisian dressmakers have become autocratic, and if one of their decrees does not begin "It is necessary" the only variation to be expected is a polite circumlocution for "you ought" or "you should." I am having "vous aves besoin d'avoir" rattled off at me so often and so glibly that I feel the need of passing it along. Therefore "You have need of" a velvet dress for a beginning.

"I insist," borrowing my phraseology from the sources above mentioned, upon velvet. Black is good, dark blue is good, brown is better, dark green is best of all. "You should" line such a dress with white silk or pale blue, yellow or water green. You should show the lining as you lift it, and, that it may please upon exhibition, you must have unlimited frills inside the hem. With a skirt of this order "It is necessary" that you wear a silk blouse matching it in color. Over the blouse there must come a bolero of some delicate, light-colored velvet, preferably of the same tint as the skirt lining. This bolero requires embroidery in gold and jewels. You need a black satin corselet and some dainty finish of white or cream-colored lace at the throat, and then your visiting or reception costume is "comme il faut," as it is necessary.

I cannot talk back to millinery greatness, but I can ape the manners of my betters and play the despot in my turn. You are required, if you care to show yourself well abreast of the fashions, to wear your bodice trimmings high up on the shoulders. Puffings of ribbon or velvet and large ribbon bows stand erect. They are wired if they refuse to do so, for they must not flare at the sides. You will show your understanding of the situation if you have an evening bodice with a high wired collar from the shoulders, but this is not obligatory.

The Truly Correct Sleeve.

You must be quick to catch the new lines of the sleeve. To gather it in at the shoulder without any rise to it, let it hang almost in a bag to the elbow, then tighten it gradually and not with any pinching exactness to the wrist and let it flare broadly over the hand, is the mode for next spring. Look at pictures of 1810, of the decade that Conan Doyle writes of in his newest book, if you need a more detailed description. There is less fulness and more droop at the shoulder, a looser cut and with more curve and flexibility from elbow to wrist and a more daring outburst at the wrist than you get in the experimental, transitional sleeve of to-day.

Every bodice, jacket and cloak has a most enormously high collar of lace or chiffon; or, if the collar is of silk or velvet, it is cloven, so that lace or chiffon can be introduced between.

The sacque-back continues the favorite model in cloth or fur. It is better called a whole-back coat, for it has no seam in the back at all. Sometimes the front hangs straight also, but for this there is only silent permission, not approval. The box plait on either side of the front is according to the letter of the law and gives a much better figure. Great numbers of bodices have these box plaits in front, coming below the waist, and they are becoming more and more the smiled upon design.

Queer Waist Combinations.

For every evening bodice you must be prepared to squander material enough for two, the drapings are becoming so intrinsic. It is now quite acing so intricate. It is not quite acone might better say piece together, four designs, having the two fronts different each from each and from the two backs, which claim the same privilege. It is not easy to do this and achieve harmony, and perhaps that is why she who must be obeyed thinks it worth trying.

Mme. Paris, otherwise "she," sticks to broad corselets back and front, but has at the same time a weakness for extremely narrow metal belts studded with jewels.

There are no changes in skirts that are at all startling. The safest model at present is gathered on a thick cord about the hips, so as to throw the fulness behind. It is moderately full at the foot, and is far more becoming than those of yesterday, which stood out so formidably at the sides.

Redingote and Evening Gown.

You can make no mistake in using as much braiding as possible. It is quite according to rule at the moment to have lapels, epaulets, collars and cuffs of a light shade contrasting with the dress, and on these to display black braiding in vermicelli or much involved arabesque patterns. Neither can you err, if you desire a cloak of ground length, in getting one of redingote style. This shows that you fully appreciate the subsidence of skirt and sleeve. There are not many new materials, but a new idea in materials is exemplified in a very pretty evening dress just finished to figure at the court of Spain.

A robe of black net glinting with gold and jewels is lined with pink chiffon, and this again is cleverly draped in the loose empire style over a princess gown of black satin. A very short black satin bolero is lined with pink and edged with sequin lace; it is so cut as to meet on either side the opposite points of the fan-shaped epaulets in fluted and wired net that spring from the shoulders. Garlands of pink leafless roses cover the short sleeves and outline the square opening of the bodice. A few blossoms are strewn on the skirt draperies. There is a bertha of finely plaited net sprinkled with rose petals and pearls.

Dress of Old Rose Brocade.

Another evening dress that seems to be among the best now on exhibition is of a very delicate old-rose brocade, one of the smartest colors of the season. At one side of the skirt is a panel edged with gold and jeweled passementerie and tied across with straps and bows of old-rose ribbon. The same passementerie edges the fan-shaped bodice front, which opens on the left side. A puffed bertha of old-rose mousseline de soie is drawn about the shoulders and peeps out from under the bodice fan and all the way to the ground from beneath the skirt panel. The short sleeves are of mousseline de soie with garnitures of roses.

A handsome visiting dress of silver-grey corded silk is just ready for shipment to America. The bodice has a zouave of silver and jet passementerie lined with silk of a tawny mandarin yellow and having long, long-pointed hanging fronts, coming well down upon the skirt draperies. Two vandykes of the same passementerie ornament the front of the skirt, which is otherwise richly plain. Epaulets in the form of small double capes, black satin bows to hold the zouave in position in front and a broad folded belt of black satin are the only accessories.

Altogether different in style is a promenade dress for the Riviera, that favored land of sunshine from which I hope to be writing again very soon. It is warm enough at San Remo or Mentone, to dispense with wraps very frequently in the early afternoon, and so winter dress for the climate is not unlike what New York will see about Easter. The gown of which I am thinking has a skirt of olive green velvet. This is almost entirely covered by an overskirt of dark velvet cloth which comes to the ground, but is caught up a bit on the right. Arabesque embroidery in olive green cord borders it and covers the narrow belt of the skirt material. The bodice is a velvet cross-over blouse, if such a term can be allowed. It is open a bit in front to show a violet cloth vest and above it is a very short violet silk bolero with olive green embroidery. Pinted silk epaulets cover the tops of the velvet sleeves. The large hat of olive green straw is trimmed with violet green ribbon and with foliage. A big bow of white tulle at the throat adds the finishing touch to this study in blue and green.

Beautiful for House Wear

Among the newest models is a very attractive dress for house wear. A robe of fawn-colored cloth with a narrow edging of gold cord embroidery opens upon a princess gown of rose-tinted moire. A broad sash of rose-colored silk confines the waist, and at the throat is a flat, pointed collar of rose ribbons above.

A graceful dinner dress for a young girl just admitted to the pleasures of society is a princess gown of turquoise blue silk with bretelles of white silk set into the armholes in front, clasped by gold buckles on either side of the waist, outside of the silk corselet, and hanging like long sash ends to the ground. From the high collar escapes a flaring ruche of white lace.

ELLEN OSBORN.

The Cumminsville Sage.

It was rather surprising to hear one of his age asking a question about women instead of making an assertion, but the youngest neophyte inquired:

"Why is it a beautiful women never is intellectual?"

"In all probability," replied the Cumminsville sage, "she is; but when a man gets in the presence of a beautiful woman he never has sense enough left to know whether she is intellectual or not."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Two Married Men.

"Why do you insist on taking your wife out for such long walks in this rough weather?"

"The doctor has told her that she must be careful not to talk when she is out in the cold air."

A card on the outside of office door says—"Gone to lunch. Be back in ten minutes." And the man will be there on time. That is for some days, weeks or even months he will. Then he will be at home occasionally for a day. He'll tell you he had a headache, a turn of cholera morbus, or maybe he'll say he had a lump in his stomach and felt too miserable to move. The lump was probably two or three ten minute lunches condensed.

The man who "bolts" his lunches will find Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the best friend he ever met.

There is no case of biliousness, constipation, indigestion, "heart burn," or trouble of the heart of the nightmare breeding brood that these little "Pellets" will not cure. They cure permanently. Send 21 cents in one-cent stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y., and receive Dr. Pierce's 1008 page "Common Sense Medical Adviser," profusely illustrated.

OUR PETERBOROUGH SIXTY YEARS AGO.

rent was made to furnish power for driving the boat back and forth. "Necessity is productive of progress." The erection of the Government mill was the second step of prime importance in the history of the new settlement. The next step was a longer step—a very long step—which some of you will no doubt recognize from the length of it. I refer to the Trent Valley Canal. In Nov., 1833, N. Baird, Esq., C.E., made a survey of it. Some work was done below Rice Lake, at the locks at Peterborough and at Bobcaygeon, but the rebellion of '37 put an end to it.

THE FIRST SCHOOL HOUSE.

Let us now devote a word or two to the school which has evolved into the present system. The first school house was put up in 1826. It was a log building and stood where the shed of the Central school now stands, Rev. Samuel Armour being the headmaster as already mentioned. As time went on other buildings were put up about the village and known as Common schools, while the original one became the Grammar or advanced school. Then a combination of all the Common schools into one moved into a vacant church opposite the Temperance House, once owned by the British Methodist Society. Then the old Grammar school joined the combination. This continued until the present large Central building was put up and opened in 1860. The early principals of the schools and successors to the Rev. Samuel Armour were Rev. Moses Williamson, Rev. R. J. Taylor and Mr. O'Grady. The Roman Catholic Separate school was not organized till 1851.

THE RISE OF THE CHURCHES.

Now let us turn to the churches. Up to 1830 services were held by the different religious bodies, in different houses, except in the case of the Church of England, whose services were held in the old log school house, the Rev. Samuel Armour being the first clergyman.

Concerning this commencement of the Church of England services in Peterborough there is an interesting incident related by Mrs. Stewart in one of her letters dated January 1827. "An interesting event took place in the village about three weeks ago. Thirty-five Indians, men, women and children, came to church, our log school house used for a Church of England service, by Rev. Mr. Armour. The Indians behaved extremely well during the service; they were very attentive and anxious to understand. After the service was over they came forward with their primers and cards of letters requesting the ladies and gentlemen to instruct them, seeming very desirous to be taught. They had been converted to Christianity in the summer before by a converted Indian, who had been taught by an English missionary, and though they had been continually drunk since their conversion, they have become quite sober and well-behaved."

In 1831 an agitation began amongst the Church of England people for a better edifice, and in 1835 the stone church known as St. John's, three years later, at a cost of nearly £2 000. The drawing by Miss Faulkner, which I have here, gives an excellent view of the church, the hill and the old winding course of Hunter street. Mrs. A. C. Dunlop unearthed it the other day and asked me to present it to the Society with her compliments. I am sure we are all greatly obliged to Mrs. Dunlop for this interesting sketch. Mr. James Wallis, of Merino, was deeply interested in the building of St. John's and held many of the memoranda bearing on the building committee's work. Mr. Charles Wallis has kindly handed them over to our custody. One amusing incident in connection with the undertaking—at least amusing to us—was the mistake made in the government land office in drawing the deed of grant of the land. It was drawn after the building of the church. The concession in which the site stood was said in the deed to be the 3rd instead of the 13th concession. Hence the trustees who had incurred the financial responsibility practically held nothing either in trust or as security. This, however, after much trouble was in the end rectified.

WAS BEGUN AND FINISHED

The Roman Catholic services were first held in a log building by the Rev. James Crowley. Then the present site of the Cox block extending to Hunter street and other lands was granted to the Catholics for church purposes. A small frame building was erected on this plot. It was burned in 1835 and the land having been disposed of the funds were devoted to the erection of a stone edifice at the head of Hunter street since restored. This was finished in 1838 and was DEDICATED TO ST. PETER-IN-CHAINS.

It is a monument to the zeal of the Rev. John Butler.

Dr. Poole, whose book is both interesting and valuable, has collected some data regarding the Church of Scotland also. The Church of Scotland received a grant of land where St. Andrew's stands at the head of Brock street. The Rev. J. M. Roger, who came here in 1833, was the first minister. When the Free Church separation took place he went with that body, which worshipped in various places until the building of St. Paul's.

The Wesleyan Methodists received a grant in 1834 of land opposite the present George street church. Their first church was a house on the land now occupied by Mrs. O'Sullivan's residence. In 1844 they erected a large frame church near the corner, which has been ultimately succeeded by the present building.

The Baptists built on Aylmer street in 1845. The Rev. John Gilmour, so well and happily remembered by most of us, was the first minister. There were other representatives of church and Christian unity scattered about the town.

A WORD ABOUT ASHBURNHAM.

Next the Otonabee bridge, on the north side of the street, was a tavern called "McFadden's Hotel," subsequently bought by Thos. Chambers, and finally passing into the hands of Mr. Geo. Hall, who changed it from a tavern into a law office and practiced there. He got the Government to give him the road allowance along the river's edge, and gave in exchange the roadway now running along the raceway. I wish now to go on across the Otonabee bridge at this point to Ashburnham. The earliest main roadway from the front led from Cobourg, and this was joined by the one from Keene, both, you will observe, running through the East Riding. This road reached the Otonabee river just about where the C.P.R. bridge is now, and ran along nearly parallel to the present C.P.R. line. In anticipation of the through traffic, one, Thompson, began to build a hotel where Mr. J. J. Lundy's residence now is. But it was not finished, chiefly because I suppose the bridge project was not carried out. The Rev. Mr. Dunsford came down from Verulam to the Scotch Village and bought this place, calling it "Verulam House," which name it still retains. Afterwards he let the house to the Rev. Mr. Taylor, who had a private school there. It was after the failure to build this bridge that the other one was built where it is now. This was carried away, as I have before referred to, then people crossed by the rope and scow line. Then another common board bridge was built, which was carried away by a jam of timber at 2 a.m. in the year 1846, Mr. Dunsford being the only one present as it moved off. Then came the bridge with the high close board sides, which after many years was replaced by the first iron bridge, which collapsed and was replaced by the present sound structure.

MR. CLUXTON'S RECOLLECTIONS.

In December I took a short hand writer with me and had a most interesting interview with our well-known townsman, Mr. Cluxton. He came to Peterborough as a lad in 1832, when the population was 500. In 1839 he received a responsible business appointment, and ever since that date he has been an authority on all matters of business. The coinage in vogue then was £ s. d. There were also the Spanish dollars, also called Pillar dollars, because of the stamp of two pillars upon them. Strange to say, though they had English shillings, six-penny pieces, and half-pennies, there were no three-penny bits. Money went a long way then. A shilling would buy at least twice as much as at present of goods and produce, excepting wheat, hence the wheat raiser with a fair acreage was likely to become a wealthyman. Farmers wore home-made Canadian cloth, and it was very soft and warm. Before bonnets came in for general use they were worn by the privileged few and were a mark of distinction. Speaking of bonnets, Mr. Cluxton says that if a woman wore the round Scotch bonnet or tam in those days, as she does now, they would have thought her mad. Before stocks came in for men's neck gear they had something that served the same purpose. A piece of silk was wound around a bit of newspaper for stiffening, and this was put about the neck. Pins were sold, not in boxes, but in half-penny rows, hence the saying "not worth a row of pins." Regarding the feeling in 1837, Mr. Cluxton's own words are of interest: "At the time of the rebellion there was general dissatisfaction with the Government. We were governed at that time by what was known as the 'Family Compact.' The governors were

VERY HIGH STRUNG GENTLEMEN,

and showed their power. . . The feeling was loyal, however. There were a few who considered that things were not as they ought to be, but they had not reached the stage of disaffection." As we know from the history of those times, it was a case of where there was right on both sides. The home government ruled the Canadas and the other provinces directly from Downing street, and as it paid a large share of the expenses of colonial government, naturally it thought it had a right to "a say" in the administration. On the other hand the colonists were impatient and felt also that they had enough to contend with without the tediousness of red tape, and in many cases governmental blunders. The governors sent out had too much power. The result of the Rebellion was responsible government for Canada. We have now a system theoretically perfect, although sometimes it is feared, by the working, not of the home government, the governors and a family compact, but of half-concealed contrivance known as "the political machine," that satisfactory results will not ensue. At that time, as Mr. Cluxton says, there were class distinctions and hence arose popular resentment at the monopoly of political appointments by a privileged class, although the more important appointments involving the liberty of the subject and the administration of civil justice were still continued by popular consent in the hands of men of prominence and proven character. The militia was divided into two kinds, the active and sedentary. You will remember it is not long since the joke died out of a man's belonging to the sedentry militia. The active militia, however, were no joke. When W. L. Mackenzie was compelled to flee from Toronto rumour had it that he was hidden in the vicinity of Peterborough, and a local company spent the night in looking for him but he was not found. The local regiment also marched to Toronto and in various ways distinguished itself from the sedentary division. The reference to national order and disorders naturally reminds us of constabulary, and I find that there was

NO SYSTEM OF POLICE AS WE KNOW IT.

When people fought they fought it out. It seems however that whiskey didn't make men as savage then as it does now. But the magistrates were all powerful could appoint special constables and had the militia, and if necessary, the regulars at their backs, so that there was due respect for law and order.

People in those days rode on horseback a great deal. Buggies were unknown and waggons were not comfortable on a hard road. Mr. Cluxton says that going to Port Hope over frozen roads in a waggon was "worse than going to Africa."

I shall close with a remark or two on the social life of the people. Customs and manners were quite different from those of to-day.

SOCIAL CONDITIONS.

It was well on in the thirties before there were such things as millinery openings in Peterborough. Fashion was confined to "the front." When the first bonnet was worn here by accident it created quite a sensation. J. P.'s were municipal, governmental and judicial officers in one.

There was much more drinking than at present. To illustrate the expedients necessary to topers in order to meet the difficulties of the times I am told that men usually went in couples, so that if one got tipsy the other might see him home. In fact this was, I have heard, a settled custom, and on one occasion the one who had just had his turn at getting tight dearly wanted to get fuddled again, so he politely asked his partner if he would mind foregoing the right in his favour, which I have been told his esteemed friend as politely acceded to. From all I can learn, however, notwithstanding some of these quaint unions of polite and pernicious peculiarities many of the men of those days were of a decidedly finer and more manly stamp than those of these more socialistic but less individualistic days. Man and woman if of the right moral fibre are much nobler specimens of the human race, considered in their individual capacity than when taken by the dozen like so many herrings. However, I suppose this has all resulted from the power and advantage of combination. Life is, perhaps, too hard a battle now-a-days, with the coming in of capital into the battle-field, to be fought otherwise than by a massing of the forces of the people, yet the change of times, if they have brought strength, cannot be said to have added beauty to the manners and customs of the good old days. Combination is sometimes more sinster than custom.

At the conclusion of the paper Sheriff Hall and Mr. Geo. Dunford related a number of interesting reminiscences of "ye olden times."

The question of the holding of an Art Loan Exhibition in connection with the opening of Inverlea House, as a museum, then came up for discussion, and the members displayed great enthusiasm in regard to the project. The success attending such exhibitions was pointed out, and through this medium the society hopes to raise funds sufficient to put the organization on a firm financial footing. On motion of Messrs. Hampden Burnham and H. T. Strickland, the following gentlemen have been appointed to push the project:—Messrs. Richard Hall, H. C. Rogers, T. A. Hay, E. B. Edwards, Dr. Bell, F. R. Yokome, Sheriff Hall and G. Dunaford.

Messrs. F. R. Yokome, Hampden Burnham, H. T. Strickland, H. C. Rogers, Sheriff Hall and G. Dunaford were appointed a committee to consider a motto for the society.

Before closing a most cordial vote of thanks for his instructive paper was passed to Mr. Hampden Burnham, on motion of Mr. G. Dunaford and Miss Spillsbury.

We Want Women

To be protected from the delusive arts of the "smart" business man of the day. We want more sincerity and less cuteness. We want shoppers to be treated honestly. We pledge ourselves that when you see it in our ads, its true.

We like women who want BRAND NEW GOODS, to visit our store and do their buying personally. The reason is that they can appreciate good things when they see them, and are fearless in their criticisms when men attempt to push old goods on them for new at new goods prices.

There's enough new goods here now to hold ladies from being taken in with left-overs of last year's styles or the wreckage from disasters in business. Keep your wits about you, ladies, and be cautious in buying your spring purchasers.

Constant Newness

Will be found to mark this store from day to day, already the warmer sunbeams shimmer on the new spring leaders. Dame Fashion, has put no second-hand seal on our stock to mar its freshness. Everything is fashionable and profitable to buy.

Shun the ticket-punchers! Shun the furniture prizes! Shun the ancient auctioned stuffs, much of which is about as fashionable as hoops or bustles!

WAR CLOUD DARKENS

King George Says That Greece Cannot Yield

TO THE DEMAND OF THE POWERS

The Greatest Massacre of Modern Times Would Follow Withdrawal of the Greek Forces From Crete—Active War Preparations Going on in Army and Navy.

New York, March 5.—The Journal's correspondent in Athens sends the following:

"King George received me at the palace yesterday and spoke with absolute frankness in reply to the demand of the six great European powers. "I cannot see how Greece can alter her course," he said, "in spite of what the powers say. If the Greek troops were to be withdrawn from Crete there would be the greatest massacre of modern times. It is appalling to think of what would follow.

"The Cretans themselves will refuse to accept the proposals of the powers to create a municipality. They will fight to the last against it, and will rather perish in the attempt to establish their liberties and rights than submit to the new form of oppression. If Greece should withdraw her forces from Crete it would simply mean the abandonment of the island to barbarous and indiscriminate slaughter.

"I say emphatically that the Sultan of Turkey has no responsibility for the existing state of things in Crete. I hold the Sultan to be free from blame in this respect.

"Nine months ago the Sultan granted to the powers authority to put reforms into effect. What have these six nations done to end the horrors and atrocities of the Cretan war of extermination? Nothing, absolutely nothing!

"The situation was horrible. No civilized nation could endure or tolerate it. The great powers say they want peace, but is every nation to have peace but Greece? We, too, want peace, and the powers have refused to act except when they fired a few days ago on the Christian flag. Think of the situation. Every year we have thousands of men, women and children flying to our shores and begging us, with tears in their eyes, to save them from starvation, and to protect their helpless relatives in Crete from mutilation and death. What civilized nation would continue year after year to turn a deaf ear to these prayers, and to tax its people to support multitudes of suffering refugees?

"Greece has something like 20,000 subjects in Crete, and the great powers say she has no right to land troops to protect them, although six nations, which have only a handful of subjects on the island, have landed their forces.

"The situation in Macedonia, too, is very critical. I cannot foretell the future, but the great powers have delivered their message to Greece, and we shall see what the result will be. The powers have taken upon themselves a great responsibility. They have deliberately offered encouragement to the excited Turks."

The correspondent then says: "I can say that Greece will absolutely refuse to withdraw her army and navy from Crete. That is quite certain. I know, also, that the great powers have decided to withdraw their legations from Athens if at the end of six days Greece has not complied with their imperious command. What they will do then no man knows."

Greek Cabinet Meeting.

Athens, March 5.—The Cabinet Council, which met last evening, sat until 1 o'clock this morning. It is reported that, as the result of the deliberations of the Ministers, several important decisions were reached. According to report the Cabinet determined upon the action of the Greek fleet on the coast of Macedonia, with a view of aiding the mobilization of the Macedonian forces, the guarding of the Macedonia towns devolving upon the army and the battalions. It is estimated that Greece will soon have 100,000 men under arms, including the reserves. The Greek ironclads Spezia and Tsara have sailed from the Piraeus under sealed orders.

London Stock Exchange Alarmed.

London, March 5.—The wild, sudden alarm at the closing of the Stock Exchange last evening continued to-day on the news from Athens. Consols for money fell from 111 3-8 to 110 15-16, and consols for account fell from 111 1-2 to 111 1-8. In addition there were lower prices in all departments and substantial reductions.

The Stock Exchange market opened with an uneasy feeling under the influence of the news from Athens and the general outlook in the east. Consols, both for money and account, were depressed, and shortly after the opening were 1-16 lower for the former and 3-8 lower for the latter. Both closed 3-8 lower on the day. Foreign securities were dull. Grand Trunks and Mexicans had a dropping tendency. Mining shares were dull. Other securities were depressed and showed marked declines. Reports from Berlin, Paris, Vienna and other centres show that all the Continental bourses were unsettled at the opening.

Albanians Disarm Turks.

Constantinople, March 5.—Evidence was given to-day of the feeling that has been created in Albania by Greece's defiance of the powers. A strong force of Albanians, who were all prepared for active hostilities, surrounded at El Bassan two battalions of Turkish reserves who were marching to the Greek frontier. The Turks were disarmed by their captors, who appropriated to themselves the captured rifles and war material carried by the reserves.

Russia's Desire for Peace.

St. Petersburg, March 5.—The Journal (semi-official) makes a statement in effect that the Russian Imperial Cabinet is animated by an ardent desire to further the work of pacification, and in that spirit took the initiative in proposing the plan formulated in the indentical notes of the powers to Turkey and Greece. The paper, in conclusion, says: "There is reason to hope that further difficulties will not arise, and that Greece will prove her wisdom by bending to the mighty will of united Europe in the common interests of peace and legality. Greece cannot desire to endanger her future by an act of folly, and the Greeks may be happy in the knowledge that their kinsmen in Crete will in future enjoy local autonomy. Russia, which has ever had the interests of the Christian peoples of the East at heart, will regard the suggested solution with satisfaction, all the greater seeing that it is in harmony with her desire for universal peace, and is in the spirit of equity by which the Imperial Government is constantly inspired."

A Cautionary Article.

London, March 5.—Concerning the despatch signed by 100 Liberal and Irish Nationalist members of Parliament, which was sent to the King of Greece last night, expressing sympathy with the efforts of Greece in behalf of Crete, The Westminster Gazette (Liberal) says: "When the King receives this message of sympathy he will do well to take notice of the fact that the British Government has a majority of 150 in the House of Commons. If he understands the bearing of this, and if he knows that the Government of Great Britain can only be diverted from its decision by an adverse vote in the House of Commons, which there is apparently no chance of obtaining, he will better understand the value of the message."

To Help the Rascally Turks.

London, March 5.—In the House of Commons to-day Mr. G. N. Curzon, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, said that the battleship Rodney, with three foreign warships, had started for Selino, Crete, with orders to assist the Turks who are besieged by Cretan Christians near that town.

The Porte Accepts It.

Vienna, March 5.—It is stated here upon authority that the Porte has accepted the settlement of the Cretan difficulty agreed upon by the powers, which contemplates the establishment of an autonomous administration in Crete, the withdrawal of the Greek troops and fleet from the island, the subsequent withdrawal of the Turkish troops, etc. The same authority states that the admirals of foreign war ships are preparing plans to coerce Greece into compliance with their demands for her evacuation of the island in the event of her failure to do so within the six days prescribed.

Troops Called Out.

London March 5.—The Greek Consul here has received a telegram from Athens stating that 40,000 Greek troops have been called out and are to be despatched to the Turkish frontier with the least possible delay.

Looks Very Warlike.

The latest despatches indicate no cessation of the warlike preparations in Greece. Both the army and navy are being put into condition with the utmost rapidity.

It has been decided that there shall be a general mobilization of the Greek forces and to this end the two classes of reserves that had not been summoned previously have now been called out.

The reserve forces alone give a total of 104,000 men and behind them is what is called the territorial army, which numbers upwards of 146,000 men, a not by any means insignificant force. The standing army numbers about 25,000 men of all arms.

Ammunition and supplies for the troops are being supplied as rapidly as possible and in a few days the whole available war strength of the nation will have been prepared for any eventuality that may occur.

French Ambassador to Britain.

Paris March 5.—The Soleil asserts that Gen. Jean Baptiste Billot will succeed Baron de Courcel as French Ambassador to Great Britain. Gen. Billot is a life-member of the French Senate and was Minister of War in the Cabinet of M. De Freycinet, from Jan. 30 to Aug. 7, 1882; and in the succeeding Cabinet formed by M. Duclerc, from Aug. 7, 1882, until Jan. 29, 1883.

GREAT QUESTIONERS

Are the Members of H. M. Loyal Opposition.

THEY THIRST FOR KNOWLEDGE

Interpellate the Government on All Manner of Subjects—Patron Macdonald After Delinquent Debtors in the Civil Service—Mr. Conmee's Mining Locations.

Toronto, March 5.—The sitting of the Legislature this afternoon was devoted to the asking and answering of questions, of which the Opposition has a very large number on the list, ranging over the whole field of administration, and the discussion of some comparatively unimportant bills, which were up for second reading. Mr. Macdonald, one of the Patron members, introduced a bill respecting the attachment of moneys in the hands of the Crown, the object of which is to enable creditors of Government employes to garnishee their salaries.

Mr. Willoughby asked what number of mining locations have been applied for, and what number granted in the name of James Conmee since Feb. 1, 1894. What number in the name of James Whalen, or in the names of Haselwood & Whalen since above date, and how many acres comprised in such grants. What number of applications for and grants of pulpwood locations to said parties since said date, and what is the total acreage of such grants?

Hon. Mr. Gibson replied that Mr. Conmee had asked for 108 mining locations, none of which had been granted. James Whalen had asked for 81 locations, of which 11, covering 372 acres had been granted, while Haselwood & Whalen had obtained 2 locations, covering 66 acres. Mr. Conmee had obtained 1 permit to cut pulpwood over 21 1-2 square miles. Hazelwood & Whalen 1 permit, covering 37 square miles, and James Whalen had applied for 1 permit, which was not granted.

In reply to Mr. Bennett, the Provincial Treasurer stated that it was not the intention of the Government to unite the license districts of Cornwall and Stormont and to dispense with the services of one of the inspectors.

Dr. Ryerson wanted to know what Government buildings were insured and for what amounts, etc., and the required information was furnished by the Provincial Treasurer, among the number being the University for $628,000, the old Upper Canada College building $22,500, the Agricultural College $32,000, Central Prison binder twine factory $9500, and the School of Practical Science $110,000.

In reply to Mr. Langford, Hon. J. M. Gibson stated that bona fide settlers who had taken out deer licenses during the past year would have their money refunded.

Mr. McLean's bill to amend the Assessment Act so that statute labor might be performed in the late fall or early winter instead of the spring as at present was read a second time.

Mr. Crawford moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Assessment Act, explaining that it proposed to prevent the calling in of outside judges in cases of assessment appeal where they could be heard before local judges.

Hon. J. M. Gibson said the Assessment Act had been so often amended and re-amended that the proposer of any further change ought to show very strong reasons to justify the House in making any further change. It might even be better to endure some slight evil than to have these continual changes and any proposal of the kind should be well considered before it was sanctioned.

Mr. Howland said the bill was purely a Toronto measure and there was a certain amount of argument in its favor. Judges were apt to be more or less influenced by their surroundings and he regarded the proposal of the bill to prevent outside judges from being called in in assessment cases as of doubtful value. He thought that if there had been an appeal to a judicial tribunal in the matter of overvaluations, when the true principles of assessment were set at defiance and the city burdened with an enormous debt on the false basis thus constituted, a great deal of the depression which resulted might have been averted.

Mr. Crawford urged that the bill had been prepared by the City Solicitor and had the approval of the civic authorities.

The bill was read a second time.

The following bills received second readings: To amend the Act incorporating Knox College, Mr. Ross; to amend the Act to provide for the division of Tilbury West, Mr. Auld; to legalize and confirm an agreement entered into by the municipality of Dysart and others, Mr. Carnegie.

In answer to a question from Mr. Matheson, the Provincial Treasurer said that the first meeting of the Public Accounts Committee would be held on Tuesday.

SMALLEST TWINS IN AMERICA.

Babies Born in Indiana Weigh Together Only Four and a Half Pounds.

Laporte, Ind., March 5.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kilmerer are the parents of twins whose combined weight is only four and a half pounds.

The little creatures are said to be the smallest twins born to American parents. They are cradled in a doll crib, and bid fair to live. The parents are strong and robust.

A Budding Genius.

Mrs. Bodkins—Oh, I'm so proud of Charley! He writ a piece fer the paper an' they've got his picture printed along with it.

Mrs. Dodkins—Indeed! Has he written a great poem or a fine story?

Mrs. Bodkins—Oh, no, but he wrote such a nice testimonial fer Dr. Fakir's wonderful pills.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE Quebec general elections have been decided upon. The parliament has been dissolved. Nominations on May 4th, polling on May 11th.

THE Mail and Empire prophesies that within two years there will be Conservative rule in Ontario and Manitoba. The organ's past record as a seer need not bring any fear to the people of these two now well-governed provinces.

PRESIDENT MCKINLEY, who took the oath of office on Thursday, affords very pleasing evidence that in respect of one subject his head is screwed on right. In his inaugural address he comes out strongly in favour of international arbitration. In respect of the treaty of arbitration signed by Sir Julian Pauncefote and the late Secretary of State, Olney, Mr. McKinley urges "early action thereon not merely as a matter of policy but as a duty to mankind."

THE Conservative press have revelled in tartling headlines, such as "Another Head in the Basket," etc., in connection with the Department of the Interior, over which Mr. Sifton presides. Mr. Sifton found, as the late Government felt, though they had not the courage to remedy the evil, that the Department had become unwieldly, and was more imposing than effective. He has reorganized the department, and in so doing has had to dispense with the services of some employees. But when it is stated that his reorganization has effected a saving in expense of $7,000 a year, while simplifying the work and increasing the efficiency of the Department, the people will not complain. They had far rather see a few "heads" off high paid officials, with nothing particular to do, "drop into the basket," than to see their good dollars drop into the pockets of civil servants who can be dispensed with.

PRESBYTERIAN FOREIGN MISSION FUND.

An Appeal for Special Contributions to Meet the Mission Fund Liability of $69,500—A Special Week of Prayer, Effort and Self Denial.

The following appeal has been made by Rev. R. P. McKay, Missionary Secretary:

To the members of Session:

DEAR BRETHREN,—The indebtedness of the Foreign Mission Committee (W.D.) at this date is $45,642.00. Adding to this the salaries due Missionaries and other charges ($24,000.00) to the 30th April, it will be seen that $69,500.00 must be got during the months of March and April, to enable the committee to end the church year free from debt. Last year, in these two months the sum of $30,000.00 was got. This included the contributions from the W.F.M.S. Assuming that the same amount will be got in March and April this year, the Fund will be in debt $30,500.00 on the 30th April.

The Cook Company, Windsor, Ontario.

Sold in Peterborough and everywhere in Canada by al responsible druggists

To meet this indebtedness, the committee affectionately, but most earnestly, appeal to the congregations of the church for special contributions. This amount cannot be got without a very special effort throughout the church. Last year the total amount received from the congregations of the church for the whole year for Foreign Missions was $20,141.00. From this, it will at once be seen that it is only by a very special, and a very general effort, that the amount required can be obtained. Sabbath, the 21st March, is the day appointed by the General Assembly for the annual collection upon behalf of Foreign Missions. After careful consideration, the committee have decided to appeal to all the congregations of the church, to set apart the week beginning Sabbath, 14th March, as a week of special prayer and special effort on behalf of the Foreign Missions of the church. They urgently request Session, through its minister, to bring the matter before the congregation on the 14th of March, and to hold special meetings during the week for prayer, and for emphasising the need of the fund at the present juncture.

The committee think it proper to state that the present emergency does not arise because of diminished contributions on the part of the church, for these are fully equal to what they were at the corresponding period last year. The indebtedness arises partly because of diminution in the amount received from legacies, and especially because of the expansion of the work within the past eighteen months. The committee was most unwilling to decline offers of service from several high men and women who felt called to the work. They may have gone too far, yet they cannot believe but that the church will come to their help, and provide them with the funds necessary, so that their engagements with the missionaries may be implemented this year, and the work curtailed as little as possible in the year to come. Surely it is more creditable to the church, and more in accordance with the mind of the Master, that we enter into the new doors that are being opened in the providence of God in connection with the fields in which our work is carried on.

Believing that you share our views in this matter, we confidently ask your cordial and prayerful co-operation in this special effort. We feel assured that if the people connected with our church are made acquainted with the situation, and kindly appealed to by pastors, the response will not be disappointing. In view of the large amount required to be raised before the 30th April, we take the liberty of suggesting that, instead of resting satisfied with a special Sabbath collection, a personal canvass be made of all the members in your congregation. Should this be inexpedient in any congregation, we are prepared to furnish special envelopes, in such numbers as may be required, for distribution, prior to the 21st March, so that they may be returned on that day in the collection plate.

We also take the liberty of suggesting that the session should bring the urgent needs of the Fund before their Sabbath schools, Bible classes and Christian Endeavour Societies, with a view to their hearty co-operation.

We further request that the Sessions see that the amount raised is forwarded if possible, before the end of March, to the Rev. Dr. Warden, Toronto, treasurer of the church. Dr. Warden is to publish a detailed statement of all contributions received for the various schemes of the church during the ecclesiastical year from congregations, Sabbath schools, etc., arranged under their respective Presbyteries. The contributions received, as the result of this special effort for the Foreign Mission Fund, will be included in this statement.

Again commending this effort to your earnest and prayerful consideration,

We remain, yours faithfully,
R. P. MACKAY, Secretary.
HAMILTON CASSELS, Convener.

BENSFORT.

From our own Correspondent.

Mr. John Riddell is suffering from a severe cold at present.

Mr. Archie Truscott leaves for his home in the Northwest on Tuesday.

Mr. Richard McBride is spending a few days with friends in Benafort.

Mr. Andrew McLelland with his sister Etta and Miss Effie Robinson have been collecting for the Bible Society these last few days.

Mr. Abner Wood, of Bailliboro was visiting friends in Bensfort last week.

Mr. David Dodds is busy taking out fence stakes and cedar for culverts for the township.

Abbie Pue is suffering from a sore eye caused by getting some sawdust in it at a sawing bee lately.

That troubles don't come singly is sadly illustrated in the cases of Mr. Sam Bonar and Mr. Robert Nurse. Mr. Nurse lost his only daughter, who died from diphtheria, sent his son, George, to St. Joseph's Hospital, Ashburnham, and also lost a valuable team of horses, which were drowned near Peterborough, all three misfortunes happening inside of 24 hours.

As the Medical Health Officer was disinfecting Mr. Bonar's house by some means unexplainable the house with all its contents were burned. Mr. Bonar lost two children quite recently, who died from so-called membraneous croup, which developed into diphtheria. As Mr. Bonar is only a labouring man his loss will be severely felt especially at this time of the year when employment is scarce and the weather cold and stormy. As Mr. Nurse's house was being disinfected, a lounge was burned and the window curtains and carpet on the floor were almost ruined by fire.

Dr. Gray, of Peterborough, was called to Mr. John Smith's, where it was thought another case of diphtheria was developing.

Mrs. Ball has returned from Toronto, where she has been spending a few weeks with her sister, Mrs. Perrin.

Mr. Joseph Brown has moved to Birdsall's Landing, where, it is understood, he has secured work.

Thinks Rheumatism is Born of the Lower Regions, but Proclaims South American Rheumatic Cure a Heaven Sent Healer.

Henry Humphrey, East London, sends his unsolicited testimony:—"I was seized with painful rheumatism in my left foot. I could not rest with it day or night the pain was so intense. I tried many remedies, but they had no more effect on me than water on a duck's back. I was persuaded to try South American Rheumatic Cure. I followed the directions closely and in a very short time this wonderful remedy effected a complete cure, and there has not been the slightest hint of a return of the disease. It is a sure remedy and I delight to herald the goodness all over the land." Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

ORMEMEE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The village is unusually quiet this winter, the chief pastime being skating on the pond, where the school boys fixed a rink for hookey. Their efforts to win from visiting clubs were unsuccessful.

The sleighing has been excellent here this season, and farmers have completed their wood contracts. All kinds of fodder is plentiful and farm stock looks remarkably well.

Dr. Waldren's store and residence on Sturgeon street, was destroyed by fire on Friday evening. It was caused by the explosion of a lamp in a bedroom. The building was owned by Mrs. Marr, on which there was a small insurance.

On last Friday morning the residence of Mr. Patrick Callaghan in Emily, four miles north of here, was destroyed by fire. Insured for $600 in the London Mutual.

Omemee is going at last to have a cheese factory. The contract for the building and all the fixings necessary to a fully fledged factory are let, and to be ready to fire up by the 25th of April next. Already $600 stock has been subscribed, with the milk of 350 cows engaged to start with. The directors are David Toole, Wm. Neill, Geo. McQuade, F. Fee, Jos. Evans, T. C. Ivory, Jas. Johnson, J. T. Beatty and Jno. Bonner, jr. Officers: T. H. McQuade, President; T. C. Stephenson, secretary, and W. H. Curry, treasurer.

Last week Mr. D. H. Cornell, of Ops, sold a Durham calf 13 months old to Mr. John Davidson, importer and stock raiser, Whitby. The sum paid was $50. Mr. Cornell only began to raise Durhams two years ago.

LARAWAY IS GUILTY.

The Charge of Robbing the Canadian Mails at Detroit Proved—Affecting Scene With His Family.

Detroit, Mich., March 5.—The trial of Henry Laraway, charged with cutting open and rifling mail pouches at the Fort-street Union Depot was concluded in the United States Court to-day. After Judge Swan had charged, the daughters of the prisoner burst into a violent fit of weeping, giving way wholly beneath the long strain which had been imposed upon them. A moment later they, with his wife, went to the side of Laraway, where they remained for a considerable time in earnest conversation. The court room was densely packed, chiefly with friends of the family. The jury were out less than an hour, returning a verdict of guilty. The wife and daughters of the prisoner were deeply affected, weeping and wringing their hands, but the affecting scene was cut short by the prompt remanding of Laraway for sentence. The prisoner himself was also deeply affected by the distress of his family, but accepted the situation with the coolness which was conspicuous in his conduct all through the trial. When his wife and daughters gathered around him, clinging helplessly about his neck in bidding good-bye, his lip quivered perceptibly, but he made no other demonstration. The usual ten days was granted in which to move for a new trial.

BIG FIRE IN QUEBEC.

The Syndicate and Myrand & Pouliot's Large Dry Goods Stores Pretty Seriously Scorched.

Quebec, March 5.—A disastrous fire occurred here to night at 10.30 at the corner of Crown and Joseph-streets, in the buildings occupied by the drygoods firm of the Syndicate of Quebec and Myrand & Pouliot. Both these stores were closed as usual at 6 o'clock last evening. Passersby noticed flames issuing from Myrand & Pouliot's building at 10.30. An alarm was sounded as the flames burst through the upper part of the building, casting a lurid glare through the city. The Fire Brigade was on the spot in a few seconds and worked well, for in a very short time the flames were reduced, efforts being directed to the Syndicate building, the interior of which was burning fiercely. The fire was put out in the Syndicate building in time to save part of the stock and building. It is thought that the Syndicate loss is about $35,000, while the damage to Myrand & Pouliot is placed at about $45,000. At 12 o'clock the fire was completely under control and a small squad of firemen were kept busy putting out smouldering embers.

HE DIED LAUGHING.

James Ireland of Halifax, Traveler for a Toronto Firm, Died in a Railroad Car Last Night.

Amherst, N.S., March 5.—James Ireland of Halifax, traveler for Alexander & Anderson of Toronto, expired suddenly on the C.P.R. express here to-night. Deceased, who was returning to Amherst from Moncton, was in the first-class car laughing and talking with some other gentlemen, when, just as the train was entering the station he fell back in his seat a corpse, death seizing him without a moment's warning.

A VICTIM OF ASTHMA.

HAD NOT SLEPT IN BED FOR TWENTY-FIVE YEARS.

Seemed Doomed to Torture and Continual Misery—Father, Grandfather and Great Grandfather Had Died From the Trouble—Release Comes in Old Age—The Cure Looked Upon as a Miracle.

From the Whitby Chronicle.

For years stories of famous cures wrought by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have appeared in the Chronicle. During this time we have been casting about for a local case of such a nature as to leave no doubt of the efficiency of these pills. We have found several, but in each case it proved to be a sensitive body, who could not bear to have his or her name and disease made public.

Mr. Solomon Thompson lives on a beautiful farm on the west shore of Mud Lake, in Carden township, North Victoria. He has resided there for forty years, being the first settler around the lake. He was reeve of Carden and Dalton towhships thirty-years ago, before the counties of Peterborough and Victoria were separated, and he used to attend the counties' council at Peterborough. Mr. Thompson has been a victim of asthma for forty years or more. However, we will let him tell his own story on that head.

On October 15th, 1896, we took a trip to Mud Lake to visit the haunts long familiar to us, and made it a duty and found it a pleasure to call upon Mr. Thompson and learn from seeing him and hearing his account of it how he had been cured. For twenty-five years we had known him as a gasping, suffering asthmatic, the worst we ever knew who managed to live at all. We often wondered how he lived from day to day. On calling, he met us with a cheerful aspect and without displaying a trace of his old trouble. Being at once ushered into his house, we naturally made it our first business to enquire if it were all true about the benefits he had received from using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. "Beyond doubt," said he. "How long have you used them, and how many boxes have you used?" he was asked. "I started a year ago, and took eight boxes." We next asked him if he felt that the cure was permanent. "Well," said he, "I have not taken any of the pills for three or four months. Still I am not entirely satisfied yet. You see my father, grandfather and great grandfather died of asthma. My people all take it sooner or later and it always ends their days. I have lost three brothers from the fatal thing. Knowing my family history it is hard for me to gain faith, but I can tell you for thirty years I never slept in bed until I took Pink Pills. As you must have known, I always slept sitting in the chair you now occupy. I had a sling from that hook in the ceiling and always sat with my head resting in it while I slept. I now retire to my bed when the other members of my family do." "How old are you, Mr. Thompson?" "Seventy-six," was the reply, "and I feel younger than I did thirty years ago, I was troubled a great deal with rheumatism and other miseries, probably nervous troubles arising from want of sleep, but nearly all the rheumatism is gone with the asthma."

During the conversation Mr. Thompson, a hale old lady, the mother of thirteen children, came in and after listening to her husband's recital of these matters, she took up the theme. "I never expected that anything could cure Solomon," said she. "We were always trying to find something which would give him relief, so that he would be able to sleep nights, but nothing ever seemed to make much difference. At first he took one of the pills after each meal, but after a time he increased the dose to two. We noticed he was greatly improved after taking two boxes and began to have hopes. Later on when we saw beyond doubt that he was much better, I recommended the pills to a neice of mine, Miss Day, whose blood had apparently turned into water and who had run down in health and spirits so bad that she did not care to live. Why she got as yellow as saffron, and looked as if she would not live a week. You would hardly believe it," said Mrs. Thompson, "but that girl was the healthiest and handsomest girl in the neighborhood before three months had passed, and all from taking Pink Pills." Mrs. Thompson was called from the room at this juncture to attend to some household duties, and Mr. Thompson resumed the subject of his marvellous cure. "You can have no idea," said he, "what it is to go through twenty-five years without a good night's sleep and without pain. I can find no words to make plain to you the contrast between the comforts I now enjoy, and the awful life I had for so long. I had a big family of months to feed, and had to work when at times I felt more like lying down to die. I would come in at night completely tuckered out, but even that was no guarantee of rest. There was no rest for me. I seemed doomed to torture and continual misery. When my folks urged me to try Dr. William's Pink Pills, I thought it would be useless, but I had to do something or die soon, and here I am as right at a fiddle." The old gentleman shook his head to add emphasis to his last sentence, and looked like a man who felt joyful over a renewed lease of life, with all his old miseries removed.

After congratulating our old friend on his divorce from the hereditary destroyer of his kindred, we drove away. At many places in the neighbourhood we opened discussions upon the case and found that all regarded it as a marvellous cure. Where the Thompson family are known, no person would have believed for a moment that anything but death would relieve him from the grip of asthma. Every word that is written here can be verified by writing Mr. Solomon Thompson, Dalrymple post office, and an intimate acquaintance of twenty-five years enables the writer to vouch for the facts narrated above, and for the veracity of Mr. Thompson in any statement he may make.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure by going to the root of the disease. They renew and build up the blood, and strengthen the nerves, thus driving disease from the system. LILLIAN NORDICA TO WOMEN.

Health-Giving Paine's Celery Compound the Best Spring Remedy.

Mme Nordica has the distinction of being the first prima donna born in the United States.

She testifies to the wonderful health-giving effects of the greatest product of medical science — Paine's Celery Compound.

Not since Christine Nilsson has there been a Marguerite to be compared to Nordica's splendid impersonation.

All her achieved successes had for a foundation the most unrelaxing study and effort. No one knows better than the applauded prima donna what such severe work means to the nerves and strength. The following letter from Lillian Nordica to Wells & Richardson Co. must be gratefully read by hosts of women:

"It certainly gives me a great pleasure to testify to the health-giving effects of Paine's Celery Compound. I truly believe it to be the best of all spring remedies."

If the winter has left you weak and languid, Paine's Celery Compound will restore strength to your nerves, will purify the blood and make you well. Don't allow nervous debility to go on. Take warning from dyspepsia, nervous headache and sleeplessness. Guard against that tired, played-out feeling that so often appears as spring approaches. Neuralgia and rheumatism—awful enemies—must be conquered.

Paine' Celery Compound is the world's true disease banisher, renovator of the system and a life-giver at this time of the year. It quickly furnishes nutriment for the innumerable nerve fibres; it arouses the organ of digestion and assimilation to brisker action; it enables the wasted body to build up flesh and muscle, and dissipates every fearful and apprehensive feeling.

Paine's Celery Compound is truly the medicine for women when weak and burdened by work and home cares. It gives them fresh new blood, vim, energy and activity, and a new lease of life. Try it, and when you go to your dealer for Paine's Celery Compound, see that you get it; no other medicine can take its place successfully.

"I don't know exactly what the distance is," the boy called out after him, "but you'll be there in about four seconds, and there's a brick at the bottom of it."—Chicago Tribune.

Comments on the Inaugural.

London, March 5.—The Globe, commenting upon the inaugural address of President McKinley, says it does not commend itself to British manufacturers and merchants, as extreme protection is visible throughout it.

The St. James' Gazette says the references in the address to currency problems are as vague as Mr. Gladstone, adding: "English merchants have no need to be alarmed at the suggestion of a restoration of American shipping. McKinley comes from an inland state and is hardly an authority on the subject."

Preachers Beat the Job.

Baltimore, March 5.—The Baltimore Conference of the M.E. Church voted to-day 100 to 60 against the admission of women to the General Conference. The proposition to give laymen equal representation with the clergy was also defeated. The vote on the latter proposal was 98 to 69.

The blue-bird is hailed as a harbinger of Spring. It is also a reminder that a blood-purifier is needed to prepare the system for the debilitating weather to come. Listen and you will hear the birds singing: "Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla in March, April, May."

Harris Tweeds

From the Highlands o' Scotland.

We have been fortunate in securing a limited supply of these rare and much admired Scotch Tweeds, so highly prized by the aristocracy of the old country.

The chief beauty of the Harris Tweeds lies in their rough finish, being home-spun and dyed, and deftly woven on hand looms by thrifty and ingenious hand weavers of the Highlands of Scotland, never having been inside of a factory.

They are guaranteed pure Scotch Wool, and retain the peculiar odor of the heather and peat, so susceptible to the olfactory nerves of the sons of Auld Scotia.

In neutral shades, devoid of anything like conspicuous pattern, for Shooting, Cycling and Outing Suits.

The demand for the Harris Tweeds is always in excess of the supply—only 25 pieces having been secured for Canada, of which we obtained a select number. Ask to see these Novelties at Obituary.

The death of Mr. Thomas Harmer, aged 79 years, occurred this morning at the family residence, 68 Chamberlain street. The deceased was born in England and has resided in Peterborough for 26 years. He was a brick-layer by trade. Five sons and four daughters survive him, of whom four sons live in Chicago. The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon at two o'clock.

An Evening's Enjoyment.

The presentation of "My Friend From India" proved an unqualified success at the opera house last night, and the management is to be congratulated on securing a company of such undoubted high standing. The play proved a great success in London and New York, and no wonder, as it sparkles with wit of the most spontaneous character, and the dialogue is bright, racy and up to date. The company is a first class one in every particular. On Monday night McKee Rankin will take the leading character in "True to Life," and it is hoped a liberal patronage will encourage Mr. Bradburn to make arrangements for the more regular production of such plays.

Mr. McKee Rankin's Engagement.

Miss Nance O'Neil, who comes with Mr. Rankin as leading support in his new play of "True to Life," is the lady who set New York theatre-goers wild in a night and was perhaps the most widely talked of young woman in New York city while the play was being performed there. She is compared with such actresses as Mary Anderson, Clara Morris and others of equal fame, and her intense forcible acting in the part of the convict's daughter, leaves an impression that one cannot forget. There is no ranting in her speeches, no false effect in her pathos, no trickery in her tears and broken voice, but she thrills her audiences to the topmost point. "True to Life" will be the attraction at Bradburn's Opera House on Monday night next.

INCENDIARY FIRES.

Thirteen of Them Have Taken Place in Monaghan and Smith.

For the last twenty year fires have been occurring in the adjacent townships with a regularity which was not at all relished by the insurance companies. Several which occurred lately were attended with such suspicious circumstances that an investigation was resolved upon by the Grange Mutual Fire Insurance Company, and arrangements were made with the Provincial Government whereby Detective Greer was detailed to give his attention to the matter.

Some astonishing facts, it seems, were brought to light by a little work on the case, and Detective Greer soon had what he considered sufficient evidence to warrant him tracing thirteen fires to an incendiary origin.

It was accordingly decided to sift the matter to the bottom, and last evening an investigation was held, the witnesses being brought before Mr. Harry Rush, J. P. Almost 200 subpoenas were served and the case is rapidly assuming the same earmarks of villainy as the Melancthon outrages in Western Ontario. At various times energetically inclined persons made efforts to trace the origin of the fires, but when a fine steer would be found dead or else be missed from their herd never to be seen again, their energy would soon wane, as it was found impossible to fight against the unseen enemy, who seemed to be actuated more by spite than any hope of profit.

Since the report of the investigation has been rumoured through Smith and Monaghan, a large number of unsolicited witnesses have come in to tender their evidence.

The case is considered to be a strong one and already it is understood that several suspects are under surveillance. The witnesses are being looked after by County Constable Cochrane and Constable Moore. Mr. M. J. Doyle, of Owen Sound, President of the Grange Mutual Fire Insurance Company, is attending the investigation as the representative of the Company.

ELOQUENCE OF ART AND HEART.

Lecture under the Auspices of the W. F. M. S. by Rev. J. G. Potter.

Nothwithstanding the very disagreeable weather last night, a large number were present in St. Andrew's school room to hear the lecture on this subject by the Rev. J. G. Potter. The subject embraced "The Useful Arts and the Fine Arts." The lecturer drew from all these the many important things they speak of, and after pleasing references to the great painters and sculptors, dwelt to a greater extent on the three great arts that have been great factors in the progress of Christianity, viz., eloquence, literature and music. They were illustrated by quotations.

Mr. F. W. Gladman presided, and during the evening a quartette composed of Mrs. H. Jones, Miss M. Fowler and Messrs. McEwan and Mulligan, rendered in splendid style "Moonlight Come Again." Miss Vida Gladman also assisted with instrumental selections.

AN ENNISMORE WEDDING.

The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Minnie Cavanagh, and Mr. Daniel Shanahan, of Peterborough supported the groom. A large number of most costly presents were received by the young couple, to whom the EXAMINER desires to extend hearty congratulations.

PETERBOROUGH THE VICTORS.

The Junior Hockey Team Defeat the Lindsay Collegiate Seven.

The hockey team of the Lindsay Collegiate Institute journeyed here yesterday to have a game with the local intermediate team and for a Collegiate team the visitors put up a splendid game. Their goalkeeper and their point man are the making of A 1 hockeyists, but the fault of their forwards is that they are not at all sure. They seem always uncertain and during a rush the puck would never be passed at the moment it should. This was where the Peterborough team had the advantage of them. The puck faced, it started on its way toward the Lindsay goal and it was invariably brought there and if it had not been for the stops made by the Lindsay goal-keeper, the score would have been trebled.

Following were the teams as they lined up before Referee T. Watt:

Peterborough.		Lindsay.
Watson	goal	Gross
Hollingshead	point	Keenan
Thorne	cover point	Martin
Bellegham	forwards	Knowlson
King	forwards	Parkins
Adams	forwards	Matthews
Davidson	forwards	Callaghan
Lynch	umpires	Campbell
McClelland	time-keepers	English

The game started fast and it would centre itself near Lindsay goal and thence to Peterborough goal, but after nine minutes hard playing, Harry King scored the first game for Peterborough.

Bellegham and Davidson secured the puck on the face off and it was passed and repassed from forward to forward in a manner that the Lindsayites did not understand, while Bellegham scored. After this the visitors lost courage and the play was not so fast, and although their defence played a good game, before half time was called Peterborough had scored three more goals, by Davidson, Bellegham and King making the score 5-0.

When the teams appeared on the ice again the Lindsay boys played much better and scored the first two games in a very few minutes. Belleghem followed for Peterborough by scoring one which was soon followed by another from Adams. The next game was rather long and in this the fine playing of our defence by Hollingshead and Thorne was seen. The former made some very pretty lifts, while the latter dazzled the Lindsay forward line in the way he would spoil their passes. However Lindsay got an opening and scored a game, while Peterborough followed by two more before time was called, making the score 9 to 3 in favour of Peterborough II.

CURLIANA.

Lindsay was challenged the other day to a two rink curling match for two barrels of flour for the poor. The challenge was made as the outcome of a friendly discussion, and was thought little of, as such matches occur here frequently. The two appended letters from Lindsay show how the challenge was viewed by the curlers of that town:

To Mr. J. S. Knapman, Secretary Thistle Curling Club, Peterborough:

DEAR SIR,—The challenge of the Peterborough curling clubs to the Lindsay curling club for a game for flour was brought before the foreign match committee of our club by Mr. J. D. Flavelle, a member of that committee, at its meeting this evening. Mr. Flavelle stated that he had accepted the challenge at once, without a moment's consideration, but that it had been mentioned to him that there were objectionable features about it, and that the matter was in the hands of the committee for consideration. After fully considering the matter, the committee decided unanimously to withdraw our acceptance of the challenge. We believe that most likely the challenge was made heatily, and we trust that your clubs will see that it is the wisest course not to have this game played. We know that you are as anxious as we are that nothing shall be done by either club to alienate from the game of curling the respect and esteem of the better classes of our communities. We consider that that grand summer game, cricket, and our winter game, curling, are two sports which should be played, by those that love them, for their own sake; and that not the slightest trace of betting should, on any account, be introduced into them. We feel also that such a game as is proposed would not tend to strengthen those friendly feelings between the two clubs, which should be strengthened and increased the more frequently we meet together on the ice in friendly games. Although for the reasons stated we feel bound to decline your challenge as given, yet we will be pleased to meet two, six or a dozen rinks of our club at any time in a friendly game.

Yours,
J. C. HARSTONE.

P. S.—Could we arrange to have the next Peterborough-Lindsay Cup game played on Monday of next week?

Lindsay, March 2nd, 1897.

LINDSAY, Feb. 3, '97.

DEAR MR. KNAPMAN,—Referring to contemplated match spoken of. Several of our members whom they heard of same were very much annoyed, stating that such a match entrenched on professionalism, and also tended to encourage betting, and asked me to bring it before the Foreign Match Committee, who have full power to arrange all matches. The committee called me down, saying I should not have arranged any match without first consulting them, and unanimously decided that it was not in the interest of true amateur sport to have such a match; so that our contemplated match falls through.

From a personal standpoint I would have much pleasure in playing a game of that kind, but would waive all personal wishes rather than incur any feeling in either of the clubs, if by playing it would annoy anyone.

What about playing our cup match on Monday? Let me know relative to same on your return from Toronto.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN D. FLAVELLE.

HOCKEY.

The Oriental Hotel boarders are anxious for a return match with the Huffman boys next week.

Toronto Saturday Night has in its sporting page a cartoon representing the seven hockey players that had it out with the T. C. A. team in Toronto. The pictures represent the players in their favourite poses, but the likenesses are only approximate. The following account of the match is given:

The T.A.C. team which defeated Peterborough, 6-4, at the Caledonia last Friday was not strictly an O.H.A. one, as Helliwell and Labatt of the Bank League figured thereon, taking the places of McMurrich and Johnston; Donaldson, of the Wellingtons, also had a place with the forwards. Peterborough did not play the same men that defeated Queen's, two of their juniors, viz., Graham and Crossley, being on the forward line. Had Lionel King and Phalen played, the score would probably have been reversed. Adams and Montgomery, who played in Toronto last year and the year before against the Granite colts for the junior O.H.A. championship, still retain their places on the team. Considering that it was merely an exhibition game, the quality of hockey was good, and the second half was the fastest exhibition of hockey that has been seen in Toronto this season. Owing to the fact of the T.A.C. forwards not being used to each other, they did not combine well in the first half and the score at half-time stood 3—1 in Peterborough's favour. The Peterborough forward line was rather weak in shooting. Ashe, the old Winnipeg man, and Graham are both fast skaters, and worked in several good rushes. Adams at cover-point made many brilliant pieces of play; he is a clever stick handler and lifts well. Montgomery at point also did excellently, being very cool and tricky. Labatt was the pick of the T. A. C. forwards. He played a hard, brilliant game, his only weakness being that of holding the puck too long. Donaldson and Miller are two of the best shots in Toronto and made an exceedingly strong centre. Carruthers did poorly in the first half, being unable to hold his man. He fully redeemed himself, however, later in the game and more than held his own. McArthur went back to cover-point in Brummell's place and filled the place acceptably. Windeyer at point lifted well and made one or two useful rushes. Helliwell, although he let one easy shot go through, kept goal satisfactorily. The refereeing of Mr. Crawford might easily have been improved on, his off-side decisions being poor.

Wherever the sun shines Dr. Chase's remedies are known, and no music so sweet to many a poor soul as the song of rejoicing over restoration to health in the use of them. Ask your dealer about them.

Thousands are suffering excruciating misery from that plague of the night, Itching Piles, and say nothing about it through sense of delicacy. All such will find an instant relief in the use of Chase's Ointment. It never fails.

CUSTOMS RETURNS.

An Increase of Both Imports and Exports.

The customs returns of the port of Peterborough for the past month of February compare as follows with those for the same month of 1896:

IMPORTS.

	Value.	Duty.
1897	$ 26,815	$ 5,163.61
1896	22,598	4,833.87
Increase	$ 14,217	$329.74

EXPORTS.

	Value.
1897	$ 39,130
1896	26,919
	$ 12,261

As February is the month in which the bulk of the goods for the spring openings come in it will be seen that the Peterborough merchants evidently look forward to a brisk spring business.

TO IMPROVE SQUAW RIVER DAMS.

A Harvey Deputation Asks Aid of the Government.

Reeve Shaw, James Richmond and John Crandle, from the township of Harvey, waited upon the Government Thursday morning and asked for aid, to the extent of $1,000, for improving dams on Squaw river. They stated that a large lumber concern, which some time ago drew their logs along the river, used to keep the dams in repair. The concern have lately stopped their works in that region. The settlers, however, use the river for the same purpose. The deputation stated that if the money was advanced and the dams immediately repaired, the Government would receive, from tolls, two or three thousand dollars within the year.

REV. DR. TORRANCE ON CHRISTIAN UNITY.

HE SPEAKS ON THIS SUBJECT IN ST. LUKES CHURCH.

Denominational Distinctions in Some Centres are Responsible for the Waste of Much Money, which Might be far Better Utilized.

Considering the inclemency of the weather, there was a good attendance at St. Luke's school house last night, when the first of the series of lectures on Church Unity was delivered by Rev. Dr. Torrance.

Rev. H. Symonds presided, and after the hymn "The Church's One Foundation," had been sung, and prayer had been offered up, he said that the subject they were about to consider was one of the utmost importance at the present day. In England, especially, conferences had been organized, held on neutral ground in Switzerland, in which the leading communions had all taken part. He read a letter commending to the attention and prayers of all Christian people the Guiedelwald Conference, and signed by Lord Nelson, the Bishop of Worcester, Rev. Hay Aitken, Dean Freemantle, Canon Wilberforce and others, members of the Church of England, Rev. H. K. Moore and Prof. Stokes of the Church of Ireland, Dr. Marcus Dods, and Dr. Gibson of the Church of Scotland; of the Congregationalists. Dr. Cave, Rev. R. F. Horbon, Dr. MacKennel and J. Guinness Rogers; of the Baptists, F. F. Aked and Dr. Clifford; of the Methodists, Rev. Dr. Dallinger (one of the foremost men of science of the century), Rev. W. J. Dawson, Rev. H. Price Hughes and Rev. T. Browman Stephenson.

Rev. Dr. Torrance said he would connect his remarks with St. John, 10, 16 and 17, 20 and 21. "There shall be one flock and one shepherd, and that they all may be one, as thou Father art in me and I in Thee, that they may be one in Us that the world may believe that Thou hast sent me."

The first of these verses implied that Christian unity should one day be an accomplished fact, and the second that it should be in answer to the prayers of our Lord.

What is Christian unity? Some say it is a purely spiritual, that it is invisible unity of all those who love our Lord Jesus Christ, and quite independent of external organization. Others that the unity of outward organization was the essential feature. In his opinion there was some truth in both these views. It could not, however, be merely a spiritual unity for which our Lord prayed, because the great reason for unity was that the world might believe that the Father sent the Son. Certainly these words indicated a unity of such a kind as could be seen. On the other hand mere unity of external organization was not sufficient. "As thou Father art in me, and I in thee, that they may be one in us," indicated a deeper unity than mere outward unity. The ideal Christian unity was both spiritual and visible.

Dr. Torrance then briefly but comprehensively exhibited the Scriptural evidence in favour of unity. Christians were compared to a building, to a vine and its branches, to the head and the body. In each of these the centre or foundations of unity was Jesus Christ. St. Paul, too, most forcibly illustrates the unity that should exist by the illustration of the body and its members. "If one member suffers all the members suffer with it." There is, argues St. Paul, one body because there is one Lord and one faith. A common love to a common Saviour unites them to one another.

In the church after the day of Pentecost there was outward and visible unity. We read of the first converts, that they continued in the Apostles' doctrine and in fellowship and in the breaking of bread and prayers." The narrative of Acts xv beautifully testifies to the unity of the church. From St. Paul's 1st Epistle to the Corinthians we learn that that church, whilst not actually divided, was much weakened by party strife. The apostle besought them to be of one mind. If the state of things at Corinth filled the apostle with dismay, how would he have regarded the Christianity of to-day?

In coming to the question of the benefits of Christian unity, Dr. Torrance spoke first of the evils of rivalry. Branches of the church arrayed against each other. How had persecution in bygone days contradicted the spirit of the Gospel? The first benefit of Christian unity was that it would diminish an evil spirit of rivalry.

2. Christian unity would consolidate the work of foreign missions. The evils of division are seen in many a village in Canada, where there are four or five weak, struggling congregations, where one would be sufficient. Here is a waste both of men and of money.

3. And thirdly the united church would show a strong front to her foes. Infidelity asks how those outside the church can be expected to enter it, when those within are so divided? Now though there was so little of the spirit of unity amongst Christians it could not be denied that there was much force in this question.

The hymn was then sung

"O Lord how joyful 'tis to see
The brethren join in love to thee."

The rector made a few remarks drawing especial attention to the strength of the scriptural ground of unity. On behalf of the congregation of St. Luke's he tendered to Dr. Torrance cordial thanks for accepting their invitation, and for the clear and forcible lecture he had given them.

Next Friday at 8 p.m. Rev. W. R. Young will lecture on "The Advantages and Disadvantages of Church Unity." All are cordially invited to attend.

THE REASON WHY

MESS PORK selling under $6 per brl. is a safe and sure investment. The average high price for 32 years is $21.10: The average low price $12.57½. Stocks are light, exports above the average. I buy this pork on the Chicago Board of Trade on a margin of $1 per brl. From $2 to $4 profit is sure within the next four months. Do not give your order to Bucket Shops that buy or sell nothing but bet against you, and when there is more money in closing up than going on, they will close. I will be glad to furnish the best of references as to my business being a legitimate brokerage one, and of my financial responsibility, Private wire direct to old, reliable and responsible Board of Trade Houses, (Established 1886, the largest country business in the U. BRAIN FOOD FOR

LENT

No danger of the citizens of Peterborough starving for brain foods during the Lenten season, as long a we can keep up our present supply of Fish.

While the albuminoid matter in White Fish, Cod, Haddock and Halibut is in about the same proportion as in beef and mutton, the quantity of phosphorus is greater.

The active fish, such as Trout, Pickerel, Salmon, etc., contain a still greater amount of phosphorus, due no doubt to their quick movements.

Select Fish with firm flesh, clear eyes, red gills, scales bright and free from any unpleasant odor.

The public have a guarantee that our storage and icing facilities preserves our stock of fish perfectly sound and reliable, and the prices quoted will always be the lowest in town.

For the Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs.

THERE is only one way by which any disease can be cured, and that is by removing the cause, whatever it may be. The great medical authorities of the day declare that nearly every disease is caused by deranged Kidneys or Liver. To restore these, therefore, is the only way by which health can be secured. Here is where has achieved its great reputation. It and by placing them in a healthy condition, drives disease and pain from the system.

ACTS DIRECTLY UPON THE KIDNEYS AND LIVER

THE TROUBLE IN THE EAST.

A Few Notes Covering the Latest News From Greece and Crete Skirmishes at Many Points.

Reports from Selino say the situation is uncertain. It is said that Kanamos still holds out.

Canea was calmer yesterday than for some time past.

Warlike preparations continue at Athens. The reserves of 1891, 1893, 1889 and 1888 have been summoned to join the colors and they are responding with alacrity. A great meeting was held there to protest against the action of the powers and to give expression of approval of the policy of King George. The crowd marched to the Palace and entered its precincts shouting for war. Several speakers addressed the crowd, vehemently denouncing the powers for the support they were giving to the Turks against Christians, and calling upon their hearers to shed their last drop of blood in upholding the honor and rights of Greece.

A Russian war ship arrived at Canea from a cruise around the island, made for purposes of observation. Her commander reports that fighting is going on in the vicinity of all the coast towns.

A Constantinople correspondent of The London Standard telegraphs that the police have reported that 10,000 Greek residents of the city are preparing to make trouble.

THEY WORKED WONDERS.

Two Years of Bladder Torment—Had Attacks of Inflammation—Cured by a few Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Owen Sound, Feb. 23, (Special)—The people of this town are talking again of another cure credited to Dodd's Kidney Pills. This is the case of Mr. W. Cruse, caretaker of town buildings, who, when seen had this to say of the matter:

"For over two years I have been an intense sufferer from kidney disease with occasional acute attacks of inflammation of the bladder.'

"Was under doctors' treatment and have been compelled to resort to instrumental relief many times.

"I have taken eighteen boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and am satisfied with results being perfectly relieved of all suffering."

Fears for the Don.

London, March 3.—There is much anxiety in Plymouth concerning the safety of the West India mail steamer Don, which passed the Lizard at 10.30 Tuesday night, and was due at Plymouth at 2 o'clock this morning, and which, since having been signalled off the Lizard, has not been heard from. It is believed by many persons, however, that she has proceeded for Southampton.

He's Not the Man.

Haverhill, Mass., March 3.—John Diamond, a Montreal officer, visited Lawrence jail this afternoon, in company with Inspector Dungin of this city. He is assured that Nicholas Franza is not the man wanted in Montreal for murder.

"A crick in the back," a pain under the shoulder-blades, waterbrash, biliousness, and constipation, are symptoms of disordered stomach, kidneys, liver, and bowels. For all ailments originating in a derangement of these organs, take Ayer's Pills.

THE OTTAWA BUDGET

A Set-Back for the British Columbia Government.

TRENCHED ON FEDERAL GROUND

And Sir Oliver Mowat Has Called a Halt—Prof. Robertson's Doings in the Northwest in Regard to Creameries and Cold Storage—The New Ballot.

Ottawa, March 4.

The Minister of Justice has caused to be submitted to the British Columbia Government a minute of council dealing with certain acts of the Legislature of British Columbia, and which appears to trench upon the Federal prerogative. One section of an act respecting co-operative associations comes under the criminal code, and the Legislature is asked to repeal this provision. Another measure dealing with the preservation of forests from destruction by fire is covered by the Dominion Railway Act. Then there are certain sections in the British Columbia Municipal Act which confer powers on municipalities not coming within the domain of a local Legislature. For instance power is given to municipalities to make bylaws for the prevention of cruelty to animals. Another relates to quarantine matters, both of which are declared to belong to Dominion legislation under section 91 of the B.N.A. Act.

Consideration of the Crow's Nest Pass Railway matter by the Cabinet has been postponed sine die.

Prof. Robertson, dairy commissioner, returned from his Northwest trip to-day. He traveled as far as Edmonton, visiting the principal points along the line of the C.P.R., as well as on the Prince Albert branch. He expects as a result of his visit there will be a great impetus given to dairying in the Northwest this year. As soon as the commissioner has been able to tabulate his returns he will be in a position to announce the number of creameries and the cold storage accommodation which will be forthcoming.

At the opening of navigation in the spring, an improved illuminating apparatus will be put in the lighthouse at Point Pleasant, or Indian Point, at the entrance of the Bay of Quinte. As heretofore, it will be a fixed white light, elevated 52 feet above the level of the lake, and should be visible from all points of approach by water. A similar change will be made in the illuminating apparatus in the Back Range tower at the mouth of the River Thames, Lake St. Clair.

In the Supreme Court to-day the appeal in the Queen v. O'Neill and Campbell was argued. The claimants were contractors for the construction of certain works on the line of the Digby and Annapolis Railway and on a dispute as to an amount of $98,845, in addition to $511,608 previously paid, a reference was made by the Minister of Railways to the Exchequer Court, where, after trial of issues and a special reference and report by three engineers, it was adjudged that the claimants should recover $37,840 against the Crown on 13 specified items. The Government has accepted six of these items, as found by the Exchequer Court Judge, but appeals against the others on the ground that the seven findings complained of were not justified by the terms of the contract. The claimants also have a cross appeal against three of the items as found, to have them increased by about $11,000, and also asking for interest on balances during litigation since the 11th of May, 1892. Ritchie, Q. C., appears for the Queen; Chrysler, Q. C., for the claimants. Argument will continue to-morrow.

The new Domn ballot is framed on the lines of the present one, except that there is a black line of about a quarter of an inch in width between the space containing the name of each candidate, thereby rendering the intent of the voter clearer, should he not place his cross in the disc. Under the law of last session a cross not placed in the disc is to be counted.

The Masonic fraternity are talking of putting up a hall to cost $16,000.

The citizens seem to approve the action of the Fire and Light Committee in recommending a re-organization of the Fire Department, although there is a little kicking about the proposal to import a new chief.

The Waterworks Committee suggests an expenditure of $60,000 for an auxiliary steam pumping plant, in the event of the present turbines being troubled with anchor ice, as sometimes is the case in the spring and autumn.

Mr. Tarte has decided to have the replastering of the West block done by day labor. It is expected all the departments will be back in their old offices by the middle of May.

O. Higman, electrician of the Inland Revenue Department, has been notified of his election as vice-president of the Canadian Electrical Association, in succession to the late Carl Breithaupt.

M. J. McPherson has been appointed sub-Collector of Customs at Kincardine.

The staff of the Government Printing Bureau is being organized into a fire brigade. Fire drill will be regularly carried out in the future. It is understood the suggestion emanated from the Minister of Public Works.

H. M. Whitney, president of the Dominion Coal Company of Nova Scotia, is here, but would not talk tariff for publication, although no doubt he is here to protest against the removal of the duty on coal.

BRITISH COMMONS.

Canada's Opinion Asked in Regard to Regimental Districts—Six Premiers Accept.

London, March 4.—In the House of Commons to-day W. S. Broderick, Parliamentary Secretary to the War Office, said the Government's proposal to create regimental districts in the colonies had been referred to the Dominion of Canada for an opinion thereon. The Imperial Government were alive to the desirability of the creation of such districts, and would encourage any tendencies toward their establishment on the part of the colonies, but it was obvious that the subject needed careful consideration.

Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, announced that the Premiers of Cape Colony, Newfoundland, Victoria, Queensland, Tasmania and West Australia had signified their intention to be present at the celebration of the sixtieth year of the reign of Queen Victoria next June upon the invitation of the Government.

Mr. Chamberlain added that Wilfrid Laurier, Premier of Canada, had said the invitation would be heartily entertained, but he would be obliged to consult with his colleagues on the subject of its acceptance.

Two Men Blown to Atoms.

Buffalo, N.Y., March 4.—A frightful nitroglycerine explosion occurred on Albert Pike's farm at Orchard Park, this county, this afternoon. Pike was instantly killed by the explosion. A laborer from Bradford, name unknown, was also blown to pieces. He was helping Mr. Pike handle the explosive. The building in which the nitroglycerine was stored was completely destroyed.

"Down Brakes, and Reverse!"

When a train is discovered rushing on to a frightful collision, it is a thrilling instant as the engineer whistles "Down brakes!" and reverses his lever. Brakes alone are not enough; the whole propelling power of the engine must be reversed and made to work in the opposite direction. That is how it is sometimes with disease. There are times when the system is flying along the track of disease at such a frightful pace that no ordinary methods will prevent disaster. There are plenty of medicines which act merely as brakes to "slow up" the disease and put off disaster for a little while; but that isn't enough. What is needed is a medicine that will instantly reverse the entire wasting, degenerating process.

When people are losing flesh and strength and vitality, with the life oozing out of them day after day, they need Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which acts directly upon the vital forces, completely transforms the entire nutritive organism and totally reverses the wasting, debilitating process which is at the root of all diseases.

It enables the digestive and blood-making organs to supply the circulation with an abundance of pure, healthy, red blood. It stops the wasting of tissue, builds up solid muscular flesh and healthy nerve-force.

Miss Mary Whitman, of East Dickinson, Franklin Co., N. Y., writes: "For nearly ten months I have had a bad cough, and instead of getting better, it grew worse, until I was advised by a friend to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I hesitated at first, for it seemed to me nothing would give relief only death. My parents were anxious about me, and I was said to have consumption. I tried your medicines, and before I had taken many doses there was a great change. When the second bottle was empty I had no cough and was a great deal stronger."

A SPECIFIC
—FOR—
La Grippe, for Colds, Coughs,
AND LUNG TROUBLES,
AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally, my husband,—reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,—procured, for me, a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, whenever we have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMILY WOOD, North St., Elkton, Md.

LOUIS XVI. BOUDOIR.

HOW TO FURNISH A DAINTY ROOM IN THAT FLORID STYLE.

The Elaborate Curves—Fruits, Flowers, Ribbons, Horns of Plenty Exquisitely Carved in Furniture—Rich Effects in Damasks.

Louis XVI., while preparing for the reception of his beautiful bride and in the subsequent decorations of the palaces he inhabited, gave free rein to his own luxurious tastes and habits, so that what had seemed sumptuous in the extreme in the day of Louis XVI. faded away and was outdone in every particular.

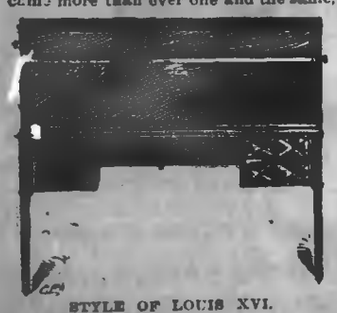
That it was overdone no one can doubt, and the sudden and extreme changes which followed upon the tragedy in which he and Marie Antoinette played the most important parts bore witness to these facts.

But to-day we have only to refresh our memories and dwell upon the beautiful in art, leaving all historical facts for others to deal with.

When the artists, architects, cabinet makers and upholsterers were called upon to decorate and furnish anew the room to be inhabited by the foreign ladies about to make France their home they allowed their imaginations free play, and certainly produced most beautiful specimens in their various departments.

Lines that had been severely straight now took elaborate curves, and we find the woodwork in the rooms blossoming in fruits and flowers falling from horns of plenty and tied together with carved ribbons, each and all so dainty in design and so excellent in execution that the eye was charmed on every side.

Another change took place which, slight though it may be, makes it necessary for us to go into more comprehensive details than in our last article. Boudoirs and bedrooms became more than ever one and the same,



STYLE OF LOUIS XVI.

The great ladies received their friends in bed at one stage of their toilet, at their dressing tables a little later on; and again the scene, though not the room, changed. Gentlemen were admitted at a fairly formal levee, and the bed and toilet accessories were suppressed and regulated to the background, the hair dresser and his attendants only remaining.

The Wainscoting

So, in describing the room which is to serve as a model, all these various necessities must be provided for.

The size and shape of the room being uncertain, only a general idea of the effect can be given.

The wainscot will be of wood, about three feet high, running about all four sides of the room in small panels. In many cases these panels can be painted in gilt and colors, the designs matching those on the doors, for at this time artists of high repute did not consider it undignified to originate designs and paint the walls and doors of palaces.

Above this wainscot there were several methods of treating the walls, but that most in vogue for bedrooms and boudoirs was the hanging of stuffs on the wall, covering all the space from the wood to the ceiling, the breadths of the material being joined invisibly, as are the seams in wall paper at the present day.

The choice in these materials was immense, for during the latter part of the preceding reign the factories in Lyons and in other cities came under the protection of men high in power, and the designers in cotton, wool and silk materials were greatly stimulated and encouraged, with the result that there was no lack of variety to choose from.

The silk damask glowed with color, golden threads being woven into the texture, garlands gay with flowers, their colors vying with nature; vases from which fruits and tropical plants seemed to be growing were a few of the ideas reproduced in the fabrics, and they filled the spaces and hung the rooms in many a house and palace.

Lace patterns on plain, colored backgrounds, following the craze then existing for laces of all kinds; stripes in which flowers and feathers formed a definite feature, or bunches of feathers in gay colors on all kinds of backgrounds, introduced by the Princess de Lamballe, graced one period of this reign. Still another style, following the pastoral simplicity of shepherds and shepherdesses, was followed, a whole farm scene or sylvan dance being carried out in tapestry, the same design being followed out in the coverings of the sofas and chairs.

Where the walls were painted the designs were almost too numerous to mention. One much favored took the form of round medallions containing portraits and surrounded by wreaths and streamers of ribbons, all abounding in color and lavish ornamentation. The ceilings, too, partook of this general high colored treatment, and mythological subjects furnished the themes for the brushes of the best artists procurable.

Styles in Beds.

Our modern belle, in following out these suggestions for mural decorations, will find that many of these designs and patterns have been brought into present possibilities for her by the taste and skill of the modern wall paper manufacturers, though it must be confessed that to produce the rich effect that is so much a part of this sumptuous period silken stuffs are to be considered a necessity.

The fireplace and mantel which every room possessed does not differ materially in shape from that in the preceding reign, but all the accessories have taken to themselves generous and ample lines. The example shown in our illustration of a fireplace and mantel, with ornaments and side wall decorations, gives a better idea of what is correct than any verbal description can. Particular attention is called to the little gilded consol at the left of the fireplace.

There are two distinct kinds of beds and hangings to choose from for our room.

First, one that is set in an alcove or the corner of the room. The curtains hang from a round or oval frame, ornamented with gilding or draped with the stuff used for the curtains, and which may either match the wall or be in contrasting plain color. These curtains are very voluminous, and are arranged so that they may be dropped and entirely conceal the bed, or may be looped back by heavy silken cord and tassels which ornaments may also be used in the draping of the "ciel delit," as it is called.

STYLE OF LOUIS XVI.

The bedstead is of wood, the head very little higher than the foot, and often painted and gilded in most elaborate fashion.

The other kind of bedstead is of highly polished, inlaid wood, the head and foot being of the same height. It stands against the wall in the manner of a sofa. The curtains are of lace or of light silken stuff, and hang from an ornamented ciel delit, something like a gilt crown. The bed has two bolsters, one at each end. They are covered, like the rest of the bed, with either an embroidered satin spread or one of old Venetian point lace over a color to harmonize with the general tone of the room.

The next article of furniture that occupies our attention is the toilet stand or dressing table. This necessary addition to a bedroom may be of varied size and material. The one we have chosen to illustrate our idea is of polished rosewood, with gilt trimmings. Its long glass is framed in wood, and it has several drawers on either side to contain various toilet necessities.

The cover and basin and other articles seem to be of enamelled faience, probably of Italian make, and are not very large. But it must be remembered that for all ordinary washing, etc., there is always the closet, or "cabinet de toilette," the door to which, opening in the wall near the bed, is quite concealed by being without wooden mouldings, and is covered by the same stuff that is on the walls, care being taken to match the pattern of the material exactly.

This dressing table will be moved from its usual place against the wall and put where the most becoming light will fall upon the fair owner when she wishes to have her hair dressed and receive her friends at the same time.

The Furniture.

A writing desk more pretentious than that shown last week, having the writing leaf made to close and the upper part like a cabinet, with tiny cupboards for books or papers, will be of colored inlaid woods, with painted china panels in the doors of the cabinet, or made of buhl work, which is an intricate pattern of brass, inlaid with tortoise shell. Some of the most famous cabinetmakers of that time made most beautiful specimens of this kind of work.

The chairs and sofas have straight backs and arms, the wood carved and gilded. The coverings may be of embossed velvets or silks to match the hangings on the walls; also they may be covered in tapestries.

Double sets of curtains are first known to have been used during this period. The heavy silk or velvet curtains are draped in festoons at the top or finished in box plaits, standing up like a heading, a knot of silk cord at each plait. These curtains are looped back with cords and tassels on gilt or brass embrasures.

About this time lamps began to be used, and there are some very beautiful and artistic vases adapted for this purpose, but for the general use candles held their sway.

Floor coverings were of more diversified manufacture, and one sees in old prints that rugs from Turkey and India were held in high esteem, as well as those of the Aubusson tapestries. Tiger and bear skins were also much used, the floor underneath always remaining the highly polished parquet of more or less elaborate pattern.

Many little fancy tables were also allowable at this period, and there is a large choice in many shapes.

Having thus far described styles and materials that can only be used in the houses of those who have plenty of money to spend, it remains for us to say that at the present day there are many stuffs and wall papers made that in point of color and design follow very closely those more costly fashions that we have been describing, and that there are also many articles of painted and enamelled furniture that are fairly good copies of some of the best models of Louis XVI.'s time, so that if any woman will use her abilities to ascertain which are the best and simplest copies she may, for a moderate outlay, plan for herself a dainty boudoir, in which she can dwell with satisfaction, knowing that she has correct colors, shapes and styles; in other words, that she has a room that is almost, if not quite, a perfect representation of a famous era, in which she can receive her friends, and herself reign every inch a queen.

A card on the outside of office door says —"Gone to lunch. Be back in ten minutes." And the man will be there on time. That is for some days, weeks or even months he will. Then he will be at home occasionally for a day. He'll tell you he had a headache, a turn of cholera morbus, or maybe he'll say he had a lump in his stomach and felt too miserable to move. The lump was probably two or three ten minute lunches condensed.

The man who "bolts" his lunches will find Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the best friend he ever met.

There is no case of biliousness, constipation, indigestion, "heart burn," or trouble of the heart of the nightmare breeding brood that these little "Pellets" will not cure. They cure permanently. The Field of Waterloo.

The modern Belgian peasant attacks the visitor to Waterloo with immoderation and demands English silver most persistently. The conductor of the char-a-banc which conveys you to the field sturdily claims backsheesh for the sole service of having relieved you of your fare. From the moment you leave the station until the moment you return you are pursued by a crowd of ragged urchins, howling "Charite," at the top of their ugly voices, or insisting on the purchase of the most ridiculous mementoes. At the gates of La Haye Sainte, where the brave Germans fell to a man after having exhausted their ammunition, a farm girl invites you to enter and then bars your exit with a belated demand for half a franc a visitor. At Hougoumont they have learned to improve upon this: A lady makes terms with you while you are at the gate for admission at the rate of half a franc each, but this you learn, to your disgust, on your departure does not include an additional charge of half a franc each for the service of the guide to the farm from whose clamor you have vainly endeavored to escape during the entire length of your stay. Such in sober truth is the condition of the field of Waterloo to-day. What it will be when the railway is opened and the dejected battalions of the "personally conducted" are poured out on it, is one of those things it is better to suspect than know.—Pall Mall Gazette.

BLOOD AND SKIN HUMORS

Afflicting a Whole Family. Speedily Cured by CUTICURA.

Statements Sworn to Before the Clerk of the Supreme Court.

My wife had appear on her limbs, just above the ankles, five small pimples that began to enlarge, and soon developed into eating ulcers of the indolent type, which, despite all remedies and our efforts to cure them, grew worse and worse, and at the end of three months had become very bad, two of them having eaten to the bone. At that time we began to use CUTICURA remedies, and with two bottles of RESOLVENT, one box of CUTICURA, and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, they were cured sound and well in about two months. The scars are there to-day as living witnesses of the severity and extent of the ulcers.

I also was afflicted the same winter with papular rash, from which I could not rest day or night. My skin became in a very bad fix when I began using CUTICURA remedies. I used them for about one month and was cured.

My little baby girl, when about ten months old, was afflicted with Eczema, her limbs from her knees down were one solid sore from which she suffered greatly. We tried several remedies which only aggravated them, before we began the use of the CUTICURA remedies, in which case there was a complete cure with no return of the disease.

Party and Political Consistency.

Party Government has to such an extent become the method of modern democracy that most of us can scarcely conceive of any other way of conducting the affairs of the country. Yet it is not an ideally perfect form of government. There must be times (and given the system, rightly) when a man sacrifices his own predilections to the claims of his party, and on the other hand finds himself compelled to oppose what, in his private capacity, he believes to be in the best interests of his country.

The advantages of Party Government are:

(1) That it ensures practicalness. For the accomplishment of great ends, men must work in association. To work in association there must sometimes be a sacrifice of personal desires, of personal opinions. How far a man may sacrifice his own opinions is a matter which must be left to his own conscience. But it should be remembered that there is not of necessity any deception involved in voting for your party and not your opinion, when it is well understood that under a party government a man is elected not to propagate his own views but to support as long as he believes it is working for the general good, his own party.

(2) Party government unites men on grounds of general principle and general policy—principle and policy that admit of many a varied application. "If it makes demands upon its members, and exacts from them much self-suppression, it offers none the less a comprehensive creed, in which some of the most vigourous minds have for a life-time found room enough and to spare.

(3) The private citizen is incapable of arriving at a purely independent judgment upon all the complex problems of modern life. Where he does arrive at his own conclusions he finds them tally with the conclusions of one or other party in the state, to which he therefore gives his adherence, and to which he looks for light and leading as to an oracle upon all subjects.

Yet it is true that consistency to party may be too strong. "We must not brand with inconsistency every politician who quits his old associations, not even though he may turn and rend them." "Burke was the greatest advocate of party whom this country, or any country has ever seen. He was also the architect of a party. . . And yet by the irony of fate, it was reserved for Burke, when the French Revolution came, to do more than any other man to bring to disintegration and impotence the very party to which he had given the labour of his prime. Yet Burke was entirely consistent. When he first joined the Whigs he joined them in resisting what seemed to him to be the menacing and unconstitutional encroachments of the Crown. But when the French Revolution came, the danger appeared to him to come no longer from the Crown but from the people. As Mr. John Morley says, "He changed his front, but he never changed his ground."

In some form or another party government would seem to be a necessity, and consistency to party to be desirable. But a mere slavish consistency, a consistency unthinking and unreasoning, a consistency based upon a parrot-like devotion to mere shibboleths, long after they have ceased to have any real value, this is a grave evil. Probably every man should revise (not necessarily change) his political creed once in a life-time. In our earliest youth we are what our fathers were, and that seems to be and is, for the time being, a sufficient reason. But when we become men we should put away childish things, and think as men. Underlying parties are principles. Our nature is such that we can better understand either this set of principles, or that, and give a more cheerful and reasonable support to them. Especially on entering manhood we should seek to discover what are the underlying principles of the political parties of our day, which principles appeal most strongly to us, and give to the party which embodies them our firm and hearty support.

Finally it might preserve many from adopting their political party from prejudice rather than from principle, if, for say, four or five years, say from twenty-one to twenty-six, they resolutely hold their minds in suspense. There would be less likelihood of any "wobbling" afterwards. To form a sound judgment on things we require enlightment, we must decide with deliberation, and we must seek to be disinterested. The surest way to secure a sound judgment is to preserve during our most plastic years a mind, open to impressions, which yet deliberates upon all its impressions, so as to be neither the slave of prejudice, nor the victim of impulse.

Amputated his Foot.

We regret very much to learn of a very severe accident which befel Mr. Thomas Woods, sr., on Tuesday morning. He was felling a tree and had it chopped in two. In falling it lodged on the stump and then started to roll off. Mr. Wood, who was directly in the way, started to back up. His foot caught on a snag, and the tree falling on his foot at the same time held him there. Some men who were in the vicinity got a saw to cut the tree in two, so as to relieve Mr. Woods from his position, but finally had to chop it with axes. Dr. Pettigrew, Norwood, and Dr. Fowler were immediately summoned and found it necessary to amputate his foot just above the ankle. Mr. Woods is a man pretty well up in years, and this combined with accidents that he has previously met with, places his life in a precarious condition.—Havelock Standard.

We Want Women

To be protected from the delusive arts of the "smart" business man of the day. We want more sincerity and less cuteness. We want shoppers to be treated honestly. We pledge ourselves that when you see it in our ads, its true.

We like women who want BRAND NEW GOODS, to visit our store and do their buying personally. The reason is that they can appreciate good things when they see them, and are fearless in their criticisms when men attempt to push old goods on them for new at new goods prices.

There's enough new goods here now to hold ladies from being taken in with leftovers of last year's styles or the wreckage from disasters in business. Keep your wits about you, ladies, and be cautious in buying your spring purchasers.

Constant Newness

Will be found to mark this store from day to day, already the warmer sunbeams shimmer on the new spring leaders. Dame Fashion, has put no second-hand seal on our stock to mar its freshness. Everything is fashionable and profitable to buy.

Shun the ticket-punchers! Shun the furniture prizes! Shun the ancient auctioned stuffs, much of which is about as fashionable as hoops or bustles!

NEWS FROM OTTAWA

The Changes in the Railway Postal Service

WILL TAKE PLACE ON APRIL FIRST

There Will be a General Shuffle in the Postoffice Department—Indians are Doing Fairly Well—Writ Issued for Wright County—Personal and General Topics.

Ottawa, March 7.—(Special.)—The new branch of the Postoffice Department, to be known as "The Railway Mail Service Branch," goes into existence on the 1st of next month. As already announced, Mr. B. M. Armstrong of Toronto is to have charge of the new branch with the designation of Controller of the Railway Mail Service. Mr. Armstrong will make his headquarters in this city.

Mr. Mulock's object in creating this branch is to make the service more efficient and get rid of red-tapeism. The present Postmaster-General finds that in some postal districts the inspectors, instead of looking after the postoffices in the districts under their charge and inspecting them, have concerned themselves chiefly with the railway mail clerks. From this time, therefore, the inspectors will have to attend strictly to their own duties, while the railway mail clerks will be looked after by Controller Armstrong. Chief railway mail clerks will in future be styled superintendents. The clerks in the cities of Halifax, St. John, Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, London, Winnipeg and Vancouver, whose duty it is to check the postal car returns, will also be included as a part of the railway mail service branch.

In anticipation of a prospective shuffle in regard to the postal divisions the railway mail clerks serving in five divisions mentioned hereafter will be placed under the direction of the superintendents in the cities as follows: The railway mail clerks in the Three Rivers division will be in charge of the superintendent at Quebec, of Sherbrooke in charge of the superintendent at Montreal, of Kingston and Barrie in charge of the superintendent of Toronto, and of Stratford in charge of the superintendent in London. All the changes mentioned involve a complete separation between the duties of postoffice inspector and those of the controller of the railway mail service branch, but in order to prevent any failure that might meanwhile interfere with the efficient working of the mail service postoffice inspectors and assistant inspectors will be required to afford such aid and assistance as the controller or superintendent may ask. From the first proximo the superintendents, railway mail clerks, mail transfer agents, clerks engaged in checking railway mail clerks' returns, time bills, transfer bills, etc., together with all postal car operations and matters pertaining to the conveyance of mails by railways generally, and the direction and management of all the persons concerned, will be transferred to the railway mail service branch.

Departmental blue books are generally regarded as dry and musty, but there is some interesting reading in the report of the Department of Indian Affairs, which was issued yesterday. Besides the reading matter there are illustrations in the blue book, and even if the people will not wade through the 600 pages of report they will certainly con the pictures evidencing the growth of civilization among the Indians. It is admitted by authorities that under our Industrial school system the Indians in Manitoba and the Northwest have made far greater progress than across the line, and the report contains some very full information on the educational methods pursued among the Indians in the Northwest. The only blot in the work of reformation amongst the Indians is the tendency of white men to sell liquor to them. The conduct of the redskins, taking the Dominion throughout, has been all that could be expected save as regards intemperance, of which there has been a good deal more, particularly in the older province of British Columbia. The officers of the department have not ceased in their vigilance to stop the miscreants who have clandestinely supplied the Indians with strong drink. As a result many offenders have been prosecuted and to some extent the practice of liquor selling stopped.

The repatriation of the 500 refugee Crees who went to Montana after the troubles of 1885 is regarded as an evidence of the good-will prevailing between the Government and its Indian wards. The report says that during the year, on the whole, the Indians have met with fair prosperity. Good progress was made in agriculture, the total number of acres under crop being 116,109, and the returns some 50,000 bushels ahead of the previous year.

The average number of pupils in attendance in the Indian schools in 1896 was 4973 and last year 5376. The capital of the Indian trust fund on the 30th June last stood at $3,650,529, and the disbursements during the year aggregated $263,086. The expenditure for Indian service on account of the consolidated fund amounted to $381,272.

The Canadian Institute was well filled on Saturday evening. Dr. A. B. MacCallum occupied the chair. Mr. Arthur Harvey, F. R. S. C., gave a lecture on "Sun Spots and Protuberances; their Possible Effect on the Earth." Mr. Harvey reviewed the many theories upon this phase of solar physics, but declared that no calculations of any real value had so far been made. He claimed to have discovered by his own observations of sun spots and by a careful comparison of the tables of meteorological marking which he received from Prof. Stupart, that the greatest depression chronicled upon the meteorological chart occurred in exact periodicity. Mr. Harvey claimed that, through the discoveries which he had made, it lies well within the limits of possibility to calculate the depressions of atmosphere. Last year the Saturdays were during the greater part of the summer what are known as wet Saturdays. He ventured the prophecy that Thursday will this summer be the wet day. Mr. Harvey's lecture was amply illustrated with neatly drawn diagrams and charts. A discussion followed, in which Mr. Elvins, Mr. William Scott, Mr. Pursey, Dr. E. A. Meredith, Mr. Sherwood and others took part.

Since her return from England with Sir Charles, Lady Tupper has been in rather poor health. Miss Tupper, Mr. Stewart Tupper's eldest daughter, is to be in Ottawa before long to stay with her grandparents.

The report of the Secretary of State for the year 1896 shows that the number of charters and supplementary charters granted under the Companies Act numbered 91 in all. For the preceding year there were 66. The aggregate amount of capital represented in the companies formed for the year is $11,952,000. Almost every branch of industry is represented.

Hon Archibald and Mrs. Majoribanks, whose wedding a couple of weeks ago was the event of Nashville, Tenn., are now in Florida. They are coming north directly, and before they sail for England will visit Their Excellencies at Rideau Hall. Mrs. Majoribanks made a number of friends during her last visit here and will not come as a stranger.

Advices received by the Fisheries Department indicate that British Columbia sealing interests have agreed to co-operate for mutual benefit and will form a joint stock company to comprise almost the entire sealing fleets. A president, secretary and board of directors will be given complete control, and will not have the same difficulties to combat which gave them trouble under the conditions hitherto existing.

Mr. R. H. Swallow of Douglas has entered upon his duties as immigration agent in South Dakota. Many applications from farmers in the Dakotas and Michigan are coming to Manitoba, and the services of this agent are to be utilized. BISHOP GRAVEL AGAIN.

The Prelate of Nicolet Has Had No Instructions From Rome to Stop Agitating the School Question.

Montreal, March 7.—Mgr. Gravel, Bishop of Nicolet, Que., and the same prelate who startled the country some time ago with the announcement that by his influence with Cardinal Vaughan of England the Privy Council had decided in favor of the Manitoba minority, in a sermon to-day at Nicolet stated that he had received no instructions from Rome enjoining him to stop the agitation on the school question. He was in a position to say that Mgr. Begin had not received any either, and that a letter received by him on Saturday from a Vatican dignitary led him to conclude that the Pope will not send an ablegate to Canada. Bishop Gravel's statement is regarded as a distinct denial of the statement made by Liberal papers that the Pope had instructed the bishops to stop agitating on the school question.

EUROPE IS ANXIOUS

Much Depends on the Answer of Greece To-Day

TO THE ULTIMATUM OF THE POWERS

The War Scare is the Greatest in Twenty-Five Years—One Correspondent Thinks Armageddon is Upon Us—Latest Reports Indicate That Greece Will Refuse Compliance.

New York, March 7.—Mr. H. R. Chamberlain cables from London to The Sun:

There is no doubt about it, Europe is badly frightened. The present war scare is the worst she has experienced since swords were last sheathed 25 years ago. Every country fears it is about to be dragged into a great conflict which will stain the seas and bathe the Continent in blood. Everywhere except in Greece the prospect is looked upon with dread, if not horror, and both public and official minds are willing to make great sacrifices in order to escape the threatened calamity. Such is, admittedly the situation at the present moment, and it cannot fail to impress alien observers as one vast absurdity. The whole Continent is trembling in fear of a disaster which can only be invoked by its own voluntary act. The powers of Europe are shrieking denunciations of Greece because that country is going to throw into the arena a golden apple, which they cannot refrain from fighting tooth and nail to possess themselves of. That is precisely what is happening. If Greece, driven to it by the powers, declares war against Turkey to-morrow they must all join in a scramble for the Ottoman prize, and Greece, forsooth, will be to blame, because they are unable to restrain themselves. There is, fortunately, a large section of public opinion in this country, and in France and Italy also, which puts the responsibility where it belongs. This section of public opinion is accused by Lord Salisbury's supporters of imperilling the peace of Europe by encouraging the Greeks. It is really this portion of the public in the three countries named which is going to prevent a war when the crisis reaches its climax.

The supporters of Greece in England, France and Italy, and Germany as well, will not consent to be dragged into a war which has ony a piece of the Ottoman Empire for the prize. The Liberal party in this country, from Sir William Harcourt down, have been declaring their emphatic protest this week against Lord Salisbury's and Mr. Balfour's repeated assertion that a general war is inevitable if the eastern question is forced to a settlement. England does not want war. How, then, can she be compelled to fight, if she seeks no aggrandizement? That is the question that is being asked in this country by those who refuse to be stamped by the Government's alarmist warnings.

ARMAGEDDON IS UPON US.

The Event Which Terrified Europe Has Been Awaiting for 25 Years.

New York, March 7.—Mr. Harold Frederic cables from London to The New York Sunday Times:

At last the ordeal for which a terrified Europe has been preparing for a quarter of a century seems really at hand. On all sides, in every capital, it is taken for granted to-day that Armageddon is upon us. Even now, however, events may not keep pace with the excited expectations of the man in the street. The Foreign Office of a great power is very like an elephant's trunk in its capacity to uproot a tree or to pick up a pin, and when six of these powers get together their diplomatists they ignore the trees altogether in their anxiety to be perfectly certain about all the pins first. Thus Greece has until 4 o'clock on Monday afternoon to mature her message of defiance to the concert of the powers. Then she will give this message to the Ministers of the powers, and they will thereupon pack their trunks and quit Athens. It will be Wednesday by the time this is accomplished, and the admirals of the powers in Cretan waters are notified of the fact. Meanwhile the admirals have to notify their respective Home Governments of the details of the plan of procedure they have agreed upon, and it is doubtful if they will do this until they hear officially that diplomatic relations with Greece have been broken off.

All over the Continent, as here in England, the tremendous absorption of the public mind in the Greek crisis is illustrated by an absence of other topics of discussion, either in the press or among the people. There are deeply important general elections coming on in both Austria and Italy, but one hears hardly a word about them.

Letters to London papers, which always reflect what the people are thinking of, are now all about England's food supply in case of blockade and the manning of the navy. A big flurry of enlisting fever is reported among the volunteer regiments. It is worth noting that in the Queen's Westminster regiment such a lot of picked young fellows have lately joined that the requirement of height is now put at 6 feet 1 inch.

For the moment there is a lull in excitement about the Transvaal, but those who are nearest to the sources of official information continue most convinced that trouble is inevitable.

WILL STAKE HIS CROWN.

King George Blames Germany and Russia for the Ugly Turn of Affairs.

New York, March 7.—Mr. James Creelman cables from Athens to The Journal:

It is now quite certain that the pow-

BRAIN FOOD FOR LENT

No danger of the citizens of Peterborough starving for brain foods during the Lenten season, as long a we can keep up our present supply of Fish.

While the albuminoid matter in White Fish, Cod, Haddock and Halibut is in about the same proportion as in beef and mutton, the quantity of phosphorus is greater.

The active fish, such as Trout, Pickerel, Salmon, etc., contain a still greater amount of phosphorus, due no doubt to their quick movements.

Select Fish with firm flesh, clear eyes, red gills, scales bright and free from any unpleasant odor.

The public have a guarantee that our storage and icing facilities preserves our stock of fish perfectly sound and reliable, and the prices quoted will always be the lowest in town.

HELPING THE FARMING INTERESTS.

The Canadian Farmers' Sun, the organ of the Patrons of Industry, draws attention to the liberal grant made by the Ontario Government for the benefit of the farming industry. It says: "The Provincial Government of Ontario is doing a good deal for agriculture. Mr. Dryden's management of his department is particularly creditable to himself and his colleagues. For 1897 close on $200,000 are asked for in the estimates for various purposes. First comes the grants to about 100 district agricultural societies. A grant of $35 is given to each farmers' institute, one in each electoral division, on condition that the county council gives an equal sum. Then there the grants to the various special associations—fruit growers, cheese and butter makers, horse breeders, sheep breeders, swine breeders and cattle breeders, poultry keepers, bee keepers, etc., which are all helpful to spread the light. A small grant is also given to the Experimental Union, which is doing great work in studying new methods. The pioneer farm in New Ontario, which gets $1,400 this year, is designed to attract attention to the good lands west of Lake Superior, where dairying and general farming can be profitably carried on. The Eastern Dairy School gets $4,700, the experimental fruit stations, $2,800, and practical instruction in fruit spraying costs $1,800. The Agricultural College at Guelph requires $38,000 this year for salaries, wages and boarding house expenses; the experimental farm in connection with it $5000, and $6000 is to be voted in addition for experimental plots and feeding. The dairy department of the college, which has made a name for the institution, calls for $7,000, and the "travelling dairy" costs $2,500. The colleges also possesses a dairy department, together with a tree plantation, garden, orchard and vineyard, which are turned to account by the students.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The report of the secretary of state issued for the year 1896 shows that the number of charters and supplementary charters granted under the companies' act numbered ninety-one in all. For the preceding year they were sixty-six. The aggregate amount of capital represented in the companies formed last year is $11,988,000 and almost every branch of industry is represented.

The Kingston Whig has anticipated Easter renovation and has come out in new dress and in a new form. The Whig is a real newspaper and, though in its 64th year of publication, is as vigourous as any and more vigourous than, many of its contemporaries. The Examiner has much pleasure in wishing the Whig the greatest success—a wish that is very probable of fulfillment judging by the enterprise with which it is managed—an enterprise that must bring success.

The wisdom of legislators is often very questionable. The Kansas legislature is wrestling with a bill, intended to give statutory effect to the Ten Commandments, and fines of from $4.00 to $10.00 are imposed forbreach of the statutes of Sinai. The Kansas wiseacres should remember that there is hardly one of the ten commandments but is covered by existing statute law in some form or other.

Many business men constantly complain of inadequate facilities for remitting small sums of money by mail, and in this connection the suggestion has been made that the Postmaster General should make the necessary changes with a view to the introduction of postal notes for the remittances of small amounts such as are issued in the Mother Country. The Brantford Expositor draws attention to the fact that the matter is engaging Mr. Mulock's attention, and probably some workable scheme will be evolved. It is the intention of the Postmaster-General to ask Parliament for an appropriation for the extension of the money order service next year by the opening up of additional offices. At the present time there are about 1,200 money order offices in existence, and it is proposed to increase this number by about 800, many important places having hitherto been without the facilities which such an office affords to business men.

RHEUMATISM CURED.

Eighteen Months Trying to Get Cured—Had the Best Doctors—He Found What he Wanted in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Goderich, March 8 (Special)—A case of great interest here just now is that of Mr. Alexander J. Sharkey, who for some time has been an extreme sufferer from rheumatism. His statement to the correspondent is as follows:

"For eighteen months I was a victim of rheumatism and during that time was trying every means to cure it. I had the best doctors in Canada, and took their prescriptions with faith and patience.

"I got tired at last for I found the disappointment nearly as killing as the disease.

"But one friend wiser than the others convinced me that my disease must be cured by the way of the kidneys and recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I have used two boxes of these pills to effect a perfect cure and I don't care who knows it."

EUROPE IS ANXIOUS.

ent are embarrassed by the fact that Greece makes no secret of her determination to decline to obey the insolent command to withdraw her troops and navy from Crete. Germany and Russia alone are agreed upon the manner in which the force shall be applied. The other four nations hesitate. The King to-day has announced boldly that he will stake his crown on the issue. The Crown Prince received me at the palace this afternoon.

"It is Germany and Russia who are insisting upon offensive measures," he said. "These two nations, I believe, are responsible for the language of the ultimatum, which was phrased in such a manner as to compel Greece to decline its suggestions or humiliate herself.

"Greece is united—King, Parliament and people. We will not seek for war, but if war is forced on us we are prepared.

"It is not our intention to attack the Turks, but if they attack us we will not shrink from the conflict. The bulk of our army is now concentrated on the frontier of Macedonia.

"I do not pretend to be ignorant of the fact that a great uprising against the Sultan is imminent, and that our Greek volunteers are ready and eager to march across the frontier. I have asked permission to take command in the field, but until war is unavoidable our army will remain passive.

"I believe that the powers will see that some other proposition regarding Crete must be made. They may succeed in bringing on the very war they desire to avert."

The whole nation is now aroused to the character of the insult offered to Greece in the ultimatum, and recruits march into Athens, singing and dancing in the streets.

The Government is seizing all horses. I saw a bridal coach stopped this afternoon by an officer, and the horses taken while the bride and groom were returning from church. The feeling against the Germans is so great that Prof. Sterrit, the famous American Greek scholar, who was mistaken for a German, had a revolver pointed at his head by an excited patriot.

A telegram just received from France indicates that the powers are preparing to permit Greek troops in Crete to assist European troops.

The powers must back down. Greece will not. Meanwhile the King of Servia is conferring at Sofia, with the Prince of Bulgaria and a single shot may convert Macedonia into a red, blazing vortex of war.

THE PORTE'S ANSWER.

Abdul Hamid is Satisfied With the Arrangement Made by the Powers.

Constantinople, March 7.—The diplomats here have received the answer of the Porte to the collective note presented on Tuesday last, setting forth the desires of the powers regarding the granting of autonomy to Crete under the suzerainty of Turkey. The Porte assents to the terms of the powers, and says it hopes that there will be a definite understanding between itself and the powers respecting the details of the autonomy to be granted.

While a number of Greek engineers were engaged in repairing the main road near Melun, on the Greek frontier, presumably for the purpose of facilitating the passage of troops, they were stopped by a body of Turkish troops. A rumor reached here to-day that a serious encounter between Turks and Greeks had taken place on the frontier, but, though enquiries have been made, it has been impossible to confirm the story. It is thought very probable that the report originated in the stoppage by Turkish troops of the work of the Greek engineers.

Turkish Gunboat Wrecked.

Athens, March 7.—A Turkish gunboat, believed to be the Euphrates, has been wrecked on the coast of Epirus. The fate of her crew is not reported.

Turkish Reserves Called Out.

Berlin, March 7.—The headquarters of the Turkish army of precaution or audience are now at Monastir, in Macedonia, 400 miles west of Constantinople, and a large force of troops under the command of Omar and Nuchad Pasha is much nearer the frontier. In addition to the mobilisation of the regular forces, the Mustafus, corresponding to the German Landstrum, or second draft of those liable to military duty, have been called to arms in several districts near the Greek borders. The ostensible reason for summoning this contingent is that the ordinary reserves, which were lately called out, have been deficient in numbers, but the summoning of any part of the Mustafus is regarded as ominous of the Sultan's expectation that something of a very serious nature is imminent. The attitude of Servia and Bulgaria occupies the serious attention of European diplomacy, and it is the opinion in official circles here that conferences which have taken place between King Alexander of Servia and Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria have resulted in an agreement to make a simultaneous attack upon Turkey when the time for such action shall seem opportune. Roumania is looked upon as having the intention to take an active part in any scheme of re-arranging the Balkan boundaries that may be put into operation. King Charles of Roumania, as a member of the Prussian family of Hohensollern, may be relied upon to have the support of Germany. Roumanian fort works at Kustendjie, on the Black Sea, and the defences at Galatis and Braila, on the Danube, are being strengthened and extended.

Greece's Reply to the Ultimatum.

London, March 7.—A despatch to the Central News from Athens gives the following summary of the reply to the ultimatum of the powers, which Greece will hand to the dipomats to-morrow when the time expires in which a reply can be made. It will recall that Greece in 1896, in deference to the wish of the powers, used her influence with the Cretans to induce them to accept reforms offered by Turkey. It will point out that the continued unsettled state of the island is proof of the futility of the measures of reform.

With regard to the autonomy of the island, the reply will state that it is for the Cretans to decide whether they will accept it or not.

It will declare that the evacuation of Crete by Greece is impossible, because peace, to restore which Greek troops and warships were sent to the island, remains seriously disturbed.

The Time Drawing Nigh.

Athens, March 7.—The time for Greece's formal reply to the ultimatum of the combined powers is rapidly drawing nigh and, though it is generally known that the reply will be a refusal of the terms that are sought to be imposed, there is intense anxiety as to the answer that will be delivered. It is evident that the powers intend to carry into effect their threat to blockade the Piraeus, the port of Athens, as soon as Greece's answer is delivered to them. A number of warships of Great Britain and the other powers are now in the vicinity of the Piraeus, and it is believed they are there for the sole purpose of blockading the port.

The one bright spot in the situation to-day is that the enforcement of the recent decree calling out the last two remaining classes of reserves has been postponed. In diplomatic circles this is taken to mean that there will be afforded an opportunity for further negotiations, though the temper of the people is against any further dallying with words.

George's Thanks.

London, March 7.—King George of Greece has sent to Sir Charles Dilke a telegraphic message, expressing his heartfelt thanks to Sir Charles Dilke and the hundred members of the House of Commons who signed the message of sympathy sent recently to the King. In his message King George says: "In our struggle for humanity, faith and liberty, nothing could be dearer to our hearts than those who encourage our feelings."

OLDEST MAN ON EARTH.

Jesus Campeche Has Just Died in Mexico and Left Records Showing That He Was Born 154 Years Ago.

Chicago, March 7.—A Tribune special from Guadalajara, Mexico, says: The funeral took place yesterday of a man who, if his story is true, was undoubtedly the oldest man on earth. Jesus Campeche died on Friday, and according to his affirmation and other testimony he was 154 years old. He said he was born in Spain Dec. 12, 1742, and came to this country when he was 24 years old. He was living with his great grandson, and had copies of the church register at Valladolid, Spain, showing the date of his birth and baptism. A priest in the church which he attended, who is now 84 years old, says he remembers Campeche as being an old man when he was a little boy.

An Old Crime Brought to Light.

New Bloomfield, Pa., March 7.—Twenty-eight years ago Melinda Snyder, a girl then 13 years old, disappeared from her home in Liberty Valley, this county, and no trace of her was ever found. Last night Hugh Smith, 75 years old, residing in the same valley, was arrested, charged with killing the girl and burning her body, after cutting it up into small pieces. A dispute between Smith and another person brought the crime to light. Further arrests are expected.

McGowan Acquitted Because He Was Crazy.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., March 7.—The trial of Archibald McGowan for the murder of Margaret McKenzie was concluded at Charlottetown yesterday, when the jury acquitted the prisoner on the ground that he was insane when he committed the crime. McGowan will be held a prisoner until Governor Howlan decides what to do with him.

A Learned Man Dead.

London, March 7.—The Rev. E. C. Cobham Brewer, LL. D., died from apoplexy yesterday at Edwinstowe. Dr. Brewer was born in London in 1810. He won high honors at Trinity College, Cambridge, and was ordained a priest in 1836. He was the author of well-known works, such as "Guide to Science."

A card on the outside of office door says —"Gone to lunch. Be back in ten minutes." And the man will be there on time. That is for some days, weeks or even months he will. Then he will be at home occasionally for a day. He'll tell you he had a headache, a turn of cholera morbus, or maybe he'll say he had a lump in his stomach and felt too miserable to move. The lump was probably two or three ten minute lunches condensed.

The man who "bolts" his lunches will find Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the best friend he ever met.

There is no case of biliousness, constipation, indigestion, "heart burn," or trouble of the heart of the nightmare breeding breed that these little "Pellets" will not cure. They cure permanently. Send 21 cents in one-cent stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y., and receive Dr. Pierce's 1008 page "Common Sense Medical Adviser," profusely illustrated.

Operator Dan Kinsman and a Hillsburg Merchant Named Royce Charged With Trying to Beat the C.P.R.

Brampton, Ont., March 7.—Dan Kinsman, a C.P.R. day operator at Streetsville, and F. W. Royce, general merchant of Hillsburg, were arrested today by C. P. R. Detective Ross of Toronto and County Constable Broddy of Brampton, charged with conspiracy to defraud the C. P. R. Company by falsely misrepresenting the weight of a certain shipment of potatoes from the said village of Hillsburg to the town of Petrolia, as being less by 7000 pounds, or thereabouts, than it in fact was, thereby defrauding the company. The prisoners were brought before Police Magistrate Main and remanded until Friday next. Bail was fixed at $3000. The prisoners were taken for $1500 and two sureties for $750 each.

Harris Tweeds

From the Highlands o' Scotland.

We have been fortunate in securing a limited supply of these rare and much admired Scotch Tweeds, so highly prized by the aristocracy of the old country.

The chief beauty of the Harris Tweeds lies in their rough finish, being home-spun and dyed, and deftly woven on hand looms by thrifty and ingenious hand weavers of the Highlands of Scotland, never having been inside of a factory.

They are guaranteed pure Scotch Wool, and retain the peculiar odor of the heather and peat, so susceptible to the olractory nerves of the sons of Auld Scotia.

In neutral shades, devoid of anything like conspicuous pattern, for Shooting, Cycling and Outing Suits.

The demand for the Harris Tweeds is always in excess of the supply—only 25 pieces having been secured for Canada, of which we obtained a select number. Ask to see these Novelties at Broke a Shoulder Blade.

Hammond Lee fell and broke his shoulder blade on Saturday last whilst on a hill near the Chemong Road just outside of town. It seems that he and a number of companions had made themselves "skids" out of barrel staves, which they fastened to their feet, and slid down the icy slope upon. Young Lee got tangled up in his skids in some way, and fall heavily on the ice, inflicting the above-mentioned injury.

COMPLETELY EXONERATED.

Messrs. Geo. Moncrief and John Ackison Honourably Discharged.

Ackison and Moncrief, the two men who were arrested a few days ago on the suspicion that it was they who stole a steer from the farm of Mr. Geo. Webber, away back in October, 1891, appeared before the County Magistrate, Mr. Geo. Edmison, at the Court House this morning.

Both men were represented by their respective counsels, Messrs. D. O'Connell and E. B. Stone. An objection was raised by counsel for Ackison when the Crown Attorney asked that the evidence against both the prisoners be taken at once, and as a result the prisoners were tried separately with permission given to Mr. O'Connor to cross-examine on behalf of his client should he require to do so. The witnesses were all excluded from the court room after the prisoners had decided to elect.

The first witness called was Mr. Geo. Webber. He had resided in North Monaghan for a number of years. He had lost a steer one fall, but he was not sure of the year. The cattle were pasturing on the gravel road on what is known as the "Collins' Farm." When examined as to a description he said that it was a nice quiet little red steer and was ready for the market and would make a good Christmas or Easter beef, weighing about 600 pounds. When he missed the animal he did not think it was stolen, and he looked all over the meadow for it but failed to find any traces. He had spoken to Ackison some time afterwards about it. The prisoner lived about a mile from his place. He was a market butcher and drover. Mr. Webber had heard about a good steer being killed there and went up to see the prisoner about it.

Mr. Stone cross-examined the witness. He had not known Mr. Moncrief at all. He was not the prosecutor in this case. It was ancient history with him. Mr. Elmhirst saw this particular steer and handled him.

Mr. Jos. Elmhirst, the well known cattle buyer, was next called. He testified that in the year 1891 he had visited Mr. Webber's place to look at a particularly fine lot of fat grass steers. There was one of the steers which was much quieter than the rest. It was a nice red steer with curly wavy hair. He was a Shorthorn and had a star on his forehead. He would go about 1200 lbs. live weight. He was told sometime after by Mr. Webber that he had lost this particular steer, as Mr. Webber had remembered that it was the very steer the witness had handled.

Mr. White, sworn, stated that he was a farmer and butcher, of Otonabee, formerly of North Monaghan. He had lived there after Mr. Webber went out there. He had lived about three miles from town. The prisoner, Ackison, lived near him. He lived about fifty yards from Ackison. Several times he had been called there to dress a beef. About one o'clock one morning in October, '91, Ackison came to the house to get the witness to help to dress a beef. There were present Ackison, his father and Geo. Moncrief. They had an animal there in the shed, and it was taken to the slaughter house. It was a red steer in very fat condition, and had a little white on both hind legs, and also on flank. The horns were short, and a little turned in at ends. I thought I had seen the steer about three weeks before in Mr. Webber's field. It was on the lower line pasture. The beef was dressed and taken away in a westerly direction by Geo. Moncrief and A. Dunlop. Moncrief lived north west from Ackison.

Cross-examined the witness said that the marks on the legs were about four inches long, one a little larger than the other. The brush of his tail was also white. When asked to describe any other steer he had seen there in the same month he could not do so. Asked why this particular steer could be described, he stated because he had seen it before. He knew it was Moncrief and Dunlop that took the beef away, because he had seen them drive past the door with it. Did you ever have any conversation with Andrew Dobbin about it? asked Mr. Stone. Witness answered in the affirmative.

Mrs. Kimball was called, but she knew nothing about the matter, as she had left previously to the date the alleged crime was committed.

After the adjournment, at noon, County Attorney Wood, acting for the Crown, stated that he had been misinformed as to the nature of the evidence which was to be offered and therefore would withdraw the case.

County Magistrate Edmison, in discharging the prisoners, stated that the investigation had totally cleared up any suspicions which may have been entertained against them as being concerned in the stealing of the steer. Not a tittle of evidence had been offered connecting their names with the matter. The witness White, it was understood, was prepared to state that Ackison had told him that the steer in question had been purchased from Mr. Webber, but such a story would have been most improbable even if given in evidence, as, if the steer had been stolen the thieves would hardly have been foolish enough to have furnished a third party with such incriminating proof against themselves. White had also stated that his housekeeper was with him at the time he was called upon to butcher the steer and yet Mrs. Kimball swore that she left him seven months previous to the time stated. There was nothing suspicious in a steer having been killed just at the time Mr. Webber's was missed, as butchering was Ackison's regular business.

The prisoners were then honourably discharged.

Complaint has been made of a sentence in the report of the arrest of Messrs. Moncrief and Ackison to the effect that more serious charges might arise out of the case, and the evidence discloses that such an inference was entirely unfounded, and the statement of the detective to this effect entirely unwarranted.

Investigation Postponed.

The Fire investigation which has been going on before Mr. Harry Rush, J. P., is postponed for two weeks.

SPRING ASSIZES.

A Session of the High Court of Justice Opens Here To-morrow.

The Spring Assizes open here to-morrow afternoon before Mr. Justice Meredith. The docket is not a heavy one and there will be no criminal actions to come before the jury. Appended is a brief summary of the civil cases:

JURY CASES.

Scriver vs. McMillan—In this case the plaintiff John Bryant Scriver and the defendant Frances McMillan are both residents of the township of Asphodel. The plaintiff sues for $1,000 and costs for injury to his character, caused by statements alleged to have been made by the defendant to the effect that plaintiff had stolen oats from Fred Brown, and also that the plaintiff had stolen the shingles and floor from a barn belonging to the defendant and leased by the plaintiff.

The statement of defence sets forth that the defendant denies having made these accusations, and if he did it was done in anger, when such words are not taken seriously.

G. J. Sherry, of Norwood, for plaintiff, Stratton & Hall for defendant.

Gray vs. Weir.—Thos. T. Gray in this case is suing John Graham Weir for $1,000 damages for having, it is alleged, stated that he, Gray, "had murdered the old man, Scollie," whereby the plaintiff was arrested on the charge of murdering the said Scollie, was extradited from the United States, imprisoned, stood trial for his life, suffered grievously as to his reputation, and was put to great trouble and expense in defending himself.

The defendant denies the allegation contained in the statement of claim.

D. O'Connell for plaintiff; C. W. Sawers for defendant.

Gray vs. Weir—In this case Hessie Gray, wife of Thos. Gray, also claims $1,000 from Johhn Graham Weir, as damages for having stated that "she murdered the old man Scollie," causing her to be arrested and treated in a similar manner as her husband.

The defendant also denies Mrs. Gray's allegations.

Stratton & Hall for plaintiff; C. W. Sawers for defendant.

Baldwin vs. Lundy—The statement of claim sets forth that the plaintiff, W. A. C. Baldwin, sues J. J. Lundy for $25,900 for having enticed away from him his wife, and having in the presence of witnesses threatened that if he did not leave town he would have him arrested for forgery.

The statement of defence alleges that plaintiff's wife is the defendant's sister, with whom she resided previous to her marriage—that defendant did not entice her from her husband—that plaintiff treated his wife with great cruelty and was unfaithful, living a life of debauchery so as to cause great scandal to his wife and to subject her to suffering of body and humiliation of mind. By reason of his gross misconduct his wife was constrained to seek the protection of her brother, the defendant. The defendant claims that plaintiff forged his wife's name to a telegram, whereby defendant accepted draft for $3,500, of which $1,000 still remains unpaid, which sum the defendant now claims from plaintiff with interest since 1894 at 6 per cent.

E. B. Stone for plaintiff; Dennistoun, Peck & Stevenson for defendant.

NON JURY CASES.

Alfred McDonald vs. F. J. and Harriet Goselin.—The plaintiff seeks to recover $271.50 advanced on mortgage of lands and in default that the equity of redemption in the said lands may be foreclosed.

The defendants claim that they are not indebted to the plaintiff in any sum for principal or interest.

Dennistoun, Peck & Stevenson for plaintiff; Hall & Hayes for defendants.

Frank Anthony vs. Port Hope Electric Light and Power Co.—The plaintiff is suing for $500 for work performed on a certain contract for the defendants, which contract was afterwards discovered to be incorrectly drawn.

The plaintiffs present a counter claim for wages paid, etc., in connection with the contract, which they state the plaintiff abandoned without sufficient reason.

E. B. Stone for plaintiff; Chisholm & Chisholm for defendant.

Lakefield vs. Strickland & Co.—The plaintiffs complain that defendants erected a boat house on property belonging to the village of Lakefield, which they refuse to remove. The plaintiffs pray that defendants may be ordered to remove the said boat house.

The defendants deny that the property on which the boat house is erected belongs to the village. Dumble & Johnston for plaintiffs; A. P. Poussette for defendants.

Stewart vs. Kennedy—Robert Stewart, of Monaghan, claims $1,300 for an account for work done and services rendered, for goods sold to defendant, and for moneys loaned. Stratton & Hall for plaintiff; John Burnham, Q.C., for defendant.

ALLEGED SHARP GAME.

Which Resulted in the Arrest of Arthur Dermott, on Saturday.

Arthur Dermott was arrested on Saturday and on being brought before the magistrate on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretences, was remanded until Wednesday next.

Dermott it seems, is a tenant of Mr. Harry Evans, and getting somewhat behind in his rent promised to give his landlord a load of wood in part payment. But it was a case of borrowing from Peter to pay Paul, as having no wood of his own he had to go up to the market and purchase a load. Having no money, he did not explain that it was to the landlord's and not his own house the wood was being taken. The farmer had no objection to waiting for a few days for his pay, as the appearance of the place was such as to guarantee the payment of any such amount.

On calling a few days later for the pay, however, he was informed by Mr. Evans that the wood was sent in by a delinquent tenant, and then the farmer made complaint to the police department. Dermott it is said was given a number of opportunities to settle but failed to do so, and was, consequently, arrested on the above mentioned charge.

REMINISCENCES OF THE OLD GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

V. REV. DEAN O'CONNOR, OF CHESTERVILLE, RECALLS OLD DAYS.

His Recollections of the Peterborough Grammar School—Its Principals, its Location and the Former Students Thereof.

Very Rev. Dean O'Connor, of Chesterville, in the Diocese of Kingston, brother of Mrs. Nora Shevlin, King street, has kindly furnished a resume of his recollections of the old Peterborough Grammar School, which will be read with great interest especially by the "old timers" of the town:—

To the Editor of the Examiner:

"Perhaps it would be interesting to your readers if I furnished a resume of my recollections of the early history of the old Grammar School in Peterborough, by which nomenclature it was known during the period of my attendance thereat. From its reopening in September, 1842, down to its closing examination exercises in 1849, when I sorrowfully bade it adieu, albeit, I was already under engagements to assume the important position of Professor of Mathematics, in the then existing Regiopolis College of Kingston.

That this Grammar School was the first seminary for higher education established in my native town of Peterborough, I am fully convinced, although my memory does not now recall the precise year of its foundation, nor have I any documents in my possession which would help me to fix that date, yet I have a vivid recollection of my first entry within the portals of that Grammar School, then under the principalship of a Rev. Mr. Williamson, a retired minister of the Presbyterian church in the first week of September, 1842. I soon got over my first impressions of that austere looking, though really kind-hearted old principal, Rev. Mr. Williamson, whom I afterwards learned to esteem and love and who continued in charge of the Grammar School until the midsummer vacations of 1844, when he retired from that position, owing to his advanced age, having then reached, if I remember well,

THE ALLOTTED THREE SCORE AND TEN.

Here I may remark, per parenthesis, that I had, as classmates, while attending this Grammar School under Rev. Mr. Williamson as my alma mater, the present distinguished Chief Justice Armour, of Toronto, the late Walter Rubidge, barrister, John J. Hall, Esq., John, Charles and Geo. A. Stewart, and a host of others, whose names at this distance of time I cannot recall to my memory.

At the close of the vacation following upon the retirement of Rev. Mr Williamson in the summer of 1844, the Church of England minister of Peterborough at that date, Rev. R. J. C. Taylor, M.A., of Trinity College, Dublin, Ireland, succeeded to the Principalship of the Peterborough Grammar School, having, as I distinctly recollect, secured the appointment thereto, by the casting vote at the Grammar School Board of Trustees, of the Rev. John Butler, at that time the Roman Catholic pastor of Peterborough parish. This fact clearly proves the good feeling which then existed betwixt Catholics and Protestants in dear old Peterborough.

The Rev. Mr. Taylor, who memory I revere as one of my best friends in life, continued to hold his mild but firm control over my alma mater Grammar School until I quitted it, as above stated, after the closing examinations in 1849, and for nearly two years afterwards, until the regretted event of his somewhat sudden demise in the summer of 1851, when I had the melancholy duty to fulfil of attending the funeral obsequies as one of the chief mourners, and into his grave in the old churchyard, now a public park on George street north. How deeply enshrined in the hearts of all graduates of that old Grammar School, under the late Rev. Mr. Taylor's kindly regime, are the souvenirs thereof, to-day! Only the few survivors of that fortunate student group can duly appreciate those happy memories at this distance of time. And, Mr. Editor, that dear old hewn-log house, wherein we were daily drilled in the mysteries of Greek, Latin and Mathematics, as well as in the higher branches of a complete English education, I see it now, as I often beheld it in by-gone days, nestling in the centre of a pine glade, and standing upon a grassy knoll, a short distance to the north-west of the Court House hill, pretty near, I should say, to the actual location of your Collegiate Institute to-day.

Many of your older readers, Mr. Editor, will doubtless recognise the names here following of some who were fellow students of mine under the late Rev. Mr. Taylor, between September, 1844, and the July vacations of 1849. Several of them are still to the fore, while others have joined the silent majority beyond the tomb. Among the survivors my memory here recalls His Honour, Judge Beason, of Port Hope, Rev. Arthur J. Fiddler, the late Alexander Harvey, M.D., of Peterborough, Rev. Geo. Brophy, nephew of the late Father Butler, P. P.; while of the departed ones I remember the late Robert John Wilson, barrister, James Haffey and James Haggart. Your fellow citizen W. H. Wrighton, Esq., will probably be able to add to the foregoing list.

But, Mr. Editor, I really feel that I ought to draw this rambling narrative to a close. The garrulity of advancing years has stolen over me. Excuse me for the sake of auld lang syne. The hope that these hastily written lines may serve to show the absorbing interest taken in the cause of education in my native town of Peterborough half a century ago, is my apology for their great length. Again, I pray, excuse me, and believe me,

Yours truly,
JOHN S. O'CONNOR,

Love has a long way to go to reach the heart of the modern up-to-date young man. When he looks for a wife, he expects a good deal. Probably he expects more than he deserves. He wants good looks, good sense, good nature, good health. They usually go together.

An observing man learns that a woman who is physically weak and nervous and incapable, is likely to be ill-natured too. The sweetest temper is rained by continual sickness.

A woman whose nerves are constantly racked and dragged by debilitating drains and inflammation, cannot be a genial companion or happy wife; and she is totally unfitted to be a mother.

These troubles prevail almost universally among women largely because of carelessness and neglect. There is no real need of them. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive specific for the weaknesses and diseases of the feminine organism.

It cures them radically and completely. It heals, strengthens and purifies. It is the only scientific remedy devised for this special purpose by an educated, skilled physician. It is the only medicine that makes motherhood easy and absolutely safe.

Miss Lauretta McNees, of Reno (P. O. Box 723), Washoe Co., Nev., writes: "I have discontinued taking the 'Prescription' and will not take any more (at present). Last month I had no pain at all and worked every day without any inconvenience whatever. It was the first time I never had pain during that period. I cannot say too much for your medicines, especially the 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Pleasant Pellets.' I know of a lady who took one bottle of your 'Favorite Prescription' and she says she was not sick like she was with her first baby. This was her second baby. She thinks it a grand medicine. So do I."

Dr. Pierce has had a life-time of experience in this particular field. His 1000-page illustrated book, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser" contains several chapters devoted to woman's special physiology. A paper-bound copy will be sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of customs and mailing only; or, cloth-bound 50 stamps. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

RICH YUKON DISTRICT

Placer Beds Full of Yellow, Glittering Gold

AND ALL IN CANADIAN TERRITORY

British Capitalists are Looking After the Wealth and Want to Begin Development at Once—Prof. Robertson Again Talks on Creamery Matters—Ottawa News.

Ottawa, March 5.—(Special.)—The wonderful mineral riches of the Canadian Yukon district are attracting the attention of British capitalists. Today there is in Ottawa a Mr. C. W. Wilkinson of London, who represents some of the gentlemen interested in the British South Africa Company. Some time ago the company had their attention drawn to the Yukon district and their surveyors and prospectors have been at work. On numerous creeks flowing westward into the Yukon River, placer beds have been discovered, yielding from 50 cents to $30 the pan. Two or three instances are actually vouched for where as high as $150 to the pan was taken out, an unprecedented yield. The Rossland country is simply not in it with these yields. These discoveries, it is satisfactory to know, are all made in Canadia nterritory, miles east of the international boundary. The company represented by Mr. Wilkinson has decided to develop the Yukon country on a large scale if they come to terms with the Government. A bill of incorporation will be asked from Parliament, with power to the syndicate to do a general trading and transportation business. The company does not ask financial assistance from the Government, except what is implied in a guarantee of 3 per cent. on a million dollars' worth of bonds. No monopoly is intended, although the development plans of the company include the construction of many miles of railway. They will utilize the White Mountain Pass to gain access to the country.

Prof. Robertson, Dairy Commissioner, says that, as a result of the establishment of creameries in the Northwest, there will be an assured living to those farmers who become patrons of the creameries, altogether irrespective of the wheat they may grow. In localities where co-operative creameries have been in existence, farmers have formed a Butter and Cheese Manufacturing Association, with limited liability, agreeing to erect a suitable building, provide a sufficient water supply, and to supply the milk or cream from not less than 400 cows. When these conditions are complied with the Government makes a loan to the association of an amount sufficient to purchase the butter-making machinery and plant for the creamery. The Department of Agriculture agrees to manufacture and market the butter at a charge of 4 cents per pound, which meets all the expenses between the delivery of the milk or cream by the farmers at the creamery and the shipment of the butter on the railway cars. At the end of each season shares in the Butter and Cheese Manufacturing Association are issued to each farmer in proportion to the amount contributed by him to the loan fund. By these arrangements farmers will pay off the loan granted by the Government without interest in a few years.

Some 16 fully equipped creameries and 17 tributary cream collecting or cream separating stations will be managed by the Government during the current year. From these it is expected that from $30,000 to $35,000 worth of butter per month will be turned out. The cost to the Government will be a loan of $15,000 without interest for a few years. The principal will all be recovered through the loan fund, and the Government holds a lien on the manufacturing plant until the loan is paid in full. The maintenance account will probably cost the Government $3000 the first year more than the revenue from manufacturing.

The Timber Trades Journal of London, Eng., has rendered the Dominion, and its lumber interests in particular, excellent service by publishing a special article on the wood interests of Canada. La Grippe, for Colds, Coughs,
AND LUNG TROUBLES,
AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally, my husband,—reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,—procured, for me, a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, whenever we have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMILY WOOD, North St., Elkton, Md.

THE LITTLE WIDOW WON.

Her Big Rival's Opinion Is Left to the Imagination

It was one of those comedies sometimes arranged by fate. An available widower with a snug fortune on a principal avenue had called upon a little widow who has yet to travel the short end of life's journey. While they were cosily conversing before the grate fire, the little widow had a caller who proved to be the big widow living in the block; and her coming seemed to embarrass the parties surprised. This made it inevitable that the weather should be discussed exhaustively.

"Some years we never have a January thaw," said the little widow, when this phase of the subject had been taken up.

"Well, I've seen as many Januarys as any other living person," declared the big widow, who is nothing if not emphatic, "but I never saw one yet when we didn't have a thaw."

"Of course there are a good many people who have seen more Januarys than I have," demurely admitted the little widow, "and we are all liable to mistakes."

But the widower was laughing. The big widow's face was a study in cardinal and her usually ready tongue seemed palsied. At length she managed it sufficiently to say that what she meant was that she had seen as many Januarys as anyone who had lived no longer than she had.

"That's practically what you did say, dear," purred the little widow.

Then the caller saw the widower trying to keep his face straight, and she hastened to leave, declaring to the little widow at the door that she never had a more delightful evening.

The little widow has been invited to preside over the snug house on the avenue, and the inaugural ceremonies will take place soon.

LEND YOUR EARS

To Your Back and Listen to its Talk—A Peterborough Man Tries It.

Did you know the back could talk;
Tell you why it aches and pains;
Tell you why it's lame and weak;
Warn you of the kidney's ills;
Tell you of Doan's Kidney Pills?
Listen to them when they speak.
Relieve the kidneys, cure the ache.
Bad back, acute pains and kidney ills,
Are quickly cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is proof of it at home. The testimony of Mr. George N. Graham, the genial host of the Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, is as follows:—

He says:—"I have been a great sufferer for some time with pain across the back, extending up between the shoulders, swelling of the limbs, dizziness, loss of appetite, and in fact felt completely broken up.

"I had lost 17 pounds in three months, and thought that I would never get better. I have taken many kinds of patent medicines, and have also been treated by medical men, but did not seem to get any better at all, in fact was constantly growing worse.

"I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertisement and got a box of them at Lynch's drugstore, and by the time I had taken one box noticed a marked change for the better.

"I have taken seven boxes altogether, and am now free from pain; the swelling in the limbs has disappeared, and my appetite is good. In fact, I feel that I am completely cured.

"I can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to those suffering from any form of kidney trouble. They are the best kidney medicine I have ever used.

THE RHODES ENQUIRY.

President Kruger's Arbitrariness in Favoring the Germans in Trade Matters.

London, March 5.—The examination of Cecil Rhodes, ex-Premier of the Cape Colony, was resumed in Westminster Hall to-day by the Parliamentary Committee appointed to inquire into the Jameson raid, into the Transvaal. There was a fair attendance of spectators, but there were not nearly so many persons present as at the previous sittings.

Mr. Rhodes testified that the Transvaal Government had raised the railway rates for passengers and freight through the special intervention of President Kruger, the object being to divert traffic, so that the bulk of it should be secured by the Netherlands line. Witness said that he himself had told President Kruger that the result of such action would be that the Cape Colonists, and even a great many of the Boers, would resent it and try to turn him out of office. To this Kruger replied that he had the power and meant to use it.

The opposition to commercial federation, Mr. Rhodes said, came in chiefly from Germany and fearing to interfere with the German trade the Dutch did not oppose the wishes of the Germans.

Mr. Rhodes said that his main object in assisting an insurrection in the Transvaal was to secure free trade throughout South Africa and a more tolerant attitude on the part of the Transvaal Republic towards Cape Colony.

In answer to questions relating to the expenses of his operations against the natives in South Africa, Mr. Rhodes said that he had sold 40,000 shares of the British South Africa Company's stock to pay the expenses of the war against the Matabeles, and had expended £94,000 in defraying such expenses, from which outlay there had been no return.

Mr. Rhodes further testified that he had paid £50,000 towards the fines which had been imposed by the Transvaal upon the Johannesburg Reform Committee prisoners. The examination of Mr. Rhodes was then concluded.

Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Rhodes are mutually polite during the sitting, but there did not appear to be any feeling of hostility between them. The questions put and the answers given throughout Mr. Rhodes' examination, however, agreed in showing that the narrow and reactionary policy of the Transvaal Government is endangering the peace of South Africa.

Irish Finances.

London, March 5.—In the House of Lords to-day Lord Castletown (Liberal) raised the question of the financial relations between Great Britain and Ireland, and suggested as a remedy for the grievances of Ireland the creation of a consolidated fund to be managed by Irish financiers and utilized to promote Irish industries and agriculture.

Lord Lansdowne, Secretary of State for War, speaking on behalf of the Government, advised that the House await the report of the commission appointed to enquire into the financial relations existing between Great Britain and Ireland.

Lord Fearrer (Liberal) expressed his disapproval of the scope of the enquiry allowed to the new commission.

Lord Morris, Lord of Appeal (Conservative), expressed the opinion that unjust taxation was answerable for the downward course of Ireland's trade. He believed that crops would disappear altogether and the people of Ireland still further decrease in numbers if the taxes were not reduced.

Lord Spencer (Liberal) thought that decrease of taxation in Ireland was the only eventual solution of a safe measure of Home Rule.

The Naval Estimates.

London, March 5.—In the course of the discussion of the naval estimates in the House of Commons to-day, Sir Charles Dilke said he thought that the navy was greatly deficient, especially in respect of lieutenants, engineers and stokers, and even the program for building new ships was not large enough.

George J. Goschen, First Lord of the Admiralty, declared that if Great Britain should go to war to-morrow with two of the greatest of the maritime powers, the British navy would be found able to take care of itself.

WILL COST MILLIONS.

War Vessels Come High, But the German Government Must Have Them.

Berlin, March 5.—Admiral Hollmann, commander-in-chief of the German Navy, appeared before the Budget Committee of the Reichstag to-day and stated that five ironclads, ten cruisers, 22 torpedo boats and other increases were needed to enhance the naval strength of the Empire. The fleets of France and Russia, he added, had made immense progress in recent years. In case of war Germany could not confine her naval operations to the defence of her coast, but her warships would have to cruise on the high seas. In conclusion, Admiral Hollmann declared that the Fatherland looked with great expectation to the navy.

Kruger Takes the Whip.

Pretoria, March 5.—President Kruger has addressed a letter to the chief justice and the judges of the High Court of the South African Republic demanding that they conform to the law passed by the Volksraad on Feb. 25, placing the High Court under the jurisdiction of the Volksraad within 14 days, and further warned them not to arrogate to themselves the right to place their own interpretation upon the constitution of the country.

MEXICANS ARE MAD

Because Some Boston Men are Trying to Get the Flags Captured From Yankees in 1847.

St. Louis, March 5.—A special to The Globe-Democrat from Guadalajara, Mexico, says that almost a warlike spirit is being aroused among the people of Mexico by the coming of Messrs. Bruce, Stone and Pierce of Boston to enter into negotiations with the Mexican Government for the return of flags captured by the Mexican troops during the war of 1847. The newspapers of the republic are indulging in very intemperate language regarding the visit of these gentlemen, and are denouncing America and Americans in most incendiary language, going so far as to demand of the United States at the cannon's mouth, if necessary, the return of all the territory taken from Mexico. They specify California, Colorado, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas as the property which has been "stolen from Mexico." So strong is the sentiment against Americans that ladies are openly insulted in the streets and stores, and if their escorts resent the offence they are dragged off to jail and fined. It is acknowledged that only the iron rule of President Dias prevents a collision, and it is predicted that his death or resignation would be followed by a war with the United States in six months.

IN THE INTERESTS OF WHEELMEN.

Proposed Bill to Extend the "Rights of the Road" to Bicycles.

On Friday a deputation of wheelmen waited upon the Ontario Government to ask that the Act referring to highways be so amended as to apply to every vehicle (including, of course, bicycles). The following draft of a bill was submitted as meeting the requirements of the cycling fraternity in the regard in question :

An Act to amend the Act to regulate travelling on public highways and bridges :

Her Majesty by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, enacts as follows :

1. Sections 1, 2, 3 and 4 of the Act to regulate travelling on public highways and bridges, and section 1 of 55 Victoria, ch. 37, are repealed and the following substituted therefor :

1. In case a person travelling or being upon a highway on horseback or on a bicycle or tricycle or in charge of a vehicle drawn by one or more horses or one or more other animals, meets another person travelling on a bicycle or tricycle or another vehicle drawn as aforesaid, he shall turn out to the right from the centre of the road, allowing to the bicycle, tricycle or vehicle so met, one half of the road.

2. In case a person travelling or being upon a highway on a bicycle or tricycle or in charge of a vehicle as aforesaid or on horseback is overtaken by any vehicle, horseman or person on a bicycle or tricycle travelling at greater speed, the person so overtaken shall quietly turn out to the right and allow the said vehicle or person to pass, and any person so overtaking another vehicle, horseman or person on a bicycle or tricycle shall turn out to the left so far as may be necessary to avoid a collision with such vehicle or horseman or person so overtaken, and the person so overtaken shall not be required to leave more than one-half the road free.

3. In the case of one vehicle being met or overtaken by another, if by reason of the extreme weight of the load on either the vehicles so meeting or on the vehicle so overtaken the driver finds it impracticable to turn out as aforesaid, he shall immediately stop, and if necessary for the safety of the other vehicle, and if required so to do, he shall assist the person in charge thereof to pass without damage. R.S.O. 1887, C. 195, S. 2.

4. In the case of a vehicle drawn by one or more horses being met or overtaken by a person travelling on a bicycle or tricycle if by reason of the extreme weight of the load on such vehicle the driver finds it impracticable to turn out as aforesaid, he shall immediately stop and allow the person so travelling on the bicycle or tricycle to pass without damage.

4. (a) In case a person in charge of a vehicle, bicycle or tricycle, or of a horse or other animal used as a means of conveyance, travelling or being on a highway as aforesaid, is through drunkenness unable to ride or drive the same with safety to other persons travelling or being upon the highway he shall incur the penalties imposed by this Act.

4. (b) In case a person being upon a bicycle or tricycle travelling in the City of Toronto in a northerly or westerly direction upon the space between the tracks of the Toronto Railway, which space is commonly known as the "Devil Strip," meets another person or a bicycle or tricycle travelling in an opposite direction, he shall turn out to the right, alighting to the bicycle or tricycle so met the whole of the Devil Strip.

2. The Municipal Act is amended by adding the following section : The council of every county, township, city, town and incorporated village may pass by-laws for setting apart as much of any highway or road or street as the council of any such municipality having control over such highway, road or street, may deem necessary for the purpose of a bicycle path, and if a person rides or drives a horse or other beast of burden upon such bicycle path, he shall incur the penalties imposed by the Act to regulate travelling on Public Highways and Bridges.

3. The Act exempting certain vehicles, horses and cattle from tolls on turnpike roads, is amended by adding the following section :

All persons travelling on bicycles or tricycles shall be exempt from the payment of any duty or toll on passing any turnpike or toll gate on any road, wharf or landing place, or ferry in this Province ; but this exemption shall not extend to any toll bridge, the tolls of which are vested in any person other than the Crown.

LINDSAY CHEESE BOARD.

The Annual Meeting Held Thursday—The Officers for 1897 Appointed.

(Lindsay Post.)

The annual meeting of the officers and salesmen of the Lindsay cheese board opened yesterday at 11 a.m., in the council chamber, and continued, with an intermission for dinner, until after 5 p. m. The attendance was not as large as was expected, owing partly to the fact that some of the factories selling on the board have not yet held their business meeting to appoint their salesmen for the coming year, and partly the neglect of the secretary to inform the press.

The election of officers resulted as follows :

President—Thos. Robertson, Dunsford, re-elected.

Vice-president—John S. Cruess, Linden Valley, re-elected.

Treasurer—F. Sandford, Fenelon Falls, re-elected.

Secretary—Eugene Shine, Downeyville ; Vice, J. L. Read, Bobcaygeon, resigned.

During the afternoon very interesting addresses were delivered by Messrs. Jas. Whitton of Belleville, Morden Bird of Stirling, and C. J. Madden of Newburg, officers of the Eastern Dairymen's Association, who were in attendance to press upon the officers of the Board and the salesmen the great importance of arranging for an instructor to visit each factory a number of times during the season. Incidentally a great deal of information was elicited from the speakers on matters connected with cheese making and dairying that cannot fail to prove beneficial to the patrons. Mr. Flavelle, Mr. Robertson, Mr. Shine, Mr. Brown of Reaboro Factory and others also contributed to the discussion. The value of the whey was one of the matters thoroughly ventilated, and the practice of carrying it back in the milk cans was strongly condemned as being the primal factor in the production of a poor article of cheese. Peterborough and other boards have declared against the practice, and it is likely that factories doing so will have a star placed against their names on the Lindsay board this season for the information of buyers.

At the close of the meeting a resolution was passed to engage the instructor at a cost of about $175 for the season.

A Croupy Cough was soon Driven Away By Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine.

"My little boy had a bad croupy cough," says Mrs. Smith, of 256 Bathurst street, Toronto. "My neighbor, Mrs. Hopkins, recommended me to try Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. I did so, and the first dose did him good. One bottle completely cured the cold. It is surprising, the popularity of Chase's syrup in this neighborhood. It appears to me it can be found in every house."

Men who suffer from mental worry and overwork will find prompt relief in Miller's Compound Iron Pills. 50 doses 25 cents. Sold in Peterborough by Wm. Madill, druggist.

Shiloh's Cur the great Cough and Croup Cure, is in great demand. Pocket box contains twenty-five doses only 25c. Children love it. Sold by John Nugent, 229 George Street.

NEED A BYLAW.

To the Editor of the Examiner :

DEAR SIR,—In reading over Friday night's paper, I noticed that fatality by which the young lad (Morrison) met his death. Now, Mr. Editor, this brings to mind a way in which all future accidents of this kind may be checked or even stopped entirely. The town council of Berlin (where I have lately been living,) have passed a bylaw prohibiting all children from hanging on any vehicle within the town limits, and have also a penalty for the violation of the bylaw, such as a small fine, thus making parents keep a stricter eye on their children and keeping them off the streets more. In Berlin this bylaw works admirably. Why cannot our town councillors pass a similar bylaw ? Hoping some one of influence will take this matter up, and thanking you Mr. Editor for your valuable space, I am

Yours respectfully,
A CITIZEN.

MUNYON, THE GREAT ADVERTISER.

A Character Sketch of Munyon—One of the Largest Advertisers—The Possibilities of Advertising Fully Demonstrated.

I met "Larry" Chittenden, the poet ranchman, in the Astor House smoking room a few days ago. Larry has a ten thousand-acre ranch and large interests in the Southwest, and is the author of that famous little volume, "Ranch Verses," now in its fourth edition. As he is a character in the publishing field, I proceeded to interview him in the interests of Profitable Advertising. Mr. Chittenden had just returned from visiting with his friend, Prof. J. M. Munyon, of the Munyon Homeopathic Remedy Company. "I tell you what it is," he said, "although I am a New Yorker with a western experience, and have been in all parts of the world, I like old Philadelphia and the Philadelphians. The doors of their hearts are open—they seem to welcome you in. Take John Wanamaker's store for instance. There is a spirit of honest hospitality about the place which pleases all sensitive buyers."

"How about Prof. Munyon ? Tell me about him." I said. "Munyon, ah, Munyon !" replied Mr. Chittenden, "he's a heap big chief—a big medicine man. His personality suggests Edwin Booth, Napoleon and Munyon—Munyon most of all. He has the soul of a poet, the heart of a philanthropist, and as one finds him in his beautiful mansion, 'The Towers,' on the old Lancaster road, he is a prince of hosts and good fellows. We had publishers, editors, artists, poets, advertisers, preachers and newspaper men for company all the time I was there. Munyon was the kindly light, soul and inspiration of us all, and yet between the interludes of original song and verses of his own composition he took time to handle important business matters by telephone with people in Baltimore, Chicago and New York."

"To what do you attribute his success ?" I asked. "To intelligence, honesty and advertising. He is a great believer in advertising—profitable advertising."

Munyon says :—"Newspapers are the upbuilders of fortunes, the makers of men and their destinies, the surest friend of a business man. His motto is to 'everlastingly tell the truth.' Tell it in simple, direct language, so that he who runs may read. He seldom uses what are called blind advertisements."

At this point Mr. Chittenden spied several of his literary cronies sauntering in for luncheon, and with apologies for any abruptness rushed off to join the circle.

It is said that last year Munyon spent $33,000 a month in advertising, and this year he says it will be more, and that he is now completing arrangements to make his remedies known and appreciated in every part of the European continent, as they are known here.—S. H. Goddard, in Profitable Advertising.

It is not to be wondered at that Ayer's Pills are in such universal demand. For the cure of constipation, biliousness, or any other complaint needing a laxative, these pills are unsurpassed. They are sugar-coated, easy to take, and every dose is effective.

WRITTEN ON THE DEATH OF WILLIAM BURGESS, REEVE OF BELMONT, WHO DIED ON THE 7TH OF FEBRUARY.

Friends, stop and drop a soothing tear,
A brother dear has gone—
His pleasant style and well-known form
We never more shall meet,
His absence is felt by many a friend
Upon the vacant street.
In the vacant chair where oft he sat,
His partner looks in vain for
That love-form which it filled so oft.
But ah ! forever gone.
His spirit soars in realms above,
Wherein he put his trust.
But she may look beyond to that
Bright home of everlasting love,
To soothe her grief and calm her woes,
Since Jesus reigns above.
And may the thought to meet again
Amidst the ransomed throng,
And see their Saviour face to face to face,
Cheer this poor soul along.
May heaven guard, protect and keep
Through her remaining days,
To meet the now departed one,
There sing eternal praise.
Dear sister, dear, oh do not fret,
Your brother's gone before,
Those heavenly blessings still are yours—
To meet on Canaan's shore.
His race is run—the spirit's fled
Unto its heavenly rest,
To see his Saviour face to to face,
And mingle with the blest.
Dear sons and daughters do not fret,
Though your dear father's gone,
The lingering smile still on his cheer,
Showed kindness in his heart
Then let us all for death prepare,
So when we are called to go,
We'll meet that dear one there.
That all may meet beyond the stream,
Where our dear friend is gone,
To join the everlasting song,
And none be missing—no, not one.

We Want Women

To be protected from the delusive arts of the "smart" business man of the day. We want more sincerity and less cuteness. We want shoppers to be treated honestly. We pledge ourselves that when you see it in our ads, 'tis true.

We like women who want BRAND NEW GOODS, to visit our store and do their buying personally. The reason is that they can appreciate good things when they see them, and are fearless in their criticisms when men attempt to push old goods on them for new at new goods prices.

There's enough new goods here now to hold ladies from being taken in with left-overs of last year's styles or the wreckage from disasters in business. Keep your wits about you, ladies, and be cautious in buying your spring purchasers.

Constant Newness

Will be found to mark this store from day to day, already the warmer sunbeams shimmer on the new spring leaders. Dame Fashion, has put no second-hand seal on our stock to mar its freshness. Everything is fashionable and profitable to buy.

Shun the ticket-punchers! Shun the furniture prizes! Shun the ancient auctioned stuffs, much of which is about as fashionable as hoops or bustles!

OUR MILLINERS

Have returned from their visits to the wholesale openings in the cities, and are now hard at work preparing for our opening displays, which will be a real revelation to the ladies.

LOCAL LEGISLATURE.

Provincial Officials and Dominion Elections.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYES MAY VOTE

No Dismissals Will Follow a Simple Exercise of Their Rights—Some Voluminous Returns Asked for—Mr. Howland Wants Amendments More Clearly Set Forth.

Toronto, March 8.—The Opposition have a very large number of motions for returns on the order paper, calling for some voluminous information on various points, a few of which were passed to day, many more standing over. The work entailed will be considerable. The information may be such as it is desirable legislators should have, but it cannot be obtained without excuse, and, judging from their past course, the increase thus entailed by complying with their demand will next year be made the ground for another howl over the "unwarrantable increase in the cost of government." Among the bills which received a first reading was one by Mr. Howland to prevent accidents through elevators.

After routine, the following bills were passed through committee:

To amend the act to provide for the division of the Township of Tilbury West, Mr. Auld; to amend the act incorporating Knox College, Mr. Ross; to legalize and confirm an agreement entered into by the municipality of Dysart and others, Mr. Carnegie.

Dr. Ryerson enquired: "Is it the intention of the Government to dismiss, on the grounds of offensive partisanship, or neglect of Government business, any of its officials who took an active part in the late Dominion election."

The Attorney-General replied that the Government had not dismissed and did not contemplate taking such action, as, in the opinion of many, the Ontario officials whose conduct was complained of were quite within their rights. So far as the Dominion election was concerned, though the case might be different with regard to provincial elections, should the resolution on the subject introduced by Mr. Garrow be adopted by the House civil servants would be expected to abide by it.

In reply to a question by Mr. Carnegie as to the regulations governing the distribution of the statutes to justices of the peace, and clerks of municipalities, the Attorney-General stated that it was the rule to send the volumes to clerks of the peace, addressed to the persons entitled to receive them. If they were not taken by those persons the clerks were instructed to return them to the department.

Mr. Howland moved for a very comprehensive return from the clerks of the Police Courts at Toronto, Hamilton, London, Kingston and Ottawa, showing the number of times the children's court sat during 1896, the number, ages, nationality, religion, etc., of such children and further details of juvenile criminality.

Hon. Mr. Davis said he was not certain that a complete return of all the details asked for could be given. The information sought would be both interesting and useful, and an effort would be made to present as complete a return as possible.

Mr. Marter moved for returns showing stock on hand in the Central Prison industries on Sept. 30 and Dec. 31 respectively in the years 1891, 1892, 1893, 1894, 1895 and 1896; also the amount of the outstanding account and net revenue at said dates.

Hon. Mr. Davis explained that a comprehensive statement, covering the details asked, was presented once a year up to Sept. 13. It would not be possible to give the return asked for with regard to Dec. 31. If the mover would amend his resolution in that particular, the information would be furnished. The motion was amended accordingly and carried.

On motion of Mr. Marter, an order for a return was adopted, showing the business done for the last five years in the High Court of Justice, the County Courts and the Division Courts.

Mr. Howland moved that it be a rule of this House that all amending bills shall, when printed, set forth the section intended to be amended in full, with the proposed amending words or clauses in italics; and shall also indicate, by brackets, any words of the existing act proposed to be omitted.

In speaking to the motion, he said it was unfortunate that much legislation was adopted before the House thoroughly understood its meaning owing to the way in which amendments were worded. They could not do so without looking up the act it was proposed to amend, and there were neither copies of the statutes sufficient, nor did members always have the time to do so. The rule he wished to introduce was in accordance with British practice.

The Attorney-General, while he admitted the desirability of some action in the direction sought for, said that there was no precedent for settling such a question by the House without its first being referred to a standing committee. There were practical difficulties in the way of adopting the principle embodied in the resolution which though excellent in theory, might be unworkable in practice. It would be better to refer the whole matter to a committee.

Several members spoke on the subject, the general opinion on both sides of the House being that a change in the direction of clearness was imperatively needed, inasmuch as it was almost impossible as amendments were now presented for members to tell what legislation they were voting for, especially towards the close of a session. Hon. Mr. Gibson said the question had frequently been considered by the Government, but it seemed to be difficult to adopt any rule that could be applied in every case. Many amendments were very complicated, and could not be set forth in a way that would satisfactorily explain them in the manner proposed by Mr. Howland's resolution. It was never safe to deal with an amendment without referring not merely to the particular clause affected, but to the context of the Act as well.

The motion was withdrawn, the Attorney-General stating that he would give notice of a motion for the appointment of a special committee to consider the subject, the committee to consist of Hon. Messrs. Ross and Gibson, Messrs. Baxter, McKay, Whitney, Howland, Mathieson, Caven and the mover.

Dr. Ryerson moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Municipal Act, the mover explaining that it was a Toronto measure giving the City Council power to provide for the erection of fire escapes, authorising the Park Commissioners to plant, remove and trim trees on the streets, change the municipal election day to Jan. 1 in each year, and authorising a grant for the proper celebration of the Victorian Diamond Jubilee, etc.

At the request of the Attorney-General the second reading stood over.

The following bills received a second reading: To amend the Public Schools Act, Mr. Carnegie; to amend the Act respecting Cheese and Butter Manufacturing Associations, Mr. Taylor; and to amend the County Councils Act, 1896, Mr. Mathieson. The latter measure constitutes county officers ex officio justices of the peace.

NOTICES OF MOTION.

Mr. Ryerson—Inquiry of Ministry. How many notaries public are there in each county of the province?

Mr. Carnegie—Order of the House for a return of copies of all orders-in-Council, correspondence, etc., if any, relating to the appointment of a commission to investigate the conduct of the civil or public servants of this province during the past elections for the Legislative Assembly of the province and for the House of Commons.

Mr. Carnegie—Order of the House for a return giving copies of all correspondence between any member of the Government, and any officer of the Northern Exhibition held at Walkerton relating to the withholding of money payable to prize-winners.

Mr. Ryerson—Enquiry of Ministry. How many coroners are there in each county in the province?

Mr. Mathieson—Enquiry of Ministry. Has there been any correspondence between the Government or any member of it and the Dominion Government or any member of it with reference to an increase of the subsidy payable by the Dominion to the province?

CRUEL MURDER AT THE FALLS.

Robert Powley Enters His Wife's Room and Deliberately Shoots Her to Death as She Lay in Bed.

Niagara Falls, Ont., March 8.—Across the river to-night about half-past 10 o'clock Robert J. Powley went to his wife's room and deliberately shot her twice as she lay in bed. Then he set the room on fire and ran away, but was captured and locked up. Powley is said to have been living with another woman, and for this reason his wife left him six months ago. They were married in Montana and it is said Powley has a wife there living with another man. The couple have two children, a boy and a girl, who were rescued from the fire by neighbors. The murderer's aged parents live on this side of the river, and, though poor, they are highly respected.

M'KINLEY'S CALLERS.

The President Started Out With 35 Hand Shakes Per Minute, But Had to Increase His Speed.

Washington, March 8.—Julius Palmer, the Boston gentleman who is a sort of Major Domo to the former Queen of Hawaii during her residence here, was among the earliest of callers at the White House after luncheon. He handed Mr. Porter a note, which was said to be a request from "Her Gracious Majesty," as he calls Liliuokalani, for an audience at as early date.

More than 1000 people shook hands with the President at a public reception, which began at 3 o'clock. The majority of those who attended were women. Major McKinley started out at the rate of 35 hands a minute, but soon increased it to the average of 45 a minute.

Practically all the afternoon callers on the President came merely to pay their respects. Some of them were Chief Justice Scott and the judges of the United States Court of Claims.

WILL HOLD HER OWN

Greece Courteously Declines to Yield Her Point.

WILL COERCION BE RESORTED TO?

It All Depends on Whether or Not Britain Will Join—Greece Holds That Crete is Hers and She Has a Right to Protect Its People Regardless of the Great Powers.

London, March 8.—The Chronicle tomorrow will publish a despatch from Athens giving the full text of the reply of Greece to the powers. After a brief preamble, the reply continues:

"In view of the extraordinary gravity of the results which will follow, His Majesty's Government considers it to be its duty to submit to the powers its opinion of the measure decided upon, an opinion which is the result of long experience and a profound acquaintance with the situation in Crete.

"Impressed by the sentiments which animate the powers and their solicitude for general peace, the Greek Government will not fail in this duty, since Greece also ardently desires to contribute to the maintenance of peace and to save from utter ruin the population of an island put to so severe a trial and so often decimated.

"We believe that the new regime of autonomy adopted by the powers unhappily cannot correspond to the noble intentions that inspired it, and that it will suffe teh fate of the different administrative systems which at various times and without success, have been tried in Crete.

"This is not the first time that Crete finds herself in a state of insurrection. In recent times on more than six occasions the horrors of anarchy have shaken and imperilled her existence.

"If then the new regime with which it is proposed to endow her is not calculated to re-establish order in a definite manner, the Greek Government cannot doubt the impossibility of putting an end by means of it to the present state of revolution. Anarchy will continue to ravage the country with fire and sword in its hands. Blind fanaticism will continue its destructive work of exterminating a people which assuredly does not deserve such a fate.

"Before such a prospect our responsibility would be enormous if we did not most earnestly urge the powers not to insist upon the scheme of autonomy proposed, but rather to restore to Crete what she already had at the time of the enfranchisement of the other provinces which form the Kingdom of Greece, and to lead her back to Greece to which she belonged since Capodistrias was President.

"In the presence of the recent scenes of massacre, pillage and conflagration in Canea, in the presence of frightful anguish, to which the inhabitants of Crete have been exposed and menaced by the boundless fury of the Mussulman population, who prevented the departure of Christian families for Greece, which has always been a providential refuge for allthese miserable beings, our whole country was torn with remorse for the responsibility it assumed last year in inducing the Cretans to lay down their arms. The misfortunes that resulted forbid us to undertake once more such a task, and if we had attempted it our voice would certainly have been feeble. Its echo would not have reached the Cretan people.

"It being the case, therefore, that a new regime of autonomy could not fulfil the noble aim of the powers, it is obvious what would be the situation of the unhappy island from to-day until the establishment of this regime.

"If the powers believe it to be their duty to persevere in their resolutions with the above views and in the name of humanity, as well as in the interest of the island, the pacification of which is the unique object of the solicitude of the powers, we do not hesitate to appeal to them on the subject of their measures, namely, the recall of our military forces. Indeed, if because of the presence of the united squadrons in Cretan waters, and in the conviction that these squadrons will not permit Turkish troops to disembark on the island, the presence also of all the ships of the Greek fleet off Crete is judged to be unnecessary, the presence of the Greek army on the island is, nevertheless, shown to be desirable, alike from sentiments of humanity and in the interests of the definite re-establishment of order.

"Our duty specially forbids us to abandon the Cretan people to the mercy of the Mussulman fanaticism and the Turkish army, which at all time has deliberately and intentionally participated in the aggressive acts of the populace against the Christians. Above all, if our troops on the island, who are worthy of all the confidence of the powers, had received a mandate to pacify the country their desires and intentions would have received promptly the most perfect satisfaction. It would be then, after the re-establishment of order, that it would be possible to learn the desires freely expressed of the Cretan people for a decision as to their fate.

"The sorrows which have recurred regularly in Crete for many decades past not only do not occur without profoundly agitating the Hellenic people, but they also interrupt social activity and gravely disturb the economy and finances of the State. Even if we admit that it would be possible to forget for an instant that we share the common religion of the Cretan people, that we are of the same race and bound by the ties of blood, we could not in silence allow the powers to assume that the Greek State is able any longer to resist such shocks.

"For this reason we appeal to the SOUTH MONAGHAN.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

I have not seen much news from our little township in your paper of late, so I thought I would drop you a line or two to let you know that although there is a depression of times we are still in the land of the living.

Last Friday evening a goodly number of our citizens, armed with smiles, baskets, fiddles and good intentions, wended their way to the residence of Mr. John Donaldson, who is about to move to Lindsay, and after kind greetings were over the visitors gathered around Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson and, after reading the appended address, presented Mr. Donaldson with a fine wolf-skin fur coat and Mrs. Donaldson with a beautiful rocking chair:

To Mr. John Donaldson:

DEAR FRIEND AND BROTHER.—Your old neighbours and fast friends, and brethren of L.O.L. No. 46, wish to take advantage of the occasion of your leaving the township of South Monaghan to express our deep regret at losing a neighbour whom we all held in such esteem, and to express how much of that regret arises from the sterling qualities you have shown during your life-long residence amongst us.

While you have been a public-spirited and progressive citizen, we, who have now the pleasure of addressing you, value you most for your sterling good qualities as a neighbour. We have all found you as all times most willing to oblige, and that not only when it was convenient, but your kind acts have often been at no small personal sacrifice.

In our tribute to your worth we should also include your estimable wife and family, whom with you we will greatly miss, and we wish you all many years of prosperity in your new home, where, though you are sure to make friends you will make none who will value you more highly.

We again wish you the greatest prosperity in your new home, and in earnest of our good wishes and in testimony of our esteem, we ask you to accept this far coat for yourself and this rocking chair for Mrs. Donaldson, feeling sure that the first cannot cover a warmer or more generous heart, nor the other hold a better mistress of a well-regulated household.

On behalf of your South Monaghan friends.

J. J. HERON,
ARCHIE REYNOLDS,
JOHN LIGHTFOOT.

South Monaghan, March 5th, 1897.

Mr. Donaldson in replying on behalf of himself and wife, said he was taken completely by surprise; he said he did not think he had merited the kind words of the address nor the handsome presents he and Mrs. Donaldson were made the recipients of. He regretted very much leaving the township where he had spent so many happy days, and it was still harder to part with the warm friends he had in South Monaghan and Cavan, and although he hoped to have many good friends where he was going, he would still hold the memory of his early friends dear, and when he got settled in his new home nothing would do him more good than to see his old friends come to pay him a visit.

After singing "For he's a jolly good fellow," etc., the ladies spread the cloth and put the tea a-steeping and all sat down to a pleasant evening meal.

After supper the young folks, and indeed some of the old ones, tipped the light fantastic toe away on to the wee sma' hours of the morning, when the party broke up after spending a very pleasant evening.

The clerk read sundry papers in the matter of road between lots 21 and 22 from the centre of the 4th concession Methuen to the Government roads. Mr. Wm. Snelgrove offered to give a road forty feet from the centre of the 4th concession Methuen on lot 22 to the Government road for $3. On motion of Councillor Vanskikle the clerk was instructed to notify Mr. Snelgrove that the council will accept his offer. Application of James Wiseman in the matter of statute labour, charged roll of 1896, he had never been warned out to do his statute labour; if abated would be willing to do in 1897, thinks the arrears of taxes are too high. On motion of Councillor McConnel, Mr. Wiseman was allowed an abatement of $2 statute labour tax roll of 1896, as he has agreed to perform it in 1897. Application of James Wiseman for a grant of $50, on 8th concession line Belmont, across lot 8, he would give $25 in work if the council would give the $50.—Received and laid over. From J. B. Goderich, March 8 (Special)—A case of great interest here just now is that of Mr. Alexander J. Sharkey, who for some time has been an extreme sufferer from rheumatism. His statement to the correspondent is as follows:

"For eighteen months I was a victim of rheumatism and during that time was trying every means to cure it. I had the best doctors in Canada, and took their prescriptions with faith and patience.

"I got tired at last for I found the disappointment nearly as killing as the disease.

"But one friend wiser than the others convinced me that my disease must be cured by the way of the kidneys and recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I have used two boxes of these pills to effect a perfect cure and I don't care who knows it."

Paine's Celery Compound Could have Saved the Majority.

It Saves Life When all Other Medicines Fail.

The winter months have brought bereavement and dark clouds of sorrow to many homes in Canada.

Fathers, mothers, sisters and brothers have been removed by the grim reaper death, the majority of whom might have been saved had their friends given them Paine's Celery Compound instead of the worthless and, in many cases, life destroying medicines that the sick ones were forced to swallow.

In many families a too slavish obedience to medical dictation kept the true agent of life from the sick and dying ones. Past records of victory achieved by Paine's Celery Compound were set aside; it was unprofessional to introduce the life saving Compound in any way!

Ah! Remorse is now doing its quiet and effective work, and those most closely interested are suffering for their neglect.

Will you, reader, allow some dear relative or friend to pass from life without making an effort to save the perishing one by Paine's Celery Compound? The chances for life-saving by Paine's Celery Compound are great and mighty. Even though your friends have suffered long and neared that point when the family physician can do no more, even then there is hope if Paine's Celery Compound is used.

The life-saving work, the despera cases overcome in the past, is the bright and living proof that Paine's Celery Compound makes sick people well.

The truly honest physicians of the day are quietly and unceasingly recommending Paine's Celery Compound as the best spring medicine that ailing men or women can use. Its wonderful popularity has induced some to bring out imitations that are vile and worthless. See that you get "Paine's" with the stalk of celery on the bottle label and cartoon.

WILL HOLD HER OWN.

generous sentiments animating the powers, and beg them to permit the Cretan people themselves to declare how they desire to be governed."

The Chronicle adds, on high authority, that the Greek envoys abroad have been instructed on receipt of the reply to inform the Government to which they are accredited that Greece is prepared to recognize the temporary suzerainty of the Sultan to withdraw her fleet completely and to place the Greek army in command of any military representative of the powers senior in rank to Col. Vassos for restoring order in the island if the powers are willing ultimately to leave the decision as to the fate of Crete in the hands of the people.

Greek Vice Consul Must Leave.

Canea, March 8.—Admiral Canevaro, Commander of the Italian fleet here, has notified M. Baraklis, the Greek Vice-Consul, that he must leave the island. M. Baraklis was recently instructed by King George to go to Selino to intervene with the insurgents there in behalf of the besieged Musulmans of Kandamos. The Vice-Consul insisted upon going in the Greek warship Hydra, but this the foreign admirals would not permit. They offered to place a Russian torpedo boat at his service, but M. Baraklis declined to accept the offer. It is supposed that his banishment is due to this refusal.

The foreign admirals have telegraphed to their respective Governments that they will immediately despatch 600 men to maintain order in the various towns.

It is reported from a Turkish source that the Musulmans at Kandamos and in the Province of Selino have started for Palikora, where they will be out of danger. It is expected that they will arrive at Palikora this evening. Two steamers will be despatched to fetch their belongings.

What Will Britain Do?

London, March 8.—The Vienna correspondent of The Chronicle says much anxiety is felt there lest Great Britain refuse to join in coercing Greece. As yet Austria, Germany and Russia are the only three of the six great powers that have assented to the proposals made by the foreign admirals in Cretan waters, which imply a severe blockade of the coasts of Greece. The correspondent adds that the vessels of the Greek navy, which are going to Volo harbor, are kept under strict surveillance.

The Peace League Steps In.

Berne, March 8.—The committees of the International Peace League will send an addres to the powers and also to Greece and Turkey through the respective diplomats here, proposing to solve the crisis by a plebiscite of the Cretans.

Will March Inland.

London, March 8.—The Times will to-morrow publish a despatch from Canea, saying that a torpedo boat destroyer, which has arrived in Suda Bay from Selino, reports that the negotiations of Sir Alfred Biliotti with the insurgents at Selino, in behalf of the besieged Musulmans, have failed. The five hundred men from the various warships who accompanied Sir Alfred will march inland.

Germany Will Keep Quiet.

Hamburg, March 8.—The Hamburg Correspondent semi-officially states that, in the event of Greece rejecting the ultimatum and the powers not agreeing speedily as to their future course of action, or in teh event of a Graeco-Turkish war breaking out, it is understood that the German cruiser Kaiserin Augusta, now in Cretan waters, will be recalled. Germany will then quietly retire into that reserve that is suited to her political interests.

Does It Mean War?

London, March 8.—The Times to-morrow will say: "Despite the studied courtesy of the language of Greece's reply, it merely re-affirms a policy which the powers have pronounced inadmissible, and attempts to justify the conduct of Greece by sophistries which have already been abundantly refut-

There doesn't seem to be very much the matter with your child. He doesn't actually lose weight, but there is no gain. He belongs to that large class of children that don't seem to prosper. You look at him a little more thoughtfully than you do at the rest and say "He is not doing well." Failure to gain in weight in a child is a danger signal. Scott's Emulsion should be taken at once. It puts on fat where health demands it, strengthening the digestion.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville, Ont.

ed." The powers, the paper adds, remain in absolute agreement. There can be no question that if Greece does not submit quickly they will employ coercion.

The Standard deduces from the promise made by M. Hanotaux, the French Foreign Minister, in the Chamber of Deputies, that no military operations would be conducted without the assent of the Chamber; that there will be no summary chastisement of Greece. It does not pretend to say what will be done, but it warns King George that he is risking the ruin of his kingdom. It says, moreover, that he will only delay the emancipation of Crete by deferring the inevitable order for the recall of the Greek fleet and troops.

The Daily News will say that it still believe a compromise will be reached, although a peaceful blockade may precede it.

The Chronicle will say that in the face of such an answer, British coercion of Greece is impossible.

In the French Chamber.

Paris, March 8.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day, ex-Minister Goblet pressed the Government to consult the Chamber before taking any active steps in regard to Greece.

Prime Minister Meiin and M. Hanotaux both declared that it was impossible to speak on the subject before Greece's reply, and her intentions were officially known, but they added there would be no military operations by France without the consent of the Chamber.

M. Millerand, a Socialist member, asked that to-morrow be fixed for debating the question.

Prime Minister Meline refused to fix the date, and he was supported by the Chamber by a vote of 325 to 194.

M. Jaures, Socialist, said that he would renew the interpellation on the subject daily.

Unsatisfactory to Germany.

Berlin, March 8.—The reply of Greece to the note of the powers has been received here, and, as we expected, it is unsatisfactory. In consequence, Germany and Russia have signified their approval ofan immediate blockade of the Greek and Cretan coasts.

To Withdraw Their Ministers.

Rome, March 8.—It is semi-officially announced that, owing to the adverse reply of Greece to the demands of the powers, the latter will at once withdraw their Ministers from Athens.

Was it an Ultimatum?

London, March 8.—In the House of Commons to-day, Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury, denied that the collective note which the powers had addressed to Greece was couched in the form of an ultimatum. There was no doubt, he said, that there was a difference between the position of Turkey and that of Greece. The latter was acting in obedience of the powers, while Turkey was acting purely on the defensive, and showing that she had no desire to resist the desires of the powers.

G. N. Curson, Under Foreign Secretary, said it was impossible to pledge the powers to the appointment of a Christian Governor of Crete.

The full text of the collective note addressed by the powers to Turkey and Greece last week was issued by the Foreign Office to-day, and it is seen that the notes do not differ in purport from the summaries which were published at the time. The note addressed to the Porte states that the autonomy of Crete implies progressive reduction of the Ottoman forces on the island, to begin after the Greek troops now in Crete are withdrawn.

It is announced here this evening that the French, German and Russian Ministers have approved the carrying out of the threat contained in the identical note of the powers to blockade the coasts of Greece in the event of her refusing to accede to the demand that she withdrawn her troops from Crete and her fleet from Cretan waters. Their reason is that, although the reply of Greece gives some hope of a compromise it does not comply with the demand male by the powers.

The reply of Greece has not been issued officially, and it is, therefore, impossible to state its exact terms.

The Morning Post will to-morrow publish a despatch sent from Athens to-night saying that Greece in the course of her reply demands the annexation of Crete to her territory, on the grounds of historic rights and community of race and religion. Nevertheless she declares that she would withdraw her fleet from Cretan waters if the powers would delegate to the Greek army the work of pacifying the island. After this work was accomplished the Cretans should be allowed to freely express their opinion as to the future fate of the island.

Lord Salisbury went this afternoon to Windsor Castle, where he conferred for some time with the Queen. The subject of the conference has not been made public, but it is supposed that it had some bearing on the Cretan question. According to announcements previously made the Queen is to start for the Riviera on Wednesday and the Prime Minister would undoubtedly have visited Her Majesty under any circumstances prior to her departure.

WHAT SIR CHARLES DILKE SAYS.

Does Not Think a General War Will Follow the Coercion of Greece.

New York, March 8.—The Journal addressed the following questions to Sir Charles Dilke, who is considered one of the ablest Englishmen now in public life:

1. What percentage of Englishmen are opposed to the coercion of Greece?
2. Can the English masses influence the Government against coercion?
3. If Greece declares war on Turkey, is a general European war certain to result?

Sir Charles replied as follows: "I do not propose to write upon your first two questions, as the matter is in too delicate a situation to make it wise to do so.

"With regard to your third question, I do not think there is the slightest risk of a general war in Europe arising out of anything that is likely to occur in the Greek islands.

"It is my own opinion that a general war is not likely to arise, even out of events which might occur and may occur in Macedonia, but a general Continental partition of Turkey is, in my mind, highly dangerous, and likely in the long run to prove a cause of war."

PAIR OF COLTS KILLED.

Farmer J. J. Hillis' Team Ran Away and Dashed Into a Freight Train.

Hanover, Ont., March 8.—This evening about 5 o'clock the whistle of a G.T.R. special frightened a valuable span of colts, belonging to Mr. J. J. Hillis, a farmer living near here. Mr. Hillis was leading a grist at Heimbacker's grist mill, and while stepping into the mill to get a bag the horses turned and ran away, up towards the railway crossing. The train was passing at that moment and the horses ran in between two cars which dragged them about 100 yards, killing them instantly.

MADE SOUTHERNERS MAD.

Bishop Mallalieu of Buffalo Preached a Hot Sermon in Baltimore and Made a Sensation.

Baltimore, March 8.—The vigorous utterances of Bishop Mallalieu of Buffalo, presiding officer of the Baltimore Methodist Conference, in his sermon at the Eutaw-street Church yesterday, are attracting a great deal of attention. The church was thronged, many persons standing in the aisles, while more than a score of ministers occupied chairs in the chancel. The Bishop preached on the subject, "The Foundation of Faith." In the course of his remarks, when referring to the power of Christianity, he said it was not Wendell Phillips, Garrison, Lincoln nor the Republican party who rid the country of slavery and he added: "Nor the millions of heroic men, the bravest who ever fought, who gave up their lives fighting against the disgraceful, abominable and infamous rag that floated over the Confederacy." None of these forces, he asserted, had wiped away slavery, but the appeals that went up to God from the bondsmen and bondswomen. Bishop Mallalieu then discussed Christianity as being productive of two forces, one destructive and the other constructive. He spoke of the march of Christianity through the East, and said that it would go on until Turkey is driven out, Crete is free and in every country there existed government for and by the people.

The wrathful indignation of many adherents of the "Lost Cause" is heard in all directions, and some of the utterances would indicate that the reverend gentleman would do well to keep out of the way of those who fought and bled for the Southern Confederacy.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN BRITAIN.

The Lords Say They Can Do Nothing Until the House Takes Action.

London, March 8.—In the House of Lords to-day Lord Templeton moved the second reading of the bill to permit women to exercise the franchise in Parliamentary elections. The Duke of Devonshire moved the previous question, saying the measure must be decided in the House of Commons before it could come up for progress in the House of Lords. He himself, he said, was opposed to woman suffrage on principle. The Earl of Kimberley supported the position taken by the Duke of Devonshire, and the latter's motion in opposition to taking up the bill was agreed to without division.

CATARRH

Mrs. Dobell, of London, Ont., Cured for 25 Cents

Doctors Could Help, but Couldn't Cure—Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure Released the Prisoner, and To-day She is as Well as Ever—She Says it is a Great Remedy

"Yes, I am Mrs. Dobell," said a comely, pleasant-faced woman at her home on Horton street to a News reporter to-day, "and I will very gladly tell you what you want to know. About three years ago my husband was very ill, and I had frequently occasion to rise in the night and go for a doctor or to the druggist. In my hurry I often neglected to properly clothe myself, and contracted several heavy colds, which turned at last to chronic catarrh. I tried doctors, who helped me, but did not cure me, and several special catarrh medicines. I was relieved but not cured. I was suffering intolerably when Mr. Shuff recommended me to try DR. CHASE'S CATARRH CURE, and it began at once to help, and in about two months had entirely cured me. I cannot speak too highly of this remarkable medicine, and cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers from catarrh." The blower included is a great help to sufferers.

Diphtheria in South Monaghan.

Our Bensfort correspondent says:—Diphtheria has again broken out in the family of Mr. Medd, who lost a child from the same disease a short time ago. Monday evening a number of the staff of the EXAMINER, together with a number of their friends, drove out to the residence of Mr. Wm. The Scriptures of the Sky.

The programme for this evening in the Y. M. C. A. hall promises to be of a very interesting and entertaining nature. The harmony of the instrumental duet by Mrs. Peck and Miss Burnham, who have kindly consented to play, will be a most fitting introduction to Mr. Patterson's popular lecture, "The Scriptures of the Sky." A kindly welcome to all. Come early and secure a good seat.

The Depth of the Frost.

In making an excavation in front of the opera house block, George street, the workmen of the Peterborough Water company found that the frost had penetrated to the depth of four feet and a half. The absence of snow is said to account for this unusual depth. Though the average temperature has been higher than usual, this winter is the first in three years that it has been found necessary to thaw out hydrants. The Water Company got out their steam engine and put two or three hydrants into shape. Prompt action was taken and every hydrant in the town is in good working order.

Are You Ready for Wall Papers.

What are we doing in wall papers at the Peterborough Bookstore is important enough to talk about. Our special big wall paper sale of over 20,000 rolls, which commenced on Saturday will be our leading event this week. You know, of course, that we sell as we buy, and such prices as these clearly illustrate the meaning of that fact:—Gilt papers, 5c.; gold papers, 7c. and 10c.; embossed papers, 15c.; embossed gold friezes, 10c.; ingrain friezes, 8c. and 10c.; English sanitary papers, 8c. and 10c.; a lot of home-made goods, with and without borders, worth from 35c. to 50c., for 10c.

The Poor Merchants.

A George street merchant was heard to remark a few days ago that he considered as a class that they were imposed upon. He went on to say that no matter what organization or church got up an entertainment almost invariably parties were sent out to sell tickets. Of course the merchants were the first people called upon, and if they refused to purchase they were very likely to offend one of their best customers. Subscribtion lists generally follow the same path and with like effect. We know of a certain merchant on George street who sets aside a certain sum annually to meet these almost daily demands. Now, why should manufacturers contribute any more to the purpose than other citizens? The honest business man gives a dollar's worth of goods for a dollar, and has to pay for his stock. Perhaps this hint will have the effect of lessening the many demands made upon the business men of the town.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY.

Pathetic Incident in Connection With the Work.

A pathetic little incident took place yesterday at a village in this county in connection with the work of the Children's Aid. A little boy, five years old, and a little girl, aged three, both fair and pretty as flowers in spring, had been placed by the Society in the hospitable shelter of the Protestant Home until suitable and desirable places of adoption could be secured for them. They were no relation to each other, but their companionship had ripened into a brotherly and sisterly affection. The society decided it could not separate them. The foster-home was secured. But the children did not seem anxious to leave the Protestant Home. On their way with the Society's agent, who was taking them to a halfway meeting place, they began to cry, and when dinner time came refused to eat. By dint of coaxing and strategy the agent's wife, who had been kind enough to accompany her husband and help on the work, succeeded in getting them to eat a portion of the food set before them, but not until they had been placed by themselves in a separate room. The foster parents arrived, kind, sympathetic people, well-to-do, and anxious to take the little ones home. But again the decree of fate seemed hard to bear. The children did not want to leave the agent and his wife, whom they had learned to know. They again cried piteously and as they went off to their new home, still sobbing, the agent's wife declared he would never go through such a trial again.

The Jameson raid in South Africa and subsequent events, touching the matter, have become of world-wide interest. Owing to the fact that our countryman, Hon. Edward Blake, one of our greatest statesmen, is acting on the Parliamentary Committee appointed to enquire into the circumstances which resulted in Jameson's raid, Canadians feel something like a local interest in the matter, and the people of Peterborough no doubt will feel a little pardonable pride from the fact that they are to be the first audience in the new world having an opportunity of seeing these beautiful coloured views, which comprise over sixty, of the most thrilling scenes of this historical event. The entertainment will also consist of vocal and instrumental music. Reserved seats 50c, general admission 35c. Plan of hall at Sallsbury & Co's.

DETECTIVES AFTER THE ILLICIT STILLS.

TWO SEIZURES WERE MADE LAST NIGHT.

But the Owners State They can Satisfactorily Explain the Presence of the Apparatus on Their Premises—The Citizens Considerably Interested Over the Matter.

No little interest was excited in town as well as the village of Ashburnham, to-day over the result of the visit to town of Inland Revenue Inspector Floody, of Toronto, who, together with County Constable George Cochrane, visited the residences of a number of the citizens of the two corporations in search of illicit stills, last night.

Two seizures were made. One in the residence of Mr. Wm. Faint, the well-known Ashburnham woollen manufacturer, and the other on Mr. —— Cook's premises, also in the village.

AFTER MAKING THE SEIZURES of the apparatus and removing it, Mr. Floody left for Toronto to make his report. No arrests were made in connection with the matter, and as the stills are constantly used in connection with the distillation of liquids, other than intoxicants, it is probable that in the two cases mentioned the seizures will prove unwarranted.

Mr. Faint uses distilled liquids constantly in his business and his apparatus has recently been used by Mr. James McClelland, who has been ill and forced to use distilled water. Mr. Faint will, of course, be able to explain to the satisfaction of the Inland Revenue Officers the reason for being in possession of the apparatus.

In the case of Mr. Cook, he denies all knowledge of the apparatus, which was found inside a boiler in the room occupied by his son. The possession of the still is said to lie between the latter and his brother-in-law. The latter is a baker and is said to have used the still in connection with his business.

IT HAS OFTEN

been rumoured that whiskey was illicitly distilled in the county, and it appears that detectives from the Inland Revenue Department have been working over the territory for some time. If their efforts have met with no better reward than the two above mentioned seizures it would appear as though their time had been spent without result.

Mr. Faint and Mr. McClelland both being pronounced temperance men, the fact of their being accused of operating a still on their premises is considered preposterous, and has occasioned a great deal of amusement among their friends.

To the unitiated a "still" would be passed over as nothing of any consequence, its compass being so small. The whole apparatus consists of a covered quart copper can, which is filled with the "mash." Out of the top of this runs a small tube, which collects the steam and carries it through a pail of cold water, finally conducting it into another small utensil. The fact of having the apparatus on the premises in reality proves nothing, but the sale of distilled intoxicating liquor would result in a heavy penalty being imposed.

ACCIDENT ON THE C. P. R.

Brakesman Adams Badly Injured This Morning.

As a freight train from the west pulled into Pontypool this morning, just ahead of the east bound C.P.R. express due here at noon, Brakesman Adams, of Toronto Junction, slipped whilst descending from the top of the car, and catching in the brakes was dragged some distance before the train was stopped. He was removed from his perilous position by Mr. Staunton, the postmaster of Pontypool, and Mr. John Hodge, the well known commercial traveller.

The unfortunate man was found to have suffered shocking injuries. His right arm was broken and his left leg was laid open with a huge gash, which parted the flesh to the bone from the hip to the knee.

A number of smaller injuries were also received from which the blood flowed copiously. It is feared that the internal organs are also injured through the accident.

Mr. Adams was at once removed to the Nicholls Hospital on the arrival of the train in Peterborough, where his wounds were dressed during the afternoon. The attending physician cannot yet determine the seriousness of his injuries.

JUSTICE MEREDITH ILL.

The Spring Assizes Adjourned Till To-morrow Morning on This Account.

The Grand and Petit Jurors were summoned for business at one o'clock this afternoon, but at that hour Sheriff Hall appeared and after getting the jurors to answer to their names, stated that court would not be formally opened until to-morrow morning at ten o'clock.

The reason for this course of proceeding is that Justice Meredith is ill and unable to attend. It is expected that His Honour, Sir W. R. Meredith will preside to-morrow.

Mr. D. O'Connell is acting for both the plaintiffs, Thos. and Hessie Gray, in their respective actions against J. Graham Weir.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Appleby is convalescing and is able to be out again.

Rev. H. Symonds is in Brantford to-day attending the Grand Lodge, Sons of England, which opens to-day.

Mr. H. M. McCutcheon, of the Big Six Gold and Copper Mining Company, is in town for a day or so with the intention of establishing a representative in Peterborough.

Miss Lillian Cassidy has returned home after an extended visit to her aunts, Mrs. Bernard J. McCauley and Mrs. H. J. Dillon, of Merrill, Michigan. During her stay she also visited her cousin, Rev. Father M. J. Regan, of St. Francis De Sales church, Toledo, Ohio.

STONY LAKE NOTES.

On Saturday Mr. Robt. Miles, a farmer of North Dummer, aged about forty years, met with a serious accident, which may yet have fatal results. He was working in Mr. John Newall's woods, and with Mr. Newall was engaged in loosening the roots of a tree that had been partially uprooted. When one of the main roots was cut the tree rolled over and crushed Mr. Miles between a large root and the hard ground. He was caught about the chest, and though no bones were broken he received, it is feared, bad internal injuries. He was taken to his home on a bed. Dr. Couch of Warsaw is attending to his injuries.

Everything is very dull here amongst the farmers.

One good thing is that the general health is good, and there is hardly any sickness.

The prospects are that this will be a good season for maple sugar making. The frost is deep in the ground, which, the knowing ones say, promises a good flow of sap. The snow is about eight inches deep in the woods.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

Rink Talk and Items of Local and General Interest to Sportsmen.

CURLIANA.

The points competition was played off last evening among the Thistles with the following result:

	First end.	Second end.	Total.
W G Ferguson	11	10	21
S Ray	13	14	27
G Fitzgerald	15	14	29
J A Cameron	11	6	17
C Rutherford	14	17	31
J Stanger	15	14	29
O N Brown	17	15	32
J S Knapman	10	14	24
D Belleghem	20	15	35
A McNeil	11	10	21
A Blade	13	12	25
Geo Ames	11	12	23
R Kerr	14	11	25
Geo Brown	17	15	32
J Battle	14	16	30
H LeBrun	19	15	27

Messrs. W. E. Leeh and G. Giroux were the scorers.

It was an off night amongst the curlers and the ice was not any too good, which will account for the small scores made. Last year Mr. Sam Ray scored 44 points and won the provincial medal.

The two rinks of Colts which won the Midland Colts' Association trophy, are anxious to test their skill against any two veteran rinks in the club. The challenge is an open one, and all who apply will be accommodated.

Messrs. G. E. Whiten and W. L. Allen have been awarded the two set of stones won at the Lindsay bonspell. The stones were won, it will be remembered, by the rinks skipped by Messrs. R. S. Davidson and H. M. Allen, who were the runners up in the double rink competition. The two rinks played off against each other for possession of the prize, and that of Mr. Allen won. The members of his rink then played off amongst themselves, the skip and lead playing the second and vice, resulting as follows:

Geo Giroux, G E Whiten,
H M Allen, skip .....6 W L Allen, skip 20

It looks very much as though Lindsay after winning almost every competition entered into this year would eventually have to lower its colours to Peterborough.

The second round of the annual six rink match for the Peterborough-Lindsay cup was played off yesterday with the following result:

At Lindsay—

Lindsay.		Peterborough.
J D Flavelle, sk	22	T P Attrill, sk	12
W Needler, sk	18	G W Hatton, sk	16

At Peterborough—

Lindsay.		Peterborough.
M W Kennedy, sk.	16	G J Hopkins, sk	22
J A McMillan, sk	11	T Rutherford, sk	25
W Wallace, sk	12	S Ray, sk	25
	40		100

This leaves Peterborough 10 shots ahead.

As Mr. J. Connal was unable to get up to Lindsay yesterday, he went up to-day by arrangement with his rink. Peterborough is ten shots ahead and "Jimmy" has only to hold his own and victory comes this way.

We congratulate Mr. Charles Kerr, Cobourg, upon his joining the rising firm of Ryckman & Kirkpatrick, of Toronto, which is doing a large legal business. The new firm will be known as Ryckman, Kirkpatrick & Kerr. All three members of the firm are well-known and rising men. Mr. Ryckman is a son of Rev. Dr. Ryckman; Mr. Kirkpatrick is a son of the Lieutenant-Governor, and Mr. Charles Kerr is the second son of Mr. Wm. Kerr, Q.C., Cobourg, and brother of Mr. F. D. Kerr, Peterborough.

HOCKEY.

The hockey men from the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co. ran up against the hardware team last night, and ran up against them so hard that the ambulance was kept busy all evening conveying the fragments of the respective sevens to the hospitals. The teams were composed as follows:

Wm. Hamilton Co.		Hardware.
M McPhaddea	goal	G White
C McFarlane	point	J Brown
R Bradburn	cover point	M Comstock
C Fitzgerald	forwards	B Watt
G Dawson		M Callahan
W Garrow		C Dumble
E Hall		T Burnham

Harry King—Referee.

The result of the game was announced as 5—4 in favour of the hardy lads from the foundry, but the "Puttles" claim that the umpire, who gave the deciding game to their opponents, was crooked. The foundry lads say "nit" to this claim. Another match would settle the difficulty.

SKATING.

The managers of the Victoria Rink, Havelock, are going to hold a big skating carnival, which, from present prospects promises to totally eclipse anything of the kind ever held in the county. A large number of races have been arranged for, and judging from the entries already received, the races will be as fast as any held in the province. Some of the entries already received are:—Green and Dixon, Smith's Falls; Pilkie, Toronto; Bell and Jackson, Peterborough; McAuley, Carey and McGuire, Havelock; and a number of others. Just before the doors open there will be a grand street parade which will be worth going miles to see.

Broke the Combination.

Bromer is a successful business man and Dromer is his friend. On occasions they stay out later at night than is absolutely necessary, and then they get together as soon as convenient to compare notes on what happened at home. Not long since they went to the theatre while ostensibly busy at their respective offices.

"Bromer," said Dromer the next day, "your wife has often told me that you talk in your sleep. Are you sure that you never give yourself away, and sometimes throw me in?"

"You'll never hear any more about my sleep-talking, old man. It was the best scheme I ever had, and now it's busted. One night when we were first married, I pretended to be asleep, just as a joke, and muttered a few words. My wife's ear was near my lips in an instant, and she was asking me whether I ever loved anyone as much as I did her, if I didn't wish I was single again, and a lot of other stuff in the same vein. Of course my answers were highly satisfactory, and she was sure that no man could lie in his sleep. Ever since I have kept up the delusion. After being out late I would soon begin to snore and then the examination would open. Of course I was always detained on business, and so anxious to get home that I often quit when I should have kept right on working. She was just as happy as though everything I told her was the Gospel truth. I worked the same old racket last night."

"Good."

"Good nothing. She was at the theatre last night with a friend that just came in from the country. She saw us both there and saw us trailing in and out between acts. She questioned me just as usual, and now we're not speaking."

Happy Men.

Happy, contented men, on whose faces no frown ever appears, are they whose mothers, wives and daughters use the Diamond Dyes for domestic dyeing.

The colouring over of old, faded and dingy looking garments is so easy and the results so magnificent, that the joy of the women is always shared by the men.

Happy, well-regulated homes, presided over by wise women, are the homes where Diamond Dyes are prized.

Rich, bright, pure and fast colours are always obtained when Diamond Dyes are used. When buying from your dealer see that he gives you the "Diamond," they are first and best.

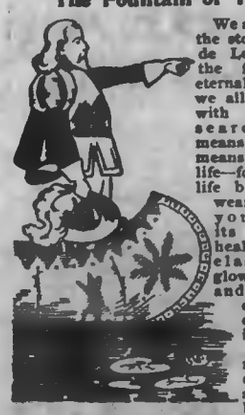
The Fountain of Youth.



We all remember the story of Ponce de Leon seeking the fountain of eternal youth; and we all sympathise with him in his search. Youth means so much. It means more than life—for sometimes life becomes a weariness. But youth—with its abounding health and vigor, elastic step, glowing cheeks, and sparkling eyes—we all covet genuine youth.

The weakness or disease which ages people before their time, is not the result of accumulated years; it is the effect of wrong living and unhealthy blood. When the blood is pure and fresh the body will be full of youth.

Thousands of people who seemed to have lost their youth by disease and suffering have found it again through the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the most perfectly natural and scientific rejuvenator of the physical forces ever known to medical science.

It gives the blood-making organs power to make new blood, full of the life-giving red corpuscles which drive out disease, build up fresh tissue, solid muscular flesh and healthy nerve force. It gives constitutional power, deep and full and strong; rounds out hollow cheeks and emaciated forms; gives plumpness, color and animation.

It does not make flabby fat like cod liver oil. On this account, it is a perfect tonic for corpulent people.

It aids digestion and the natural action of the liver, and by feeding the nerves with highly vitalized blood banishes nervousness, neuralgia and insomnia.

Where a constipated condition exists, the "Discovery" should be used in conjunction with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which are the most perfect, mild and natural laxative in the world. There is nothing else "just as good." There is nothing that will do the work so thoroughly, surely and comfortably.

PAPAL DELEGATE FOR CANADA.

Mgr. Merrydoival Has Been Chosen for the Mission and Got His Instructions From the Pope Yesterday.

DR. HUGH JOHNSTON,

Formerly of Toronto, Preached the First Sermon to Mr. McKinley After His Inauguration as President.

Washington, March 7.—President McKinley's Sunday in the White House was a quiet one. No callers were received, and the President had an opportunity of resting from the fatigues of the week. He arose much later than usual, much refreshed from a hard day's work on Saturday. Breakfast was served at 9 o'clock. At 10 o'clock he prepared for church, and, accompanied by his mother, attended services at the Metropolitan M.E. Church. As the President's intention had been announced, the crowd was very large, and the President and his venerable mother had considerable trouble in reaching the church vestibule. The President was shown to what is called the Presidential pew. The other occupants were his mother, Abner McKinley, his brother and private Secretary and Mrs. Porter. Rev. Dr. Johnston, the pastor, formerly of Canada, opened the services by prayer, and Bishop John P. Newman of Omaha, Neb., formerly the pastor of this church when Grant was President, preached the sermon. The sacred edifice was crowded, and many could not gain admittance. When the distinguished party left the church the crowd was so great that the police had to clear the way.

As the President passed with his mother the crowd cheered, and the President doffed his hat several times. Entering the carriage the party drove at once to the White House.

Mrs. McKinley, the President's wife, was so fatigued that she could not attend church.

After returning to the Executive mansion the President remained within doors until afternoon, when he took a short walk with a friend, returning from which he spent the remainder of the day with the members of his family.

THE WOMEN TOO.

Back Talk Not Man's Monopoly.

Mrs. Jemima Cole, Havelock, told the following wonderful story:—"For a great many years I have suffered from disease of the kidneys. The pains in my back and side were sometimes excruciating.

"My limbs were so swollen that I could scarcely lift my feet from the floor, and I was in great agony nearly all the time. I thought that I would surely die from the pain.

"I have taken dozens of advertised remedies, but got no better during their use. I was also treated by several doctors, but am sorry to say they did me little or no good. In fact they stated that they could do me no good, which made me despair of ever getting better.

"When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised I sent to W. H. Jeff & Co's. drugstore and got a box thinking I would try them as a last resort.

"The change from the start was very great and now after one month I am free from all pain. The swelling has gone down and I feel quite strong and healthy.

"I was also troubled with rheumatism and neuralgia which have completely disappeared, thanks to the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. In fact I do not think there is a medicine in the world that in such a short time could have taken me from the almost dying condition in which I was to the healthy and vigorous state that I am in now.

"I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for their wonderful virtues in curing kidney troubles."

TRANSVAAL AFFAIRS.

Mr. Chamberlain Says President Kruger Must Yield.

RELATIONS VERY MUCH STRAINED

The Transvaal Alien Act Contravenes the Treaty and Must be Withdrawn—Lord Wolseley Would Undertake to Whip the Boers With 20,000 Men—Kruger is Unmoved.

London, March 6.—As though the crisis in the near East was not enough, everything indicates that Mr. Chamberlain is taking a very strong line with the Transvaal. Many Ministerialists affirm that he has sent a plain intimation to President Kruger that the Transvaal Aliens Act contravenes the convention of 1884, and must be withdrawn. President Kruger's action in degrading the High Court into the mere tool of the Executive, forms another grave cause of Uitlander complaint. Ministerialists, indeed, assert that Lord Wolseley has been called upon for an estimate of force necessary to enforce British views, and that he has declared that 20,000 men could conquer the Transvaal. Things may not have gone so far as that. Mr. Cecil Rhodes' presence undoubtedly has stiffened Mr. Chamberlain's back. It was most marked at yesterday's South African Committee enquiry how friendly, almost diferential, was his cross-examination of Mr. Rhodes. Question after question was most cleverly designed to "exonerate the Chartered Company and Colonial Office from complicity in the raid, and to prove the grave provocation offered by the Boer treatment of the Uitlanders."

"Is it your opinion," asked Mr. Chamberlain, "that the present system of government of the Transvaal is a source of danger to the pace of South Africa?" Mr. Rhodes turned sharply round, and looking Mr. Chamberlain steadily in the face, blurted out: "What do you think?" with such emphasis on the word "you" that the committee burst into laughter. So Mr. Rhodes left the witness chair with bows and friendly smiles, and the enquiry loses half its interest for the public.

The Manchester Guardian says the relations between Great Britain and the Government of the Transvaal are very much strained, and that Mr. Chamberlain is anxious that the inevitable struggle between the two shall come as quickly as possible. In the meantime it is understood that President Kruger of the Transvaal Republic is unmoved, and is prepared to resist all interference on the part of England at all costs.

Rumored among persons within the Ministerial circles that Mr. Chamberlain, Colonial Secretary, has sent an emphatic intimation to President Kruger of the South African Republic, that the Aliens' Act, which is in operation in the Transvaal, is in contravention of the provisions of the London convention of 1884, and must be withdrawn.

HIGH COURT IN REVOLT.

TRIED BAUER'S GAME.

Alonzo J. Whiteman, Once a State Senator of Wisconsin, Charged With Slippery Work.

New York, March 6.—Alonzo J. Whiteman, ex State Senator of the Wisconsin Legislature, and at one time one of the most prominent and wealthy men in Duluth, was arrested to-day, charged with grand larceny in the first degree, in having obtained $580 from the Columbia Bank of this city under false pretences.

Whiteman, it is charged, went to the bank on Feb. 20 and signed an application for a transfer to the bank, and a deposit to his order of $3716.21, which Whiteman said he had on deposit in the National City Bank of Brooklyn. Whiteman went to the bank again on Feb. 23, and, it is said, drew $580 against the transferred account. Shortly afterward it was found that Whiteman had had no account in the Brooklyn Bank.

In default of bail he was committed to the Tombs. At one time Whiteman was well known among capitalists in this city. He used to make frequent trips from Duluth, and was well received in social circles. His wealth disappeared when the Duluth boom collapsed.

AT THE CANADIAN COLLEGE.

Right Rev. Bishop Keane's Quarters in Rome—Future Intentions.

Rome, March 6.—The Right Rev. John J. Keane, formerly rector of the Catholic University at Washington, has definitely settled at the Canadian College in this city. At the last reception held by the Pope, His Holiness asked Bishop Keane when he would take possession of the Church of St. John Lateran, to which he was recently appointed. The Bishop replied that he would probably assume the duties of the office on March 7. In addition to his appointment as canon of the Church of St. John Lateran, Bishop Keane has also received the appointments of Consultor of the Congregation of the Propaganda Fide and the Congregation of Studies.

A SPECIFIC
—FOR—
La Grippe, for Colds, Coughs,
AND LUNG TROUBLES,
AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally, my husband,—reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,—procured, for me, a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, whenever we have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMILY WOOD, North St., Elkton, Md.

Mrs. Brown threw her dresses around the child and soon smothered the fire. All that kind nursing and medical skill could do was done to relieve the little sufferer, but he succumbed at an early hour this morning.

A card on the outside of office door says —'Gone to lunch. Be back in ten minutes." And the man will be there on time. That is for some days, weeks or even months he will. Then he will be at home occasionally for a day. He'll tell you he had a headache, a turn of cholera morbus, or maybe he'll say he had a lump in his stomach and felt too miserable to move. The lump was probably two or three ten-minute lunches condensed.

MAKING A HORSE JOCKEY.

Much Painful Training to Undergo Before a Boy Is Fitted to Ride.

Among the many who are interested in racing, probably but few pay any thought to the pains and miseries undergone by that unfortunate, although much envied class of men, the jockeys. Some men—very few—are really born jockeys. They are of that small build which is essential for their work, they are blessed with a constitution that does not "run to fat," and at the same time they have the nerve and resolution necessary to their calling. Many lads, however, who by their "build" give promise of making good jockeys are, as they turn to manhood, cursed with the tendency to lay on flesh, but having once tasted the excitement and also, it may be, sniffed at the profits of a jockey's life, will not give it up without a struggle, notwithstanding the warning of the scales. To these the life is one of great misery, almost torture, from periods of gayety which are almost if not quite as dangerous to health as those during which the poor fellow has to do penance in sweating off the effects of his indiscretions. Probably no criminal to whom hard labor is meted out as a punishment undergoes such labor on such low diet as the jockey who is "wasting" himself so as to scale with another lucky fellow whose nature runs less to fat. In the hottest weather he piles on clothes and takes sharp walks. He labors hard, and the more he sweats the more he feels he has done his duty. Then comes the puzzle. After the labor there is appetite; after the sweating there is thirst—but the food must be strictly limited, and the drink must be for naught. The privation is horrible. Training for condition is bad enough, and has made many a good fellow throw athleticism to the dogs, but training for weight is a far greater infliction. There are so many pounds to be got off and so many days or weeks in which to do it. By physic, by sweating, by hard labor and by starvation it has got to be done, and that in a certain time.

As an instance of continuous self-denial there are few positions which will compare with that of a jockey when he is working himself down to scale. A man in ordinary condition hardly varies in weight from day to day, whatever he may eat or drink, and many men leading fairly irregular lives keep their weight almost without change for months, and even years. It is not so, however, when training has brought down the weight far below the natural level. Under such circumstances every cell in the body seems to be hungry and athirst, and moisture is sucked up as by blotting paper. Jockeys and trainers are wont to tell strange tales of the weight laid on as the result of small indiscretions, and it is gravely stated that a pint of stout imbibed by a thirsty "waster," is computed to put on three or four pounds! Of course, such things cannot be, and the laws of nature are not altered even for jockeys; nevertheless, it is certain that, when trained down to a certain pitch, any excess of fluid over a minimum which has been attained is not excreted, but goes entirely to the tissues, and thus to the increase of weight. It is unnecessary to point out how injurious to health it must be to play such pranks with the constitution over and over again. Health depends largely upon the maintenance of a due and orderly relation between the assimilative and the excretory functions, relations which are entirely perverted in the life of the jockey. At one period he derives his nutriment from food like the rest of mankind; and at others and for long spells he subsists largely upon his own tissues. Many break down under the strain, either in consequence of the fluids drunk being insufficient to enable the excretory organs to perform their functions properly or from the starvation telling on the nervous system before it affects their flesh, while others throw up the effort rather than continue the miserable system of starvation which is involved in keeping the scales on the right side.—Albany Journal.

Had Half the Prescription.

"Madam," said Weary Walker, with his inborn dignity less cropping out like the hair through his hat-crown, "my physician has ordered me to take a small wineglassful of French brandy on an empty stomach every morning before breakfast—"

"Well," she interrupted, briskly, "what have I to do with that?"

"Nothing, madam," returned the polite road-walker, with a far-away expression in his mild blue eyes, "excepting—I have the empty stomach."

A CHURCH JUBILEE.

Melville Presbyterian Church at Fergus Celebrates Its Fiftieth Anniversary —Crowds Turned Away.

Fergus, Ont., March 7.—To-day Melville Presbyterian Church celebrated its 50th anniversary by appropriate services.

In the morning at 11 o'clock Rev. Dr. McMullen, ex-moderator, and an old Fergus boy, preached an able and appropriate sermon. Dr. McMullen having connected himself with the church here nearly 50 years ago under the pastorate of the late Rev. Dr. Smellie, who for nearly half a century was pastor of Melville Church, it seemed fitting that he should occupy the pulpit to-day.

He recalled many pleasant reminiscences of the past, but few of the older ones were spared and present to enjoy the services to-day. At 3 p.m. Rev. Dr. Wardrobe addressed the children and young people in connection with the Sabbath school.

At 7 p.m. Rev. Principal MacVicar of Montreal occupied the pulpit and preached to a united congregation of Melville and St. Andrew's. The church was filled to overflowing, numbers having to be turned away, unable to get in.

At all the services subscriptions and contributions are voluntarily taken for the purpose of a building fund towards the erection of a new church, now in contemplation. A beautiful letter was read to the congregation from their former pastor, Rev. R. M. Craig of Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Brockville, March 1st—(Special)—Mr. W. H. Odell, perhaps one of the best known citizens of this town, has lately recovered from a long continued and painful kidney ailment. He tells the story of his experience to the correspondent as follows:

"I have suffered for over a year from kidney disease, the pain in my back being so severe that I was unable to stand to my work.

Noticing the published cures of what Dodd's Kidney Pills were doing for others, I concluded to try them.

"Having used only six boxes I can say that I am perfectly cured and well so that I can attend to business as well as ever I could."

TEN YEARS TROUBLED

With Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia—Suffered Greatly and Found No Relief in the Scores of Medicines Prescribed.

South American Nervine Was Recommended, and Before Half a Bottle Was Taken Relief Came.

Have Since Improved Rapidly, and Am Now Completely Cured—So says Mr. David Reid, of Chesley, Ont.

What ills come to humanity from a disordered liver! Henry Ward Beecher has said that it was impossible for a man to hold correct spiritual views if his liver was out of order. The liver is so important a part of the mechanism of man that when it ceases to work with ease the whole man is unable to do his work aright. Can we not appeal to thousands, nay, tens of thousands, for a verification of this fact? Certainly it is, that Mr. David Reid, of Chesley, Ont., felt that the enjoyment of life had been taken from him, through the unhealthy condition of his liver. For ten years he says he was troubled with liver complaint and dyspepsia. Employing his own language: "At times my liver was so tender I could not bear it pressed or touched from the outside. Had tried a great many remedies without any benefit. Was compelled to drop my work, and being worse than usual, I decided as a final resort to try South American Nervine, which had been recommended to me by friends who had been cured by it. I got a bottle from A. S. Goodeve, local druggist, and commenced taking according to directions. Before I had taken half a bottle I was able to go to work again, and I have improved steadily since. I can conscientiously recommend South American Nervine to any suffering from dyspepsia or liver complaint." This is Mr. Reid's story as he tells it in his own words. Were it thought necessary it could be corroborated by a host of witnesses. Mr. Reid has lived a long time in Chesley, and his case was known to be a very bad one. But that makes no difference to Nervine. This great discovery rises equal to the most trying occasions. Let it be indigestion, the most chronic liver trouble, as with Mr. Reid, nervous prostration, that makes life miserable with so many, sick headaches, that sap all the effort out of man or woman, Nervine measures to the necessities of the case. It is a great medicine and thousands to-day in Canada are happier and healthier men and women, because of its discovery. There is no great secret about it, and yet there is an important secret. It operates on the nerve centers of the system from which emanate all life and healthfulness, or if disordered, sickness, even death. Nervine strikes promptly at the nerve centers, hence, as with Mr. Reid, where ten years' use of other medicines had done no good, less than a bottle of Nervine brought about encouraging results, and a few bottles cured.

INVESTIGATION FIRES.

The Prevalence of Incendiarism Demands Effectual Measures.

In recommending, the other day, the appointment in Canada of an officer clothed with plenary powers similar to those of the Massachusetts Fire Marshall, for investigating causes of fires and prosecuting fire-raisers, the Monetary Times quoted some good results of that American official's efforts in reducing the number of incendiary fires in the State named. We also gave some reasons, such as the failure of the ordinary local modes or means of enquiry to locate "fire bugs," why it is necessary to appoint an officer who may summon whom he chooses and take testimony on oath. Also why it is desirable to investigate every fire, in order that carelessness may be rebuked and the public educated to the view that fire loss affects the whole community, and that, therefore, it is every man's duty to assist in reducing this serious form of waste.

Since the appearance of the article in question, we find that the subject of incendiarism and fire waste generally has been discussed at a meeting of the Mutual Fire Underwriters of Ontario. It also finds a place in the reports for 1896 of several of our insurance companies, notably the Hand-in-Hand and the Millers and Manufacturers. The former declares incendiarism to be increasing to an alarming extent and blames the prevailing haste to pay losses combined with careless adjustment, for producing the crop of fire-bugs recently unearthed. The latter company quotes the late Cornelius Walford, the well-known English insurance authority, upon the duty of every government to cause official enquiry to be made into the causes of fires. And it also gives several paragraphs from the report of Mr. Whitcomb, the State fire-marshal of Massachusetts. This address delivered before the Fire Underwriters' Association of the North-West in 1896, shows what was accomplished in Massachusetts in five years after the establishment of a State fire-marshal's office in 1889: For the period of five years after the establishment of the office, conviction for incendiarism increased over 400 per cent., and this in the face of a very material decrease in the number of incendiary fires. The annual percentage of incendiary and unknown fires was reduced from 38 per cent. to less than 5 per cent."

Such testimony to the utility of radical enquiry into the cause of every fire is of extreme value, and we trust that Canadian Governmental authorities may take cognizance of it. But this experience is not singular. Some sixty years ago, a sort of epidemic of incendiarism prevailed in Glasgow, Scotland. The sheriff began a systematic enquiry into the causes of all fires, and the fire-raising soon ceased. It is further to be borne in mind that the laws of Germany, France, Denmark and Russia require an official enquiry into the causes of fires, and insurance losses are not paid to suspected parties in those countries until such enquiry is concluded. There has thus been aroused, in half-a-dozen countries, a public sentiment against what a writer calls "this accursed species of criminal," the incendiary. And the example of other nations may well be followed by Canadians if they would reduce the frightful aggregate of loss this country suffers every year from incendiarism, negligence or "unknown causes."

While censuring United States insurance companies for too readily settling losses with parties against whom suspicion is aroused in connection with the burning of their property, Mr. Whitcomb deplores the prejudice of the ordinary jury against fire insurance companies. He avers, besides, that the public is deserving of a measure of blame in such cases, and thus indicates the duty of the community in the matter:

Let the public eradicate the false but popular impression that insurance companies are soulless, greedy and unfair corporations. Let it show the people that the insurance companies are merely the agents of this same public, charged with the disbursement of public funds, and that whenever an insurance company is defrauded or swindled the loss must eventually be paid by the public, and that every member of the community must bear, directly or indirectly, his share of the tax. Then, perhaps the people will begin to appreciate that the humblest labourer as well as the wealthy merchant, is interested in reducing the terrible fire waste, by which our municipal, state and national prosperity is being annually sapped.

Successful Playing.

Four-year-old Nell was visiting her aunt, and her big cousin dressed for the morning walk, stopped for a few minutes to entertain the little visitor.

Her efforts seemed in vain, however, until, picking up a mandolin, she played a simple melody. Nell listened in seeming entrancement, and, when the last note had been struck, the little one pleaded for a repetition. So the big cousin, not a little complimented, did so.

"Play it again," begged Nell when the piece was once more finished.

And "Play it again" she coaxed when the melody had been worn quite threadbare from constant repetition.

"You're very fond of music," said Cousin May patronisingly.

The little one shook her head. "No," she said, "but," and she laughed gleefully, "I love to watch you play—your plumes do bob up and down so funny."—New York World.

Government Officially Notified of His Appointment.

THE POPE'S PRIVATE SECRETARY

Will Start for Canada at Once to Investigate the School Difficulty—Queen's Jubilee Celebration at Ottawa Will be a Military One—Notes From the Capital.

Ottawa, March 8.—(Special.)—The Government has been officially apprised of the appointment of Mgr. Mery Del Val, private secretary to Pope Leo XIII., as ablegate to Canada. It came in the following message received late Saturday night:

"The Apostolic Delegate, Mgr. Mery Del Val, starts soon for Canada. The Pope desires it to be known that in despatching one so closely attached to his person he gives exceptional assurance of his special personal interest in the religious welfare of Canada. (Signed) C. Russell."

"Cardinal Rampolla desires me to inform you officially that a request has been forwarded to the bishops to suspend all action. (Signed) C. Russell."

On the 4th of March the following cable despatch was sent to Mr. Russell from the Dominion Government:

"Are we authorized to publish the message informing us that the bishops are instructed to suspend all action?"

To this the following answer was received:

"You are authorized to say that the bishops have been instructed to suspend all action, pending consideration of the issue. (Signed) C. Russell."

Then followed La Patrie's announcement last week.

Mgr. Mery Del Val is private secretary to His Holiness, and although a young man, 30 years old, stands high in the Vatican councils. He is by birth a Spaniard, but his mother was an English woman. The coming delegate is said to be a man of great scholastic attainments and diplomatic ability.

The Capital is to celebrate the great Jubilee by a big military demonstration on May 24th. It will be grandest military pageant ever witnessed in this city. The full garrison, including all the military organizations in the city, will be reviewed, and it is expected that a number of outside battalions will take part in the celebration. The troops will be reviewed by His Excellency the Governor-General, who will be attended by a galaxy of officers. The details have not been fully arranged as yet, but overtures will be made to the committee of citizens appointed at the request of His Worship Mayor Bingham to arrange for a local celebration with a view to securing their co-operation.

Profound regret was expressed in civil service circles to-day at the news of the death of Mr. J. B. Lynch, formerly accountant of the Agricultural Department at San Fernando, Cal., at the early age of 38 years. The deceased left Ottawa two years ago on account of ill-health and settled in Pueblo, Cal. Mr. Lynch came to Ottawa from Woodstock, N.B., where his parents still reside. He was employed for some time on the staff of the Auditor-General's Department before becoming accountant of the Agricultural Department. He also occupied, while in the latter branch, the position of inspector of quarantine stations, and was one of the best-informed men on quarantine matters in Canada. For a number of years he was President of St. Patrick's Literary Society of Ottawa and other Catholic bodies, but was esteemed and beloved for his sterling qualities and sunny nature by Protestants equally as by Catholics.

The funeral of William Smith, ex-Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries, took place this afternoon. There was a large attendance, including the entire staff of the Marine and Fisheries Department, headed by Minister Davies. Among others present were Sir C. H. Tupper and Sir James Grant.

Peter Brown, a city contractor, took carbolic acid yesterday in place of medicine, and is now in a precarious condition.

Messrs. J. A. McMillan, C. R. Cunningham and John Henderson, commissioners for Knox Church, left for Mount Forest to-night to extend the call to Knox Church pulpit to Rev. Mr. Ramsay. It is expected that Mr. Ramsay will accept. The Ottawa Presbytery will meet to-morrow morning to extend the call and it will be forwarded by telegraph to Mount Forest.

It is reported that Samuel St. Orme Chapleau, Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, has been appointed assistant Clerk of the House of Commons in place of Mr. Rouleau, superannuated, combining with the duties those of his present office.

The Government is advised that one of the largest freight vessels afloat will ply to Montreal the coming summer.

A. F. Jury, the newly-appointed immigration agent at Liverpool, was in town receiving his instructions. He does not know the date of his departure.

A Croupy Cough was soon Driven Away By Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine.

"My little boy had a bad croupy cough," says Mrs. Smith, of 256 Bathurst street, Toronto. "My neighbor, Mrs. Hopkins, recommended me to try Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. I did so, and the first dose did him good. One bottle completely cured the cold. It is surprising, the popularity of Chase's syrup in this neighborhood. It appears to me it can be found in every house."

North Ontario Conservatives so Decided Yesterday at Beaverton and Put Up the Money for the Purpose.

Beaverton, Ont., March 8.—A large meeting of the Liberal-Conservatives of Thorah, Mara and Beaverton was held in Alexandria Hall, Beaverton, this afternoon. Addresses were delivered by Philip McCrea, chairman; Hugh Wilson and W. H. Hoyle, Cannington; Major Sam Hughes of Lindsay, Robert Birmingham of Toronto; W. S. Bell, Thomas Treleaven of Beaverton, and others.

The following committee reported favorably on entering a protest against the return of the Reform candidate: Messrs. George S. Proctor, Thomas Treleaven, T. C. Hodgkinson and Jas. Duncan of Beaverton; D. Gillespie, Alex. McRea, T. Hodgkinson, W. Osborne, Thomas Francis, Peter McDougall and Alex McNeill of Thorah; and Philip McCrea, D. Bruce, H. Furniss, T. Morgan, Joseph Clutchey and W. McEachern of Mara, and the necessary funds were promptly raised. Resolutions were adopted, congratulating Queen Victoria on her long and prosperous reign, condemning the conduct of Government officers in the recent recount, pledging loyalty to Angus McLeod, expressing confidence in Sir Charles Tupper, Dominion leader; Hon. John Haggart, Dominion leader for Ontario; J. P. Whitney, leader of the local Conservative Opposition in Ontario, and Major Sam Hughes, M.P., chairman for the Midland Counties district.

The work of organization was also discussed. A telegram from George McCormick, M.P., from Orillia, was read, regretting that the serious illness of his wife prevented his attendance.

The Year's Losses by Fire.

New York, March 8.—The Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin will say to-morrow: The fire loss of the United States and Canada for the month of February shows a total of $8,676,750 as compared with $9,730,100 for the same month last year. The first loss for 1897 so far, is very close to the figures for the same period of 1896. March has opened up very expensively and it is not unlikely that the record for the first quarter will exceed that for the first three months of 1896.

AN OLD CAMPAIGN LIE

Set at Rest by Premier Hardy in the Legislature.

A STRICTLY BUSINESS SITTING.

Reduction in the Number of Town Councillors—Passing the Estimates Amid Carpings and Cavillings by the Opposition—A Discussion on the Forestry Bureau.

Toronto, March 9.—To-day's sitting of the Legislature was a strictly business one, solid progress being made with many of the measures in hand. Something like a dozen bills were introduced, mostly private measures, among those of general interest being bills by Mr. St. John to abolish the judgment summons in Division Courts, by Mr. Magwood to amend the Public Libraries Act, and by Mr. Currie to amend the law respecting the Registration of Deaths.

On opening the Atty-General asked the privilege of the House to make some remarks about an article which had appeared in The Toronto Mail and Empire in reference to his appointment of relatives to office under the Government.

The Premier stated that this was the same old story which had been used in the last campaign. It had been refuted once before and therefore The Mail was not speaking in ignorance. In the first place, he had no father in the London Asylum; his father had been dead 10 years. He had no son in the Crown Lands Department, and no niece in the Orillia Asylum. Neither had he a sister in the Hamilton Asylum, nor a cousin in the license branch. It was true he had a cousin, but not a nephew in the Education Department, but the latter had been in the employ of the Government before he (the speaker) had entered Parliament. He was a son of Rev. Thomas Jeffers and a nephew of Dr. Jeffers. Miss Hardy, a matron of the Orillia Asylum, had been employed there for over 15 years, and now received a paltry $450 per year. Miss Parker, of the Hamilton Asylum, spoken of as his sister, was a sister of one of Sir Oliver Mowat's oldest and most staunch supporters. True, he had a relative in the Crown Lands Department, H. Ryerson Hardy by name, but he was not certain which of the two names, Ryerson or Hardy, had had the most influence in putting him there. [Laughter.] He thought it might be the first name. [Renewed laughter.]

Mr. Hardy concluded, amid applause from Liberal and Patron benches.

MARRIED WOMAN'S PROPERTY A

The Attorney-General's bill to amend the Maried Woman's Property Act was read a second time, the mover explaining that among other changes it provided that the will of a woman should speak from her death as in other cases, so that it should apply to property acquired subsequently to the time it bore date.

REDUCTION OF TOWN COUNCILS.

The Attorney-General moved the second reading of the bill respecting Town Councils. He explained its provisions at length, pointing out that the object was the reduction of the size of town councils in the smaller towns. It was proposed that the council of every town having a population over 4000 according to the last Canadian census, shall consist of a mayor and of two councillors to be elected by general vote, and of two councillors for each ward, to be elected by the vote of the electors of each ward. The council of towns having a population under 4000 shall consist of a mayor and six councillors to be elected by general vote. In incorporated villages there are to be four councillors elected by general vote, and in townships four councillors to be elected by general vote, where the township was not divided into wards, otherwise one to be chosen from each ward. He said that the principle of electing councillors by general vote had been introduced to render possible the representation of minorities, it having been urged, on behalf of Catholics and labor men that by a system under which only one would be elected from each ward, these classes would be unable to secure representatives.

A general discussion followed. Mr. Whitney expressed his approval of the principle of reducing the number of municipal representatives. Mr. Haycock would favor a system under which councillors would be chosen for three years, retiring in rotation. Mr. Howland chimed in with the general sentiment that a reduction was desirable. Mr. Matheson did not see that the reduction of the number of Toronto aldermen had raised the character of the council. Mr. Meacham endorsed the idea of minority representation. The burden of Mr. Magwood's remarks was that things were very well as at present. Mr. Kerns said that the bill was a move in the right direction. The bill was read a second time.

AUDITING MUNICIPAL ACCOUNTS.

The Attorney-General's bill to make better provision for the keeping and auditing of municipal and school accounts was next taken up. Its adoption was urged by the Premier on the ground of the frequent defalcations and irregularities which occurred among local officials. He briefly recapitulated its provisions and stated that he would move the addition of a clause, making the production of books by officials compulsory. Another addition he proposed to make was to authorize municipal councils to provide that the money should be deposited in a chartered bank.

Mr. Whitney took exception to the power given to a provincial official to go to any municipality and institute an inspection of their books, or to appoint a substitute to do his work, who might not be qualified.

Mr. Meacham was afraid these powers might be abused for party purposes.

Mr. Howland thought it would be desirable if some investigation were made as to whether the municipalities were arranging to meet their debentures by sinking funds, according to the conditions set forth when loans were contracted.

Mr. Reid of Addington denounced centralization and thought the county councils should appoint auditors.

Hon. J. M. Gibson said the evil was so flagrant that some remedy was loudly called for and he was surprised at Mr. Reid's suggestion in view of the fact that it was the laxity and improper appointments made by the county councils. The greatest preventive of looseness was the provision that an audit might be made at any time.

Mr. Kerns would have competent auditors appointed by the county councils, who, in addition to auditing municipal accounts, should audit those of the agricultural societies.

The bill was read a second time.

THE FORESTRY BUREAU.

The House went into Committee of Supply.

Mr. Matheson objected to the appropriation of $2400 for the Clerk of Forestry and contended that the office was of no practical benefit and should be abolished.

Hon. J. M. Gibson said the money spent in collecting information in connection with forestry was well spent and he knew of no report containing more useful and interesting intelligence than that of the Clerk of Forestry. If any scheme involving large expenditure was to be undertaken they must have the information on which to act. In the United States the subject was also being made a subject of Government concern. The Clerk of Forestry earned his salary fully and faithfully.

Mr. Whitney wanted to know what the duties of the Clerk of Forestry were, in reply to which Hon. J. M. Gibson made a general explanation, and the Attorney-General gave some details as to important investigations which had been undertaken by the Clerk of Forestry, after which the item passed.

After recess the consideration of the estimates was resumed, the leading members of the Opposition keeping up a running fire of criticism as the various items under the head of Civil Government were passed, on the ground that reductions ought to have been made, but offering no serious objection. Full explanations were made by the Ministers to any items which were questioned. It was pointed out that in several departments the business showed a steady increase, while the total amounts appropriated for salaries had not advanced.

The items under the heads of Civil Government and Administration of Justice were passed.

PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS.

The education estimates stood over at the request of the Opposition and the items under the head of Maintenance of Public Institutions were taken up. The estimates for the Toronto Insane Asylum were subjected to a close scrutiny. In explaining the items for supplies, Hon. Treasurer Harcourt assured the House that whenever it was possible to do so they would procure supplies by tender. Mr. Haycock very persistently questioned the Government as to the items of feed and fodder for stock at the various institutions. He took occasion to say that he had visited the London Asylum—"I wonder you got away," interjected the Attorney-General, and the House roared.

On the item of $5800, fuel for the Orillia Idiot Asylum, reduced from $12,000 last year, Hon. Mr. Davis explained that by the adoption of a new system of heating they were enabled to reduce fuel expenses by burning coal screening in place of coal. They expected to effect a considerable saving in this way in the Central Prison.

When the item of the Penetanguishene Reformatory was reached, Mr. Matheson protested that the appropriation of $31,930 was too large. Hon. J. M. Gibson replied, pointing out that the institution was not a prison, but a school and good work was required of the officials. The number of the inmates had been reduced, but it was not possible to cut down the staff proportionately. In reply to Mr. Whitney as to the results of the training, the Commissioner said they were most gratifying, the number of the inmates who relapsed into crime being very small, while a large percentage turned out well. Mr. Matheson still thought that $240 per inmate was rather too much for the province to pay. Hon. Mr. Davis, on the authority of the chaplain, said that from 60 to 65 per cent. of the inmates became respectable citizens.

HOSPITALS AND CHARITIES.

The items under the heads of Public Institution Maintenance and Immigration having passed, Hospitals and Charities were taken up, Mr. Matheson brought up a story published by The Ottawa Journal about Dr. Chamberlain, Prison Inspector, to the effect that he had threatened a hospital in that city with the withdrawal of the Government grant. He asked if the Inspector had power to withdraw a grant. The Attorney-General replied that the Inspector had no such power, but it was his duty to report as to whether the conditions under which Government grants were given were fulfilled. Dr. Chamberlain had denied over his own signature the statements of the affair that had been published. The item passed and the House rose.

JAMESON'S RAID.

The South Africa Committee Takes Further Evidence in London.

London, March 9.—The South African Committee appointed by the House of Commons to inquire into the Jameson raid in the Transvaal resumed its sittings in Westminster Hall to-day. The examination of Cecil Rhodes, ex-Premier of the Cape Colony, having been concluded at the last sitting, public interest in the proceedings fell off, as was apparent from the small attendance of spectators to-day. Sir Graham J. Bower, formerly secretary to the Governor-General of the Cape Colony, was called to the stand and testified that in his opinion a Transvaal Government controlled by the capitalists at Johannesburg would be practically worse for British interests than a government controlled by President Kruger. He was certain that Dr. Jameson's raid was a surprise to Mr. Rhodes, who seemed crushed when informed of it and said to the witness that he felt that he must resign his office of Premier in consequence of it.

BRUTALITY PUNISHED.

Even the Interposition of Sir Donald Smith Was of No Avail.

London, March 9.—The efforts of Sir Donald A. Smith, the Canadian High Commissioner in London, to secure the release of Mate Amos, of Nova Scotia, of the British ship George T. Hay, who was brought to London on Jan. 8, charged with causing the death of a seaman named Brostrom by ill-treatment during a voyage from Mobile, Ala., to Rio de Janeiro, and who was found guilty of common assault only on Feb. 10, have failed. The Home Secretary declined to interfere with the sentence of two months' imprisonment imposed upon Amos at the Winchester Assizes on Feb. 21, for brutally ill-treating and wounding two sailors, who joined the George T. Hay at Mobile, Ala.

France is Delaying

Paris, March 9.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day M. Millerand, Socialist, again interpellated the Government regarding the Cretan question, and the action to be taken by France in view of the refusal of Greece to heed the ultimatum of the powers. Prime Minister Meline and M. Hanotaux asked that consideration of the subject be deferred until Thursday, and this was agreed to by the Chamber by a vote of 343 to 206.

They are Full of Fight.

New York, March 9.—The probability that war will be declared against Greece has aroused the Grecian residents of this city to a high pitch of excitement. Since the publication of Consul-General Rotassi's call for reserves the enthusiasm has been intensified at numerous meetings held by the natives of Greece. More than a thousand men have already responded to the call, and have signified their willingness to enter the Grecian army if their passage is paid across the sea. The feasibility of chartering a steamer to carry the patriots to Athens has been considered, and arrangements have been made to take 500 men to that city at $24 each. Mr. Botassi was unable to say to-day whether that number of men could be secured to sail this week, but an effor will be made to get as many as are willing to go.

Russia Pursuing Greece.

London, March 9.—The Chronicle will to-morrow publish a despatch from Athens, saying that the kernel of the situation is that "Russia is pursuing Greece with a terrible vindictiveness that it is impossible to explain. It is stated, however, that Russia realizes that Millions of Greek Christians in the East yield religious allegiance only to the Greek patriarch at Constantinople, which is a serious bar to Russia's plans. M. Muravieff, the Russian Foreign Minister, is anxious to remove this bar by humiliating Greece and destroying her influence with the patriarch.

BRAM MUST DIE.

The Note of the Failer Sentenced to be Hanged June 18—He Protests His Innocence.

Boston, March 9.—Thomas M. Bram, the convicted murderer of Captain Nash of the barquentine Herbert Fuller, was this afternoon, in the United States Circuit Court, sentenced to be hanged on Friday, June 18. Bram said in court: "In the presence of Almighty God, I am innocent of the crime with which I am charged. God knows it, and He will protect me."

SPAIN WINS A VICTORY.

General Zabalia Was Killed, But His Men Went Forward and Won the Battle.

Madrid, March 9.—A despatch received here from Manila confirms the report of the capture of the town of Salibran in the Philippine Islands by the Government troops. General Zabalia of the Spanish forces was killed while leading the attack upon the insurgent position. The Spanish lost 10 killed and 30 wounded, and the insurgents had 76 killed.

This it accomplishes because with its wonderful power as a blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla gently tones and strengthens the stomach and digestive organs, invigorates the liver, creates an appetite, gives refreshing sleep, and raises the health tone. In cases of dyspepsia and indigestion it seems to have "a magic touch."

with severe pains across my shoulders, and great distress. I had violent nausea which would leave me very weak and faint, difficult to get my breath. These spells came oftener and more severe. I did not receive any lasting benefit from physicians, but found such happy effects from a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I took several bottles and mean to always keep it in the house. I am now able to do all my own work, which for six years I have been unable to do. My husband and son have also been greatly benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla — for pains in the back, and after the grip. I gladly recommend this grand blood medicine." MRS. LICENSE ACT AMENDMENTS.

No little comment, of an adverse character, has been excited over the proposed amendments to the Liquor License Act, and in the newness of zeal, the criticisms have not been of the fairest or most temperate character. There is abundant room, however, for difference of opinion on the subject. Last Sunday night Rev. A. F. McGregor, President of the Provincial Christian Endeavour Society, preached a sermon on the subject at Woodstock, in which he pointed out in language of unmistakeable plainness, the unfair criticisms and the intemperate language employed in dealing with the proposed bill, and pointed out, at the same time, the inconsistency comprised in the remark of one speaker at a Toronto meeting, which led to the plain inference that the temperance people were to blame for a condition for which the Government was blamed. The preacher also contrasted the statement that "the Ontario Government had gone completely over and surrendered to the liquor party," with the fact that the Hotel Keepers' Protective Association of Hamilton had met and condemned the different clauses of the proposed Liquor License amendments, and the preacher inquired:

"In all common sense, if the Ontario Government had gone over to the liquor party why do we read that the liquor party was complaining bitterly? In the name of reason where was the justice for such statements as these by men who stood before the temperance world as exponents of temperance works? Why, a child could see the wrong of it."

In regard to the employment of intemperate and unconsidered language, Rev. Mr. McGregor said:

"I do pray that the temperance people will speak with more temperance and more gradation when they are dealing with this question. I believe that it is one of those things which retard very seriously the movement. In certain sections such indiscreet statements, I think, perhaps retard it more than the frank, open opposition of those who are opposed to the whole temperance movement. If I did not love the temperance cause I would not be speaking as I am now doing. If I did not hate that which retards the temperance cause I would not take the pains to deal with this question. Truth is far more precious than a man's estimate of esteem or disesteem. It is the truth that is going to save men, and there is no cause in heaven or earth that needs a lie to send it on. Be honest in your advocacy of each and every measure that is brought before you. If you can't speak words that can be held up to the keen light of noonday don't speak at all."

It was also pointed out by this broad-minded and manly preacher, in speaking of the charge of the Government having gone backward on the question of temperance legislation, and asked if it was "reasonable to suppose that the Government would take backward steps against the moral sentiment of the country? Certainly not." He said it would be wrong and wicked to put things on the statute books that public sentiment would not sustain, and that it was difficult to carry out the present law and what, then, was "the use of our asking men to add to the restrictive methods?"

There seems to be reason in this position. If the Ontario Government, which has no power to grant prohibition, passed an extreme restrictive measure that public sentiment was not educated up to the point of endorsing, it would be extremely difficult to carry out, and failure to carry out any measure of temperance reform has the direct tendency of injuring the interests of temperance reform. The proposed liquor license amendments are a long step in the right direction, and should meet with the approval of all fair minded and temperate, not to say temperance, citizens. After all, restriction seems to be in Mr. McGregor's opinion, only an alternative and temporary expedient. He is reported as closing his address as follows:

In conclusion Mr. McGregor said they were not going to do much with merely restrictive measures. They must crowd out the devil. If they meant to kill the enemy they must give something that was infinitely better than the enemy was supplying, and when he thought of the proposed universal restrictive measure he asked himself what was the church doing to give something in the place of that which they proposed to take away. They must not think that when they had universal prohibition they were going to have a sweet paradise with no drinking and no misery. They were going to have nothing of the sort, although God speed the day.

On this most difficult question the Government is certainly entitled to fair play, and should be helped, not embarrassed, by the advocates of the removal of the evils of intemperance.

THE Opposition organs are continuously pretending to wail over the alleged robbery of the municipalities by the Ontario Government. Apropos of this the St. Thomas Journal points out that "the amount the Government received for licenses, fines, etc, in St. Thomas last year was $7,015.00, of which they returned to the municipality $3,626.60, holding $3,388.40 for themselves, out of which they paid the city's share of Inspector's salary and other expenses, so that the Government received $3,388 40, and returned to the city nearly $6,000. This $6,000 represents grants to schools, hospitals, agricultural society, public libraries, etc., and is no doubt a fair example of the proportion of receipts by the government from municipalities and payments to the latter by the government, prevailing throughout the province. This is a kind of "robbery" the people appreciate.

A FIGHT FOR LIFE.

EXPERIENCE OF MR. SAMUEL SPARKS, OF NAPANEE.

A Terrible Sufferer from Sciatic Rheumatism—At Times as Helpless as a Child—The Trouble Aggravated by What the Doctor Said was Consumption of the Bowels, and no Hope of Recovery was Held Out.

From the Napanee Beaver.

The life of one afflicted by rheumatism is at times almost unbearable. The sufferer is racked with pain until he thinks even death would be a relief from this painful malady. Among those who have suffered much and found relief is Mr. Samuel Sparks, a market gardener well known in Napanee and vicinity. Mr. Sparks recently related to a reporter how he was restored to health and strength. He said:—"For several years I have been a great sufferer from rheumatism in my limbs. The doctor who attended me called it sciatic rheumatism, and the trouble was always worse in the spring than at any other season. In the spring of 1895 I had a very severe attack, and was much worse than I had ever been before. I was not able to do work even of the lightest kind. I suffered the greatest agony and could get no relief either sitting up or lying down. At times I was as helpless as a little child, for my legs felt as though they had become paralyzed. Then the trouble seemed to settle in my bowels, and the doctor said it was consumption of the bowels, and that I could not live much longer. As the doctor could do nothing for me I determined to make another fight for life and try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I felt that even if they would give me relief it would be a blessing. Great was my astonishment, however, when within forty-eight hours after beginning the use of the pills I found relief. I kept on taking the Pink Pills, every day growing stronger and stronger, until at last I was a new man and again able to do as hard a day's work as any man in the township. I cannot praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too much, as in my case they restored health after all other means had failed.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly upon the blood and nerves, building them anew and thus driving disease from the system. There is no trouble due to either of these causes which Pink Pills will not cure, and in hundreds of cases they have restored patients to health after all other remedies had failed. Ask for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and take nothing else. The genuine are always enclosed in boxes the wrapper around which bears the full trade mark "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." May be had from all dealers or sent postpaid on receipt of 50 cents a box or 6 boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

RHEUMATISM CURED.

Eighteen Months Trying to Get Cured—Had the Best Doctors—He Found What he Wanted in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Goderich, March 8 (Special)—A case of great interest here just now is that of Mr. Alexander J. Sharkey, who for some time has been an extreme sufferer from rheumatism. His statement to the correspondent is as follows:

"For eighteen months I was a victim of rheumatism and during that time was trying every means to cure it. I had the best doctors in Canada, and took their prescriptions with faith and patience.

"I got tired at last for I found the disappointment nearly as killing as the disease.

"But one friend wiser than the others convinced me that my disease must be cured by the way of the kidneys and recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I have used two boxes of these pills to affect a perfect cure and I don't care who knows it."

NEWS FROM OTTAWA

Millions of Dollars Paid in Life Premiums.

FOREIGN COMPANIES DROP OUT

Benefiolary Societies Cut a Considerable Figure in the Business, Too—A Judge Complained About—Supreme Court Doings—Rules of the Road at Sea—Personal Notes.

Ottawa, March 9.—(Special.)—A summary of the life insurance business of the past year has been issued by the Finance Department. Thirty-nine companies were doing business in Canada during 1896. Of those 11 were Canadian, 14 British and 14 American; but of the latter three have ceased doing new business, while six British companies have also dropped out of the Canadian field. These 39 companies had on Dec. 31 the considerable amount of $327,730,011 in force, an increase of $8,472,930 over the amount of insurance in force at the close of 1895. The premiums of the year totalled $10,597,076, an increase of $404,722 over the business of the previous year. Of the total, no less than $4,076,996 was taken in by Canadian companies, which is about 60 per cent. Claims were paid during the year to the amount of $4,706,157, an increase of $956,114. Canadian companies alone paid out $2,128,561. There are now 159,148 life insurance policies in force in Canadian companies, out of a total of 261,259 policies in force throughout the Dominion in various companies.

Besides the line companies' business, a large amount of insurance is held in the various societies doing insurance on the assessment plan. The members of these societies paid assessments last year to the amount of $1,641,686, and the societies paid out $1,154,902 in claims. The net amount of insurance in force in the several societies is $132,890,399. Of this sum $81,603,000 is held in the I.O.F., which received $624,497 last year in assessments, and paid out $440,030 in claims; and $17,050,000 in the C.M.B.A., which received $187,965 in assessments and paid out $163,150 in claims.

With reference to the statements of Mgr. Gravel of Nicolet, Archbishop Langevin, and others of the hierarchy that they have not received orders from Rome to "suspend their action" on the school question, it is explained here that this is quite possible, as the orders have been mailed from Rome, and will not likely reach the archbishops and bishops until next week.

Charges have been preferred to the Department of Justice against Judge Woods, County Court Judge for Perth County, of frequent inability to attend to the duties of the bench. The charges are made by local residents and they will be investigated by a special commissioner.

President Whitney of the Dominion Coal Company, is here anxiously watching tariff matters. It is significant that he should be in town when tariff revision is under consideration, as it was in council to-day. Mr. Whitney and his colleagues are anxious as to the probable decision of the Government in respect to the duties now imposed by Canada upon imports of bituminous coals. In view of the United States, and the cheapness of the soft coal products of that country, a reduction of the present Canadian duty of 67 cents per ton, it is said, would strike a serious blow at the Nova Scotia coal industry. It is learned that the great railway corporations are strongly urging a further reduction in the Canadian duty on bituminous coals.

In the Supreme Court this morning, conspicuous in the chamber, had been erected a colored cotton loom as an exhibit in the case of the Canadian Cotton Co. v. Talbot. The machinery was in the same position as when the accident occurred which caused the suit. Argument will proceed to-morrow.

The delivery of judgments in election appeals is now awaited with considerable anxiety on account of the near approach of the session. Unless the judgments come in a few days there will not be time for fixing trial in several suits before the House meets, and then the members will retain their seats for next session.

Hon. L. H. Davies, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, was interviewed by your correspondent to-night in regard to the order-in-Council bringing into force on the lakes the "international rules of the road at sea," agreed to by the maritime powers. The Minister said that the explanation of the apparent anomaly to which attention was drawn yesterday, was simply this: That according to statute it was imperative that the maritime regulations brought into force as regards Canadian waters should be made to apply to "all" the waters of Canada, to inland navigable waters as well as to territorial waters accessible to seagoing vessels. Thus the Imperial Government, having requested the promulgation in Canada of the international rules of the road at sea, the Dominion was bound to make their application general to all our territorial waters. According to this the matter of a uniform system on the great lakes is a matter for subsequent arrangement. As more than four-fifths of the lake shipping is owned in the United States, vessels of the latter flag carrying fully fifty per cent. even of the international freight traffic, it is easily apparent that Canadian vessel masters will be bound for the sake of safety to conform to the American code. In the face of these facts, how silly appears the proposition put forward in the semi-official press that if the American shipmasters do not conform to these rules "the dangers and difficulties consequent upon the existence of different rules of the road will be their fault and not ours." It is well known that the American Inland Marine Associations have steadfastly maintained that the code of sea signals is altogether inapplicable to lake navigation.

Messrs. L. N. Champagne and C. B. Major and their friends had a conference with Mr. Laurier in his office this forenoon in regard to the nomination in Wright. It was agreed that Mr. Champagne should be the Liberal candidate, but it is not announced what promises Major received. Mr. Laurier will speak at a meeting in Hull in favor of Mr. Champagne. As a consequence of to-day's conference the Liberals will not hold a convention. It is not yet settled who the Conservative candidate will be, except that the strongest of several good men, including Messrs. J. M. McDougall, Q.C., of Hull and Charles Logue of Manitwaki, will be chosen. Everything points to McDougall as the Conservative standard-bearer. Many Hull Liberals are greatly displeased with Champagne's candidature, so that Conservative prospects are bright.

A FEARFUL EXPERIENCE.

Two Men Out of Three Blown to Sea on an Ice Floe Perished—The One Saved Was in an Awful State.

Halifax, N. S., March 9.—Arsen Turbide, assistant keeper of Bird Rock came here this afternoon, and he reports that on Friday afternoon he and his two assistants, Damien Cormier, aged 64, and Charlie Turbide, aged 17, left the Rock to capture some seals that were within 100 yards of the shore ice. The wind was moderate from the northwest. After they got on the ice it began running and the wind increased. It was impossible for them to get back and they drifted in a southeasterly direction. From trying so hard to regain the Rock they fell in the water several times and got their clothes all wet. Charlie Turbide perished about 3 o'clock, Saturday morning, and Cormier perished a little after daylight. He (Turbide) left them on the ice under the upturned flat, and with a heavy heart tried to make land, which he could see. After walking by day, and trying to keep himself from freezing by night, he landed at Low Land Cave, about eight miles west of here, last night, and was taken care of by people who found him and brought him to the telegraph office to-day. His feet are badly frozen, and he is suffering with snow-blindness. He says the only person on Bird Rock is the wife of the above-named Cormier.

BRUTAL SPANIARDS

Convey Prisoners to Havana Bound Like Cattle, Starving and Exposed to Tropical Heat.

Havana, March 6.—(Via Jacksonville, March 9.)—Among the political prisoners brought yesterday from Puerto Principe, I noticed Hazney Cespedes, whose grandfather led the revolt in 1868, and became President of the First Cuban Republic. With him came Victor Miranda, Jose Estrada and Julian Carbo.

They were taken on a Spanish tansport at Nuevitas, bound like cattle. They were thrown upon the deck, and kept exposed to the hot tropical sun and the night dew, without food or drink, until their arrival at Havana, 42 hours later.

The wife ofa Spanish officer and other passengers, moved by the piteous appeals of the prisoners, interceded to at least have their cords loosened, but all in vain.

Three Cuban ladies of respectability, Senoras Rosa Marques, Mercedes Banos and Nieves Reyes, held as political suspects, were sent yesterday to Casa de Recajidas to await court martial.

DEATH OF COL. SHANLEY.

An Old and Respected Resident of London, Ont., Crosses the Bar.

London, Ont., March 9.—The death occurred at his residence, 301 Piccadilly-street, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, of Col. James Shanley, Master of the Supreme Court, and Deputy Registrar in Chancery. He had been ill about three weeks with a heavy cold, which developed into pneumonia, with the above result.

He was one of London's oldest and most respected citizens, having resided here for 50 years. He took an active part in suppressing the Fenian raid, being commander of the London Field Battery at that time. One son, Charles J. N. Shanley, of the Postoffice Department, survives him.

Are You Ready for Wall Papers.

What we are doing in wall papers at the Peterborough Bookstore is important enough to talk about. Our special big wall paper sale of over 20,000 rolls, which commenced on Saturday will be our leading event this week. You know, of course, that we sell as we buy, and such prices as these clearly illustrate the meaning of that fact:—Gilt papers, 5c.; gold papers, 7c. and 10c.; embossed papers, 15c.; embossed gold friezes, 10c.; ingrain friezes, 8c. and 10c.; English sanitary papers, 8c. and 10c.; a lot of home-made goods, with and without borders, worth from 25c. to 50c., for 10c.

The New Tailoring and Men's Furnishing Store.

Owing to a natural growth of their dry goods and tailoring business and a desire to give more prominence to linens and wash dress goods, Messrs. Hall, Gilchrist & Co. find their present store too small and have leased the store on George street, next to the Bank of Toronto, formerly occupied by Jos. Armstrong & Co., and will have it fitted up specially for a tailoring and men's furnishing establishment. They have made large purchases of imported tweeds and suitings, as well as men's furnishings, and will make this the leading men's store in town. High class goods coupled with low prices, are bound to make this move a success. 2d1w

Died in Brooklyn.

The sad news has been received of the death in Brooklyn of Mrs. Robert Warrington, daughter of Mr. John C. Baker, Park street. Some six months ago Mrs. Warrington entered a hospital in Brooklyn for treatment for appendicitis. An operation was performed, but with unsatisfactory results, and the consequence was that a second operation was called for, from the effects of which death resulted yesterday. Mrs. Warrington was in the 30th year of her age and leaves no children. The remains arrived in town by the G.T.R. express this evening and the funeral will take place on Friday at 3 o'clock from the residence of Mr. John C. Baker, 546 Park street.

A Practical Joke.

In some unaccountable manner a report was circulated in Port Hope yesterday to the effect that a train was wrecked at Helm's crossing and that six persons had been killed. The report, which appears to have originated in the Queen's hotel, reached the ears of about a dozen carters who had their teams lined up on Cavan street, and without a moment's delay they turned their steeds around and started off down street at a tremendous gait. The procession of waggons going lickety pell down the business street looked like a battery charge, and before the carters had turned the Royal Hotel corner, every man who could catch on had boarded the swiftly moving waggons, while a procession of fully 100 citizens started on foot for the scene of the awful disaster. But no signs of a wreck could be found, and the carters turned their horses back and up to the present time are looking for the man who started the canard. For the space of an hour there was the greatest excitement in the town.

B. B. A. Entertainment. Opera House, March 17th.

The Jameson raid in South Africa and subsequent events, touching the matter, have become of world-wide interest. Owing to the fact that our countryman, Hon. Edward Blake, one of our greatest statesmen, is acting on the Parliamentary Committee appointed to enquire into the circumstances which resulted in Jameson's raid, Canadians feel something like a local interest in the matter, and the people of Peterborough no doubt will feel a little pardonable pride from the fact that they are to be the first audience in the new world having an opportunity of seeing those beautiful coloured views, which comprise over sixty, of the most thrilling events of this historical event. The entertainment will also consist of vocal and instrumental music. Reserved seats 50c, general admission 35c. Plan of hall at Salisbury & Co's.

THE SPRING ASSIZES.

CHIEF JUSTICE SIR W. R. MEREDITH PRESIDING.

His Lordship's Charge to the Jury—The Asphodel Slander Suit Decided—The Case, Baldwin vs Lundy Postponed—The Gray vs. Weir Case Now on.

The Spring Assizes opened this morning before Chief Justice Sir W. R. Meredith.

Mr. D. Burke Simpson, Bowmanville, is in charge of the Crown's interests and the other members of the bar present at the opening of the court were: E. F. B. Johnston, Q.C., G. D. Watson, Q.C., G. J. Sherry, Norwood, John Barnham, Q.C., W. A. Stratton, R. E. Wood, A. P. Poussette, Q.C., D. O'Connell, F. D. Kerr, C. W. Sawers, R. M. Dennistoun and F. W. Gladman, of Peterborough.

The Grand Jury is composed as follows: James G. Armstrong, Geo. E. Elliott, Smith; James Cummings, Norwood; Wm. Crough, Ennismore; Charles D. Crawford, Lakefield; F. Dover, Ashburnham; W. J. Hunter, Dawson Kennedy, Otonabee; John Moloney, Douro; A. L. Davis, William Fowler, W. H. Hill, Peter Hamilton, Peterborough.

In addressing the Grand Jury, His Lordship explained the illness of Justice Meredith, which caused the postponment of the opening of court until this morning. He congratulated the county on having no prisoners in gaol awaiting trial, and stated that there was but one criminal case on the docket. In this the defendant was charged with stealing marsh hay, cut by the plaintiff. In this case, if the assertions of the plaintiff were supported by sufficient evidence it would be found that a moral wrong and a legal offence had been committed. The crown, he understood, wished to put a stop to such infractions of the law in the back townships and wished by the present case to show that law and order must be respected amongst the settlers.

The jury were then instructed to inspect the gaol and ascertain if it was properly conducted. Out of the twelve or fifteen prisoners, two or three were in gaol for offences committed, but as regarded the others, it was the same old story. They were the poor of the community lodged in gaol for the winter, to be housed and kept warm. Three of these were 78 years of age, one 77, one 72 and one 69. It was an unfortunate state of affairs in a community when the poor had to be placed in the gaols. It was most undesirable and unjust, as the taint of crime was attached to all who were detained within its walls.

The first case taken up was that of Scriver vs. McMillan—In this case the plaintiff John Bryant Scriver and the defendant Frances McMillan are both residents of the township of Asphodel. The plaintiff sued for $1,000 and costs for injury to his character, caused by statements alleged to have been made by the defendant to the effect that plaintiff had stolen oats from Fred Brown, and also that the plaintiff had stolen the shingles and floor from a barn belonging to the defendant and leased by the plaintiff.

The defendant denied having made these accusations, and if he did it was done in anger, when such words are not taken seriously. The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff and $75.

G. J. Sherry, of Norwood, for plaintiff, Stratton & Hall for defendant.

The Grand Jury returned a true bill against James Smellie on a charge of theft. The prisoner was arraigned and pleaded not guilty, but as his counsel, Mr. Kerr, was not ready to go on, the case was enlarged till the next court, bail being renewed.

The case Baldwin vs. Lundy has been postponed, the plaintiff agreeing to indemnify the defendant in respect of the postponement.

WEDDED IN TORONTO.

Nuptials of Florence Blakesly Lawrence and Robert J. Fife.

A wedding took place in St. James Cathedral, Toronto, this afternoon, in which Peterborough will be greatly interested. At half past three o'clock the marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Canon Du Moulin, between Florence Blakesly Lawrence, of Bradford, and Robert J. Fife, of Peterborough.

The bridesmaid was Miss May Patterson, of Caledonia, and the groom was supported by Mr. Robert Rose, of town.

The bride, during a brief stay in town last year, made many friends through her winsome manner, and the groom is undoubtedly one of the most popular young men in Peterborough to-day.

Mr. Fife has always been one of the towns foremost supporters of good clean sport, and his name has long occupied a prominent place in lacrosse circles. He has lately given his attention to hockey, also, and that his influence is appreciated is shown by the magnificent gifts which the members of these associations are presenting him with on the occasion of his becoming a Benedict. Although greatly interested in athletics Mr. Fife never allowed them to interfere with his business interests, as his satisfactory connection with the firm of Ormond & Walsh demonstrates.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Fife will return to Peterborough and take up their residence at No. 360 Stewart street.

FOREIGN MISSIONS AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH.

ADDRESS BY A RETURNED MISSIONARY TO INDIA.

Reports Presented—Officers Elected—Mrs. Jas. Stratton Presented With a Life Membership Certificate.

Last evening there was a large attendance at the eighteenth annual meeting of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society, held in the Murray street Baptist church. Mrs. (Dr.) Hunter was in the chair and at the conclusion of a short devotional service Mrs. Davis, is a returned missionary from India, gave an interesting address upon the missionary work in India, dealing with the great difficulties that confronted the missionary in winning the benighted people of India to the Gospel of Christ. It was a common but greatly mistaken idea that the heathen of India were panting and thirsting for the Gospel. On the other hand, they were like Ephraim—joined to their idols, and there were numerous obstacles in the way of the missionary reaching their hearts. It was a toil and work, from which many would shrink, to even become familiar enough with the language to enable the natives to understand the message the missionary had to present. Mrs. Davis also spoke interestingly of the habits and costumes of the natives, and she had with her and described in a very entertaining manner a large number of curiosities.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Davis' address a duet was sung with fine effect by Mrs. (Dr.) Scott and Miss Hutchinson.

The treasurer's report of foreign missions was then read and showed that there was $77.90 on hand, raised during the past year. The Home Mission treasurer's report, showed $52 03 on hand. Mrs. G. Macdonald and Miss E. J. Aldridge were collectors for Home Missions.

Letters were read from Miss Buchan, corresponding secretary for the province, and Miss McFar a missionary in India, by Mrs. B. Yelland.

In the absence of Mrs. Geo. Matthews, Miss M. A. Nicholls read the SECRETARY'S REPORT

as follows:

The 18th Annual Report of the Women's Mission Circle of Murray Street Baptist Church:

Again we have reached a halting place in the history of our Mission Circles, and we meet to-night to review the work of the past year, and make arrangements for the ensuing year.

Our mission year closes with a membership of 53, ten less than last year. Number of foreign mission subscribers is 38; home missions, 30. The decrease in the membership is accounted for by the formation of the Park street Circle, which took ten of our members. Their names were reluctantly dropped from our list of workers. We knew this change meant extended work in the Master's kingdom, and parted with them, wishing them God-speed in their new field of labour.

We have been called upon to deplore the loss of two of our number by death. Lovingly and tenderly we remember their quiet, loving and willing service for the Master.

Meetings have been held each month, with an average attendance of 16. The monthly meetings have been made interesting by reading and discussing missionary news from the various mission fields. In November a very successful thank-offering service was held. At the conclusion of a good missionary programme, a very pleasant season of social intercourse was spent. The offering amounted to $37. This was equally divided between home and Foreign Missions.

We should like to see our missionary periodicals, the Link and Visitor, more widely spread among the members of our church and congregations. There are 18 subscribers for the Link, and 40 for the Visitor.

The money this year has been raised by our five faithful collectors, with the exception of two thank-offering services. We made one of our charter members, Mrs. Stratton, a life member for Foreign Missions. The money for this object was partly raised by special subscription.

We now leave the past year with all its opportunities gone from us forever. As we enter on another year may it be with hearts full of zeal for the Master's work, ever remembering that time is short and "the night cometh when no one can work."

MARY A. NICHOLLS,
Secretary

MADE A LIFE MEMBER.

Mrs. (Dr.) Scott then came forward and informed Mrs. Jas. Stratton that she had much pleasure in presenting her a certificate of life membership of that Society. Mrs. Stratton made the following reply:

"I thank you all for the honour you have conferred on me. I esteem it a great privilege to have been permitted for so many years to assist, in a small way, the spread of the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ, while so many who were associated with us here have been taken away from us by death. What I could do was done willingly; it was a great pleasure to me, and my regret is that I could not do more. The younger members of our circle are enjoying privileges in training for usefulness, and the great abundance of Missionary news, which the old members could not have, and I trust it will result in greater usefulness and more consecrated living. I trust and hope that the circle may steadily go forward in the future as it has year by year in the past, and that all may be to the glory of God. If I may be permitted to give you at this time a watch-word, it is: "Little children, love one another; as Christ has loved you, so ought ye to love one another."

Rev. Mr. Dykeman was then called upon for an informal address. In responding to the invitation he said that he had attended quite a number of returned missionary's lectures, but none had been appreciated by him like the one delivered that evening. It had been a real, practical talk and had proved very beneficial to him, if not every one else.

A collection was then taken, which amounted to the handsome sum of $11.38.

The following is the list of officers who were elected:—

President—Mrs. Dr. Hunter, re-elected.

Vice-Presidents, {Mrs. Dykeman. {Mrs. (Dr.) Scott, re-elected.

Secretary—Miss M. A. Nicholls, re-elected.

Treasurer Foreign Mission—Mrs. G. Matthews.

Treasurer Home Mission—Miss E. J. Aldridge.

The collectors are: Mrs. Hutchinson, Mrs. B. Yelland, Mrs. B. Matthews, Miss L. Branch, Miss Cochrane.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. (Rev.) Dykeman.

NATURAL SCIENCE ASSOCIATION.

A Largely Attended Meeting Held in the Y M C A. Hall Last Night.

Mr. John A. Patterson, president of the Toronto Astronomical and Physical Association, was present at the meeting of the local Natural Science Association last evening and delivered a most instructive address, and the audience felt well repaid for coming out on so stormy a night.

Mrs. Peck and Miss Burnham's rendering of a selection from one of Rossini's operas was truly a fairy-like prelude to so ethereal a trip as Mr. Patterson's address on "The Scripture and the Skies." Mr. J. A. Fife occupied the chair.

Mr. Patterson in his first dealt with the scale upon which the universe was built, gave numerous examples which took his hearers into the millions, leaving them more than conscious of their inability to grasp the infinite. Then when he diminished the earth to the size of an ordinary pea, and continued his relative comparisons, the mind was still lost in wonderment. In his second division he dealt with the plurality of worlds. The abysmal distances crossed were marvelous, and yet the Pleiads which Tennyson described as a swarm of fireflies tangled in a silver braid, Orion, with his gorgeous, glittering belt, the pale daughter of Andromeda still, as here, displaying her trembling jewels, and the Great Bear pointing out an Earth's Polaris; all these were still unchanged. 'Twas thus Bishop Warren saw when he said: "The universe is God writ large." To quote from Mr. Patterson, "The question of the plurality of worlds is one that strangely fascinates the trembling hearts of the sons of men. It is good for man, this spiritual atom inhabiting a material atom, to have penetrated with the mysteries of creation, but if the universe remains only a great material mechanism moved by physical forces, it were nothing in his eyes but a gigantic laboratory. If this matchless, magnificent science of the heavens confines the human mind eternally and the geometry of the orbs, if the universe is merely an assemblage of inert bodies floating in space and only to be investigated by formulæ and diagrams, then, indeed, this science will not attain its end of this fold." Where are the other folds? Does Wordsworth sing truly:

"The stars are mansions built by nature's hand
And happily there the spirits of the blest
Dwell clothed in radiance their immortal vest."

A voice also from the now silent but ever eloquent Laureate, of whose words death cannot rob humanity tells us

"Venus near her! smiling downward at this earthlier earth of ours,
Closer on the sun, perhaps a world of never fading flowers;
Hesper, whom the poet called the bringer home of all good things,
All good things may move in Hesper perfect peoples, perfect things;
Hesper—Venus—were we native to that splendour in Mars,
We should see the globe we grew in finest of their evening stars,
Could we dream of wars and carnage, craft and lust and spite,
Roaring London, racing Paris, in that point of peaceful light;
Might we not in glancing heavenward on a star
so silver fair,
Yearn and clasp the hands and murmur 'would to God that we were there!'

In this synopsis only a few headings have been given, all of which were fully elaborated by vivid picturing and striking comparisons. It is to be regretted that so few enjoyed such an able lecture on so mysterious a subject.

Sheriff Hall moved a vote of thanks to Lawyer Patterson for his kindness in coming down to assist our infant Natural Science Association and giving us such a treat, coupling the names of the ladies who furnished the music. This was seconded by Rev. J. J. Ras, who said although he enjoyed the trip with Mr. Patterson very much, he was glad they both were on this mundane sphere.

Mr. Patterson said he considered he had been paid the highest possible compliment to a lecturer by the close and sympathetic attention of his audience. Were it possible to find an inflated, self-conceited Peterboroughonian 'twere well for him to ponder the above thoughts, after which we feel sure his magnitude would be perceptibly diminished.

Next meeting of the Natural Science Association will be in the Collegiate Institute on the evening of March 23rd. Mr. J. A. Fife, B.A., President of the Association, will give an interesting paper on Biology.

A Brickmaker Listens to Reason—Uses Six Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and Tells It.

Brockville, March 1st—(Special)—Mr. W. H. Odell, perhaps one of the best known citizens of this town, has lately recovered from a long continued and painful kidney ailment. He tells the story of his experience to the correspondent as follows:

"I have suffered for over a year from kidney disease, the pain in my back being so severe that I was unable to stand to my work.

Noticing the published cures of what Dodd's Kidney Pills were doing for others, I concluded to try them.

"Having used only six boxes I can say that I am perfectly cured and well so that I can attend to business as well as ever I could."

VICTORIAN JUBILEE
A GRAND CELEBRATION.

INAUGURATED BY THE LOCAL CANADIAN FORESTERS.

Energetic Committees Appointed—The Central Exhibition Grounds and the Driving Park Engaged—Preparations Actively Pushed for a Grand and Successful Demonstration.

The Canadian Order of Foresters in Peterborough are behind no others in loyalty and appreciation of the blessings Canada has enjoyed under the glorious reign of Her Majesty Queen Victoria. The local courts have decided to unite in a grand celebration of the important sixtieth anniversary of the reign of the Queen, and that the occasion will be a grand and successful one, and worthy of the event, is assured by the fact that whatever the Canadian Foresters put their hands to, will be well done.

Preliminary meetings have been held for the past month by the four local courts and strong delegations representing each court have been organized into a joint committee, which has appointed an executive and officers to push forward the enterprise of the celebration with the utmost energy.

Already both the Central Exhibition grounds and the Driving Park have been secured, as both will be needed to carry on the celebration on the grand scale contemplated. The loyalty and enthusiasm of the various meetings of the said committees indicate a determination to make the demonstration a credit, not only to the town, but one in every way it celebrates. From the activity and spirit shown by the Canadian Foresters in initiating the celebration of the Victorian Diamond Jubilee, it is evident that Peterborough will not be behind other communities in the Dominion. And while the Foresters are pushing their demonstration preparations with the greatest zeal they will be glad to co-operate in any and every way possible with any civic demonstration that may be suggested by the citizens, with the hope of giving the proposed celebration the utmost possible success. Any practical suggestions that the committee of Foresters may receive will be cordially appreciated.

As an evidence of the loyalty of the Canadian Order of Foresters, it may be mentioned that the High Court recently held at Niagara Falls directed the preparation of a resolution expressive of the loyalty and devotion of the Canadian Foresters to Her Majesty. The circumstance, too, that the High Court decided in a very enthusiastic manner upon Peterborough as the next place of meeting, will serve to accentuate the importance of the Peterborough Foresters taking an active part in a grand celebration of the sixtieth year of Her Majesty's reign.

ONTARIO BEANS.

A Liverpool Firm Gives Bean Raisers Some Pointers.

Messrs. Kamm and Schremft, of Liverpool, England, have made the following report on Ontario beans to the Ontario Department of Agriculture: "We fancy that we were the importers of almost all the Canadian beans brought to Europe, and therefore able to judge of that class of produce. Beans of 1895 gave satisfaction, and were mostly up to the mark, but last year's crop was delivered to us in a very disappointing manner. Evidently the latter beans had suffered from excessive rain, and contained no end of damaged grains. We cautioned the shippers before hand to keep up the standard of prime quality, but the producers, either to save themselves the trouble of part picking or carelessness, sent off inferior quality, which has done a good deal of harm to the reputation of Canadian beans, we fancy, in the face of the splendid late deliveries of Californian and other American beans, which come reliably packed and free from damaged grains. We also found in many cases the small pea beans were mixed with a larger variety called "mediums," which is a great disadvantage, and we would therefore suggest to the farmers rather to change their seed if they want to be successful in future years. If some care to go in for a little additional expense, we should like to persuade them to go in for growing also the larger varieties of beans; viz., giant baricots, large flat baricots, Zealand beans. All these will yield better than the varieties now grown in Canada, and they also fetch considerably higher prices."

A Croupy Cough was soon Driven Away By Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine.

"My little boy had a bad croupy cough," says Mrs. Smith, of 256 Bathurst street, Toronto. "My neighbor, Mrs. Hopkins, recommended me to try Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. I did so, and the first dose did him good. One bottle completely cured the cold. It is surprising, the popularity of Chase's syrup in this neighborhood. It appears to me it can be found in every house."

THE LOCAL MINES.

Report on the Production in Belmont Township.

A correspondent of the Belleville Sun in the mining region of North Hastings and Peterborough County, contributes the following concerning the Belmont mines:

"Mr. A. W. Carscallen, M. P., was seen by the Sun representative and was brimful of news. He is the owner of one of the best mines in the district, the Belmont, which is situated in the county of Peterborough, and adjoins the Ledyard mines. In speaking of other mines he named over a large number of claims which have been or are now being worked. The Ledyard mine is seven miles from Marmora, and is yielding free milling quartz mixed with iron pyrites. On a mill test the ore yielded over $20 per ton. There are about twenty men working there at present. On the premises are a mill building 66 x 28 feet, a wing 41 x 16 feet, in which the engine and boiler, and the necessary boarding houses and offices.

"Mr. H. T. Strickland of Peterborough, who has had over twenty-five years experience as a miner and propector in Hastings and Peterborough counties and in the Lake of the Woods and Nova Scotian belts, in describing the Belmont gold mines, gives them a high standard. He was the original discover of gold in this property and is well acquainted with the place. The property consists of the east half of lot 20 in the first concession of Belmont, and consists of 100 acres. The mining right to the road allowance between the east half of lots 20 and 21 and the south-east quarter of lot 21 in the same concession, and the west half of lot 20 in the first concession of Marmora have since been added to this. There is plenty of good cordwood and mining timber available at reasonable prices. The road from Marmora to the mine is a good one and the Central Ontario railway runs close to the property. The county rock, which covers the greater part of the property, is of a diorite formation, with a general north and south trend. Four veins, which all yield free gold in the miner's pan, have been traced by their outcropping to lengths varying from 2,000 to 3,500 feet. The quartz is of a granulated bluish white and carries throughout sulphurets of iron and some copper. The development has been nearly all on the north vein in lot 20, and convenient to the road. A shaft has been sunk on the most elevated portion of the west end to a depth on the dip (which is about 80 degrees south) of 132 feet, and the vein has proved to be strong, with the exception of a "pinching" of about 20 or 25 feet. It averages about six feet in width at the bottom. The walls are chloritic schist and well stratified, and give evidence of being a part of the vein on which the deeper shaft is sunk, and carries as high a percentage of gold. Messrs. Ricketts & Banks, well-known New York experts, took samples of the ore, and in seven assays it showed an average of $17.96 of gold to the ton. A lot of ore, consisting of 220 tons, was milled, and an average of $10 46 saved to the ton, and this under unfavourable milling facilities. The mine is the sole property of Mr. A. W. Carscallen, M.P., of Marmora.

Delay Means Death.

One Dose Relieves—A Few Bottles Always Cure.

"For ten years I have suffered greatly from heart disease. Fluttering of the heart, palpitations and smothering spells have made my life miserable. When dropsy set in my physician said I must prepare my family for the worst. All this time I had seen Dr. Agnew's Heart Cure advertised. As a last resort I tried it and think of my joy when I received great relief from one dose. One bottle cured my dropsy, and brought me out of bed, and five bottles have completely cured my heart. If you are troubled with any heart affection, and are in despair, as I was, use this remedy, for I know it will cure you."—Mrs. JAMES ADAMS, Syracuse, N. Y. Sold by H. S. McDonald.

A SPECIFIC
—FOR—
La Grippe, Coughs, Colds,

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally, my husband,—reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,—procured, for me, a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, whenever we have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMILY WOOD, North St., Elkton, Md.

A tea store check, bills overdue,
Part of the articles of faith,

Some rules for making home-made lamps;
Three pennies, bits of samples, pens,
A broken eyeglass without lens,
And other things, about a score,
Of which just here I'll say no more—
For as they come before my eyes
They caused me not the least surprise;
It needed not a second look—

THE "TRAMP" NAPOLEON.

A Moving Tale of the Vicissitudes of Everyday Life

It was a clear, cold day. The ground was frozen hard under foot, and the chill of the air, as well as the lowering cloud banks to the southwest, betokened that a heavy fall of snow within an extremely short time was not at all improbable.

Yet three individuals seemed totally unheedful of the approaching chunks of weather, and, moreover, they were one and all headed for the same locality.

The first was driving a natty mare attached to a light runabout, and the glossy coat of the quadruped, as well as the shining varnish of the vehicle, all told their tale of high-priced value. As further confirmation one had only to note the rotund and self-satisfied appearance of the middle-aged driver to be entirely confirmed in his incipient suspicions.

The second specimen of humanity was mounted upon a rubber tired steed of steel (make to suit the fancy of the reader), and his suit of well fitting tweed and smiling face also seemed proof positive of a substantial financial backing.

The third individual, however, was in striking contrast to the twain aforementioned. I might use up several lines of gilt-edged description upon him, but the whole thing can be well left to the intelligent reader's imagination in one word "tramp." Yet, strange to say, he smiled twice to each of the others' once, and absolutely shouted when the runabout driver handed him a dollar for opening the gate leading up to the Roadside Inn. Into this hospitable house they all three entered—the two prosperous ones by the front, the ragged one by the rear door.

No sooner were they comfortably ensconsed therein when the threatening snow storm materialized, and kept up the music at a blizzard rate for three whole days. Time hung somewhat heavy upon the hands of the three imprisoned guests of the Roadside Inn, but there were plenty of cards and chips, and the great American game was a surpassing solace.

After the storm had abated the erstwhile ragged tramp drove away in the highly varnished runabout, dressed in the tweed bicycle suit and with the wheel itself fastened on at the back.—New York Journal.

TROUPE OF PERFORMING BIRDS.

Marzella Has Taught Them to Do No End of Remarkable Feats.

Marzella, the trainer, and her company of performing birds, are exciting general admiration on the European variety stage. They are said to be the largest and most highly educated troupe of birds ever seen.

Among them are fifteen doves. When the fair trainer appears on the stage covered with these graceful and gentle birds she delights the eye of the beholder.

The troupe also includes pigeons, parrots, cockatoos, macaws and ravens. Their tricks are so numerous that they cannot do all of them at one performance.

If the doves are the prettiest, some of the other birds are more entertaining. The parrots and the ravens are close rivals in this respect.

Two cockatoos and a raven go through a see-sawing act, which affords much entertainment to the spectators, and apparently to the birds themselves. The big white cockatoos take the ends of the balancing board, while the big black raven stands in the middle and helps to send them up and down. His beauty is set off by a white ruff around his neck. The raven has to be watched very closly, for he is filled with more pure cussedness than any other creature alive, and at some unexpected moment he is liable to kick the whole apparatus over. The cockatoos also keep an eye on him, and if he offers them any insult will tackle him promptly. In spite of their mild and immaculate appearance, they are very pugnacious.

One of the raven's performances is to imitate a drunken man, which he does with much humor and fidelity to nature. He also dresses as a policeman and walks around with a club in his claws, offering to batter any one who comes near him.

The parrots have an act in which they draw up a fire engine and put out a fire in a very thorough and competent manner. They also execute some curious evolutions in the way of hopping over one another. All the company goes through a military drill with much precision.

The training of the birds has many interesting features, and differs essentially from that of any other animals. Birds can only be trained to do what they are willing and pleased to do. With most quadrupeds the custom is to hammer the tricks into the animal, but violence with birds is said to make all teaching impossible. The bird who is terrified becomes permanently useless. As it is such a gentle art it is obviously suitable for women.

Marzella says that she always begins the training of a bird by watching his natural actions in a room and endeavoring to note a peculiar attitude for some trick which he shows. The birds selected for training are kept in cages for two or three months, and always fed by the trainer, so that they get to know and like her.

Their first exercise consists in walking across a table. Surrounded by old hands, who have learned their drill long ago, they start out at varying rates of speed. They are extremely imitative and when they notice an old bird doing anything peculiar they are very likely to copy him.

MARZELLA WITH ALL HER ACCOMPLISHED BIRDS AT ROOST.

Nearly every trick originates in some peculiar action which the bird has made voluntarily and which the trainer induces him to repeat. When Marzella mistakes a bird's inclination, she may waste three months in training him for something he will never do. Birds, owing to their lightness, their exemption from falls and other physical characteristics, are able to perform gymnastic feats which would be wonderful in other animals. When a parrot holds on to a bar with his beak and swings round and round, he is doing something little more difficult than winking.

Marzella has a natural power of influencing birds, like that of Mowgli over his former companions of the jungle. They do what she wishes apparently without direct commands from her. It is very pleasing to see them hard at work, intelligently interested in their performances, going ahead without turning to look at their mistress.

In training she has to use a different tone of voice for different birds. She must speak very gently to the doves and pigeons or they will refuse to do anything for her. The parrots and macaws, on the other hand, will pay no attention unless she speaks to them in a loud and harsh voice.

The doves and pigeons, when they grow tired of practising their tricks, will fly away into a corner and sulk. The parrots and other large birds will turn and bite when they are overworked.

The raven is one of the most intelligent and amusing of birds, but as a public performer he is very unreliable. The passion of mischief and destruction possesses him at all times, and he will interrupt a skilful and important performance in order to grab some bright object that takes his fancy. His passion for jewels and precious stones is greater than of an average woman.

The most highly trained of Marzella's pupils are two pigeons who waltz. Their education occupied three years.

It is not to be wondered at that Ayer's Pills are in such universal demand. For the cure of constipation, biliousness, or any other complaint needing a laxative, these pills are unsurpassed. They are sugar-coated, easy to take, and every dose is effective.

"'TIS LOVE THAT MAKES THE WORLD GO ROUND."

Some people think money is a greater power than love. Sh! What a mistake! See how the great money kings are controlled by the little boy Cupid! See how the great soldiers and men of power are twisted around his little fingers!

A woman's most precious possession is the capacity for awakening pure and noble love. More potent than wit or intellect is the womanly capacity for happy wifehood and motherhood.

A woman who is weak or diseased in the special organism of her sex is deprived of the power and prestige which naturally belong to her. Such troubles are not a necessity. Perfect health and strength of the feminine organism is insured by proper care and the aids afforded by enlightened medical science. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures all weaknesses and diseases of woman's special organism.

For nearly 30 years Dr. Pierce has been chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. No other physician has had a more extensive practice or greater success in the treatment of women's diseases. No other such perfect and scientific remedy for these ailments has ever been devised. It has restored health, strength and womanly power to tens of thousands of women.

Women who would understand their own powers and possibilities should read Doctor Pierce's thousand-page illustrated book, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." It is the most interesting and enlightening book of the kind ever published. A paper-bound copy will be sent absolutely free to any one sending 21 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of customs and mailing only. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. For a handsome cloth-bound copy send 50 stamps.

MARAT AND DANTON!

AN 1897 LOVE ROMANCE OF THE REIGN OF TERROR.

"This Story Began a Century Ago, in Hate; To-day the Turtle Doves Are Cooing"—The Tragic Events of 1862-94 Recalled.

Marat and Danton! Charlotte Corday plunged, in 1793, the dagger into the body of Marat! The frenzied mob roared its approbation when the head of Danton, in 1794, fell into the basket of the guillotine! The French Revolution, with its hatreds, its passions and its bitterness, had reached the zenith of its horrors, and all the world rang with the names, Danton and Marat!

And in a few days, if you please, Ferdinand Danton, jr., of New York, will lead Viviane Marat, of Paris, to the altar!

A century has passed, all the world has changed, Danton and Marat have silently taken their places in history—one responsible for the death of the other—and to-day their descendants have fallen in love with each other!

Has Fate ever played a more capricious prank?

This story began a century ago—in hate. To-day the turtle doves are cooing about the eaves of the famous church of St. Germain l'Auxerrois, where the organist practises betimes at the "Wedding March."

The fairest flower that ever blossomed on the ancestral bush of all the Marats is waiting for the spring to come, when she shall become Danton, and the ancient quarrel of the commune shall be forever and eternally patched up.

In a shabby old house in West Fifty-third street, New York—a dwelling which seems lost in that wilderness of stables and cheap shops—a broad-shouldered, lithe-limbed, handsome fellow, with the blackest of black hair, the bluest of blue eyes and the whitest of white teeth, sits, day after day, painting pictures for a living.

A simple signboard, nailed slantwise, tells the dingy neighborhood that the tenant is "Ferdinand Danton, Artist." The woman who answers the doorbell, a person whose appearance is eloquent of kitchen work, calls him "the young fella'," to distinguish him from his father. Within doors, in the gloomy reception room, which was a brave, fashionable place enough once upon a time, are all the tokens of the artist craft—lay figures, of personal stolidity, garbed in the fantastic duds which go to make up a studio wardrobe; scraps of drapery flung here and there with their gladdening eclors into the sombre dulness of the sort over which art students spend slavish months. Scattered over the walls are bits of the handiwork of this latter-day Danton, who is going to wed a Marat, and set the bells ringing in that Paris where their fierce forebears overturned a throne and lopped off a king's head.

It is a humble abode, in truth, for the descendants of a man who led the uprising of Reason, and who held France for a perilous moment in the palm of his hand and defied Europe. But the chief of the Cordeliers, whose word let loose the Commune to the sack of the Tuileries, who dominated the prison massacres which the mad Paris of that day called justice, who voted the death of the King, who drove the aristocrats out of Paris or to the scaffold, was no whit prouder of his name than the sturdy, quiet, love-stricken youth who wears it now.

A century of the new civilization has refined the blood of the Dantons not thinned it. It flows full of ardor still, but it is the ardor of the bridegroom, not the rebel.

The speech of the modern Danton is quiet, but the brawn and courage of the man who broke shackles in France have been handed down without a flaw. This youth has the muscles of iron, despite his gentle calling, but he lacks the heart of flint. He has gone unpretentiously about the business of picture-making, as his father did before him, content in the consciousness that his race has done its share and shed sufficient of its blood in the great cause of battering and battering human kind. He has breathed no slaughters, hurled no anathemas, echoed in nowise the mighty cry with which his great grandsire woke Paris into fury.

But for all that his ancestral fame has found him out, hidden behind the modest sign of "Ferdinand Danton, Artist." Love, which is divine in that it is no respecter of persons and that its ways are past finding out, has discovered him in such sort that he becomes a personage in history, and his wedding bells will echo in some wise in the uprisings of 1792.

It is an unconscionable trick, too, that Love has played this Danton of nowadays. Danton, poor artist, might have loved and wedded any one of 10,000 anxious and deserving damsels, and hardly have had the scant distinction of a wedding notice. But Fate devised a situation for him. The love drama of a century ends in such a climax as would abash a melodramatist.

Paris, when a hundred years had fled, reading aright the history of its awful regeneration, reared a statue of that Danton, whose love for France and her people had cost him his head. There was a great crowd in the Place de la Republique on the day when the veil was stripped from Rude's masterpiece. All the pomp that Paris could master was summoned to do honor to the memory of the man whom Paris in its frenzy had murdered.

The expiation was complete, and the proudest witness of it all was Ferdinand Danton, jr. Led by Fate, he had gone to Paris to study art in the schools. His name, not a too common one, brought him notice. The municipality of the capital asked him to come and see how generously it could make amends.

Upon the same platform where he sat, wrapped in his great pride and complacency, a young girl, beautiful with that beauty which is scarcely found out of France, watched with great eyes as the enwrapments fell from the statue, and listened to the mighty music and the mightier shout with which the new France hailed the new likeness of its old deliverer.

Danton looked once at the image of his ancestor and then at the woman who waved her handkerchief to greet it. Love and Fate had almost done their work. The Danton was chained in that moment to the chariot wheel of his great enemy's great-grandniece. They told him who she was. The pompous dignitaries of the municipality.

There is sunshine in these days on the face of the young Danton. He paints with a desperate energy, and bides impatiently the passing of the time. He tells with a much-softened voice and shining eyes of the beauty and the graciousness of the woman whom the race of the hated Marat has sent to bless him.

"Her picture, by Lefebvre, was in the Salon," he said, "but it was not so beautiful as she. To understand her, you must create in your mind's eye, my dear sir, an ideal woman of twenty. No woman that you can see in America looks anything like her. She is the woman that artists picture in dreams, but can never paint. I will say no more. I cannot say anything plainer. And she is good, like an angel. In the place where her father's factory is, there are many poor. And these she visits and feeds and clothes. She is a saint, this descendant of Marat."

And Viviane is rich, which is more to the point than pages of rhapsody. The Marats have been busy since Charlotte Corday caught their ambitious ancestor in a bathtub and put a deft and admirable end to him and his plottings and his murders and his general loathsomeness. When Marat pere gives his daughter over to be a Danton, e will give also stocks and bonds, and long rent rolls and other things which never come amiss to a man who is not bourgeois.

Chemical Steel Etching.

The wide-awake photo engravers for a long time have been trying to discover some process of etching photogravure plates directly on steel. The advantages of direct etching are manifest. When etched on copper the plate must be steeled again after a very limited number of impressions, otherwise the grain of the soft copper plate will be injured by the immense pressure of the copper-plate press and the beauty of the impressions greatly impaired. Besides saving the time and labor necessary in steeling and resteeling the copper plate, directly etching on steel gives more satisfaction in the sharp impressions obtained. A number of recipes for etching steel have been discovered, but Mr. C. Fleck, in a recent issue of Das Atelier des Photographer, declares that perchloride of iron is the best imaginable etching medium for steel. It is for steel what nitric acid is for zinc. Mr. Fleck also points out that the "hard" pictures which are given by steel may be overcome by using for the gelatine paper a sensitising bath rich in bichromate.

Origin of Earthquakes.

The origin of earthquakes is a subject which has given rise to much discussion. Dr. Mallet, a scientist who has made a very complete study of the whole subject, considers that the earth-wave shock may be the result of a sudden impulse or blow—such as a sudden volcanic outburst, sudden cracking of a mass of rock in a state of tension, sudden generation of steam from water in a spheroidal state, or sudden condensation of steam under pressure of sea water. The origin of earthquakes has also been referred to the falling of portions of the earth's crust into great subterranean cavities, and to rain water or the waters of the sea gaining access to the underlying heated nucleus, whereby steam is generated, which rends and dislocates the incumbent mass. Dana held the view that the tension and pressure by which the great oscillations and plications of the earth's crust have been produced have not yet wholly ceased, and that this is generally the most probable cause of earthquakes.

A card on the outside of office door says—"Gone to lunch. Be back in ten minutes." And the man will be there on time. That is for some days, weeks or even months he will. Then he will be at home occasionally for a day. He'll tell you he had a headache, a turn of cholera morbus, or maybe he'll say he had a lump in his stomach and felt too miserable to move. The lump was probably two or three ten minute lunches condensed.

The man who "bolts" his lunches will find Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the best friend he ever met.

There is no case of biliousness, constipation, indigestion, "heart burn," or trouble of the heart of the nightmare breeding brood that these little "Pellets" will not cure. They cure permanently. TEN YEARS TROUBLED

With Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia—Suffered Greatly and Found No Relief in the Scores of Medicines Prescribed.

South American Nervine Was Recommended, and Before Half a Bottle Was Taken Relief Came.

Have Since Improved Rapidly, and Am Now Completely Cured—So says Mr. David Reid, of Chesley, Ont.

What ills come to humanity from a disordered liver! Henry Ward Beecher has said that it was impossible for a man to hold correct spiritual views if his liver was out of order. The liver is so important a part of the mechanism of man that when it ceases to work with ease the whole man is unable to do his work aright. Can we not appeal to thousands, nay, tens of thousands, for a verification of this fact? Certainly it is, that Mr. David Reid, of Chesley, Ont., felt that the enjoyment of life had been taken from him, through the unhealthy condition of his liver. For ten years he says he was troubled with liver complaint and dyspepsia. Employing his own language: "At times my liver was so tender I could not bear it pressed or touched from the outside. Had tried a great many remedies without any benefit. Was compelled to drop my work, and being worse than usual, I decided as a final resort to try South American Nervine, which had been recommended to me by friends who had been cured by it. I got a bottle from A. S. Goodeve, local druggist, and commenced taking according to directions. Before I had taken half a bottle I was able to go to work again, and I have improved steadily since. I can conscientiously recommend South American Nervine to any suffering from dyspepsia or liver complaint." This is Mr. Reid's story as he tells it in his own words. Were it thought necessary it could be corroborated by a host of witnesses. Mr. Reid has lived a long time in Chesley, and his case was known to be a very bad one. But that makes no difference to Nervine. This great discovery rises equal to the most trying occasions. Let it be indigestion, the most chronic liver trouble, as with Mr. Reid, nervous prostration, that makes life miserable with so many, sick headaches, that sap all the effort out of man or woman, Nervine measures to the necessities of the case. It is a great medicine and thousands to-day in Canada are happier and healthier men and women, because of its discovery. There is no great secret about it, and yet there is an important secret. It operates on the nerve centers of the system from which emanate all life and healthfulness, or if disordered, sickness, even death. Nervine strikes promptly at the nerve centers, hence, as with Mr. Reid, where ten years' use of other medicines had done no good, less than a bottle of Nervine brought about encouraging results, and a few bottles cured.

An Extra Session of the British Cabinet Held.

MANY TELEGRAMS WERE SENT OUT

Lord Salisbury Conferred With the Austrian Ambassador—Sir William Harcourt Wanted an Assurance Which He Did Not Get—Greece Continues War Preparations.

London, March. 9.—An extra meeting of the Cabinet to consider the new Cretan situation arising from Greece's practical refusal to accede to the demands of the powers was held this evening in one of the private rooms of the House of Commons. After the meeting Prime Minister Salisbury went to the Foreign Office, where he was visited by Count Deym, the Austrian Ambassador. Later Lord Salisbury sent telegraphic messages to the other capitals and to Admiral Sir Michael Culme-Seymour, commander-in-chief of the British Mediterranean squadron.

As the House of Commons was on the point of adjourning this evening, Sir William Vernon Harcourt, the leader of the Liberal party, arose, and while disavowing any desire to embarrass the Government in the negotiations necessarily arising from Greece's reply, he said he desired an assurance that the British forces should not be employed against Greece before Parliament was given a chance to express its judgment on the matter. Sir William said he believed that a situation had arisen in which an amicable settlement of the question was possible. He was confident that the Government would do its best to ensure such a settlement. He did not base his request on constitutional right, but on a policy of the highest description, really involving the issues of peace or war.

Mr. Arthur J. Balfour, the Government leader, in reply to Sir William, said the course demanded by the Opposition was extremely inexpedient and absolutely contrary to precedent. The Government, he added, could not be guided by the practice of France, to which Sir William had referred. He recalled the bombardment of Alexandria in 1882, and the blockade of Greece in 1886, when Sir William was a member of the Government. He could not believe that any stronger action, and hoped that nothing as strong, was now likely, but in neither case to which he referred had any notice been given to Parliament beforehand. The Government was most anxiously desirous of an amicable settlement. It was in every way conscious of its responsibility, and was acting in the firm belief that it was pursuing a [illegible] that would bring liberty to and preserve the peace of It was not presumed [illegible] ar by a pledge which [illegible] action etc. criticism [illegible] ly to a question asked [illegible] Bi[illegible] Dilke, Mr. Balfour said he did not think that the negotiations now in progress would be terminated by Thursday, enabling a statement of the intentions of the powers to be made on that day, as had been promised by Mr. Hanotaux, the French Foreign Minister.

Rome, March 9.—The Cabinet met in council this forenoon, the Premier, Marquis Di Rudini presiding, to discuss the reply of Greece to the collective note of the powers, and as the result of the discussion a communication was wired to each of the great powers, saying that, according to the opinion of Italy, the powers are still out of accord as to the method of coercion which should be directed against Greece and that nothing can be done until the question is settled. The despatch further says that the foreign admirals in Cretan waters differ in opinion from Admiral Canevaro, commanding the Italian squadron, and by reason of seniority, directing the united fleet, who reports that the mere blockading of the Piraeus would be ineffective. The united fleet, he says, must extend its operations from the Piraeus to Volo, in Thessaly. The communication of the Government to the powers adds that Italy will not entertain a proposal to occupy Crete alone, but if there shall be any occupation of the island it must be a mixed occupation.

Must Make a Bluff.

London, March 9.—Despatches from official sources in Berlin say that a certain measure of blockade of Greece must be observed, though it may not be immediately enforced. The form of blockade which Germany favors is something similar to that which was put into operation in 1886, which was pre-eminently a peaceful blockade. Under the German plan, as outlined in the Berlin despatches, a fortnight should elapse before any action is taken. At the expiration of that time a pacific form of blockade should be put into operation, under which any Greek or other vessel that may be arrested will not be confiscated, but will be released when the blockade is raised.

The latest despatches from Athens say that the fever of excitement is abating and the city is becoming quieter. The Greek Government have reason to believe that the moderate tone of Greece's note to the powers will be approved by the Governments at Paris and London and oblige the powers to pause. Germany and Russia, in the opinion of the Greek Government, will not act alone and a halt on the part of the powers is believed to be assured. Another despatch from Athens says that every available steamship in Greek waters has been chartered for the purpose of conveying war material to Thessaly. The reserves, who have been summoned to arms, by the Government, are arriving by thousands amid the cheers of the populace and are being hurried to the front.

Col. Vassos Interviewed.

Berlin, March 9.—The Lokal Anzeiger publishes a report of an interview with Col. Vassos, the commander of the Greek army of occupation in Crete, in which he declares that he and all his officers will leave Crete only as victors. Col. Vassos say he has four thousand troops and sufficient ammunition and provisions to last through six months' defence of a blockade. At his headquarters he says he has an ample larder and a large stock of expellent wines and beer. "Though the Cretans, especially the women and children," Col. Vassos is quoted as saying, "have suffered through the blockade of the island from lack of bread, they have had an abundance of meat and drink. The insurgents are well clad, and are excellent marksmen. They are armed with Martini rifles. If it should come to an open war, and the powers should remain neutral, I could take Canea in four hours and Candia and Rethmo in a day."

Take This With Salt.

London, March 9.—A despatch from Candia, Crete, under yesterday's date, says:

A large number of Moslem women and children are confined in the hospital here suffering from mutilation inflicted upon them by Christians. News from the interior shows that massacres of Moslems by Christians are almost of hourly occurrence. Out of 167 Moslems in the village of Cykia, only one person, a child, escaped slaughter.

Ordered to Leave.

Canea, March 9.—Admiral Canevaro, commanding the united fleet of the powers, has notified the Greeks here, including the Greek Vice-Consul, that they must leave the island at once. It is repo[illegible] that the siege of Kandamos has bee[illegible]ed, and that the Mussulmans who were beleaguered there, have moved to places of safety. The insurgents made an attack upon the Turkish position at Akroti yesterday, but were steutly resisted by the Turks and finally repulsed. The insurgents were reinforced during the night, and renewed their attack upon the place to-day.

Italians Fired on Christians.

Canea, March 9.—Advices from Hirapetra, on the south coast of the Island of Crete, say that Mussulmans in possession of that town were summoned to surrender by the Christian insurgents, who were investing the town, and that the Mussulmans rfused to do so. The insurgents then fired a volley into the fort, which was held by the Moslems, whereupon an Italian cruiser lying off the town fired upon the insurgents, compelling them to retire.

A Turkish transport, with Turkish civil officers and soldiers on board arrived here from Kasteta to-day, but was refused a pilot to bring her into the harbor, owing to the fact of her having smallpox on board.

Will Wait Till He's Kicked Out.

London, March 9.—The Westminster Gazette, published a despatch from Canea, saying that the Greeks have been ordered by the commander of the United fleets to leave that place immediately. The Greek Vice-Consul at Canea, who is included in this order, has replied that he will submit only to force, which, the despatch adds, will be employed by the powers if necessary to compel obedience to the order.

Englishmen Ready to Fight for Greece.

London, March 9.—M. Skouses, Greek Minister of Foreign Affairs, has sent a telegram in response to numerous offers of Englishmen to take up arms in the Greek cause, saying that only Greeks are admitted to the Greek army.

The list of British authors who have signed an address, expressing sympathy with Greece, includes Grant Allen, Justin McCarthy, Hall Caine, William Watson, Anthony Hope and Israel Zangwell.

Austrian Troops Under Orders.

London, March 9.—A despatch from Vienna to the Central News says that the 87th Infantry Regiment at Trieste has ben ordered to be mobilized in readiness to proceed to Crete.

The Greek reply to the identical note of the six great powers has been received at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, where it has been most carefully considered. It is not considered at all satisfactory, as it is evasive. Greece apparently being desirous of dodging the very points upon which the identical note was based.

ECZEMA TEN YEARS

Suffered Untold Agonies. Limbs Swollen so Could Not Get About.

Ablest Physicians Signally Failed. Was Absolutely Disheartened. Had Lost All Hope.

Gave CUTICURA a Trial Which Resulted in Absolute and Perfect Cure.

For ten years I suffered untold agonies from that dread disease Eczema, my lower limbs most of the time being so swollen and broken out that I could hardly go about. I had to wear slippers so that I could move about at all. My brother, a physician of thirty years' practice and extensive experience, had tried in vain to effect a cure and signally failed. I tried other physicians of splendid ability with like results, and had reached that point where I became absolutely disheartened, and in fact had lost all hope, when a friend (after long and continued persuasion) succeeded in inducing me to at least give CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial. I shall never regret that I did so, and until my dying day I shall sing the praises of them. I used two cakes of CUTICURA SOAP and two boxes of CUTICURA (ointment), and it resulted in an absolute and permanent cure. I feel that I owe suffering humanity the debt of at least, in my feeble way, calling their attention to my case and absolute cure. I am now, I feel, perfectly cured, sound as a dollar, and the sweets of life are still mine, thank God, and to CUTICURA REMEDIES I attribute my almost miraculous cure. I refer all interested to the Postmaster of this place, any of the ministers, the prominent business men, and all of the citizens of our vicinity indiscriminately, and especially to my friend, John A. B. Shippey, attorney at law, who succeeded in persuading me to give CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial. With profound gratitude, I remain your most enthusiastic admirer, DAVID M. SAPP, Plymouth, Ill.

Constant Newness

Will be found to mark this store from day to day, already the warmer sunbeams shimmer on the new spring leaders. Dame Fashion, has put no second-hand seal on our stock to mar its freshness. Everything is fashionable and profitable to buy.

BRITAIN'S PREMIER

Speaks on the Situation in the East.

HIS REMARKS WERE NON-PARTISAN

The British Government's Policy Cannot be Shaped by Feelings of Sympathy or Religious Considerations—Fighting at Candia—Stories From the Interior.

London, March 10.—At the dinner of the Associated Chambers of Commerce here this evening, Lord Salisbury delievered an address, in which he referred briefly to the crisis which has been reached in the affairs of Greece over the Cretan question. His Lordship said it must be remembered that the British Government could not be guided in their policy by personal sympathies or religious proclivities and sentiments. They were the trustees of a great nation's interests and obligations, which they were bound to maintain above everything else. If they manfully did their duty under the circumstances it would promote, as no other course of conduct could do, freedom and justice, and, above all, European peace, upon which all commerce, industry and well being must depend.

The Premier's remarks were received with loud cheers. The speech throughout was devoid of any expression of party feeling.

Working Over Time.

London, March 10.—The entire staff of employes at the Devonport dock yards, numbering 5000, have been ordered to work overtime for the purpose of hastening the completion of the fitting out of vessels, upon which they are engaged. The order is believed to have been issued in view of the crisis which has arisen over the Cretan question.

A Protest From Greece.

Athens, March 10.—The Greek Government has instructed its representatives abroad to protest against the expulsion of Greek subjects from Canea as an arbitrary violation on the part of the powers of international law.

Talk of a New Regime.

Paris, March 10.—The Temps publishes the announcement that active negotiations have been opened with a view to the organisation of a new regime in Crete, and intimates that the French Government is especially concerned in the giving of a satisfactory reality to the scheme for an autonomous administration of the affairs of the island.

Hot Fighting at Candia.

Cologne, March 10.—The Gazette publishes a special despatch from Candia, Crete, under yesterday's date, which says that fighting between a force of Bashi Bazouks and a band of insurgents has taken place before the gates of that town, in which the Bashi Bazouks lost 60 of their number in killed and wounded. The fighting continues and the exasperation on both sides increases. It is probable that the insurgents will set fire to the town if they are able to do so.

Mussulmans are Safe.

Canea, March 10.—The Mussulmans who were besieged by the insurgents at Kandamos have arrived here on board an Italian warship. British and Italian transports with troops on board are lying off this port.

The Financial Aspect.

London, March 10.—The correspondent of The Times at Athens criticises in a very unfavorable manner the financial cost of the mobilization of the Greek troops, and calls attention to the fact that the cost, when, in 1885-86, the Government of Tricoupis mobilized the troops of Greece, was 125,000,000 drachmas. This expenditure, the correspondent says, entailed the reintroduction of a forced currency, which had a disastrous effect upon the money situation of the kingdom.

The Athens Proia asserts that the national exchequer is abundantly able to meet all the extraordinary expenses from the ordinary revenue, owing to the "forethought of the Government." The Times' correspondent criticises this assertion by remarking "the budget in which such economies were shown is not specified. It is thought, however, that the sympathy of England and France will prevent any coercive measures from being taken against Greece."

THE LATEST NEWS.

Moslem Reports of Christian Cruelty Upset When the Truth Came Out.

London, March 10.—The Daily News tomorrow will publish a despatch from Canea saying that the British, French and Italian admirals landed this afternoon and held a conference with the insurgent leaders at Akrotiri. They expressed regret that they allowed the Turkish warships and troops to fire upon the insurgents during the previous day's fighting, believing then that insurgents were the aggressors. Since then, they said, they had learned that it was the Bashi-Bazouks who provoked the conflict.

In the course of an interview, the despatch says, it transpired that the Cretans had not received the admirals' warning previous to the bombardment of Feb. 21, and that they were unaware also of the promises of autonomy for Crete of the offer of the surgeons, which communications were entrusted to Commander Reineck, of the Greek warship Hydra. The News, in commenting on the despatch, will suggest that the communications entrusted to Commander Reineck were delivered in the wrong quarter.

The Standard will to-morrow publish a despatch from Canea, saying that it is rumored there that the Greek army of occupation, under command of Col Vassos, are short of provisions, their supplies of eatables consisting only of biscuits and oranges. The despatch will also say that the admirals of the foreign warships have warned the commandant at Canea that if the Bashi-Bazouks again provoke the insurgents to an encounter their village will be bombarded by the warships, and moreover that no band of Bashi-Bazouks will hereafter be allowed to enter Canea or to sally out into the country.

The Stories They Tell.

London, March 10.—The Daily News tomorrow will publish a despatch from Canea stating that the Musaulmans who had been besieged at Kandamos, and who have arrived at Canea, were conveyed there on board the Italian transport Trinacria, and that another vessels is expected to arrive shortly with more refugees. The force which relieved the beleaguered inhabitants of Kandamos also assisted 112 soldiers who were besieged in the Spaniako block house.

The arrival of the Trinacria with her load of refugees has created a deep impression in Canea. One of the chief Beys says it is impossible to express the gratiture felt by the Moslems towards England.

The Daily News correspondent relates the story of the rescue of the beleaguered residents at Kandamos, upon the authority of the officers of the Trinacria, the Turkish Governor at Kandamos and others. His account says the utmost credit is due to Sir A. Biliotti, the British Consul at Canea, who managed the entire affair personally. Without him, the correspondent says, the beseiged people could never have escaped. In the first instance, he went alone to Kandamos, after conferring with the Cretan leaders, who expressed doubt of their ability to control their followers. The place was surrounded by 7000 Cretans, who kept up a continuous fire, which sometimes was replied to by a light fire. Consul Biliotti entered the town and remained until nightfall, when, having become convinced of the absolute necessity of employing a force of Europeans to effect the release of the beleaguered ones, he returned to Selino, from which place he started on his return to Kandamos before dawn with a force of 250 British, 100 French, 100 Austrians, 150 Russians and 55 Italians, with four guns. This force was commanded by the captain of the British warship Rodney. Upon arriving at Kandamos the troops remained upon the outskirts while the Consul entered the town to arrange for the sortie. The Cretans had ceased their firing, and consented that the Moslem soldiers should retain their arms, but when the latter emerged and a start was made for Selino a scene of wildest confusion and one of the greatest danger took place. The horde of Cretan insurgents surrounded the refugees, and wherever a gap occurred in the escort would dash in and tear their weapons from the Bashi-Bazouks, and snatch the bundles which many of the women and children carried. It was with the utmost difficulty that the Moslems were prevented from firing upon the insurgents, and thus bringing about a horrible slaughter. During the confusion one girl was kidnapped by the Cretans. The insurgents followed the refugees, pressing in upon their column, as far as Spaniako, where there is a gorge, which was blocked by the escort after the refugees had passed. This prevented the Cretans from advancing further.

The embarkation on board the Trinacaria began at 5 in the evening, and ended at 9 o'clock. After sunset the Cretans at Selino began to make hostile demonstrations towards the Moslems, and several shots were fired by them and several houses were burned. With a view to putting a stop to these manifestations, the warships fired several rifle shots in the air and also fired one of their guns.

The Governor of Kandamos says that when the people in the town were relieved by the Europeans there were only seven boxs of cartridges left, and that the gun ammunition was completely exhausted. Thirteen persons had been killed and 29 wounded since March 6. There were neither bread nor rice in the town, but there was a plentiful supply of meat. The correspondent says the refugees are rapidly debarking at Canea, and that the Trinacria will return to Selino for more.

Censorship Over Telegrams.

Canea, March 10.—The Governor here will hereafter exercise a censorship of all telegrams received here and sent hence. The admirals of the foreign warships, it is said, approve of this plan.

Russia's Offer to Servia.

Belgrade, March 10.—It is announced here that the Russian Government has offered Servia 120 magazine rifles on credit. It has not been decided yet whether the offer will be accepted or refused.

The Hierapetra Fight.

London, March 10.—The Times to-morrow will publish a despatch from Athens, saying that the fighting at Hierapetra yesterday and the expulsion of M. Barakiis, the Greek Vice-Consul at Canea, has re-aroused the war fever there.

The Times to-morrow will publish a despatch from Canea, saying that the situation at Hierapetra is one of anxiety. The insurgents under the Greek leader Korakas, are said to be supplied with guns and it is feared that they will make another attack upon the town.

Excursionists at Constantinople.

New York, March 8.—The steamer Fuerst Bismarck, with a large party of excursionists from the United States and Canada, reached Constantinople last evening. After a stop of three days at Constantinople the Bismarck will begin her homeward journey.

Drank Himself to Death.

San Francisco, March 9.—The coroner's jury in the case of John M. Oakley, the Pittsburg millionaire, who died at the Palace Hotel a week ago, under sensational circumstances, returned a verdict to-day giving the cause of his death as excessive use of liquor.

McKinley's Old Commander Run Over.

Washington, March 10.—Gen. Russell Hastings of Bermuda, W. I., who commanded President McKinley's regiment during the war, was knocked down and run over by a wagon near the Treasury Building to-day. The wheels passed over the crippled leg of the General and fractured it. He was removed to the Emergency Hospital. When President McKinley learned of the accident this afternoon he immediately ordered his carriage and drove to the hospital to see his old comrade.

THE ONTARIO HOUSE

A Lively Day in the Local Legislature.

UNUSUAL OPPOSITION PROCEEDING

A Motion of Adjournment Moved at the Opening—Theatrical Tactics of Mr. Whitney—The Patrons Support the Tories, But Get the Cold Shoulder in Return.

Toronto, March 10.—A surprise was in store for the House when, immediately after routine business, Dr. Willoughby rose and, without preface or explanation, moved that the House do now adjourn. The reason for his extraordinary action, however, was made manifest when the Opposition leader rose to second it, the motion being merely a formal one to enable him to speak upon a matter which he could not otherwise have introduced at that stage.

Mr. Whitney drew the attention of the House to a statement in The Globe. There had never an act been done fraught with more serious consequences to the public than the arrangement, novel in its character, which The Globe stated had been carried out between the Government and an English syndicate. According to this statement, the Government granted a license of occupation to land covering 64,000 acres in the Rainy River district to the South African General Development Syndicate. The land was composed of two blocks in the Rainy River district—44,000 acres to the north of Rainy Lake and 20,000 acres between Shoal Lake and the Lake of the Woods. The syndicate were to have exclusive rights of exploration for three years from May 1 and to have the right to purchase or lease locations on the terms of the Mines Act. They agreed to pay a bonus of $20,000 as security, and also $30,000 the first year, $40,000 the second and $50,000 the third year. He denounced this as an iniquitous arrangement, which would work untold injury to the people of the province. The land indicated was the cream of the mineral land in the province, and there was no better known gold mining land. The syndicate he believed to be a myth and that the persons really interested were residents of Toronto, who had not long since been in the legislative halls.

Hon. J. M. Gibson said that there was no excuse for the course of the Opposition in the theatrical display they had attempted to make. The Government was prepared to defend their course, and he was satisfied that when the information was brought down the people would be satisfied that the arrangement was a beneficial one. Mr. Whitney spoke without information and his statement as to the character of the land was entirely incorrect. The larger block was entirely unexplored and the smaller one not known to possess any such richness as he attributed to it. The locations were a mere speck as compared with the mineral regions of the province. He supposed that the Opposition leader wished to impress the country with his extreme vigilance in protecting their interests, but he ought to have waited until the papers were brought down. The great cry of the Opposition had been that the Government should do something to develop the mineral resources of the province, and now it was proposed to do this without expense and on highly advantageous terms. The company occupied no higher position should they purchase any locations within the tract assigned them for exploration than any private prospector would do. The Government welcomed the fullest discussion and investigation.

The Attorney General said that there had been a strong demand for the introduction of English capital for mining purposes, and it was in response to the demand for an aggressive mining policy that the action of the Government had been taken. Out of the 96,000 acres of our mineral regions some 60,000 had been set apart for this exploration, which would amply test whether we were to be a great gold-producing country or not. He challenged anyone to indicate a better method for introducing British capital for mining purposes than that they had adopted.

FRIVOLOUS QUESTIONS.

Dr. Ryerson enquired how many notaries public and coroners there were in the province, to which the Attorney-General replied that there were no data from which an accurate reply could be given.

Mr. St. John asked a string of nine questions about the head carpenter at the Mimico Asylum—how long he had been employed, what were his qualifications and duties, and whether he kept a horse? He was answered in detail by Hon. Mr. Harcourt, who explained that, while the carpenter's horse had been kept at the asylum, it was doing work there.

Dr. Ryerson wanted to know all about issuers of marriage licenses, names, dates of appointment, occupation, incomes, etc. He dwelt for some time on the imposition of charging $2 for a marriage license. The Attorney General said it would require great expense and much time to procure the return asked for. The motion for a return was amended so as to cover merely the licenses issued during the last three years and passed.

LOCAL OFFICE-HOLDERS.

Mr. Little moved a resolution, "That in the opinion of this House the present mode of appointing registrars of deeds and other county officials is unsatisfactory and should be changed, and that the appointment of all the said officials whose salary or remuneration is provided in whole, or mainly, by the localities for which they are appointed, should not be vested in the executive of the province, but in the people of the locality through their

DISCUSSING the announcement that a Papal delegate is coming out to Canada, The Evening Star says:—"In the face of all this a great outcry will no doubt be raised that Mgr. Marydarval is a Popish emissary coming to capture our country and teach Jesuitical wiles to our Premier. All this is is rubbish; no one with any sense recognises the Pope as possessing temporal power, and his ablegate will be received by the hierarchy and people of the Roman Catholic Church as General Booth would be received by the Salvation Army, or the Archbishop of Canterbury would be received by the Anglicans, or a great preacher or the head of the Methodist Church would be received by communicants of that sect. It will be wisdom on our part to let the Catholic Church settle their own trouble in Quebec and Manitoba, and if it is settled as satisfactorily as Mgr. Satolli settled the trouble in the United States the non-Catholices will have nothing to complain of. When the Papal ablegate to the United States finished his work all was peace and quietness, and the assaults upon the Public School system ceased."

A couple of communications from Mr. J. Davidson, principal, and on motion were ordered to be filed for future reference.

A notice of motion for next regular meeting of the board was read from Dr. Ford, as follows:—"That in consequence of the decrease in the number of pupils attending the High school, caused by the organization of continuation classes in several of the surrounding villages, as authorized by the School Act of 1896, and and partly by the large surplus of public school teachers, both of which causes are likely to be operative for some time to come, it is expedient to reorganise the work on the basis of three teachers on the staff instead of four, as at present. That in order to minimise to the utmost any possible injury to the school that might result from the reduction of the staff and from a change of teachers, it is both a wise and expedient policy to re-engage the present principal of the school, who has served the board so long and faithfully, and at the salary he has been receiving for several years. viz., $1,100.00."

That the first and second assistants be both University graduates and specialists from the Ontario Normal College, the former to teach English and modern languages at an initial salary of $700, and the latter to teach science and such other work as the principal may from time to time assign him, at an initial salary of $600.

WILL PUSH THE BILL NOW.

School Amendments Will Come Up in the Manitoba Legislature To-Day—Orangemen Disapprove It

Winnipeg, March 10.—(Special.)—In the Legislature this afternoon the Attorney-General announced that he would ask that the second reading of the bill containing the amendments to the Manitoba School Act be made the first order of business to-morrow. He intimated that the Government would push through these amendments, complying with the terms of the school settlement, without further delay.

The Orange Grand Lodge of Manitoba is in session in Brandon, and it is expected resolutions will be passed in regard to the school settlement. There can be no doubt that to a very large proportion of the Orangemen the terms of the settlement are not acceptable, and it is believed Mr. Greenway's delay in passing the amendments is due more to Orange opposition than Catholic resistance. Numerous Orange lodges have passed resolutions disapproving of the settlement.

FIVE MEN KILLED.

A Deplorable Accident on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Yesterday in Indiana.

Evansville, Ind., March 10.—The Louisville and Nashville limited train southbound from Chicago was wrecked this morning at 12.30 o'clock at a point on mile south of Hazleton, Ind., and 37 miles north of Evansville, on the Evansville and Terre Haute road. Five men were killed and two seriously injured, as follows:

Killed—Herbert Allen, Evansville, head janitor of the State house, caught in the smoking car and drowned; Joseph Boleman, Evansville, locomotive fireman; John Sears, Terre Haute, conductor; and two unknown men.

Injured—Brakeman Haurson, Evansville; J. B. Henderson, brother of ex-State Auditor Henderson. Both men are seriously injured, but they will recover.

The accident was the result of heavy rains in Southern Indiana since Saturday. White River, near Hazleton, overflowed, and the back water washed out the track of the Terre Haute. Trains were running on slow orders, as the roadbed was known to be in bad condition. When the "Cannon Ball" train reached the fill this morning the embankment suddenly gave way and the engine and baggage car and a part of the smoker dropped into about six feet of water. The engine turned over, but the baggage car remained upright. The smoker hung over the end of the track. The sleeper remained on the track. Engineer John McCutcheon escaped death by jumping, but his fireman, Boleman, was caught in the cab and drowned. Conductor Sears, Brakeman Baldwin, Allen and the two unknown men were in the smoker. Haurson was near the door. When the baggage car went down the jar threw him against a seat, injuring one of his legs. He crawled out of the door and swam a considerable distance to reach land. Henderson was injured by being thrown against a seat.

Wrecking trains were sent immediately to the scene, but the railroad officials are unable to state when traffic will be renumed.

THE OTTAWA BUDGET

Explanation of the P.O. Department Accounts.

THE APPARENT DISCREPANCIES

Occurred Through a Peculiarity in the Method of Calculating the Time—Minister of Justice on the Creation of Queen's Counsel—Tariff Matters.

Ottawa, March 10.—(Special.)—An Associated Press report this afternoon states that Mgr. Tedeschi is the Papal delegate to Canada. This is incorrect. Mgr. Tedeschi is going to the Ecumenical Council at Baltimore. Mgr. Mery del Val is the delegate to Canada.

As far as can be ascertained there is a very clear explanation of the alleged discrepancy discovered by Messrs. Cross and Munroe of Toronto in the accounts of the Postoffice Department. The two auditors make the annual deficit to be much larger than what the departmental report shows it to be. This is owing to their including the June quarter in the transactions of the year, although it appears that since Confederation the payments due on the 30th June have always been paid in the July quarter. If these payments have to be made within the fiscal year it will mean that for this year at any rate the five quarters will have to be paid for, thereby apparently greatly enhancing the expenditure for the current year. It appears also that the two auditors have adopted the unusual course of including in the expenditure of the department the cost of running it, which has hitherto been paid out of the civil Government appropriation and for which a special annual vote is made by Parliament.

One of the Ministers states that considerable work is being done toward the preparation of the tariff resolutions as they will be introduced into Parliament.

Sir Richard Cartwright is still absent from the Capital, but Messrs. Fielding and Paterson have been devoting attention to the tariff revision, and as soon as the Minister of Trade and Commerce does return there will be joint sittings. Asked as to when the bill might be looked for in its completed form, the answer came that the House will not have to lose any time waiting for it to be brought in. By the time that the preliminary work of Parliament is through and the members have really settled down to the work of the session, the tariff bill will be introduced by Mr. Fielding.

The Minister of Justice has caused communications to be sent to the several Provincial Governments to see if a mutual arrangement cannot be reached in reference to the appointment of Queen's Counsel. If this is done, then the appeal from the finding of the Ontario Court of Appeal in this matter will not be taken to the Judicial Committee. Your correspondent gathered, in conversation with the Minister, that his idea is that federal and local authority should agree upon certain hard and fast rules to govern the conferring of the silk, and that active work at the bar for a fixed term of years, possibly 15 or 20, should be indispensable. The proposal implies a recognition of the power of the local authorities to create Queen's Counsel for provincial courts, and of the federal authority for Dominion courts, as decided by the Ontario Court of Appeal. Whether or not there shall be mutual recognition of federal and provincial appointments, with concurrent jurisdiction, must be a matter of negotiation.

At the sitting of the tariff enquiry in Ottawa and elsewhere complaint was made of the incompetency of appraisers at the smaller customs ports, and some manufacturers did not hesitate to ask for the abolition, on the ground that foreign products are allowed to pass through their hands at figures far below the proper valuation. It is held, however, that these complaints are exaggerated. The oversight which the department exercises to prevent the entry of goods under a wrong duty and otherwise to check the entries at the smaller ports has a most beneficial effect. In any case, the entries at the smaller ports are seldom of any great size, and where a mistake has been made once the attention of the authorities is generally directed to it in order to prevent recurrence.

Hon. William Mulock, Postmaster-General, returned to the Capital this morning.

Last night's rain had a deplorable effect in the Western departmental block. It found its way through the temporary roof and soaked a number of places which had about dried off the water poured on them the day and night of the big fire.

SINGULAR ACCIDENT.

The Victim is Suddenly Thrown in the Air From a Timber.

Mr. L. L. Ross, C.P.R., bridge inspector, received an unpleasant sensation this morning, whilst superintending the work of a gang of men who are pile driving on the spur line near the Hunter street bridge.

Mr. Ross was standing on the lower end of a large timber, which lay diagonally across another with its upper end elevated considerably. The men were engaged in unloading some large pieces of timber from a flat car, and one of these was thrown off on the upper end of the beam on which the inspector was standing. The result was that Mr. Ross was instantly elevated heavenward to a distance of twelve or fifteen feet. The incident was amusing, but the sequel was not, as unfortunately he fell on his side across the timber and sustained several rather painful bruises.

AMPUTATION WAS NECESSARY.

Brakeman Adams' Arm had to be Removed To-day.

At noon to-day an operation was performed in the Nicholls Hospital on Mr. Sid. Adams, the C. P. R. brakeman whose arm was smashed at Pontypool on Tuesday through falling from a freight train. Amputation was found necessary and the injured limb was removed. The patient bore the operation well, though very weak through the loss of blood sustained before reaching the hospital.

PETERBOROUGH SPRING ASSIZES.

THE GRAY-WEIR CASE CONCLUDED.

The Baldwin vs. Lundy Action Postponed on Application of Plaintiff —Other Civil Cases Tried.

In continuation of the report of yesterday's proceedings:

Baldwin vs. Lundy.—This case was adjourned at the request of the plaintiff until the Fall Assizes upon the following terms: That the plaintiff, Baldwin, pay to the defendant, Lundy, within twenty days all the costs of this trial lost by reason of the adjournment as between solicitor and client, and in the event of his failure to pay the costs within the time specified the plaintiff's action to be dismissed with costs, and judgment to be entered for the defendant Lundy with his counter claim for $1,000 with costs.

A. P. Poussette, Q. C., and E. B. Stone for plaintiff; G. H. Watson, Q.C., and Denniston, Peck & Stevenson for defendant.

THE GRAY-WEIR ACTION.

In the afternoon the first case taken up was that of Thomas and Hessie Gray against J. Graham Weir for slander. D. O'Connell appeared for the plaintiffs and R. F. B. Johnston, Q.C., of Toronto, and C. W. Sawers for defendant.

The circumstances leading up to the alleged cause for the action are well known throughout the district, being occasioned by the alleged statements of the defendant, that the plaintiffs had caused the death of the late David Scollie.

The plaintiffs, it will be remembered, were arrested on the charge of murdering Scollie, but were honourably acquitted, not being required to offer evidence in defence.

Alexander Austin was the first witness. He had been an employee with the defendant in 1894. He had heard defendant say concerning Thos. Gray, that "he murdered poor old Scollie, and had gone away to keep suspicion out of the road." Again defendant had stated, in ending a conversation "Oh! damn the Grays, they murdered poor old man Scollie." A man named Gray had also heard this conversation. The expressions were used on various occasions. William Garvey was present on one of these occasions.

Cross-examined by Mr. Johnston, witness stated that he was a stranger to the Grays. He had no quarrel with defendant. Defendant had never ordered him out of his house. He had never told a Mr. Bowie that Weir had not mentioned Gray's name to him. If Mr. Bowie said so it was a false statement.

Re-examined witness stated that he did not know Bowie well. Bowie was a relative of J. Graham Weir's.

Joseph Gray, sworn, stated that he was no relation of the Grays by whom the action was brought. Had worked on Weir's farm in 1894. When laying a barn floor in July he had heard Mr. Weir say, "Damn the Grays! they killed old man Scollie." At another time when pitching on hay for defendant he had heard a similar expression used. Witness was not personally acquainted with the Grays.

Thomas Bullen (sworn) stated that he had heard defendant say that "Mrs. Gray had killed Scollie and cut his head off." "The Grays ought to have been hung long ago." "They were no good to king or country." "He did not believe the Grays had killed Scollie; he knew it and they had afterwards burned the house to hide the crime." These expressions were used by Weir whilst he was riding on his sleigh with him.

Cross-examined, the witness stated that he had been in C. W. Sawer's office to borrow money before the trial. He had offered to give a chattel mortgage on his tools. He had not stated that he would not give evidence against Weir if he got the money. Mr. Sawers had broached the subject to him, offering the money if he would "skip the country." He was hard up at the time and accepted the offer. He did not get the money though. Mr. Sawers said he did not have it then. He would not have gone even then, but would have remained for the trial just the same. Others had tried to tamper with him. A man named Graham had given him two dollars. It was understood that he was to get out of the way of a summons.

Re-examined, witness stated that he did not go back to Mr. Sawers to get the money as he got the help he needed somewhere else. He had been taken to the Orange Hall, at Downer's Corners to give an estimate on painting the hall. Graham had been there with him. He was not a painter and said so, but was willing to take the job. Afterwards he had met Graham on the street and had been treated to drinks. Graham then gave him two dollars, telling him at the same time that if he evaded the summons and did not give evidence against Graham Weir that he would also get the Orange Hall job. He signed a paper to this effect, which Graham kept.

J. Lavelle (sworn) stated that in conversation with J. Graham Weir the latter had stated, in speaking of the agreement entered into between the Grays and Scollie, that "the old man would get a hurried send-off some morning." Asked what this meant, Weir said "that woman is a perfect devil. She will take the old man's life yet."

Mrs. McGregor, sister of Mrs. Gray (sworn) testified to Mr. Weir having accompanied Detective Murray to her house on several occasions in search of evidence against the Grays in the murder trial. Weir had stated in her presence that Gray was not away at the time of the fire, as was believed. He said Gray was a mean scoundrel and a liar.

Detective Murray (sworn) stated that he had been engaged on the Scollie case in 1895. On coming to town he had been directed to a number of the residents near the scene of the fire by County Attorney Wood. He had called upon Mr. Weir amongst others. Mr. Weir talked the matter over with him. He could not remember what Mr. Weir had said about the Grays.

Cross-examined, Mr. Murray stated that the statements made by Weir had no effect in deciding him to recommend the extradition of the Grays.

Mrs. Hessie Gray was called, but in order to hear other witnesses who were not present, to establish a certain point, the proceedings were postponed till the next day, in the meantime other cases engaging the attention of the court, at

THE EVENING SITTING.

McDonald vs. Gosselin.—This case came on for trial about 9 o'clock yesterday evening, and after the taking of the evidence judgment was delivered in favour of the plaintiff for foreclosure, immediate payment of the mortgage money and possession of the mortgaged lands with costs. Proceeding stayed for thirty days.

Denniston, Peck & Stevenson for the plaintiff; Hall & Hayes for the defendant.

Anthony vs. Port Hope Electric Co.—Frank Anthony claimed from the defendants the return of $150 deposited with the defendants under a certain contract and interest thereon, and for excavating 117 cubic yards of rock, $117, and $200 for breach of contract. By consent His Lordship directed that judgment be entered dismissing the plaintiff's action with costs, fixed at $125. The pleading is amended by striking out the defendant's counter claim. E. B. Stone for the plaintiff and Chisholm & Chisholm, Port Hope, for the defendant.

THURSDAY, March 11th.

This morning morning there was a large attendance at the Court at 9.30, when the trial, of the Gray-Weir action, was resumed.

The first witness called was Rev. J. J. Rae, who said he had had conversation with Mr. Weir during the trial of the Gray's for murder in 1895. They were talking about the case, and Mr. Weir said in substance that he (Weir) believed that old man Scollie had been killed before the fire.

Wm. Garvey, sworn, said he knew Mr. Weir. He worked four days for him three years ago in the month of March. Mr. Weir said that he had no doubt that the Gray's killed the man who was found burned in the Gray's building—witness could not remember the name.

To Mr. Johnston—Mr. Weir broached the subject himself. One Austin and a man named Conroy called at his place last night. Austin talked a little about the case.

Mrs. Hessie Gray, who was called last night and stepped aside to permit of the attendance of other witnesses, again took the stand this morning. She testified that while she was living on Mr. Weir's farm Mr. Weir called several times. He called once when she was splitting wood. He took the axe and split about two armfuls of wood. He asked her if she liked beer. He said if she wished it, he would put a keg of beer in the cellar and he and she could drink it without the knowledge of Mrs. Weir or Mr. Gray. She refused his offer. On a subsequent occasion Mr. Weir called and tried to kiss witness, who ordered him out. On another occasion he came to the house with a cup of beer and wanted to kiss witness. She pushed him away and the beer was spilled.

To Mr. Johnson—She told her husband and he asked her to say nothing about it. This was the case for the plaintiffs.

THE DEFENCE.

C. W. Sawers, solicitor for defendant, testified as to his connection with Bullen, a witness for the plaintiff, who applied to witness for a loan and said he could give his canoe and his tools and some furniture as security. Witness did not comply with the request and told him to call next day. He asked Bullen, who was not a painter, what he knew about the Gray matter. He had not then be subpœnaed as a witness in the Gray-Weir case. Bullen called next day and witness refused to let him have the money because defendant. Weir, had told him to have nothing to do with Bullen. Witness denied the evidence given by Bullen yesterday.

To Mr. O'Connell—Witness said he had particulars of all the witnesses except Garvey. He had been looking for Bullen. Before he left the office witness thought Bullen was the man he wanted. Bullen started the conversation about Orangeism. He asked witness if Weir was an Orangeman. Bullen said that his family were Orangemen and witness said he ought to be one, as Orangemen helped each other in case of distress.

Wm. Starr, sworn, said, he was working for Mr. Weir. He knew Mr. Weir's barn. The planks were not sawn off at the ends, as Gray had said in his evidence yesterday.

To Mr. O'Connell—Witness, his brother and Mr. Weir examined the planks by lamplight last night.

Thomas Starr, sworn, said that he examined the boards in question, and that they had not been recently cut. He did not see the ends of the planks.

R. E. Bowie said he knew Sandy Austin. He built a barn for Mr. Weir. Saw Austin March 1st about putting up a barn. Had a conversation about the Gray and Weir case. He said he had not spoken to Weir for two years—and that he had never heard John Graham Weir mention the Grays' name.

To Mr. O'Connell—Witness was a cousin of Mr. Weir. Was not trying to assist Mr. Weir; he saw Mr. Austin in his behalf. After asking him about the barn, he asked him about the Gray-Weir case. He was not sure about having the barn built.

Detective Murray said he had no knowledge of the case prior to 1895.

John Graham Weir, sworn, said he never said the words contained in the statement of claim or as said by several witnesses. Had a difficulty with Jos. Gray, a witness. Did not kiss Mrs. Gray. Had no feeling against Mr. or Mrs. Gray. Don't recollect having any conversation with Mr. Lavelle. Took no part himself, independently of the Crown, against the Grays. He had had difficulty with Austin about building a barn, and about the tenancy of a house of witness. He dispossessed him by means of a landlord's warrant. Never had any conversation with Garvey about the Gray case, and had no recollection of helping him grind axe. He had not seized every favourable occasion to speak against the Grays. Had no conversation with Bullen while riding on his wagon. Wanted to see Bullen so that he would know who he was; he never had got upon his sleigh.

FOR THE PROSECUTION.

Jos. Gray was recalled. Testified that the boards in Weir's barn were cut and the ends placed against the floor of granaries.

This concluded the evidence, and after addresses by counsel and his lordship, the case was given to the jury which up to the time of going to press had returned no verdict.

PERSONAL.

Miss Pauline Johnston, of Brantford, the Indian poetess, well known in Canada, is seriously ill.

Mr. J. Jeffries has sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to be able to resume his duties at the Collegiate Institute.

Mr. and Mrs. Gobeil, of the Grand Central, are still seriously ill. Their daughter, Mrs. J. M. Hamilton, of Toronto, is still with them.

Dr. Charles McKee was able to be out yesterday for the first time since returning home after meeting with his recent accident. His sight is steadily improving.

Mr. E. B. Stone's condition is not as favorable to day as might be wished by his friends, his efforts in court on Monday having apparently been too much for him.

Mr. M. O'Brien has completed the special course of study which he has been taking at Queen's University, but will not resume his position on the Collegiate Institute staff just yet, being in need of recuperation after his recent close application to study.

NEWS NUGGETS.

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—The railways have not had occasion to run a snow plough over the local division this winter.

—The special meetings in the Murray street Baptist church are being well attended this week.

—The initiatory team of Court Peterborough No. 99, Canadian Order of Foresters, meet this (Thursday) evening for practice.

—As a result of the stone heap invitation extended to tramps in Peterborough, there has been an emigration to other districts. Cobourg entertained fourteen of these gentry in one day.

—Lincoln J. Carter's great play, "The Defaulter," which appears at the opera house next Tuesday night, possesses a plot of great strength and deep interest, together with stirring incidents and powerful climaxes. The comedy scenes and the bright and crisp specialties, which are introduced in a very judicious manner, are very interesting.

ST. JOHN'S LENTEN SERVICES.

Rev. C. L. Ingles Gives an Address on the Subject of the Kingdom of God.

The special Lenten services in St. John's last night were well attended and Rev. C. L. Ingles, of St. Mark's church, Parkdale, gave an excellent address, full of substantial truth, on the subject of the Kingdom of Heaven. He took for his text St. Matthew xiii., 39—"The enemy that sowed them is the devil." He showed how the Kingdom of God had been the special object of the ceaseless and persistent attack of evil influences from the beginning to the present, and how the Church had overcome them. Several reasons, cleverly presented, were given why Almighty God permitted evil influences to operate. The speaker exalted the Church to the dignity of a sacrament—practically it was "an outward and visible sign of an inward and spiritual grace." The address was well thought out, effectively delivered, and must have been edifying to those who accepted the privilege of listening to it.

A Croupy Cough was soon Driven Away By Mr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine.

"My little boy had a bad croupy cough," says Mrs. Smith, of 256 Bathurst street, Toronto. "My neighbor, Mrs. Hopkins, recommended me to try Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. I did so, and the first dose did him good. One bottle completely cured the cold. It is surprising, the popularity of Chase's syrup in this neighborhood. It appears to me it can be found in every home."

GRAND JURY PRESENTMENT.

Praise For Public Institutions of the Town — Reference to the Tramp Nuisance—His Lordship's Reply.

This morning the Grand Jury entered the court and made the following presentment:

The Grand Jurors of our Lady, the Queen, beg to present as follows:

We regret the recent illness of Mr. Justice Meredith, who was appointed to take the assizes at Peterborough and we trust that the indisposition will be of short duration and that he will be able to return to those judicial duties which he has heretofore performed with eminent judgment and ability. We are highly pleased to see Your Lordship so soon returned to our county and we congratulate both you and ourselves that at this sittings of the High Court, so far as the criminal business is concerned, you are freed from duties, which, however necessary in the interest of the administration of justice, must always be a source of regret.

We regret to report that we visited the following institutions which receive aid from the Provincial Government, namely, the Nicholls Hospital, the St. Joseph's Hospital and the Protestant Home. It must be indeed a source of pride to the people of our county that there are such large, well equipped and handsome hospitals to meet the necessities of those in sickness and distress and it is with pleasure that we report the scrupulous care with which they are managed and conducted.

We observed in the gaol a considerable number of able bodied men who have been imprisoned for vagrancy, but who are in reality common tramps. We beg to call your attention and through you the attention of those in authority that the tramp nuisance is growing every day larger and larger and is in this district, and also in other parts of the country, a source of continual terror to the women of the community and a danger and menace to the peace and comfort of the people. We would suggest that special legislation should be introduced directed to their suppression with penalties which would meet the requirements of this class of our criminal population.

We beg also to call your attention to the fact that as to the aged and infirm people confined in the gaol, who are guilty of no crime, but afflicted with the infirmities incident to their advanced life and unable to support themselves, the county of Peterborough in the June session of the County Council in the year 1897 expressed their willingness to co-operate with the town of Peterborough in the erection of a House of Refuge suitable for the comfortable maintenance of this class of our population, but at the present time the town of Peterborough has taken no action in the matter to the great regret of the community.

This state of affairs is the more to be deplored inasmuch as such institutions would be more or less self-sustaining, and the first cost of their erection would be the only permanent obligation cast upon the municipalities interested.

A copy of the resolution of the County Council re the matter is attached to this presentment.

JOHN MOLONEY,
Foreman.

March 11th, 1897.

His Lordship in reply said it was indeed a source of congratulation that the public institutions were so admirably managed. There was no doubt that the tramp element was a serious menace to the peace of the community. He would see that a copy of their presentment in this regard would be forwarded to the Attorney-General. He discharged the jury from further attendance.

VICTORIAN JUBILEE.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—In what way do the citizens propose celebrating our gracious Queen's Jubilee? "The Victorian museum" is an excellent idea. The proposed lodge celebration is hardly in keeping with the spirit of a popular and free celebration.

M. B. A. Entertainment. Opera House, March 17th.

The Jameson raid in South Africa and subsequent events, touching the matter, have become of world-wide interest. Owing to the fact that our countryman, Hon. Edward Blake, one of our greatest statesmen, is acting on the Parliamentary Committee appointed to enquire into the circumstances which resulted in Jameson's raid, Canadians feel something like a local interest in the matter, and the people of Peterborough no doubt will feel a little pardonable pride from the fact that they are to be the first audience in the new world having an opportunity of seeing those beautiful coloured views, which comprise over sixty, of the most thrilling scenes of this historical event. The entertainment will also consist of vocal and instrumental music. Reserved seats 50c, general admission 25c. Plan of hall at Salisbury & Co's.

PETERBOROUGH PRESBYTERY.

REV. J. G. POTTER, OF ST. ANDREW'S, IS ELECTED MODERATOR.

An Interesting Sunday School Report and a Comprehensive Statistical Statement—St. Paul's Large Congregation—Only $237 Arrears in Salaries.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery was held on Thursday in Port Hope in the First Presbyterian church. In the absence of Rev. J. A. Tanner, the Moderator, Rev. John Hay occupied the chair.

There were present Rev. Messrs. Bennett, Cleland, Duncan, Hay, Hyde, Gilchrist, Laird (Alex.), Laird (Robt.), Lord, McLeod, Potter, Reeves, Smith and Torrance, ministers; and Messrs. H. Carruthers, Peter Brown, Hugh Donaldson, R. Tully, Jas. Ferguson, J. F. Clark, elders.

The Rev. Jas. G. Potter, B.A., of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, was elected Moderator for the ensuing six months.

Rev. Robt. Laird, of Campbellford, applied for leave of absence for six months in order to take a special course in one of the German Universities. Mr. Laird explained that excellent supply had been arranged for during his absence. Leave was granted.

Rev. A. C. Reeves, B. A., Lakefield, introduced the subject of changing the age at which ministers might take advantage of the Aged and Infirm Ministers' Fund, from 70 to 65 years. It was agreed that this be recommended when the state of the fund permits.

THE REPORTS OF VISITS to augmented charges were then given all showing that while there had been much difficulty owing to general trade depression that the people had been very liberal and much interested in the work. The following augmentation grants were then recommended: — Warsaw, $300, (conditionally); Springville, $200; Havelock, $300; Janetville, $300; Bobcaygeon, to be reported.

An interesting Sunday school report showed that large sums are contributed by the schools to the missions of the church, St. Paul's, Peterborough, coming first with $271 for missions, followed by Keene, Cobourg, Lakefield and Campbellford, in the order named. Thirteen schools have increased their contributions during the year. From the ranks of the Sunday school 189 additions were made to the membership of the church during 1896, an increase of 51 on the previous year, and at the head of this roll of honor stands the congregations of Millbrook and Garden Hill.

From a comprehensive report the following facts may

PROVE OF INTEREST:

The Presbytery has now 25 pastoral charges. Three congregations were settled during the year, Rev. Bryce Innes at Bobcaygeon, Rev. A. J. MacMullen at Springville and Bethany, and Rev. D. A. Hamilton at Havelock. There are now no vacant charges in the Presbytery.

The five largest congregations in the Presbytery are: St. Paul's, Peterborough, membership, 755; St Andrew's, Peterborough, 341; Campbellford, 334; Cobourg, 323; First Church, Port Hope, 300.

The largest contributions to missions are: St. Paul's, Peterborough, $2,300; Cobourg, $621; First Church, Port Hope, $508; St. Andrew's, Peterborough, $491; Baltimore and Coldsprings, $489; Grafton and Vernonville, $476.

But in relation to the number of families reported, the congregation of Grafton and Vernonville stands first in its support of the missions of the church.

There is reported only $237 of arrears of salary for 1896 from the 25 congregations in the Presbytery.

The congregations which received the largest number of new members during the year are: St. Paul's, Peterborough, 76; Campbellford, 41; St. Andrew's, Peterborough, 35; Cobourg, 34.

Reports of standing committees were submitted as follows:

Sabbath school, by Rev. R. Hyde; church life and work by Rev. Dr. Smith; statistics, by Rev. Wm. Bennett; augmentation by Rev. John Hay; Y. P. S. C. E., Rev. C. S. Lord; Home Missions, Rev. Dr. Torrance. Following the report of the Home Mission Committee, the following appointments were made:—Rev. R. McKnight to Harvey and R. P. Hall to Apsley. The Apsley congregation were encouraged to proceed at once with the erection of a church.

COMMISSIONERS

were then appointed for the General Assembly in Winnipeg in June:

Ministers—James Ross, Bethesda; John Hay, Cobourg; D. A. Thompson, Hastings; A. K. McLeod, Brighton; C. S. Lord, Grafton; Peter Duncan, Colborne; J. R. Gilchrist, Baltimore.

Elders—James Crack, Port Hope; alternate, Wm. Douglas, Port Hope; G. M. Roger, Peterborough; alternate, Alf. Johnston, Peterborough; W. E. Roxburgh, Norwood; James Russell, Cobourg; Robt. Tully, Peterborough; John S. Fitzgerald, Lakefield.

THE EVENING SESSION

began at 8 o'clock. The Rev. R. Campbell, D.D., of Renfrew, was nominated as Moderator for the next General Assembly. Presbytery representatives on Assembly and Synod committees on bills and overtures were as follows: Assembly, Rev. J. Hay; Synod, Rev. Dr. Smith and Mr. Clark, of Port Hope.

St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, was chosen as the next place of meeting, on July 6th, at 9 a.m.

The application of Rev. R. McKnight to be granted his standing as a minister of the church was considered very favourably. Mr. McKnight has done excellent service and has won the appreciation of his people in his present charge. Rev. Messrs. John Hay and C. S. Lord were appointed to support the application before the General Assembly. The remits from the General Assembly to Presbyteries were then considered with reference to place of meeting.

The Presbytery voted down the proposal for a central permanent place of meeting for the General Assembly, as in its judgment the time for that change in not yet come; and in the same spirit it voted down the proposal that the billeting system be done away with.

The proposal to establish a Sunday School Board of Publication was also rejected, but the Presbytery voted that an editor should be appointed, thus looking forward to a Board of Publication in the future.

With reference to the establishment of a Central Mission Board to supervise all other standing committees of General Assembly, it was agreed that this would not be expedient.

The report of the W.F.M.S. was then presented, and reference was made to the good services of the society.

A motion was introduced by Rev. C. S. Lord in the direction of dividing the Presbytery, the intention being to have one Presbytery extend along the line of the G. T. R. main line east and west, and the other along the line of the C.P.R. running north as far as Lindsay. A committee consisting of Messrs. Lord, Hay and A. Laird, was appointed to confer with similar committees from other Presbyteries.

The Presbytery then adjourned, the Moderator pronouncing the benediction.

La Grippe, for Colds, Coughs,

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally, my husband,—reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,—procured, for me, a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, whenever we have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMILY WOOD, North St., Elkton, Md.

A SUMMERLESS YEAR.

What an Old New Yorker's Diary Tells —Snow and Ice in 1816.

The year 1816 was known throughout the United States and Europe as the coldest ever experienced by any person then living. There are persons in northern New York who have been in the habit of keeping diaries for years, and it is from the pages of an old diary, begun in 1810 and kept unbroken until 1840, that the following information regarding this year without a summer has been taken:

January was so mild that most persons allowed their fires to go out and did not burn wood except for cooking. There were a few cool days, but they were very few. Most of the time the air was warm and springlike. February was not cold. Some days were colder than any in January, but the weather was about the same. March from the 1st to the 6th was inclined to be windy. It came in like a small lion and went out like a very innocent sheep.

April came in warm, but as the days grew longer the air became colder, and by the 1st of May there was a temperature like that of winter, with plenty of snow and ice. In May the young buds, were frozen dead, ice formed half an inch thick on ponds and rivers, corn was killed, and the corn fields were planted again and again, until it became too late to raise a crop. By the last of May in this climate the trees are usually in leaf and birds and flowers are plentiful. When the last of May arrived in 1816 everything had been killed by the cold.

June was the coldest month of roses ever experienced in this latitude. Frost and ice were as common as buttercups usually are. 'Almost every green thing was killed; all fruit was destroyed. Snow fell 10 inches deeep in Vermont. There was a seven-inch snowfall in Maine, three-inch fall in the interior of New York State, and the same in Massachusetts. There were only a few moderately warm days. Everybody looked, longed and waited for warm weather, but warm weather did not come. It was also dry; very little rain fell. All summer long the wind blew steadily from the north in blasts laden with snow and ice. Mothers knit socks of double thickness for their children, and made thick mittens. Planting and shivering were done together, and the farmers who worked out their taxes on the country roads wore overcoats and mittens. On June 17 there was a heavy fall of snow. A Vermont farmer sent a flock of sheep to pasture on June 16. The morning of the 17th dawned with the thermometer below the freezing point. At about 9 o'clock in the morning the owner of the sheep started to look up his flock. Before leaving home he turned to his wife and said, jokingly:

"Better start the neighbors soon; it's the middle of June and I may get lost in the snow."

An hour after he left home a terrible snowstorm came up. The snow fell thick and fast, and, as there was so much wind, the fleecy masses piled in great drifts along the windward side of the fences and outbuildings. Night came and the farmer had not been heard of. His wife became frightened and alarmed the neighborhood. All the neighbors joined the searching party. On the third day they found him. He was lying in a hollow on a side hill, with both feet frozen; he was half covered with snow, but alive. Most of the sheep were lost.

A farmer near Tewksbury, Vt., owned a large field of corn. He built fires around the field to keep off frost. Nearly every night he and his men took turns in keeping up the fires and watching that the corn did not freeze. The farmer was rewarded for his tireless labors by having the only crop of corn in the region.

July came in with ice and snow. On the Fourth of July ice as thick as window glass formed throughout New England, New York and in some parts of the State of Pennsylvania. Indian corn, which in some parts of the east had struggled through May and June, gave up, froze and died.

To the surprise of everybody August proved the worst month of all. Almost every green thing in this country and Europe was blasted with frost. Snow fell at Barnet, 30 miles from London, England, on August 30th. Newspapers received from England stated that 1816 would be remembered by the existing generations as the year in which there was no summer. Very little corn ripened in New England. There was great privation, and thousands of persons would have perished in this country had it not been for the abundance of fish and wild game.

In direct contrast with 1816 appears the year 1827-28, when there was no winter. Captain Daniel Lyon, who died some years ago in Burlington, Vt., used to relate his experience in 1827-28. He was a walking encyclopedia of local events. He said: "I knew but one season when winter was almost like summer, the winter of 1827-28. I was running the steamboat Gen Green between Burlington, Vt., and Port Kent and Plattsburg, N.Y., and during the year there was not a bit of ice in the whole lake from one end to the other. The old Lake Champlain Steamboat Co. hauled out the steamboats Phoenix and Congress, and hardly a bit of ice appeared in Shelburne Bay, near Burlington, during the winter.

"The Phoenix had a new engine built in Albany, and the whole outfit had to be carried from that city to Shelburne Harbor by teams through the mud. At Middlebury, Vt., the mud was more than a foot deep. The Phoenix was rebuilt and ready to launch by January 15th. January 18th was the day fixed for the launching, and I took over a large party from Burlington on the Gen. Green. The sun was shining with the warmth of a July day. The women who sat on deck raised their parasols." —New York Sun.

Seems as if consumption always picks out the brightest and best. Fully one-sixth of all the deaths that occur in the world are caused by consumption. Many things were once considered impossible. It would be strange if medical science did not make some progress. The telegraph and telephone, the phonograph, the electric light—all were once impossible, and once it was impossible to cure consumption. That was before the time of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Taken according to directions, this standard remedy will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. Consumption is caused and fostered by impurity in the blood. It is cured by purity and richness in the blood—surely, certainly cured by the "Medical Discovery." It builds up solid healthy flesh and vigorous strength.

Eternal Vigilance.

"Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." It is the price of everything worth having.

It is the price of life itself. A man needn't be always looking for danger, afraid that something will happen to him; but a wise man will form a habit of care about the important things of life.

It isn't half so much trouble to take care of yourself as it is not to. A man who follows regular, healthy habits, feels good all the time. Life is worth living to him. But a man who "don't want to bother" with taking care of himself has more pain and misery crowded into one day than a good healthy, hearty man who lives right would ever know of in a whole year.

When a man's stomach is out of order, and his digestion don't work; when his liver gets to be sluggish and won't clear the bile out of his blood, it is time for him to look out for himself. He gets no nourishment out of his food. His blood gets thicker and thicker with impurities. His nerves get irritated. He loses energy and fighting force.

He may say, "I can stand it, I will feel better to-morrow;" but the chances are he will feel worse to-morrow and worse still next day. He ought to put himself right at once. He needs Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is made for just this condition. It rouses up the digestive and nutritive organs, and gives them power to extract from the food all the nutritious elements and transform them into rich, nourishing blood. It enables the liver to cleanse out all bilious impurities and pour into the circulation an abundance of highly vitalized blood, full of the life-giving red corpuscles which build up healthy flesh, muscular strength, and nerve-energy. It does not make flabby flesh. It is the only suitable tonic and strength-builder for corpulent people.

WITH HELEN KELLER

CONCERNING HER PROGRESS AT THE AGE OF 16 YEARS.

This Afflicted Girl Now Ranks With Advanced Students of Her Own Age—Preparing for College and Planning a Life Full of Work for Others.

Just back of Radcliffe College in Cambridge, Mass., is the institution known as Mr. Arthur Gilman's Cambridge School for Young Ladies. Here girls are fitting themselves for college, and among them is a quiet, sweet-faced student, who is probably the most interesting school girl in the world. Her name is Helen Keller. She was deaf, dumb and blind from her babyhood until she reached the age of 10. To-day, at 16, although she is hopelessly deaf and blind, she speaks English, German and French fluently and is mentally equal, if not superior, to any girl of her age in Cambridge or elsewhere.

When an infant he was like any child until she was 18 months old. Then she was attacked by an illness which spared her life, but robbed her of speech, sight and hearing. The lonely baby seemed to be shut away from all the world and to live in an outer darkness, which nothing or no one could penetrate. But one day a wonderful woman took the unfortunate child's hand in hers, and the apparently hopeless work of communicating with her was begun. That woman was Miss Annie M. Sullivan, who has taught Helen Keller all she knows and to whom the credit of the girl's wonderful record is due.

HELEN KELLER ND HER TEACHER, MISS SULLIVAN.

Learning to Read.

The first lesson, she tells us, was given with a small doll as the object. Miss Sullivan took her pupil's hand and passed it over the doll. Then she made the letters d-o l-l very slowly with the finger alphabet. Helen meanwhile holding her teacher's hand and following the motions of the fingers. The teacher began to make the letters a second time. The child immediately dropped the doll and followed the motions of the teacher's fingers with one hand, while she herself repeated them with the other. She then tried to spell the word without assistance, but failed to give the double l, so the teacher spelled the word once more, laying stress in the repeated letter. At the next attempt the child spelled doll correctly. This process was repeated with other words, and the little girl soon learned six words—"doll," "hat," "cup," "pin," "mug," "ball." When she was given one of these objects she spelled the name, but much patient teaching was necessary before she understood that all things were thus identified. As soon as she understood that everything had a name and that by placing their fingers in certain positions she and her teacher could communicate these names to each other Helen applied herself enthusiastically to the task of acquiring new words. The method was always the same—she felt the object and then was taught to spell it with her fingers. At the end of five months she knew 625 words.

In May, a year from the time of Miss Sullivan's arrival, Helen began to learn printed words. The teacher took an alphabet sheet and put her fingers on the letter A, at the same time making the letter according to the finger alphabet. The pupil moved her finger from one printed character to the other, as the teacher formed the letters. The child learned all the letters, both capital and small, in one day. Next Miss Sullivan turned to the first page of the primer, and made her pupil touch the word "cat," spelling it with her fingers at the same time. Helen instantly caught the idea and asked Miss Sullivan to find "dog," and other words. She was much displeased because the teacher could not find the name "Helen," in the book, and as Miss Sullivan was unable to explain elaborately why it was not there, this lesson ended under a cloud! After that Helen sat for hours, feeling of each word in her book, and showing radiant happiness when she recognized one.

About this time Mr. Anagnus, secretary of the Board of Trustees of the Perkins Institute, had a list of the words she knew printed for her. These were cut into several sheets of printed words which she could arrange into sentences. The first sentence formed was "Cat does drink milk." This she carried to her mother, and was overjoyed when Mrs. Keller read it, repeating it to the child on her fingers, as she read. Helen could scarcely restrain her excitement and joy as each word was thus repeated to her and she immediately understood that she could now communicate any thought that was passing through her mind. From this time her progress was so rapid that it attracted the attention of the scientific world.

The Blind Girl's Happy Life.

To-day, at 16, Helen Keller sits in the class-room of Mr. Gilman's school four hours daily, and takes exactly the same studies pursued by her classmates. These are Latin, French, advanced German, English literature, history and mathematics. By her side sits Miss Sullivan repeating silently to her pupil everything that is said by the class teacher.

You will see the two figures alone in the front row, as you enter the room, and if you are a very close observer you will notice that their hands, on the seat between them, are clasped together and that each word uttered by the class teacher is repeated by almost imperceptible motions of those hands. Later you will observe a much more interesting sight. You will see the beautiful fingers of the blind student seek her teacher's face and rest there, the index finger on the side of the nose, the second finger on the lower lip and the thumb beneath the chin. Commanding thus the entire range of nasal, lip and throat movements, Helen Keller's brain receives from her sensitive fingertips the messages from the speaking world. This success in teaching her pupil to read speech by laying her finger on the speaker's lips is perhaps the crown of Miss Sullivan's work. Before she could do that Helen could communicate only with those who understood the arbitrary sign language of the blind and deaf. Now she can understand anybody whose lips she can touch, and she has also been taught to speak readily and with surprising distinctness, considering her afflictions. Her speech is rather thick and her voice monotonous, which is to be expected considering that she herself has never heard speech since her infancy and has no remembrance of having heard it then. But one understands her readily, and she, wholly unconscious of any peculiarity in her voice, talks rapidly, earnestly and joyously. This joyousness and eager interest she feels in all new objects and persons are among the girl's chief charms. She is so bright, so eager, so alert, so evidently and wholly happy, that the feeling of sympathy with which one approaches her seems quite uncalled for. Knowing nothing of the sin and suffering and sorrow of the world, she turns to the good and bright side of life as naturally as a bird soars upward. She is a girl among girls at Mr. Gilman's school, and only the constant presence of Miss Sullivan would attract special attention to her if one did not know her history.

In appearance she is a well-formed, graceful, perfectly healthy girl of 16, with simple gowns reaching to her bot-tops and a mass of short, curly, brown hair, falling over her shoulders. Her complexion is clear, her features are good, and only her eyes show her affliction. Her expression is wonderfully sweet and winning and her manner thoroughly well-bred and lacking in self-consciousness. Her most marked characteristics are her joyousness and her eagerness to learn.

She laughs frequently and contagiously. She has already become very popular with her school-mates with whom she plays and dances during the morning intermission of half an hour. She learned to dance by following the motion of the girls' bodies with her hands as they danced, and she feels the vibrations of the music and keeps perfect time. She boards in Cambridge, but a short walk from Mr. Gilman's school. Here she meets and mingles with the girls in the evening. Some of them have asked her to teach them the hand alphabet.

"They get along very well," she told the writer in speaking of their attempts, "but some of their mistakes are very funny."

Helen's life at present is a regular one. She is in school from 9 o'clock in the morning until 1. In the afternoon she reads, walks, visits her friends, studies, and has long and delightful conversations with Miss Sullivan. She is interesting in all the national questions of the day, and discussed the gold and silver question with the writer with great earnestness.

"I should be very glad to get all I could of either gold or silver," she ended laughingly, "but of course I think the gold standard is best for America."

She also confided to the writer that her great ambition is to go through college, and that she is fitting herself for this career with purely unselfish motives.

"I wish to be able to help others," said this child on whom all the world has looked with tender sympathy.

It has frequently been asked whether Helen Keller dreams of seeing and hearing. She was asked about this the other day, and her reply was prompt, cheerful and wholly to the point.

"Of course not," she said, "I'm blind and deaf." She added that, like others, she dreamed of the persons and the incidents of her waking hours. It is naturally impossible for her to understand all that is implied by the words "seeing" and "hearing." She cannot wholly realize her lack, and certainly there are compensations for these in the awakening of her young soul and the development of her wonderful mind.

TEN YEARS TROUBLED

With Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia—Suffered Greatly and Found No Relief in the Scores of Medicines Prescribed.

South American Nervine Was Recommended, and Before Half a Bottle Was Taken Relief Came.

Have Since Improved Rapidly, and Am Now Completely Cured—So says Mr. David Reid, of Chesley, Ont.

What ills come to humanity from a disordered liver! Henry Ward Beecher has said that it was impossible for a man to hold correct spiritual views if his liver was out of order. The liver is so important a part of the mechanism of man that when it ceases to work with ease the whole man is unable to do his work aright. Can we not appeal to thousands, nay, tens of thousands, for a verification of this fact? Certainly it is, that Mr. David Reid, of Chesley, Ont., felt that the enjoyment of life had been taken from him, through the unhealthy condition of his liver. For ten years he says he was troubled with liver complaint and dyspepsia. Employing his own language: "At times my liver was so tender I could not bear it pressed or touched from the outside. Had tried a great many remedies without any benefit. Was compelled to drop my work, and being worse than usual, I decided as a final resort to try South American Nervine, which had been recommended to me by friends who had been cured by it. I got a bottle from A. S. Goodeve, local druggist, and commenced taking according to directions. Before I had taken half a bottle I was able to go to work again, and I have improved steadily since. I can conscientiously recommend South American Nervine to any suffering from dyspepsia or liver complaint." This is Mr. Reid's story as he tells it in his own words. Were it thought necessary it could be corroborated by a host of witnesses. Mr. Reid has lived a long time in Chesley, and his case was known to be a very bad one. But that makes no difference to Nervine. This great discovery rises equal to the most trying occasions. Let it be indigestion, the most chronic liver trouble, as with Mr. Reid, nervous prostration, that makes life miserable with so many, sick headaches, that sap all the effort out of man or woman, Nervine measures to the necessities of the case. It is a great medicine and thousands to-day in Canada are happier and healthier men and women, because of its discovery. There is no great secret about it, and yet there is an important secret. It operates on the nerve centers of the system from which emanate all life and healthfulness, or if disordered, sickness, even death. Nervine strikes promptly at the nerve centers, hence, as with Mr. Reid, where ten years' use of other medicines had done no good, less than a bottle of Nervine brought about encouraging results, and a few bottles cured.

PETERBOROUGH AND TORONTO.

THE ONTARIO HOUSE.

municipal bodies." He spoke briefly in support of the motion, urging the usual argument that the offices were distributed by the Government as the reward of party services.

Mr. Stratton said that it was better that the Government should appoint the officials, as they were responsible for them. Were these offices filled by the municipal bodies it would introduce party politics into municipal affairs. The men who had been appointed to fill positions by the Government were well qualified for their posts and a higher standard of efficiency maintained than if they were chosen by the municipal councils.

Messrs. Meacham and Howland followed in support of the resolution, presenting the usual arguments in favor of municipal appointments.

Mr. McLean asserted that nearly all County Councils were run on political lines, and if they had the bestowal of these offices they would become party machines. This statement was strongly denied by Dr. Willoughby.

Hon. G. W. Ross characterised the resolution as contrary to the British system, and urged that to put the officials under municipal control would weaken the administration of justice. No evidence had been produced to show that the officials appointed by the Government were incompetent or inefficient. Mr. Whitney referred to Mr. Garrow's resulution to the effect that civil servants should not take part in campaigns as evidence of the scandal occasioned by the system of appointments for political service. He repudiated any attempt to interfere with the British system of administering justice. Hon. Mr. Davis asserted that there was no demand for a change and no complaints as to the conduct of the officials appointed by the Government. County Councils frequently appointed to office those who were members of those bodies, so that the evil complained of would not be remedied by the change.

After recess a number of private bills were read a second time.

The debate on the appointment of local officials was resumed by Mr. Haycock, who alluded to the position occupied by the Patrons on the subject two years ago. He said that they had then refrained from supporting a similar motion introduced by the Opposition in view of the promise the Government had then made to introduce legislation on the subject. The Government had been given a fair chance to do this, but had not done so. Again the composition of the County Councils had been changed since that time. It did not make so much difference whether the officials were elected or appointed by the municipality, but the present system simply made office a bribe for supporting the party in power. They had heard much about British precedents from the Government; in fact, a stranger coming into the House might suppose that the Conservatives occupied seats to the right of the Speaker.

Mr. McKay of Oxford, alluding to the change of position on the part of Mr. Haycock in falling into line with the Opposition, read an extract from a recent speech by Dr. Willoughby at Hamilton, in which he said there was no independant party in Canada, and that the Patrons were like a rooster on the fence, waiting to see on which side there was most corn before jumping down. (Laughter and applause.) The appointments by Government compared very favorably indeed with the appointments made by municipal bodies. In twenty years the defalcations by municipal officials amounted to $373,000, but little of which was recovered, whereas the defalcations of provincial officials in the same period only amounted to $15,000, all of which was ultimately made good.

Mr. Marter urged that the American system, to which some of the Government speakers had referred, had nothing to do with the case, as they did not propose to make officials elective. He denied that the conduct of all the Government officials was as satisfactory as had been contended.

The Attorney-General pointed out that Mr. Haycock's excuse for changing his vote, viz., that the Government had promised legislation two years ago, would not hold water. The Government had never promised to make officials elective. He doubtless had reference to the Fees Commission, a totally different matter. The Patrons could not claim to be consistent of they voted for this resolution, as they had previously suported a resolution of their own in favor of electing local officials by direct vote of the people. If they now voted for the resolution of the Opposition they would stultify themselves. He proceded to point out practical difficulties in the way of the proposed system—as where cities separated from counties municipally had the same registry offices. To get over these difficulties would require the reorganization of the entire municipal system, the present system of Government under which they lived, but if any change were to be made it would be better to have these officials elected by the people than chosen by the municipal councils.

Mr. Mathieson spoke in favor of the resolution, and was followed by Mr. McNichol, who defined his position as being in favor of the election of officials, if it were possible to secure it, but pledged to support the resolution as the next best reform. The debate was continued by Messrs, Mutrie, Gurd, St. John, Chapple, Kidd. On a division being taken the vote stood as follows: Yeas 34, nays 52.

Mr. Haycock moved: "That in the opinion of this House the present system of appointing Registrars, Sheriffs and other County Officials is unsatisfactory. That the elective system of electing such officials should be given at least a trial. That a favorable opportunity of making a test is afforded by the vacancy now existing in the Registrarship of Ontario County. That provisions should therefore be made for the immediate election of a Registrar for said County by those qualified to vote at municipal elections. And further, in order that the elective system may receive a still fuller and fairer trial, this House is of opinion that the same elective system should be applied to all vacancies occurring in the offices of Registrars during the next five years."

In speaking to the motion, he replied to the charge of inconsistency, stating that while he preferred the system of electing officials by popular vote, he regarded their election by county councils as preferable to the present system. The system of popular election prevailed in the United States and had worked well there.

The Speaker ruled the first sentence of the resolution out of order, as it was substantially identical with the beginning of the resolution just voted down, and it was amended accordingly, the first sentence being struck out and the next changed so as to read: "That the system of electing Registrars, etc." On a division being taken the resolution was declared lost by a vote of 18 to 70. The Liberal and Conservative vote was solidly against the resolution, with the sole exception of Mr. Reid of Durham, while the two P.P.A. members voted with the Patrons.

The House then adjourned.

CURLIANA.

The Lindsay Post says,—Skip J. H. Connell, of Peterborough, arrived with his rink last evening on the six o'clock express, and after supper engaged in the final game against Skip G. A. Little. Lindsay required a lead of ten shots to tie the Peterborough score, and 11 to win, and as the Peterborough rink was a very strong one, the general opinion was that Little would do well indeed if he defeated his opponent by a narrow majority. At the 10th end Peterborough was one shot to the good; at the 18th end the score was a tie; Lindsay scored the next three ends, Making nine shots, thus leaving the score a tie over all at the 21st end. In the 22nd end Peterborough got a stone placed near the button, and it remained there despite the strenuous efforts of the Lindsay men to dislodge it; five running shots were sent at it, but it seemed to be glued to the spot, and counted the necessary one for Peterborough. Following were the players and scores:

THE VALLEY OF PAIN.

HOW ONE WOMAN MADE HER ESCAPE.

A LIFE OF TORTURE CHANGED TO A LIFE OF COMFORT AND HAPPINESS BY KOOTENAY CURE.

Of all the intense and persistent forms of pain one can scarcely conceive of anything more agonizing than Neuralgia. Its victim is one of those that draws forth our sympathy and pity as all efforts to effect a cure with the ordinary remedies signally fail to do anything more than give the merest temporary relief. Unbounded joy should fill the hearts of neuralgic sufferers at the announcement that in Kootenay the "new ingredient" is effecting miracles in the way of banishing the excruciating agony which has rendered their lives a curse, perhaps for years.

Mrs. William Judge, of Crumlin, P. O., in the County of Middle ex, went before C. G. Jarvis, a notary public of Ontario, and made a solemn declaration (so firmly did she believe in Kootenay) to the effect that for many years she was an intense sufferer from Neuralgia. She says that the pains in her head and neck were so severe she thought she would lose her reason.

She has taken Ryckman's Kootenay Cure and willingly testifies it has been her salvation, and believes that without it she would now be in the asylum.

This lady has had the deep shadow of suffering lifted from her life. She has been transported from the Valley of Pain to the Hill Top of Health—and all through Kootenay.

Mrs. James Kenny, of 30 York St., Hamilton, Ont., and many others testify under oath how they were released from suffering through the agency of Ryckman's Kooteny Cure.

Full particulars of these cases will be mailed you by sending your address to the Ryckman Medicine Co., Hamilton, Ont.

The remedy is not dear, one bottle lasts a month.

LATEST WAR REPORTS

Sir William V. Harcourt Raises the Question

IN THE BRITISH HOUSE OF COMMONS

Right is the Strength of the Feeble, Says Premier Delyannis — King George Does Not Rely on His Relatives— Outline of the Scheme Which Greece Would Accept.

London, March 11.—In the House of Commons this evening Sir William Vernon Harcourt asked the Government if it was true that Greece was prepared to recognize the autonomy of Crete under the suzerainty of the Sultan.

Mr. Geo. N. Curzon, Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, said in reply to Sir William that Greece had made a communication to the Government on the subject of Crete, and this communication would be laid upon the table to-morrow. He added that Sir William's question did not express accurately the attitude of Greece.

Right the Strength of the Feeble.

New York, March 11.—The following special despatch from James Creelman is published in The Journal:

Athens, March 10.—I know from the very highest authority that Greece has prepared a plan for the Macedonian campaign to the minutest detail. The responsibility for the future rests with the powers. If such a flagrant insult to Greek nationality as the violent deportation of the Greek Consul from Canea is repeated the sound of the opening shots of a great European war will circle the globe and European Turkey will be dismembered.

Athens is flooded with enthusiastic recruits. The Prime Minister writes to The Journal on the position of Greece the following:

"Right is the strength of the feeble." Theodore P. Delyannis.

The King Doesn't Rely on Relatives.

Athens, March 11.—King George authorizes the United Associated Presses to state that he does not expect, nor has he at any time since the present troubles arose, expected either advice or aid from his relatives upon or near thrones of Europe, but relies entirely upon the justice of Greece's cause. The King admitted to the representative of the United Associated Presses that he had expected the most from the Prince of Wales, whose wife is the King's sister, and advised him to influence the recall of Sir A. Billiotti, the British Consul at Canea. But, His Majesty added, Billiotti was a titled personage, and was enabled to spread official lies concerning the troubles in the Island of Crete, which found ready believers. King George further said that the marvelous mobilization of the Greek fleet had provoked the jealousy of the powers. The Greek Government has deposited the sum of money necessary to pay the coupon on the debt.

What King George Says.

Vienna, March 11.—The Neu Freie Presse publishes a report of an interview had by its correspondent in Athens with King George of Greece. The King is quoted as saying: "Greece has done in Crete as Austria did in the case of Bosnia, when the Bosnian Christians took refuge in Austria." The King also said that the Greek troops would remain in Crete and protect Greeks and Turks alike. His Majesty complained of the conduct of Sir A. Billiotti, the British Consul at Canea, in assisting the Turks. Though Billiotti was a British Consul, he said, he was a Levantine, more Turkish even that the Sultan himself.

Britain, France and Italy in Accord.

London, March 11.—Lord Salisbury declines to discuss the Cretan situation until it shall be shown that the negotiations which have been resumed with Greece have failed, and action is taken upon the ultimatum of the powers. M. Hanotaux, Foreign Minister of France, and the Marquis Di Rudini, Prime Minister of Italy, concur in the view taken by Lord Salisbury and decline to express any opinion upon the subject. Italy already has 15 warships in the Levant, and is on the eve of sending ten more. The Italian ironclad Saldegna, the largest warship in Italy's navy, has arrived at Spezzia, where the Italian flying squadron is assembling.

The Situation at Athens.

Athens, March 11.—The situation here is improving. The city is quieting and apart from an occasional burst of enthusiasm on the part of the people, there is very little of an exciting nature to engage public attention.

Amilcar Cipriani, the Italian Socialist agitator, arrived here to-day, accompanied by 16 volunteers, for the purpose of entering the Greek military service. The party was met by a mob, and was cheered almost incessantly as it marched through the streets. The Government denies the report that the military authorities are forming a foreign legion. The authorities want it to be understood that they do not desire any disorderly element or filibusterers in the military, sufficient number of Greeks to fight the battles of Greece being available.

Witnesses of the arrivals of Cretan refugees at the Piraeus, where 8000 of them are quartered, describe their state as being extremely pitiable. They are utterly destitute, and most of them are emaciated from hunger and illness. Most of them are women and children, and many of them were brought in open-decked sloops, exposed to the weather in an absolutely nude state. Many of the women were driven raving mad through their sufferings and from fright, and several children were born at sea or upon the landing stages, where the miserable creatures disembarked.

Insists on the Landing of Troops.

London, March 11.—A despatch from Rome to The Daily News says that Admiral Canevaro, the Italian who is in command of the combined fleets in Cretan waters, insists upon the necessity of landing troops to quell the rebellion in the interior of the island. The Italian Government, after conferring with the Governments of other powers, has therefore decided to send a force of troops to Crete.

The Daily News will to-morrow publish a despatch from Salonica confirming the report of the unceasing military preparations that are being made by the Turks. The officials in Salonica, Macedonia and Kassandra are seizing for the use of the army all the horses and mules belonging to the Christians in these places. They have received orders from Constantinople to collect next year's taxes in advance. This fact, together with the loss of other property, has caused despair among the Christians and much discontent among the Mussulmans.

What Greece Would Accept.

London, March 11.—The Athens correspondent of The Times telegraphs that he has obtained from the highest authority the outlines of a scheme which Greece is willing to accept, pending a final solution of the Cretan question. The first part of the scheme is that the Turkish troops be immediately withdrawn from the island; secondly, that the restoration of order be entrusted to part of the European fleet co-operating with the Greek army, which will act under a commander of the joint forces senior to Col. Vassos; third, that the insurgents submit to the powers; fourth, that after three months a plebescite be held to decide whether autonomy be established or the island be annexed to Greece, and, fifth, that the powers immediately induce Turkey to withdraw part of her troops on the Greek frontier, Greece to withdraw her troops in the same proportion.

The Times says that the Government regards the chief danger as being on the frontier. Both the Greek army and the Thessalian peasantry are so excited that an outbreak may occur at any moment.

MURDER IN THE FIRST DEGREE.

Preliminary Trial of Robert J. Powley at Niagara Falls Charged With Killing His Wife.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., March 11.—The preliminary trial of Robert J. Powley, charged with murder in the first degree, began this morning. Only witnesses for the prosecution were examined. After medical testimony, Miss Mary Yost was sworn. She is the young woman who was in the room with Mrs. Powley when the murder was committed, and will be the principal witness against Powley during his trial. She is 21 years of age and a native of Harriston, Ont.

Witness was at Mrs. Powley's apartments on Monday night last when the murder was committed. Mrs. Powley went out for a short time early in the evening to fit a dress. She returned and retired about 9.15 o'clock. Witness had put the little boy to bed about 8 o'clock. She remained up a few minutes after Mrs. Powley had retired, and then went to bed. It seemed to her that she had scarcely dozed off when she heard a crash as if someone was violently moving chairs about. She occupied the bed in the same room with Mrs. Powley and almost simultaneously with the noise mentioned she heard Mrs. Powley cry out twice: "That's him." Then she saw a man coming into the room. He walked directly to Mrs. Powley's bed, and said twice: "Is that you, dear?" Then Mrs. Powley called, "Mary, Mary," to which witness answered, "Yes, yes."

Witness then rose up and saw Powley with his left arm either upon Mrs. Powley or over her. Two stifled cries of "Murder!" came from Mrs. Powley, and from the manner in which they were uttered the witness thinks the murderer had his hand over her mouth. Then the shooting began. Witness jumped up and ran past the murderer and out on to the street. Four shots were fired while she was in the room. Three were fired at Mrs. Powley, and she thinks the fourth was fired at her, as she saw the man turn partly towards her, and heard the report directly behind her.

On cross-examination, the witness stated that there was no light in the room where the murder was committed and that the window curtains were down. She could see objects quite plainly in the room, however, and distinctly recognized the murderer as the man whom Mrs. Powley's children had pointed out to her as their father. She did not see a revolver in his hand. The lower door to the street entrance was not barred, as another family had moved in that day. The door to Mrs. Powley's apartments was locked. She did not see Mrs. Powley lock the door, but she heard her do so. She did not see a struggle or hear the murderer speak to the little boy. She passed within a foot and a half of the man when she ran from the room. He said nothing to her. She is certain she heard one shot after arriving on the street. The witness was asked if she saw the man who did the shooting in the court room, and she pointed out the prisoner, saying she was positive that he was the man. The prisoner's father on two occasions visited Mrs. Powley while witness was there.

Other testimony of the incidents following the shooting was given, and the prisoner waived his right to plead.

He scarcely moved during the examination of the witnesses, and held his right hand continually inside his vest over his wound.

The case was adjourned until Saturday at 2 o'clock.

ALLIANCE PROTESTS.

The Harcourt Bill Not a Satisfactory Measure.

AN INFLUENTIAL DEPUTATION

Waited on the Provincial Government Yesterday and Stated Their Grievances —Mr. Hardy Defended the Position of the Government, Which, He Says, is a Temperance One.

Toronto, March 12.

Yesterday was Prohibition or rather Protest Day in Toronto, and about 500 prohibitionists, many of them from outside places, assembled in the morning at the Guild Hall, McGill-street, for an emergency convention at the call of the Dominion Alliance, to discuss and protest against the new license bill of the Government.

The meeting was opened by Dr. J. J. Maclaren, who described the negotiations with the Government and the steps taken by the Dominion Alliance. The Harcourt bill was far short of what had been expected, and the only course open now was to bring the greatest possible pressure on the Government.

Ald. F. S. Spence advised that an Executive Committee be appointed to deal with the proposals and resolutions submitted to the convention. On this motion, the following twenty-five were elected: Dr. J. J. Maclaren, Q.C., Rev. William Kettlewell, G. H. Lees, F. S. Spence, Rev. Dr. McKay, Rev. A. C. Courtice, Rev. W. F. Wilson, Rev. Dr. Ryckman, Mrs. Thornley, Rev. J. S. Ross, Hon. S. C. Biggs, Rev. J. McEwen, Rev. W. A. Hunter, W. H. Orr, E. S. Cummer, Miss Willis, Mrs. Chamberlain, George Wrigley, S. J. Duncan-Clarke, Mrs. A. O. Rutherford, Hon. Senator Vidal, Mrs. Lees, Mrs. Watson, F. W Watkins, Rev. Mr. Auld.

The committee went right to business, and the delegates talked over their troubles and aired their differences of opinion, which were many.

Mr. G. H. Lees moved that the whole convention march in a body to the Parliament Buildings and impress the Government by force of numbers.

Finally, the motion of R. N. Burns was carried, that the Committee on Resolutions appoint the speakers who should lay the demands of the meeting before the Government, and that as many members of the convention as could should attend at the interview.

After an adjournment for lunch, the convention resumed and took up the report of the Committee on Resolutions, each clause of which was taken up in turn, with the result that the following was ultimately decided upon as the proper thing to go to the Government:

"That in view of the mandate of the people of this province on Jan. 1, 1894, and in view of the pledge of the Government, this convention affirms: (1) The unalterable basis of its approach to the Provincial Government to be the most effective temperance legislation within its jurisdiction and such as will be an adequate response to the demands of the people and as an honorable fulfilment of the Government pledge.

"(2) That we reaffirm the request of the temperance convention of last July to be a very moderate instalment of temperance reform, and we express great dissatisfaction with the proposed legislation as a response to our requests as being far behind what is within the power of the Government to grant.

"(3) That, while we do not consider the bil as satisfactory, we consider the following points as favorable: (a) That the age limit has been raised; (b) that the new bill cuts off 5 per cent. of the present number of licenses; (c) that it somewhat restricts the sale by druggists, but the clause in question requires important modification so as to prevent abuses.

"(4) We consider the following points as retrograde legislation: (a) That section 1 of the bil shall not apply to county towns having a population of 2500 or less; (b) the withdrawing from Municipal Councils of the power they now possess of annually reducing the number of licenses in the municipality.

"We regret that the word 'apparently' be struck out in reference to the age limit; (2) we are thoroughly dissatisfied with the present bill as to the number of licenses to be issued in proportion to the population; (3) we also thoroughly condemn the proposed method of elections preventing the renewal of a license in any polling subdivision; (4) we are quite dissatisfied that no response had been made to our appeal to prohibit drinking and distribution of liquor in clubs; (5) we are dissatisfied with the bill as to the closing hours which are proposed; (6) we object to the inefficient legislation in the bil for the cancellation of licenses irregularly and improperly granted."

Rev. Mr. Courtice, seconded by Rev. Mr. Kettlewell, wanted the following added, but was persuaded to withdraw it after a heap of warm discussion:

"Having reviewed the development of the temperance movement leading up to the present bill and having considered the bill itself in its particular provisions with an expression of our views on the same, we offering our conviction that the temperance situation in Ontario as created by the plebiscite vote, the Government's pledges, and the Privy Council's decision, warrants us in expecting, and we hereby pledge ourselves to work for, a far more thorough reconstruction of the license system than we have yet asked for, with a view of securing that measure of partial prohibition which was promised by Sir Oliver Mowat, and is possible under a provincial license law unless the adoption of Dominion prohibition shall relieve our provincial legislators; more particularly we affirm that the prevention of bar room drinking and of the treating system and of the drinking on the premises where the liquor is sold is possible within the limits of a licensed retail and wholesale trade in the Province of Ontario.

HUNGRY FOR OFFICE.

The hunger of the Ontario Opposition for office is becoming truly pitiable. Mr. Whitney, the leader of the Opposition, deplores the fact that the "whole body of office holders of the province are of one political stripe." He does not reflect, apparently, that that is the fault of the people that has for the past 25 years shown its confidenc in a party of a particular political stripe. To remedy this evil he and the Opposition propose to overcome it by taking the power of appointing officials, for whose proper discharge of their duties the Government is responsible, out of the hands of the Government and, in effect, electing these officials by popular vote. This is very like taxing people without giving them any voice in the administration of the taxes thus imposed. An Opposition supporter moved in the House on Wednesday that registrars and county officials be elected by the people of the localities through their representatives, the municipal bodies. This is perilously close to the system in vogue on the other side of the line, where even the judiciary are elected by the people. A proposal to thus Americanise our institutions by grafting upon them one of the worst forms of procedure, should not be regarded with sympathy by the people of this province, who value the heritage of British institutions, with whose practices our present system is, in the respects in question, identical. The subject has been pretty well threshed out, and the only thing that can be urged in its favour is the desire of the Opposition to get at the sweets of office. The remarks of Mr. Stratton during the debate pretty fairly cover the objections to the change proposed by the Opposition:

Mr. Stratton laid down the principle that the Government, responsible for the proper management of an office, certainly should have the appointment of the officer. No British Government divested itself of the power to appoint where responsibility for the proper conduct of the officer belonged to the Government. A system of appointment such as that proposed would mean patronage without responsibility, and lead to the appointment of ward-heelers as public officers. It would mean the introduction of politics into the municipal affairs of the province. Patronage was a detriment to the Government and to members of the House who had to recommend gentlemen for office, but it was a responsibility that must be taken. Mr. Stratton declared that the Opposition had never taken a stand on the matter, their motions on the question having been most indefinite. In closing he spoke strongly against the American system.

The Opposition in their zeal to score a point forgot to be consistent. They voted solidly for Mr. Little's motion for the appointment of registrars, etc., by municipal bodies; but, when Mr. Haycock, the leader of the Patrons, went them one better and proposed reaching practically the same result by a short cut in the shape of a resolution to have existing vacancies in the ranks of registrars filled by men elected by the people, the Opposition voted solidly against a motion which would directly effect results which their own motion indirectly tended to produce. The same principle is involved in both cases.

Rev. Mr. McGregor, President of the Provincial Christian Endeavour, in his sermon at Woodstock last Sunday, said that the advocates of prohibition, when that measure was obtained, need not expect to have a "sweet paradise with no drinking and no misery. They were going to have nothing of the sort." That there is some truth in this is shown by the fact that American whiskey distillers at a meeting in Cincinnati protested that the increase of the tax from 70 cents to $1.10 per gallon had so stimulated illicit distilling that there was no profit in the business. The attainment of prohibition will not, it seems, give temperance advocates an opportunity of resting on their oars. With human nature so wedded to stimulants, it is highly improbable that prohibition will make a change in the habits of those whose thirst for strong drink or some similar stimulant, has in some cases become a second nature. Whatever restriction or prohibitory measures may be adopted, there is reason to believe that the extinction of the drink habit will be gradual and from the tendency to re-action inherent in severe measures, it may be judged that there is something to be said for wise and progressively severe restrictive measures.

ALLIANCE PROTESTS.

and we inform the Government that it will be our purpose to crystallize public opinion to such an issue and our expectation that the Government will respond in up-to-date aggressive measures."

The resolutions to go to the Government had been adopted when there was a most unseemly wrangle between Rev. Mr. Kettlewell, the Mayor and nearly everybody else. Mr. Kettlewell wanted the following to be added to the resolutions:

"That sec. 5, sub-sec. 2, of the committee's report be struck out and the following substituted therefor: 'That the people of this province have declared by a majority of nearly 32,000 for prohibition to the extent to which the Legislature of this province has jurisdiction; that the Government has promised such a prohibitory bill as the decision of the Privy Council warrants; that it is the conviction of this convention that the Legislature has the power to so regulate the traffic as to cut off all hotel licenses, and we hereby request that a law be enacted by the Legislature providing that all hotel licenses be extinguished."

After the wrangle Mr. Kettlewell was ruled out of order, and the deputation half an hour late went to interview the Cabinet.

The Council chamber was packed with delegates, sitting and standing, and many who could not get inside were crowded in the corridor. Seated around Premier Hardy were Hon. Mr. Ross, Hon. Mr. Harcourt, Hon. Mr. Davis, Hon. Mr. Harty and Speaker Eventurel. The Mayor had got mixed in the shuffle and was not handy after a short wait, so Ald. F. S. Spence told the Premier what the deputation were in attendance for. He said the people had at the polls by an enormous majority declared in favor of prohibition of the liquor traffic. Sir Oliver Mowat had promised prohibition as far as the law would allow. Sir Oliver had been transferred to another sphere, but it was understood from Mr. Hardy last July that the Government have the same feeling as its predecessors, and would go as far as public sentiment would warrant.

A bill had been presented which falls far short of what might reasonably be expected. It did not come up to the expectations due from the promise given by Premier Hardy last July. Twenty-three amendments had been asked for, and a few of them more important than the rest, and on these the bill did not come up to expectations at all. The prohibitionists were thankful that the age limit had been raised and thankful that the sale of liquor had been to some extent restricted by druggists.

Mr. Spence contended that the bill did not go as far as the feeling of the people demanded. It was to be regretted that the hour of closing was still 10 and 11 p.m. If the sentiment was against it the electors in the municipality should have the power to change it. He spoke on the lines of the resolution, which was then read by Rev. Dr. Ross.

The committee appointed to lay the case before the Government then in turn spoke. Mayor Fleming, Rev. Dr. McKay, Rev. A. C. Courtice, W. W. Buchan, Mrs. May Thornley, Hon. S. C. Biggs and Senator Vidal all spoke in a lively strain, Mrs Thornley particularly saying some very plain things to the Government. Applause was frequent from the crowd, which was so great that it filled every corner of the room.

Hon. Mr. Hardy said the Government was always glad to meet the temperance people and hear their views. Speaking for himself and his colleagues they had nothing to recall. He had listened to the speakers, and if he had one regret it was that [illegible] was called a retrograding [illegible] was not a retrograding [illegible] one question upon which there might be a difference was taken from the Scott Act, relating to the three years' life of a bylaw granting license, and if that was a mistake the Government were prepared to reconsider that question. Referring to his promise in July, Mr. Hardy said: "I do not for one moment take back what I said. We are a temperance Government and I do not retract for a single moment."

"I was," continued the Premier, "not speaking of a prohibition bill, but a license bill. The people seem to combine the two. They are at opposite ends of the pole. Prohibition is one thing—license another. There is not a word spoken in reference to a license law. It was prohibition in part or prohibition wholly."

"I have the documents in my hand," Mr. Hardy replied. "Mr. Marter had introduced a bill doing away with the sale of liquor by retail. Sir Oliver doubted if the Government had the power to prevent sale of liquor by retail, and if so, it also had power to prohibit wholesale. The question was submitted to the Supreme Court."

The Premier pointed out emphatically that Sir Oliver Mowat spoke, not in reference to a prohibition, but to a license law. It wasn't argued before the Privy Council as regards licenses—it was as regards prohibition. The dispute was not what Sir Oliver had said, but the way the deputation had applied it—whether he had been referring to a prohibition or a license law.

As to his own promise, it was "as far as jurisdiction will permit and public sentiment will approve. What can we do?" We are not expected to attempt to carry through what we cannot. Our majority is not large, perhaps 8 or 9 on a test vote. We claim some voice in interpreting our promises. We don't leave our promise to any person to construe it and apply it his own way. A change of five votes, and the Government drops. [Cries, "Let it drop."] It doesn't do to say we are to rely on the Opposition. We can't hand over the reins to the Opposition. I have not seen or heard from the Legislature that we have any more power. He himself had carried 4 or 5 bills through the House, and could recall none but that came out much different to the way it came in. This bill is introduced on the same ground. We are prepared to discuss it.

Our record is not hostile to temperance, continued Mr. Hardy, and then he mentioned how Senator Vidal had been 30 years in the Dominion Senate, but what had he done in the way of temperance legislation? This was an illustration of how much easier it is to preach than to practice. Mr. Hardy continued that we have to be practical, to do what we can, and although he did not say the bill reached the limit, he could say it was reasonable. [Cries of "Oh, oh!"]

I don't see the gentleman who says "Oh, oh," and I don't want to be goaded into saying anything warmly, remarked the Premier, and he went on to defy anyone to point out in fair discussion anything reactionary in the bill excepting, perhaps, that which related to the three-year term of license.

In addition to the reduction of licenses, druggists were prohibited, and where one hour was taken off closing time it was good in proportion with three hours, was it not? [Laughter.] Then "sale to minors." He did not suppose it possible to amend it, but some one said there, "No advance." Saloon licenses were to be abolished—"No advance," he supposed.

Concluding, Mr. Hardy said: "When you come to consider ultimate action, we can only go as far and as fast as we can. That's our pledge. Sir Oliver was on a different question."

When Mr. Hardy took his seat the Mayor said the deputation would like to hear Hon. Mr. Ross, and the latter gentleman replied that it was unnecessary, and in a few remarks pointed out that the members of the Government were unanimous regarding this bill.

When the Minister had concluded the members of the Cabinet left the chamber and Ald. Spence was detailed to hunt up a place for a meeting right away to consider Mr. Hardy's reply. The lecture hall in the Y. M. C. A. was the building secured. The delegates made their way there and the place was soon packed.

Mrs. James Davenport Makes a Statement for the Benefit of Others.

Mrs. Davenport is well-known in Tweed, and this is how she spoke to our representative concerning Doan's Kidney Pills. Said Mrs. Davenport:—

"I have suffered for some years from dizziness puffing under the eyes, pains in the side and back, sleeplessness, poor appetite, and in fact, was in a bad state generally.

"I took two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills which I got at P. K. Newton's drugstore, and experienced immediate relief from their use.

"I am now very much better indeed; appetite improved, pain almost disappeared and I feel stronger and healthier in every particular.

"I heartily recommend them to all sufferers from kidney trouble."

THE SCHOOL AMENDMENTS.

Discussion in the Manitoba Legislature—Mr. Roblin Uses Strong Language.

Winnipeg, March 11.—(Special.)—In the Manitoba Legislature this afternoon Attorney-General Cameron moved the second reading of the bill containing the amendments to the School Act, in accordance with the terms of the Laurier-Greenway settlement. In doing so, Mr. Cameron expressed the belief that the terms of settlement were satisfactory to nearly all the people of Canada, and he thought this would be the last ever heard of the school question.

Mr. Roblin, leader of the Conservative Opposition, replied, pronouncing the bill a hydra-headed, illegitimate offspring of political duplicity and dishonesty. Mr. Roblin wanted to know what had been settled and with whom it had been settled. He declared it was humiliating and exasperating, that as a result of the bill ambassadors were now going back and forth between Rome and Ottawa and the Dominion had a paid solicitor sitting at the feet of Rome. He charged Mr. Laurier and Mr. Tarte with wilfully deceiving the electors of Quebec, and wound up by moving the six months' hoist. The debate will be continued to-morrow.

The Liberal members of the Manitoba Legislature wired Clifford Sifton their hearty congratulations on the anniversary of his birthday, and wished him many happy returns. Mr. Sifton replied by wire to-day thanking them for their kind congratulations.

"The Defaulter."

Lincoln J. Carter, the popular manager and author, has written many successes, but from a purely dramatic standpoint his famous play, "The Defaulter," which appears at Bradburn's Opera House next Tuesday, March 16th, is said to outstrip them all. Originality and novelty, as well as the heart interest of the play, are its chief and salient features. In his well-known liberality Mr. Carter had spared no expense in mounting the production with fine scenic embellishments. Comedy is not lacking by any means, and lovers of music, song and dance be equally well suited. 1d Oldest Couple in the World.

It is pointed out by the Napanee Beaver that the oldest married couple perhaps in America, or in the world, are Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hiller, now living at Elkton, Michigan, both of whom were born in Ernesttown, not far from Napanee, where they lived until their family of eleven children were born. It is nearly forty years since they removed to Michigan. Hiller was born on October 30th, 1790, and Mrs. Hiller in March, 1793. They still have an old newspaper recording the death of Hiller's father at the age of 109. Jacob Hiller is now 106, and Mrs. Hiller 104. Hiller remembers the war of 1812 and tells what he saw in the way of fights on the lake near Kingston. They were married in Ernesttown, Ont., in April, 1819, and have been married nearly 78 years.

THE T.V.C. DEPUTATION.

The Mayor Thinks That April 6th Would be a Good Date.

The mayor, this morning, wrote to Hon. A. G. Blair, Minister of Railways and Canals, asking if April 6th would be a suitable date for him to receive a deputation in the interests of the completion of the Trent Valley Canal.

If the minister signifies his willingness to meet the deputation on this date circulars will be at once sent out from town, to all the interested municipalities along the line of the canal, and delegates from every county will swell the crowd which will go to Ottawa to impress upon the Government the necessity of expending a sufficient sum of money to make the former expenditure of value to those whom it was intended to benefit. It is expected that this deputation will be the largest which has ever visited Ottawa from the district.

DEATH OF BRAKEMAN ADAMS.

He was too Weak From Loss of Blood to Rally After Amputation.

Sidney Adams, the young C.P.R. brakesman, who fell from his train and was injured at Pentypool station on Tuesday last, died at the Nicholls Hospital yesterday afternoon at ten minutes after four.

His arm was amputated earlier in the afternoon and he was unable to stand the shock of the operation on account of his great weakness occasioned by the loss of blood sustained before he reached the hospital. The surgeons postponed the operation as long as they dared in order that the young fellow might regain all the strength possible, but he was unable to rally after his arm had undergone amputation.

His mate, Brakeman Baines, who was with him until his death, as he had no friends in town, acquainted Dr. Bell with the facts of the case, and as the deceased was a member of Lakeview Lodge No. 272, I.O.O.F., in Toronto, Mr. Jas. Tully, Secretary of Otonabee Lodge, immediately took the matter in hand, and at a hastily called meeting of some of the members, it was resolved to do all that was possible for poor Adams. A beautiful casket was purchased, and with wreaths of flowers was sent up to the hospital. This morning Dr. Rose and Mr. James McGill, Past Grands, of Otonabee Lodge, accompanied the remains to Toronto.

The deceased was only 25 years of age, and leaves a widow and one little child to mourn his death. They reside at Toronto Junction.

THE LATE JOHN GREEN, SR.

Death of the Oldest Resident of North Monaghan.

Last evening at seven o'clock John Green, sr., of North Monaghan, not only the oldest resident, but the oldest individual, of that township, passed away at the patriarchal age of ninety years and five months. The late Mr. Green was a native of Lincolnshire, England, and came to Canada with the family about 1825, when he would be about eighteen years of age. After spending some years in the Niagara district, Mr. Green about 60 years ago removed to North Monaghan, where he has since resided. Shortly after removal to this township he was united in marriage to Mrs. Hard, and to this marriage were born four sons and one daughter, the latter who was the wife of Mr. Wm. Forster, dying about seven years ago. The surviving sons are, in the order of age, Mr. R. H. Green, town; Mr. John Green, barrister, town; Mr. Jos. T. Green, North Monaghan, and Mr. W. J. Green, merchant, town. The late Mr. Green was the eldest of a large family, of whom only one survives, the youngest member of the family, Mr. Robert Greea, of Dakota, who was here on a visit this winter and only returned home a few weeks ago. Mr. Green, though he retired from active participation in his business about twenty years ago, was still active and moving about till his last illness, which attacked him on March 4th, developing into bronchitis, which caused death just eight days after the attack. Mr. Green took no part in public affairs during his life, contenting himself with the faithful discharge of his duties as a private citizen. In politics he was a Conservative and in religion a Methodist, though in his earlier years he was an adherent of the English church. He was one of the pioneer settlers of North Monaghan and the last of the original residents of the township. The funeral will take place from the residence of Mr. Jos. T. Green, North Monaghan, to the Little Lake Cemetery, on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

HAVELOCK SKATING RACES.

They Took Place Last Evening—A Large Attendance.

The Havelock skating races for the county championships took place last evening and there was also a large number of open events on the programme.

The results in the principal races were as follows:

County championship, one mile—McGuire, of Havelock.

Matched race, one mile—1 C. E. Green, of Smith's Falls; 2 A. E. Pilkie, Toronto.

County championship, 2 miles—McGuire, of Havelock.

Five mile, open event—1 McGuire, of Havelock; 2 C. E. Green, Smith's Falls.

In justle to Pilkie it might be said that he used a skate with a 17 inch blade, which made it very difficult to round the corners of the rink. His opponents used 14 inch blades. In the five mile event he fell and broke the blade of one of his skates and had to retire. The winning of the race by McGuire of Havelock was a genuine surprise, as Green was thought a sure winner. Mr. Edg. Hartley gave a fine exhibition of fancy skating.

Jackson of town entered in two or three events but had hard luck, the inner edge of his right skate being damaged. The above contests are only one-quarter of the events.

Havelock may well feel proud of her rink, also those who are connected with its management. The ice was only in fair condition but quite a crowd enjoyed the evening's sport.

VERDICT AGAINST THE GRAYS.

The Jury Finds for the Plaintiff in the Case of Gray vs. Weir.

In the action for $1000 damages each instituted against J. Graham Weir by Thomas and Hessie Gray, the jury returned a verdict for the defendant.

His Lordship charged strongly in favour of the defendant and after deliberating for about an hour and a half the jury decided in accordance with his charge, the division being 10 to 2 in favour of the verdict given.

The fine address to the jury by Mr. D. O'Connell for the plaintiffs was most favourably commented upon by those present at the trial.

The case of Lakefield vs. Strickland having been settled out of court, the case of Gray vs. Weir was the last on the docket and brought this sitting of the Assizes to a close.

WON THE GOLD MEDAL.

Brilliant Success of Miss Lily Simons at the Ottawa School of Oratory.

Miss Lily Simons, daughter of Mr. P. Simons, has justified the predictions of those who foretold her success as an elocutionist. She has been five months at the Ottawa School of Oratory, and on Wednesday night, at the elocutionary contest in St. James' Hall, she won and was awarded the gold medal for elocution. The competition was keen among the five pupils of Dr. McMeekin. The Ottawa Free Press thus refers to the contest:

"The test piece was "The Ocean," and the last five names on the programme were the contestants. Miss Simons was by all odds the choice for the gold medal. Nature seems to have endowed her with more than usual talent for the work. Miss McFarlane, who won the silver medal, was good, but there was a lack of the natural tact which Miss Simons possessed."

Miss "Lil" and her friends are to be heartily congratulated on her great success. What with one daughter winning a gold medal in Ottawa Wednesday night, and another winning Mr. Fitzgerald's Irish harp of gold on Thursday night, the genial "Pete" is "travelling in great luck."

R. E. A. Entertainment, Opera House, March 17th.

The Jameson raid in South Africa and subsequent events, touching the matter, have become of world-wide interest. Owing to the fact that our countryman, Hon. Edward Blake, one of our greatest statesmen, is acting on the Parliamentary Committee appointed to enquire into the circumstances which resulted in Jameson's raid, Canadians feel something like a local interest in the matter, and the people of Peterborough no doubt will feel a little pardonable pride from the fact that they are to be the first audience in the new world having an opportunity of seeing these beautiful coloured views, which comprise over sixty, of the most thrilling scenes of this historical event. The entertainment will also consist of vocal and instrumental music. Reserved seats 35c, general admission 25c. Plan of hall at Shilbery & Co's.

Presentation of medals.
Address.....
God Save the Queen.

A reference to the above programme shows that the numbers were of progressive difficulty, but of course they were graded according to the age and proficiency of the performers. Yet while there was this difference there was general uniformity in the excellence of execution that characterized all the numbers from the easiest to the most difficult, an emphatic tribute to the excellence of the instruction that contributed to such very satisfactory and praiseworthy results. The variety of music taught—including vocal, choral, pianoforte, guitar and mandolin—shows the catholicity of the musical spirit and the versatility of instructive ability of the good sisters, over whom Sister St. Catharine has the musical oversight.

While it would be invidious to individualise as between the performers on the several instruments taught, it is allowable and indeed a matter of justice, to refer in terms of praise to the violin obligati furnished by Miss Lottie Bell, of Keene, to the vocal solos of Miss Lewis and Miss Jackson. Miss Bell, who is a violinist of great promise and unusual natural talent, performed these obligati with exquisite delicacy and a pleasing musical intelligence.

Altogether the musical programme, presented, in variety and intrinsic merit of selections and excellence of performance, was a delightful one and was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience, and contributed another to the annual demonstrations of the high character of instruction furnished by the musical department of the Convent.

A most interesting feature of the programme was the won by the advanced pupils in music. The successful young ladies who received gold medals were:

Miss Mary Pollock, donated and presented by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor.

Miss Sadie Staunton, gold medal, donated by Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.PP., and presented, in his absence, by His Lordship.

Miss Florence Nimmo, gold medal, donated by Mr. A. L. Davis, and in his absence, presented by His Lordship.

Miss Nettie Lewis, gold medal, donated and presented by Mr. H. Phelan.

Miss Addie Doris, gold medal, donated and presented by Mr. A. J. Gough.

Miss Annie Simons, Irish harp in gold, donated by Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald for preeminence in Irish music, vocal and instrumental, and in his absence, presented by His Lordship.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, Miss Addie Doris, on behalf of the medalists, read a dutiful address, thanking the Bishop, and other donors of the medals, for their beautiful gifts, the good Sisters for their excellent instructions, and the audience for their presence and encouragement.

WORDS OF COMMENDATION.

In the course of a few remarks His Lordship spoke in warm terms of the delightful character of the music they had heard, and of its evidence of excellent instruction. Such exhibitions had a two-fold character; they were pleasing to the auditors and the parents and friends of the performers and they served as a sort of examination giving an opportunity of judging of the musical proficiency of the pupils. We had all reason to feel proud of what had been achieved, and he was glad to know that there were so many good musicians in Peterborough. On behalf of the donors of the medals and the audience His Lordship heartily thanked the youthful performers.

Mayor Yelland expressed the great pleasure he had received from being present during the evening. The programme presented afforded evidence of first-class musical training and, he believed, of also excellent moral and religious training. He was glad to have been present on the occasion.

Mr. H. Phelan in a few well chosen remarks expressed the pleasure it gave him to be present and enjoy such a splendid musical entertainment. He heartily endorsed all the favourable things that had been said respecting the character of the musical teaching of the convent.

Mr. M. Quinlan, chairman of the Separate School Board, spoke in high terms of the great proficiency shown by the pupils and the evidences of good musical training it afforded. He and the members of the School Board were proud of their educational institutions, and felt that a musical department should hold a prominent place, as music was an indispensable part of a thorough education.

Mr. A. J. Gough spoke briefly and appreciatively of what he had heard that evening.

Ven. Archdeacon Casey was sure that all must be delighted with the programme of the evening. He was thankful to the mayor for the kind words of appreciation he had spoken, and for his tribute to the excellence of the musical training of the school, and joined in the tribute of praise to the good sisters for the excellent results accomplished.

PORK PRODUCER VS. PACKER.

Mr. George Matthews in a letter to the Lindsay Post, gives some interesting data concerning pork, which will be read with interest. He says:

Sir,—Mr. Dennis Hawkins' letter of the 26th ult. contains some interesting but misleading statements. He is a breeder of Berkshire hogs, and it is in his interest to point out their good qualities and persuade farmers that they are the most desirable for the markets. I have never disputed that they are good hogs, but what I do claim is that they are not the best hog for the market at the present time, but crossed with the improved Berkshire or Tamworth they will produce a hog that will "fill the bill."

The price of live hogs last week and this week is $5 per hundred alive, weighed off cars.

In the London market, No. 1 selection of Danish bacon has sold recently at 10 shillings per cwt. (112 lbs.)—over 2c. per lb. more than the same selection of Canadian bacon—equal to $1.25 per 100 lbs. on live hogs. The ambition of Canadian packers is to obtain equal prices with their Danish competitors. If we could do so at the present time we could pay $6.23 per cwt. for select lean hogs, instead of $5. It appears to me that the difference in price is worth striving for, but certainly we shall never obtain it with the Berkshire breed of hogs. Their heavy shoulders will always condemn our bacon on that market.

Mr. Hawkin's statement that the Berkshire will not lose more than 12 per cent. in killing is all nonsense. We are killing a large number of hogs per week, and by taking the weights before and after dressing on each lot we find the shrinkage this season to run just about 25 per cent. The minimum is about 23 per cent. and the maximum shrinkage about 30 per cent., according to the condition of hogs and the seasons. This is, of course, in reference to hogs 150 to 200 lbs. each.

In regard to Mr. Hawkin's friend's statement that "Canadian meat is killed by using too much salt, surely if this were so, exporters who are shipping large quantities every week in the year would have some intimation of it through their agents, who daily come into contact with the buyers in England.

It is a matter of surprise that English people will pay to day's prices for Danish when United States bacon is selling so very low, but it is quite evident that they appreciate a good article and are willing to pay for it. Why should not Canadian farmers unite with the packers in their endeavours to send them exactly the meat they require and for which they are willing to pay the highest prices? If all our farmers take the same stand as Mr. Dennis Hawkins with his Berkshires, we shall never occupy the coveted position of equality with the Danes in the English market.

Our cable advices this week read:—"Market dull, and a shade easier, some fat sides appearing in No. 1 selection." When shipping bacon, each side is carefully examined and selected. Some sides, apparently fit for No. 1 selection, but a trifle fat in the shoulder, are occasionally classified by our examiner as No. 1, with the result that our agent in England cables as above, and he is obliged to accept from one to two cents per lb. less than the best price. In nearly every case these heavy-shouldered sides are from Berkshire hogs, and they are largely accountable for the damage to Canadian bacon, as stated above. It is evident, therefore, that the Berkshire is not the most desirable hog for the export market.

Mr. Hawkins displays considerable anxiety about the price—why packers do not discriminate in favour of lean hogs, when England pays more for lean bacon. If he will study the market he will find that we do pay more for lean selections, and every year the market is working more in their favour. Years ago we frequently paid $2 per cwt. more money for fat hogs than for the class required now. What is the situation to-day? The demand is for lean meat, and that demand must be met. If Canada fails to respond, other countries will do so, and secure trade that ought to be ours. I noticed by the Toronto papers quotations for live hogs are as follows: Choice lean (singer), 150 to 200 lbs. each, $5 per cwt.; light fat, 120 to 200 lbs. each, $4 to $4 50 per cwt.; heavy fat, $3.60 to $4 per cwt.

These "light fat" hogs are same weights as "singer" but broad-backed, short-legged, fat little hogs. They are correct weight for best prices, but too fat. Is this not paying more money for the right selections?

Our instructions to drovers are not to bid on "light fat" hogs, Suffolks, Berkshires, or any other breed with fat or heavy shoulders. Last year our orders in this particular were not so strict, because the price of live and dressed hogs were relatively the same, but now "singers" are in demand for the English market, and the dressed hog season being over, the product of thick, fat hogs (which is not suitable for export and would have to be marketed here) would come into competition with cheap meats from dressed hogs purchased before the rise in price took place, and would consequently prove very unprofitable to the packer. I remain, sir,

Your obedient servant,
GEO. MATTHEWS.

FIRE IN MANVERS.

The Residence of Mr. Robt. Jamieson is Destroyed.

Much sympathy is felt for Mr. Robert Jamieson, of Manvers, between Millbrook and Pontypool, whose house and nearly all the contents were burned on Thursday night last.

The fire is supposed to have started from the kitchen stove or chimney, and it was too far gone to be put out when seen at 3 o'clock in the morning. Mrs. Jamieson was overcome with the smoke and sank like a lifeless body on the floor, and had her moans not been heard by Mr. Jamieson, she would certainly have been suffocated. As it was Mr. Jamieson had great difficulty in getting her out, the darkness in the room and the thick smoke being so intense.

The girls ran for help to Mr. Fee, a near neighbour, in their bare feet, and almost perished with the cold, their feet being terribly frozen. After fighting the fire for some time, they succeeded in keeping it from reaching the barn. Mr. Jamieson's loss will be between fifteen hundred and two thousand dollars, but he takes a very sensible view of it, saying it might have been worse had some of the family been consumed in the flames, as came nearly being the case.

UNTOLD MISERY FROM RHEUMATISM

C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphine. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur, in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months, my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith."

THE COUNTRY WOMAN.

Jenny June Croly Considers the Case in a Special Article.

A recent article in a scientific journal stated that three-fourths of the women found in asylums for the insane were farmers' wives. If this is true, and there is no reason to doubt it, it should be interesting to know why.

Another authority some time ago declared that the larger number of male lunatics became insane through an exaggerated egotism; while the principal causes of lunacy among women were disappointed affection or the "dreadful round" of a "hard, monotonous, solitary life."

This last statement bears out the first. Nothing can be more wearing to the nerves than the constant strain of a never ending routine, coupled with the mental stagnation which farmers' wives have usually had to endure. No treadmill could be more endlessly recurring than the inflexible round of daily duty, early and late, which the farmer's wife of a few years ago had to perform.

Five o'clock in the dark and cold of winter morning saw her digging her way from the house through the snow to the wood pile. Breakfast for the man and his men. Breakfast for the children, who must also be made ready for school. Baby to be looked after, dishes to be washed, milk to be skimmed, bread to be baked, beds to be made, sweeping to be done, vegetables to be prepared, dinner to be cooked, children to be looked after, baby always to be considered, ironing three afternoons in a week. Other days cleaning, baking, making pies and doughnuts—"mother's famous doughnuts."

Evening brought no relief, or release, for was there not always some gaping wound in jacket or trousers; the piled up stocking basket, and lastly the fire to "bank," and the buckwheat cakes to mix, before the wearied woman could stretch her aching body upon her often hard bed, too "beat out" to sleep.

We expend a great deal of pity upon the German women because they work out of doors. I once asked a laboring woman in Germany which she would rather do as a regular thing—housework or washing (for hire) or work in the fields. "Work in the fields," she replied, without a moment's hesitation. "I can take my baby in the fields and watch her while I work. She crows, and plays, and the fresh air is good for her. When I have her at home I am afraid something will happen, and I am more tired after washing in the house than by working in the field."

The necessity of a working life is variation, and the employment of the mental as well as the physican faculties. This has not heretofore been recognized as a need for housekeeping women. A woman who had enough to eat and a husband who did not beat her was considered as having no cause of complaint.

Joanna Ambrosium, the peasant poet of Germany, says: "To be poor is hard, to be ill is harder, yet what are all physical sufferings compared to those which a fettered soul endures?"

The great pie and doughnut, the hot biscuit and eternal griddle cake, have much to answer for when a woman has to be "stirring" three times daily for forty years to produce them.

Give her a rest. Give her magazines, books, companionship in neighborhood clubs, pretty clothes, and we shall hear no more about drowned wives filling our insane asylums, and we shall know less about the puma that kills—the country woman.

That Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and relieves a vast amount of suffering is not ordinary but a well known fact.

THE DIPLOMATS PRESENTED.

Sir Julian Pauncefote Led the Procession and Was First Introduced to the New President.

Washington, March 10.—The diplomatic corps was received by Secretary Sherman in the Diplomatic Parlor of the State Department at 11 o'clock this morning and shortly afterwards presented to the President. The members of the corps assembled in the diplomatic reception room shortly before 11 o'clock by appointment, the Chinese, Korean and Turkish Ministers alone having other attire than the customary morning dress. Frock coats and high silk hats were generally worn and all decorations were conspicuous by their absence.

At 11 o'clock the corps in a body, headed by its doyen, Sir Julian Pauncefote, were ushered by Assistant Secretaries Rockhill and Adee into the diplomatic parlor, where they were ranged about the four sides of the room in their proper order of precedence, each head of Embassy and Legation being supported by his secretaries and attaches, the order being as follows:

The Ambassadors of Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany; the Ministers of Mexico, Netherlands, Sweden and Norway, Brazil, Guatemala, Chili, China, Venezuela, Austria-Hungary, Switzerland, Spain, Denmark, Hawaii, Ecuador, Russia, Portugal, Japan, Hayti, Corea, Turkey, Greater Republic of Central America, Belgium and Costa Rica and the Charges D'Affaires of Colombia and the Dominica Republic.

The secretary invited Major-General Miles and his aide-de-camp, Misheler, who were with him at the time, to witness the function. The secretary was escorted around the entire line and presented to each diplomat in turn, and subsequently for half an hour had brief conversations with most of the members in a cordial, hospitable manner, and with as little formality as the dignity of the occasion permitted.

Sir Julian Pauncefote and several others were recognized as old acquaintances and the treatment accorded Senor Dupuy de Lome was noticeably friendly and prolonged. At half-past 11 o'clock, Sir Julian Pauncefote led the way in a parting handshake with the secretary, with whom all future negotiations are to be held, and, followed by the 50 odd members of the body, went over to the White House.

The reception of the diplomats by President McKinley began exactly at noon and was over in 10 minutes. Assistant Secretary Rockhill of the State Department, made the presentations, beginning with Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Ambassador. Quite a number of people gathered around the White House to see the diplomats pass in and out, but they were disappointed by the absence of brilliant uniforms which the members of the corps usually wear on state occasions.

THREE CHILDREN DROWNED.

A Deplorable Affair in the Town of Bowmanville Yesterday.

Bowmanville, Ont., March 10.—The saddest fatality that ever occurred in this town happened in Williams' flats this afternoon, when the three eldest children of Frederick Buxon, who is employed as deliverer of ice with M. W. Willian, were drowned just outside their garden gate in a hole that once formed part of a mill race.

The children were out for an airing in the warm sunshine, and no one was near but Mrs. Luxon, their mother, who is nursing a baby only 10 days old.

The eldest girl, Ida May, aged 8 years, had scrubbed out the kitchen floor before going out, being her mother's only help. Just how the accident happened will never be known. It is supposed the youngest child strolled too near the hole, which is surrounded by ice, and slipped into it, when the others flew to her rescue and lost their footing and slid in too.

John Luxon, the grandfather, called just after 3 p.m. to inquire after the health of the family. He chatted with Mrs. Luxon for about 15 minutes, when she asked if he had noticed the children as he came in. Answering in the negative, he was requested to go out to see where they were. He went, but could not see them anywhere and walked down the bank of the highly-swollen creek to see if they had strolled that way, watching the rushing water that ran tempestuously towards Lake Ontario. He could find no trace of them having been that way. Then he returned and went out the front gate to go up the stream. Close by the garden gate he discovered the lost children, all three floating in the little pool of water about six feet deep. He fished them out with a pole and ran for help and telephoned for Dr. A. S. Tilley, who came quickly and tried to resuscitate the eldest, but was unsuccessful, as they had been in the water fully half an hour.

The three lifeless children were laid out by kind hands and presented a terribly heartrending sight to the hundreds of beholders who called to see them.

The case is dreadfully sad, owing to the delicate condition of the mother and the affectionate regard both parents possessed for their little family of girls. No event that has transpired here for a long time has caused such widespread sympathy as this terrible calamity.

BRITAIN'S TRADE WITH US.

The Motherland Bought Much More Largely From Canada in January and February Than Last Year.

Montreal, March 10.—A Star special cable from London says: "The British imports from Canada are showing a remarkable expansion. They increased 166 per cent. in February and 100 per cent. in the two months of 1897, while the British imports from all countries only advanced 4 per cent. Canadian cheese jumped from £55,000 in the same two months last year to £149,000 this year; fish from £12,000 to £113,000; butter from £2000 to £13,000; oxen from £21,000 to £34,000; wood £73,000 to £94,000. The exports to Canada decreased 21 per cent. for the month and 10 per cent. for the two months.

Death of a Woman of 400 Pounds Weight

Pittsburg, March 10.—Mrs. Ruth Holler, who weighed 400 pounds, died at her home in Allegheny yesterday of fatty degeneration of the heart. Within the last three years Mrs. Holler had increased in weight from scarcely 100 pounds to over 400 pounds. During the past six months she had lived in the second storey of her home, being unable, on account of her enormous size, to get up or down stairs. She was only about four feet five inches in height.

THE PHILIPPINE REBELLION.

The Situation Very Unsatisfactory—Worse Than the Cuban War.

Madrid, March 10.—A despatch from Manila, the capital of the Philippine Islands, to The Imparcial, says the situation there is very unsatisfactory, and that it will be necessary for Spanish troops to occupy the entire island in order to completely crush the rebellion. The rebels are becoming bolder and more vigorous in their action, and the approaching rainy season will still further hamper the operations of troops.

General Polavieja, the Governor of the Philippine Islands, will shortly return to Spain, his health having become impaired and his ailments greatly aggravated by reason of his being hampered in his operations by the Government.

It is feared at Manila that the war in the Philippine Islands is worse than that in Cuba.

Seems as if consumption always picks out the brightest and best. Fully one-sixth of all the deaths that occur in the world are caused by consumption. Many things were once considered impossible. It would be strange if medical science did not make some progress. The telegraph and telephone, the phonograph, the electric light—all were once impossible, and once it was impossible to cure consumption. That was before the time of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Taken according to directions, this standard remedy will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. Consumption is caused and fostered by impurity in the blood. It is cured by purity and richness in the blood—surely, certainly cured by the "Medical Discovery." It builds up solid healthy flesh and vigorous strength.

Love in the Scale.

"How much does the baby weigh" is only another way of asking, "Is he healthy and strong?" When a baby is welcomed into the world with loving care and forethought, his chances of health and strength are increased a hundred-fold.

A prospective mother cannot begin too early to look after her own health and physical condition. This is sure to be reflected in the baby. Any weakness or nervous depression, or lack of vigor on the mother's part should be overcome early during the expectant time by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which promotes the perfect health and strength of the organism especially concerned in motherhood.

It makes the coming of baby absolutely safe and comparatively free from pain; renders the mother strong and cheerful, and transmits healthy constitutional vigor to the child.

No other medicine in the world has been such an unqualified blessing to mothers and their children. It is the one positive specific for all weak and diseased conditions of the feminine organism. It is the only medicine of its kind devised for this one purpose by a trained and educated specialist in this particular field.

Mrs. F. B. Cannings, of No. 4320 Humphrey St., St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I am now a happy mother of a fine, healthy baby girl. Feel that your 'Favorite Prescription' and little 'Pellets' have done me more good than anything I have ever taken. Three months previous to my confinement I began using your medicine. I took three bottles of the 'Prescription.' Consequences were I was only in labor forty-five minutes. With my first baby I suffered 18 hours then had to lose him. He was very delicate and only lived 12 hours. For two years I suffered untold agony, and had two miscarriages. The 'Favorite Prescription' saved both my child and myself. My baby is not yet three weeks old and I do not think I ever felt better in my life."

LONGEST RUN WITHOUT STOP.

Cornwall Express Travels From London to Exeter Without a Pause.

The longest regular daily run made without a stop by any railway train in the world has just been placed on the schedule of the Great Western Railway of England.

It is made between Paddington station, in London, and Exeter, a distance of 194 miles, in three hours and thirty-six minutes, by what is known as the Cornwall Express. It is remarkable not so much owing to the time, as for the fact that not a stop is made from one end of the run to the other. There have been longer runs made without a stop, but they have been made by special and not regular trains. The average speed attained by the Cornwall Express when making this run is 51.7 miles an hour, although, owing to a peculiar construction of the road at Bristol, 118 miles from London, the train is obliged to slow down to a speed of ten miles an hour.

The express train is composed of six long coaches, a tender and engine. An American would call it a vestibule train, but the English prefer to call the cars "bogie clerestoried corridor coaches," bogie being a term applied to the trucks. They are fully as heavy as an ordinary drawing-room car, each one weighing about forty-seven thousand pounds, while the train without the engine and tender weighs one hundred and forty tons. The weight of the engine and tender is eighty-one tons, making the total weight of the train as it rushes along on its long run two hundred and twenty-one tons.

During the run it is necessary to take water for the engines twice. This, however, does not necessitate any stop, as it is taken up from a trench beside the track as the train speeds along at nearly a mile a minute.

The engine which draws this essentially "through train" is a curious-looking ponderous affair quite unlike any locomotive seen on American roads. It has on either side a single huge driving wheel seven feet eight inches in diameter, while what must by comparison be termed the small wheels of the engine, six in number, known as trailers, are four feet six inches in diameter.

The water tank of the engine holds thirteen thousand gallons, and when running at full speed there is a steam pressure of 160 pounds to the square inch, while there is a heating surface of 1561 square feet.

Each day the run is made, the train leaving Paddington station at 10.25 o'clock in the morning, and it never fails to roll into St. David's station, in Exeter, exactly on time. The time allowed by the schedule of this run makes no allowance for delays of any kind. Even the time lost in going over the loop around Bristol and the necessary slowing down, when going through Bath is not allowed for.—New York Herald.

ARE HUSBANDS SLAVES?

Sir Walter Besant, Who Says That Men, Not Women, Are the Slaves.

I have been reading a paper on the divorce question. Dear reader, do not be alarmed. I have no views on the subject. This is only a side light. I observe in all these papers that a great deal is made of the "slavery" of the wife. If reference is made to the wife, as housekeeper, she is called a "slave." Now, let us put the facts before us. If the wife is an heiress she can afford to keep a housekeeper. If the husband is rich he can afford to pay for a housekeeper. But in the middle class, to which most of us do really belong, whatever our pretences, the wife is not an heiress; she has no dot at all; it is considered a great deal if her father gives her on her marriage a thousand pounds. Further, though her father may be willing to allow his daughter to live at home, he will not be able to leave her enough to live upon when he dies. An insurance of, say $10,000, and as much more saved, is a fair average fortune to leave. Practically, therefore, all middle-class girls recognise the necessity of work. Marriage offers them a kind of work that to most girls is pleasing, and far more to their choice than any of the ordinary methods of making a livelihood. Ask the first girl you meet whether she would rather marry and become the British matron, the "loaf-giver," the administrator of her husband's fortune? or whether she would rather become a post office clerk, a journalist, a typewriter? You know perfectly well—you who talk so glibly about the wife being a slave—what her answer will be. Well, but if you like to speak of this necessity as slavery, you can; I do not.

Only remember that the poor, prosaic husband is a slave as well. He goeth forth to his slavery every morning—dull, unfeeling creature—with an inane smile upon his lips. He has none of the finer feelings you see. To me, however, it seems ignorant, foolish and mischievous to call the British matron a slave. But then I am a Philistine. Why, I actually, slave as I am, sit down every morning without any resentment or repining to my slavery. I am bound in fetters and in chains adamantine. I must work, else who will pay the baker and the grocer? I must work, and so besotted am I that I really work as if I enjoyed it.

SIR WALTER BESANT.

Fair sister slave, when I have finished this job and got the money I will try to weep with thee over our joint sorrows.

Let us, meanwhile, shape our chains; they are not unmusical, are they? To me they are like a peal of harmonious bells. Yet my heart bleeds—or would if it had time—for thy sufferings undeserved. Poor slave! To order the dinner—what degradation! The husband—he has no pity, he cannot understand; he went off at 9 this morning; he will come home at 7; he will work at his papers from 9 till 12 at night. Oh! he has no pity; he cannot understand. Insensate wretch!

I have known a vast number of people during a life that has not been tied down to one place nor confined to one set. On the marriage question I am perfectly certain, from my own experience, that, in the majority of cases, the marriage life is happy—as we call happiness. As for married people becoming one in mind, that kind of union can only belong to the "higher" kind of intellect, which is, indeed, rare. And in those elevated levels of the higher intellect unhappiness is sometimes caused by the unpractical yearning of one of the two for the impossible—an ideal that cannot be reached.

The union of hearts, however, is very far from uncommon; I mean that kind of union in which there is mutual trust and respect between man and wife, with a graceful allowance for little foibles and with a common affection not only for each other, but for the children. This is the kind of union which really makes marriage happy; and one does not want the "higher" nature—which is too often a selfish and exacting nature, self-styled "higher"—but is found among quite ordinary folk. The union of hearts, however, is very seldom found where the wife is a "superior" person, whose intellect soars above the common things of earth, and, like Peter, calls them all unclean.

THE MODEL WIFE.

A Profound Editorial Essay Upon a Subject of Paramount Importance.

This kind of a person of our ideal is not easy found, as it takes much of thought and knowledge upon the part of man and woman to become thoroughly acquainted with each other's way in every toil of life.

Our writer of this article had had no experience as to a model wife, and yet if he should find one it would be a pattern for all to follow. She doubtless would be good and kind and lovable whose house will be as handsome as can be on the inside. She should be ready to receive him on his return and also at his departure for the day. Then arrange your house in general, see to the wants of the cook and hired girl as well as to all men about your place. Pay all bills and run no debts if possible. Don't idle away your time making calls to see neighbors. Call on sick and the minister. Do all the good you can to entertain strangers and make them feel at home. Have your rooms swept and this is generally what the model wife should do.

Of course husband and wife are differently situated. Some can live in the country, while others like city. Pay particular attention to what kind of a wife we get. The start for some are as economical and will spend faster than we can make. Yet, as a rule, model wives are at ease in a way, while others are not, so saying.

As to a country girl for a wife she is far superior in many ways to those who have been brought up in the city. As to the latter wife she likes theatres, operas, high life, society and dress, and out late at nights every week, and all this that goes to make up a city life. Whereas a country wife is ignorant to all such and has no advantages maybe, and they generally make the best of wives.

Men married, but are not repenting at leisure. Some have no way to either help themselves or their wives to the road of prosperity. The so-called term of model wife becomes penulous. The lateness of the hour has prevailed upon the drainage of whisky to a fabulous price.

The calculation upon the support of our nation has been miscalculated down to sands of time by extravagance of a failure in not being able to economise in years of our youth. Can it be possible to have a model wife if our husband's means are limited beyond control, simply by pleasing self, I trust not. A model wife should be at the post of her own country, and if we get only five cents though it be small it will be twenty-five times that amount if saved by industrious and thrifty husband, who gives it to his wife to keep for him for some day in need.—Fuller's Gleaner.

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Abolition of Government House Proposed by Mr. Haycock But Withdrawn —Yesterday's Proceedings.

Toronto, March 11.—At the Ontario Legislature today bills were introduced as follows:

Mr. Auld—Respecting affidavits and declarations made before notaries public. It provides that it shall not be necessary for a notary public to affix his seal when he takes affidavit or statutory declaration. The Act applies to declarations and affidavits made before the passing of the Act, but does not affect the question of the costs in any action now pending.

Mr. Ryerson—Respecting certain liabilities of hospital trustees. Provides that in cases where action may be brought against a trustee or owners or corporate body owning or controlling a hospital, for damages in respect of negligence or ignorance on the part of the superintendent, medical attendant, member of the medical or surgical staff or nurse, the action shall not be brought against the servant or employe, but the remedy is to be against the trustees, owners or corporate body owning or controlling the hospital. The Act is not to apply to any hospital which has not an endowment or capital of at least $5000, the revenue of which is applicable to the purposes of the hospital unless controlled by a municipal corporation.

Mr. Carnegie—To amend the Municipal Act. The object is to make clear the deviations of county boundaries.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE.

The Attorney-General moved that a select committee of this House be appointed to consider all questions relating to Government House property, and the further question of the future maintenance or discontinuance of the maintenance of Government House by the province or otherwise, and to report therein. And that such committee consist of the Attorney-General, and Messrs. Davis, Dryden, Ferguson, Stratton, Haycock, Howland, Macnish, Macpherson, Marter and Whitney.

He explained that the object was to take up the report presented last year. The committee had not then time to formulate a scheme for dealing with Government House. He was not sure that any feasible scheme for the purpose could be devised, but it was desirable that the work of the committee formerly appointed should be continued and a full investigation of the question be made.

Mr. Haycock, seconded by Mr. Caven, moved an amendment to the effect that in the opinion of this House the maintenance of Government House should be discontinued after the expiration of the term of the present Lieutenant-Governor. He spoke briefly to the amendment, urging that ample time had already been given to reach a determination on the subject.

The Attorney-General suggested that before submitting such a resolution the report of the committee should be received, and asked Mr. Haycock to withdraw his amendment, to which the latter assented on receiving an assurance that the report would be presented in time for action to be taken this session. The resolution was then adopted.

On motion of the Attorney-General, a select committee was appointed to revise the rules, orders and regulations of this House, composed as follows: The Attorney-General and Mr. Speaker and Messrs. Gibson (Hamilton), Ross, Baxter, McKay (Oxford), Whitney, Howland, Matheson and Caven.

The following bills were passed through committee:

Respecting wages and the estates of deceased persons—The Attorney-General.

To further improve the Act respecting the Department of Agriculture—M. Dryden.

To amend the Married Women's Property Act—The Attorney-General.

The Attorney-General's bill to amend and consolidate the Acts respecting the administration of justice in those portions of the province outside county organization was read a second time.

LOAN CORPORATIONS.

Hon. Mr. Gibson's bill respecting loan corporations was next taken up. In explaining its provisions, he said that the measure was principally a consolidation of existing Acts, though it embodied some important changes. Among these was a complete change in the mode of incorporation. Under the present method there was too ample a field for looseness and fraud. The measure provided that in future a loan company could only become incorporated by aplication to the Lieutenant-Governor, and all bylaws would have to be submitted to and approved of by him. This would be a protection to the public against imposition. Under the law as at present in vogue distinction between terminating loan companies and permanent corporations was not well defined, and it was now proposed to make a clear distinction. If any change had been made in regard to the borrowing powers it was of a conservative character. The bill also enlarged the facilities of shareholders for obtaining information. Terminating loan companies were allowed to retain the right of lending money on their own stock, but the case was essentially different as regards permanent loan companies, and the bill would abolish their power to do so, and he trusted the House would insist upon this important provision. In the preparation of the measure he had had the valuable assistance of the Inspector of Insurance, and many of the provisions contained in a former bill introduced by Mr. Stratton had also been embodied in the bill. Though the bill did not provide for a regular system of inspection it secured the shareholders by providing that upon application there could be a thorough investigation into company affairs, where there was any ground for suspecting fraud or looseness of management.

Mr. St. John assented to the principle of the measure so long as existing interests were duly protected.

Mr. Stratton said that the confused and complicated state of the law with regard to loan companies had worked disadvantageously, especially when they attempted to borrow money in England.

Mr. Whitney said if the bill was framed so as to put a stop to the amount of crookedness generally believed to prevail in connection with loan companies it would be a great protection to the public.

Mr. Matheson stated that many companies were perpetrating a fraud on investors by promising interest at 15 per cent., and he hoped the bill would check operations of this kind.

The bill was read a second time.

A PARLIAMENTARY MOTION.

The hands of the clock facing the Speaker stood at 4.36 when he announced that 6 o'clock having arrived he would leave the chair. The rule is that it is 6 o'clock officially whenever the Speaker so asserts, and this convenient fiction was taken advantage of to allow the members to be present at the reception of a large temperance delegation from the Dominion Alliance, who had arranged to interview the Ministry at 4.30.

RAILWAY NOTES.

Sparks From the Wheels—Cinders for the Eye.

The Grand Trunk traffic receipts for the week ending Feb. 28th were $322,612, a decrease of $37,455 over the same week a year ago.

Mr. Geo. Von Chauvez, one of the Grand Trunk directors, is making a tour of inspection over the entire system. He is about 42 years of age, and is said to be one of England's foremost financial men. It is also stated that he is a great admirer of General Manager Hayes and his policy.

Kingston people are evidently of the deeply supernatural order of beings, judging by the number of ghost stories which they are circulating. Not very long ago it was announced that the convict recently shot by a guard was playing Hamlet's father at the penitentiary, and now comes another "hair-stiffner," which will interest the railway men of Peterborough. The story is that Walter Lotto and Charles Davidson, night watchmen at the Kingston & Pembroke round-house, declare they saw a spectre of a negro named Commodiere, on Thursday night, who was killed on the line, 30 miles from the city, three years ago. On Friday night the spectre returned accompanied by another ghost, that of a man named Carroll, who was killed some years ago. On Saturday night three shades made their appearance, the third being a man named Hunt, who was killed at Sharbot Lake two years ago. The ghosts took up positions on the engine that did the killing in all these cases, and which is now stored in the round-house. The officials of the road give the men good recommendations as to sobriety, etc. Davidson says he has not had in mind any one of these men whose spooks appeared since they were killed. The two men are considered quite sincere in their statements.

Mr. Jos. Walker, roadmaster on the Beston, Meaford and Allandale divisions of the G. T. R., for many years past, died at Allandale on Monday last. He was one of the oldest employees on the road and leaves a wife and grown up family.

A leading official of the Grand Trunk railway, when questioned about the abolition of commutation and market tickets, said that when they issued them they were bitterly denounced by the merchants of the small towns affected, who accused the railway of helping to take trade out of the town.

Ministers of the gospel will be interested in learning that at a convention of railway passenger agents held in Chicago a few weeks ago, it was resolved to furnish all regularly ordained ministers with return transportation at single fare over the leading railways of Canada and the United States.

C. P. R. and G. T. R. traffic reports show a great reduction in the number of passengers carried owing to the abolition of the cheap Saturday fares, but the management do not anticipate a financial loss as half the number of fares will now give the former profit.

AS WELL AS EVER.

A Brickmaker Listens to Reason—Uses Six Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and Tells it.

Brockville, March 1st—(Special)—Mr. W. H. Odell, perhaps one of the best known citizens of this town, has lately recovered from a long continued and painful kidney ailment. He tells the story of his experience to the correspondent as follows:

"I have suffered for over a year from kidney disease, the pain in my back being so severe that I was unable to stand to my work.

Noticing the published cures of what Dodd's Kidney Pills were doing for others, I concluded to try them.

"Having used only six boxes I can say that I am perfectly cured and well so that I can attend to business as well as ever I could."

WHITNEY HUNTING FOR A SCANDAL

Batch of Municipal Act Amendments—Gas and Electric Plant Debentures—Shall Cattle Have the Run of the Highways—Y. M. C. A. Exemption Refused.

Toronto, March 12.

A good deal of business was accomplished by the House in an hour and a half this afternoon, a large number of Municipal Act amendments and other bills introduced by private members passing the second reading. Only one bill was introduced—an Assessment Act amendment by Mr. Dickenson, providing that where land has become liable for sale for arrears of taxes, which is contained in territory which has been separated from the county and annexed to a separated town or city, the proceedings may be taken by the Mayor and Treasurer of the separated town or city.

AFTER CONMEE'S SCALP.

Mr. Whitney enquired, Was James Conmee, member for West Algoma, a candidate for the electoral district of Nipissing, in the House of Commons, at the General election in June, 1896, and if so, did he at any time previous to the day of polling, resign his seat in the Legislature of Ontario? If he did so resign, what was the date of such resignation, on what date was it received and by whom?

The Attorney-General stated that Mr. Conmee's resignation was not placed in the hands of the Speaker. Mr. Conmee stated that he had placed his resignation in the hands of his solicitor, who had not forwarded it to the Speaker. After the Nipissing election Mr. Conmee asked him whether he ought to resign, and after conferring with the Council he told Mr. Conmee that the Government could not advise him in the matter. His resignation could accomplish no object and would put the Province to an expense of a few thousand dollars. It was not, in any event, a matter of which the Government were called on to take cognisance.

Mr. Willoughby asked, Have charges been laid against C. H. Widdifield, barrister, Picton, Local master in and for the County of Prince Edward, regarding improper conduct in his office as Local Master. If so, what are the specific charges laid against him and when were they received by the Government. Is it the intention of the Government to order an investigation, and if so, when.

The Attorney-General, in reply, stated that specific charges had been laid against Mr. Widdifield of inducing members of the profession to have references made to him instead of to others. Mr. Fleming had been instructed to examine into the matter, and a partial investigation had been made.

HUNTING FOR A SCANDAL.

Mr. Whitney moved for a return of copies of all orders in Council, during the past year, referring to the sale of timber berths by tender rather than by public auction, and giving a statement showing the dates of such sales, the number of square miles sold to each purchaser and the price at which the same were sold in each case, the names of each person so tendering for berths and the amount of each tender.

In speaking to the motion the Opposition leader repeated a fairy story he had heard about the sale of limits without publicity of competition, to political favorites of the Government.

Hon. J. M. Gibson had no objection to satisfying Mr. Whitney that the sales referred to were perfectly regular and that due publicity had been given to them. A quantity of timber damaged by fire had been sold when it was urgent that it should be quickly disposed of to avoid loss. In one case invitations had been sent to all who had tendered at a previous sale, and there was keen competition.

Dr. McKay's (Oxford) bill to amend the General Road Companies' Act received a second reading, the introducer explaining that its object was to provide that lights should be displayed when toll-bars were down after dark so as to prevent accidents to bicyclers.

MODERN IMPROVEMENTS NOT PROVIDED FOR.

Mr. Garrow moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Municipal Act, explaining that it was to put electric lighting on the same footing as gas in regard to issuing debentures. As electricity was not used for lighting purposes when this act was framed there was no provision by which debentures could be issued by municipalities to pay for electric lighting plant.

Mr. Mathieson and Hon. J. M. Gibson thought there was no vital difference, as a gas plant was much more durable than an electric plant, and therefore it was more reasonable that 30-year debentures should be issued in the former case than to pay for plant which would wear out long before the term of payment had expired. The bill received a second reading.

Mr. German's bill to amend the Electric Railway Act (1895), by placing incorporated villages on the same basis as towns, was read a second time.

JURISDICTION OF DIVISIONAL COURTS.

Mr. German moved the second reading of a bill to amend the Divisional Courts Act, saying that while the bill might not be in the interests of the legal profession it certainly was in those of the public. He explained that in a case of unsettled accounts of over $400 action could not be brought in the Division Court, although the balance recoverable might be very small. The amendment provided that no matter what the size of the original account, if the balance due was not over $100 it could be sued in the Division Court.

Mr. Whitney opposed the bill on the ground that it would allow complicated cases involving large amounts or difficult questions to be decided by the Division Court.

The Attorney-General thought that there ought to be some limit, based on the extent of the original transactions, in extending the jurisdiction.

After several others had spoken, principally in opposition to the bill, it was read a second time.

Y. M. C. A. ASSOCATION REFUSED EXEMPTION.

Mr. O'Keefe moved the second reading of a bill to amend the Assessment Act, which exempted Y.M.C.A. buildings from taxation.

Mr. Whitney opposed the measure on the ground that exemptions ought to be restricted instead of increased. Mr. Howland observed that Young Men's Christian Associations were practically commercial institutions, and as the proprietors of other public halls were taxed he did not see on what principle the former should be exempt.

The bill was withdrawn.

SHALL CATTLE ROAM THE HIGHWAY?

Mr. Moore's bill to amend the Municipal Act in order that cattle might be allowed to run at large on the highways excited general interest and a lively discussion. Various opinions were expressed, the rival members being apparently pretty evenly divided as to the expediency of allowing cattle to pasture on the roads. Hon. J. M. Gibson pointed out that under the Railway Act municipalities would be liable to damage should the straying of cows upon railroad tracks result in accidents. The bill went to committee.

Two or three other Municipal Act amendments and Mr. Howland's bill for the prevention of accidents through elevators were put through second readings.

FIRE AT ALVINSTON.

The Dwelling House of Station Agent Gillies Burned. With Contents.

Alvinston, Ont., March 12.—Fire broke out in the dwelling house owned by the Grand Trunk Railway, and occupied by John Gillies, station agent, to-day at noon. The dwelling, which was frame, was gutted, and the roof burned off, but the fire was extinguished and kept from spreading by the strenuous efforts of the fire company. Had it not been for the splendid waterworks system, the fire would have spread into the business portion of the village, as there was a terrific gale blowing at the time. Loss on building about $600. Mr. Gillies' loss on the furniture and clothing will be heavy, as he only had $300 insurance.

Irish Emigrant Dead.

New York, March 12.—When the steamer Germanic reached Quarantine this morning she was boarded by Deputy Health Officer L'Hommedieu, who learned that there had been a sudden death of a steerage passenger this morning. He could not satisfy himself as to the cause of death and therefore held the steamer until to-morrow. The deceased was a young Irish farm laborer named Joseph Feeley, aged 20, a native of Roscommon. The cause of death is reported aboard the ship as syncope.

THE TRUSTS AND GUARANTEE COMPANY.

An Important Addition to the Financial Institutions of the Province.

STRONG PERSONNEL AND STANDING OF THE NEW COMPANY.

Toronto the Headquarters of the Company—An Excellent Board of Directors—Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., President of the Company.

In these times of unrest in all activities of life one of the most important matters that presents itself to the owner of property, more or less, is the selection of an agency for the custody of his estate, that may represent the toil and accumulation of a life perhaps, after he has passed away.

With the object of meeting the demand created by such conditions and similar demands a new company has been organized in the city under the name of "The Trusts and Guarantee Company (Limited)," and yesterday afternoon the first meeting of Shareholders was held, when the following officers and Directors were elected:

President, Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., Peterborough; Vice-Presidents: Mr. D.W. Karn of the Karn Piano and Organ Company, Woodstock; and Mr. T. P. Coffee, barrister, Guelph; Directors, Mr. C. Kloepfer, M. P., wholesale carriage and hardware, Toronto and Guelph; Mr. F. M. Holland, Toronto; Mr. A. L. Davis, Peterborough; Mr. Peter Hamilton, agricultural implement works, Peterborough; Mr. Richard Hall, of Messrs. Hall, Gilchrist & Co., Peterborough; Mr. Wm. H. Meldrum, of Meldrum & McAllister, millers, Peterborough; Mr. F. C. Taylor, Lindsay; Mr. W. A. Stratton, barrister, Peterborough; Mr. A. W. Campbell, C.E., Toronto; Mr. W. C. Matthews, of R. G. Dun & Co., Toronto; Mr. A. McDougall, solicitor to Ontario Treasury, Toronto; Mr. G. G. S. Lindsey, barrister, Toronto; Mr. Wm. Buckingham, manager British Mortgage Loan Company, Stratford; Hon. Thos. Ballantyne, president British Mortgage Loan Company, Stratford; Mr. A. M. McKinnon, local registrar at Guelph; Mr. A. F. Ratter, of Warwick Bros. & Rutter, manufacturers, Toronto; Mr. Robt. Davies, Toronto; Mr. A. C. Macdonell, Toronto; Mr. J. V. Teetzel, Q.C., Hamilton; Mr. Chas. B. Heyd, M. P., Brantford; Mr. J. G. Wallace, Woodstock; Mr. T. G. Hobbs, M.P. P., London; Mr. W. J. McKee, M.P.P., Windsor; and Mr. W. M. German, M.P.P., Welland.

From the names of the gentlemen surrounding the Board it will be seen that they are all gentlemen of standing and influence in their respective localities, of clean, straightforward business habits, and of undoubted integrity, business capacity, and large experience in the successful management of their own business affairs. A glance at the stock-book reveals the fact that the stock of the Company is not in the hands of two or three persons, but is distributed over a wide area of the province, in the hands of men who have a keen appreciation of the value of business investments. The stock being thus apportioned, it follows that the responsibility arising out of the operations of the Company is distributed so widely, and the element of individual liability is so small, that a maximum degree of security is afforded the clients of the new organization, this condition constituting strong grounds for confidence.

The authorized capital stock of "The Trusts and Guarantee Company (Limited)" is $500,000, and this amount has been fully subscribed. Yesterday the Shareholders authorized the Directorate to increase the capital stock to $1,000,000; so that estates and other businesses entrusted to the Company will have the protection in the way of security represented by a round million of dollars.

The Business of The Trusts and Guarantee Company is to act as Administrator of Estates, Executor, Receiver, Guardian and Trustee.

In the present age the principle of specialising predominates, and since the interests of so many estates have received indifferent justice at the hands of private administrators, it is evident that the growing preference for entrusting estates to guarantee companies is amply justified by the results. Such companies, making a specialty of such work, have especial facilities and fitness for it—including the ideas of permanency and reliability. A Trusts and Guarantee Company never dies, never absconds and remains in perpetuity the solvent and vigilant guardian of the interests entrusted to its care. It combines the wisdom and special knowledge of many experienced business men, and in this respect is a practical proof of the correctness of the saying, "In the multitude of counsel there is safety."

"The Trusts and Guarantee Company" is prepared to accept all manner of trusts, and is especially equipped for accepting trusts by deed or will. It particularly commends itself to widows, non-residents, owners advanced in years, and to those whose personal preference for leisure, travel, etc., suggests the desirability of the transference of responsibility in connection with the management and care of estates to an agency worthy of trust. Accordingly, The Trusts and Guarantee Company deals in investment securities, buying and selling, attends to paying taxes, renews insurance, collects rents, makes investments and guarantees securities of the highest class, and, in fine, looks after property and interests confided to its care with a careful attention whose value is intensified by reason of the unequaled facilities it possesses for discharging the varied duties it undertakes.

The Company is now in a position to transact business and respectfully solicits the patronage of the public concerned, with full confidence of giving the utmost satisfaction in every respect.

Pending the fitting up of suitable premises, the temporary of the Trusts and Guarantee Company will be at 54 Adelaide street east.

A BAD CASE.

There are very gratifying indications that the tone of the newspapers of the country is improving—that the slang-whanging style of journalism is disappearing. But there are occasional reminders that the reformation is incomplete. A local paper in this district, a few issues since, contained a hair-lifting paragraph dealing with the fact that the editor of a contemporary had adopted a wig. The third paper in the town thus plumes itself on its superiority and, in the following paragraph, almost equals the clever reference to the wig. It says:—"It is indeed flattering to see the ——— so very generally quoted each and every week in the columns of our scores of exchanges throughout Ontario. The new wig-rig combination issued by H. Dorenwend ——— and the itemless petticoat publication (principally Baltimore bawlings) got out by the 14-dollar bald-headed bean man, somehow fail to receive satisfactory recognition." Out of respect for decent journalism the names of the town and the newspapers mentioned are suppressed. The days are past when a civilized public will tolerate a style of journalism on a par with the maliciously comic Valentine, which has also seen its day.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Eastern trouble is becoming more abstract than con-Crete.

The "Templar," Hamilton, has as one of its headings on Harcourt's bill, the following, "Tory Predictions of Grit Deceit Amply Fulfilled." That explains a good deal.

The Boccaygeon Independent remarks: "The esteemed Mail prophesies that within two years there will be Conservative rule in Ontario and Manitoba. A well-boiled owl would be a more reliable prophet. Ring off, sweet one, ring off." There's a good deal of honest horse-sense concealed under Mr. Smiff's cap and bells.

The rather excited opponents of the Harcourt License Bill talk and act as though the proposed measure had already passed into law, as though it was a Medo-Persian proposition incapable of change. Hon. Mr. Hardy, in this connection, in replying to a deputation on Thursday, said: "We introduced this bill, not necessarily as a final bill, I hope, but I say we have introduced it as all these license bills are introduced. I have carried through four or five license bills, and I cannot remember one that came out anything like it went in. The Crooks act, for instance, in its final form was very different from the bill which Mr. Crooks introduced, and so on with all the others. Therefore this bill is introduced upon that same ground. We are prepared to discuss and to hear representations made."

"An English syndicate," says the London News (Independent), "has made arrangements with the Ontario Government to develop 64,000 acres of provincial mining lands for three years, spending $30,000 the first year, $40,000 the second and $50,000 the third in finding out if there is gold there or not. If the syndicate finds gold and wants it, it can put its claim in like any ordinary prospector. This seems like an odd transaction, but it is possibly just as well to wait until the papers come down and we all get an opportunity to see what the deal really is before starting to make a fuss. The Commissioner of Crown Lands remarked in the House yesterday that the arrangement was an exceedingly advantageous one for the province, and it lies with him to show just where the advantage lies." That's sense; hear both sides of the case.

THEIR RECORD.

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review.)

At a time when the Ontario Government is receiving severe condemnation at the hands of the extreme temperance advocates, it is interesting to look into the record of the Liberal Administration in this province on the liquor question and note the advances in temperance reform under it. It is a truism often asserted that one sin in the eyes of the public will mar a whole life, no matter how virtuous and upright that life may have previously been. So it seems to be in regard to this temperance question. Notwithstanding the fact that the Liberal Ontario Government has proved itself to be more in sympathy with the principle than any other Government, and that in the last twenty years the licenses, in this province, have been reduced by one half, indignation meetings are being held, strong resolutions passed, and no end of abuse heaped upon the Cabinet because the amendments to the liquor license law, which they now propose are not considered sufficiently restrictive. Such conduct seems, to say the least, harsh.

When the Liberal Government came into power the liquor traffic was in the hands of the municipalities. One of the first acts of the Administration was to repeal the law which prevailed prior to and after Confederation, which allowed original packages from the manufacturer, containing not less than five gallons, or one dozen bottles of liquor, to be sold without a license. Since then, by the aid of the legislation passed, backed by public sentiment, there has been a continuous reduction in the number of places selling liquor. In the year before the Crooks Act was was passed, the licenses issued were numbered as follows:

Tavern	4,778

HIS IS THE TIME of year .. .. when men .. and women .. become weakened by .. the weather, and run down generally. .. .. The first parts that the weather affects are the kidneys. The urea is not thrown off, but is forced back upon the lungs, and disease results—caused by weakness of the kidneys.

Accept no substitute.

HERE IS ONLY ONE SURE WAY known to medical men for promptly checking troubles of the kidneys and restoring these great organs to health and strength, and that is by the use of Warner's Safe Cure

It has stood the test of time; it has saved thousands of lives; it has restored millions of sufferers to health; it has done what was never done, never attempted before; it has made men stronger and healthier; it has made .. women brighter and happier; .. it stands alone in all these qualities. Do you not think it would be wise for you to use it and thus avoid the dangers of the season? Insist upon having it.

MR. McCAUGHAN AT NEW YORK.

The New Pastor of St. Andrew's, Toronto, Had a Rough Passage, but Has Pleasant Anticipations.

New York, March 12.—Rev. W. J. McCaughan was a passenger on board the White Star Line steamer Germanic, from Liverpool and Queenstown, which arrived at Quarantine this evening. He is a tall, spare man, with strong, pale features and light sandy hair. He said that the trip had been a trying one to him on account of the rough weather experienced, and because he was exhausted by a long tour of lectures before he left Ireland, being almost prostrated when he boarded the Germanic at Queenstown. He spoke with great enthusiasm of his pleasant anticipation for his coming tour through Canada, and said he recalled with much pleasure the delightful reception he met with when last there.

HOTHOUSE LIVES.

Disease Germs in Homes that are Badly Ventilated.

Sickness and Disease Prevail at this Season.

Paine's Celery Compound Gives New Life.

It Should be Used by Every Ailing Person this Month.

The all-important thing for nervous, sleepless and run down people to know is that Paine's Celery Compound builds up the whole physical system, improves digestion and regulates the nerves. By accomplishing this work, sound, regular and refreshing sleep is insured, that daily helps flesh-building and the gathering of strength.

In the winter the majority of men and women have lived hot house lives. Thousands of homes are badly ventilated and without proper sanitary arrangements. The air is full of poison germs that are inhaled by the inmates, and we find sickness and disease holding sway.

This is the month when the blood is impure, when eruptions, boils and skin diseases make life a misery. This is the month when we see the sallow faces, the hollow cheeks and sunken eyes, betokening ill health and weakness. This is the month that demands physical repairing and cleansing, in order that the seeds and germs of disease may be eradicated from the system.

Paine's Celery Compound is the medicine needed by every broken down and diseased mortal at this time. Its marvellous virtues have been noted and commended by the ablest physicians in the world, and its best and strongest advocates are those whom it has restored to perfect health.

Dr. A. W. K. Newton, an eminent physician and surgeon of Boston, says:

"Paine's Celery Compound is not a patent medicine, and it must not be confounded with the ordinary nervines, bitters and sarsaparillas. It is as much superior to them in formula and results as the diamond is superior to glass. It purifies the blood, strengthens the nerves, and is nature's food for the brain.

"I had some trouble myself from blood poisoning received in a very delicate surgical operation. The formula of Paine's Celery Compound led me to try it, and I was much pleased with the result. I prescribe it for men and women who have no appetites, cannot sleep, and are weak and run down. For this condition, and for disorders of the blood and nerves, it has no equal.

"When a man or woman has lost appetite, lost sleep, and feels that life is a burden, that person is in a serious condition. I prescribe Paine's Celery Compound for my patients who have these common and dangerous symptoms with invariably satisfactory results. It is the best possible remedy to keep up one's strength and energy during the spring and summer months."

LATEST WAR NEWS.

A New Danger Crops Up in the Eastern Question.

ANATOLIA IN A STATE OF UNREST.

Fears of Another Massacre—Moslems and Christians Still Fighting—Terrible Scenes at the Relief of Kandamos—Cretans Should be Notified by the Powers of Their Autonomy.

Constantinople, March 12.—The opinion obtains here that the negotiations between the powers on the reply of Greece to the Cretan ultimatum will be protracted. In the meanwhile, another threatening feature has been added to the situation. Renewed outbreaks are threatened in Anatolia. The British Ambassador, Sir Philip Currie, has draw the attention of the Turkish Government to the condition of this district of Asia Minor, and has requested that immediate steps be taken to avert another catastrophe. It appears that the condition of the Christians there is deplorable. They are the victims of constant outrage and murder, and the situation at Payas is so critical that a massacre is feared. Advices from Erzeroum say that large forces of Russian troops are concentrating on the Armenian frontier in the direction of Sarikamysh, in the District of Kars.

Still They are Fighting.

Canea, March 12.—It is reported here that the Turkish fort at Sjinalonga is being attacked by the insurgents. The Moslems are said to be making a gallant resistance. It is also reported that several encounters between Moslems and Christians have taken place in Archanes.

Terrible Scenes Witnessed.

London, March 12.—The correspondent of The Standard at Canea telegraphs a description given by an eye-witness of the evacuation of Kandamos by the Moslems, who have now reached Canea. He says that swarms of wild-looking insurgents swooped like kites on the outgoing refugees and seized and hauled off oxen by their horns and tails. They fought desperately with each other to gain possession of chairs and tables. The insurgents wanted to loot the place and were ready to risk their lives for a sheep or a mule.

Should Formally Proclaim It.

London, March 12.—The Daily News will to-morrow publish a despatch from Canea saying that it would be of the greatest advantage if the powers would formally proclaim to the Cretans the fact that they had determined to establish autonomous government on the island. Most of the inhabitants are not aware of the intention of the powers. The few isolated chiefs of the insurgents who have learned that Turkish rule in the island is to be brought to an end, have declared their joyous acceptance of the scheme of the powers.

Starving Mussulmans.

Canea, March 12.—The destitute Mussulman refugees here are on the verge of starvation. Bands of robbers are pillaging the towns and the adjoining country.

Greek Troops on the Frontier.

Paris, March 12.—The Journal publishes a despatch from Larissa, on the Turkish frontier of Greece, saying that the Greek troops there and at Mikala number 25,000. The equipment of the men is perfect, their magazines are filled with ammunition and they are well provisioned. The enthusiasm of the men is indescribable.

Not a Bad Suggestion.

Vienna, March 12.—The Admirals commanding the European squadrons in Cretan waters have suggested to their respective Governments the advisability of each power contributing 1000 soldiers to be employed in occupying the towns in the northern part of Crete, for the purpose of preserving order.

Is There a Prospect of Settlement?

Athens, March 12.—With the abatement of the war fever here, there is a growing belief that an amicable agreement between Turkey and Greece with regard to Crete is possible.

Must Employ Force.

Vienna, March 12.—The semi-official Fremdenblatt to-day says that the view of the Greek reply taken by the powers is that it can only be replied to by the employment of force to induce Greece to obey the will of Europe.

W. C. McCOMBER & SON, Bonchette, Que., report in a letter that Pyny-Pectoral cured Mrs. C. Garneau of chronic cold in chest and bronchial tubes, and also cured W. C. McComber of a long-standing ... d.

MR. J. H. HUTTY, Chemist, 328 Yonge St., Toronto, writes: "As a general cough and lung syrup Pyny-Pectoral is a most invaluable preparation. It has given the utmost satisfaction to all who have tried it, many having spoken to me of the benefits derived from its use in their families. It is suitable for old or young, being pleasant to the taste. Its sale with me has been wonderful, and I can always recommend it as a safe and reliable cough medicine."

What Does This Mean?

Bloodshed at Everek.

Constantinople, March 12.—The Porte and the foreign diplomats have received news of bloodshed at Everek, a mountain village in Kaisarieh. The situation in these regions is most lamentable, and rumors are current in this city that a massacre is impending there.

Rustic Reserves in Swarms.

London, March 12.—The Times will to-morrow publish a despatch from Athens saying that the city is swarming with enthusiastic rustic reserves. Two thousand of them were sent to the frontier yesterday.

Turkey Buying Ironclads.

Constantinople, March 12.—It is positively stated here that the administration of the Sultan's civil list will enter into negotiations with the United States Government for the purchase of two or three ironclads that are already completed. It is said that £400,000, Turkish, will be paid on account of the purchase money.

Dr. CHASE CURES FATHER AND CHILD

Both afflicted with Eczema of a very troublesome type and cured in a remarkably short while by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

"I was troubled for ten years with eczema on one leg; the itching was something terrible; would scratch until the blood came. How I came to know the value of DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT, I have a little girl two years; when she was one year old the same disease began to show upon her face. It wasn't long before her face became literally covered with it. In order to keep her from scratching it we had to bandage her hands up. I tried several doctors, but got no relief. Seeing DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT so highly advertised I made up my mind to purchase a box, which I did from one of our leading druggists. The first application I noticed a change. It was then I began to think about myself. With four or five applications, to my surprise, I am completely cured, no sign of the disease, and my little girl's face to-day is clear of all the scabs. I am only too glad to inform any person what a blessing DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT has proved itself.

An Interesting Map.

As a great deal of interest is being manifested in the war question Mr. W. Sallsbury has prepared a map of Southern Europe, clearly outlining the boundaries of the different countries concerned and showing just what territory Austria and Russia would like to annex, as well as the Island of Crete. To make the map even more interesting Mr. Sallsbury has placed a sketch of the head of each sovereign in the centre of his domains. It can be seen in the windows of his store.

Fancy Skating.

On Monday evening last, says the Lakefield News, quite a number assembled at the rink to witness the exhibition of fancy skating given by Mr. E. J. Hartley, of Peterborough. Mr. Hartley is considered to be one of the best fancy skaters in Canada, and he ably sustained his reputation on Monday night. He executed a variety of movements, comprising changes of edge, inside and out, all kinds of eights, vines, single foot spins, double foot whirl, lock foot spins, waltz step, and many others. Those present were well pleased with the exhibition, and Mr. Hartley was requested to appear in the rink again.

"The Defaulter."

Lincoln J. Carter's big success, "The Defaulter," will be produced at Bradburn's Opera House Tuesday, night, March 16th. "The Defaulter" is Mr. Carter's greatest effort, and it has received the highest praise from the press wherever it has appeared. It is a play understood by all because of its symmetry and simplicity of construction and its thoroughtruthfulness to nature in its plot, chatacterizations, incidents and dialogue. It is a play of-day—a play for all classes, rich and poor, old and young. It is a tribute to woman, depicting, as it does, the sublime love, devotion and self-sacrifice of the wife and mother to all she holds dearest to her husband, child and home. It is a play in which woman triumphs, and it is said to be interpreted by an excellent company. The scenic embellishments are very fine. Prices, 25, 35 and 50c.

B. B. A. Entertainment, Opera House, March 17th.

The Jameson raid in South Africa and subsequent events, touching the matter, have become of world-wide interest. Owing to the fact that our countryman, Hon. Edward Blake, one of our greatest statesmen, is acting on the Parliamentary Committee appointed to enquire into the circumstances which resulted in Jameson's raid, Canadians feel something like a local interest in the matter, and the people of Peterborough no doubt will feel a little pardonable pride from the fact that they are to be the first audience in the new world having an opportunity of seeing these beautiful coloured views, which comprise over sixty, of the most thrilling scenes of this historical event. The entertainment will also consist of vocal and instrumental music. Reserved seats 50c, general admission 35c. Plan of hall at Sallsbury & Co's.

CHRISTIAN UNITY.

Second of the Series of Lenten Lectures in St. Luke's.

In spite of the tempestuous weather of last night there was a large congregation in St. Luke's school house to listen to the second of the series of Lenten lectures by ministers of other communions on the general subject of Christian unity.

After a hymn and prayer Rev. Mr. Symonds expressed his pleasure at seeing so many present under the circumstances, and he was especially pleased to see present Rev. Mr. Young, a representative in an unofficial character of the great Methodist body which numbers thirty million adherents in all parts of the world. The Methodist church sprang from John Wesley, a clergyman of the Church of England. At that time the Church was greatly in need of an awakening. Mr. Symonds paid a warm tribute to John Wesley as a great and inspired man, and the failure of the church to recognize his great qualities had been greatly to her loss since. The secret of the success of the Methodist church lay in her freedom from the trammels of set forms and details, to which the Church had rather too rigidly adhered. In such a spirit had the Methodist Church preached the gospel in new places and gained many accessions who naturally belonged to the Church of England, and the gains that had been made by Methodists were justly gained.

Rev. Mr. Young gracefully acknowledged the references to himself and the church which he represented, made by the rector of St. Luke's. He was very glad that his engagements permitted him to accept an invitation to join in these special services. The subject of his address was its advantages and disadvantages." After defining the invisible church, the speaker referred to the visible church as fairly covered by the definition in the 19th of the Articles of Religion of the Church: "a congregation of faithful men, etc." Unity meant oneness of aim, purpose and intention, and was not to be confounded by any means with uniformity. Christian unity was the oneness of the invisible church, and church unity the oneness of the visible church. The church had been divided on doctrinal points of worship, etc., and church unity meant the harmonising of all these discordant notes. The difficulties in the way of harmonising these diverse elements were very great. In a general way there were three great bodies represented in the visible church—the Greek church, the Roman church and the Protestant church. The differences amongst these had become so fixed that the idea of anything like organic union seemed to be hopeless. The doctrinal differences between the Roman and the Protestant churches were so sharply defined as to preclude the idea of organic union. When we come to consider the prospects of the union of the various branches of the Protestant section of the church appeared to be much more hopeful. They were one in the great essential points—had the same Bible, trusted in the same Saviour, all had the same general creed, and all had a oneness of aim—the salvation of souls. That these aims were carried out by different methods and forms of worship was a comparatively minor matter. In considering closer connection among the churches to effect better work in reaching the common aim,

"CHRISTIAN UNITY,

FOUR METHODS SUGGESTED THEMSELVES.

Absorption, by the strongest, of the weaker was an impossible and undesirable unification, for no church organization could claim a monopoly of truth. Oraganic union with one doctrine, polity and scheme of work was the ideal form of union, but this also was neither practicable nor desirable. There were different peoples to be considered and it was to be expected that corresponding differences would exist in churches. The speaker believed that the different Christian denominations existed by God's will and that each was permitted to exist for a definite purpose to carry on a definite work. The history of the Christian Church for the past showed traces of the definite work of the several branches. The speaker urged that we move slowly in the direction of organic union. A unity that was desirable and possible was fraternal union—a frank recognition of each others' Christian standing and character. Whatever our name might be we were all brethren—one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one hope of our calling. Mr. Young mentioned a pathetic incident in reference to the railway brakeman who died in the hospital. His mate, though bound by no ties of blood, but simply by the bond of humanity and a common calling, stood by the bedside of his companion in unremitting solicitude till the end. This seemed to be a lesson in fraternal unity which the churches, which had far more numerous common ties, might lay to heart. Fraternal unity involved the recognition of the denominational standing of the members and ministers of other religious bodies—of the standing and organization of other churches. The principle of federation afforded fraternal union; it involved both the recognition of other bodies and a recognition of their work. As an example of the unprofitable dissipation of strength, the lecturer cited the instance of a village of 1,000 inhabitants with three churches capable of seating 2,000 and with three ministers and church organizations, where one would be abundant, leaving the other two ministers and the means employed free to be employed in the extension of Christ's kingdom elsewhere. Federation would send these two superfluous ministers to other fields where the Gospel was not preached. Federation meant a conservation of forces. The above summary is a mere outline of the speaker's able and eloquent lecture. This outline was symmetrically rounded by argument, illustration application and appeal, and afforded to the thoughtful much material for meditation. In conclusion, he hoped that the present series of meetings might lead to a federation of forces that might result in spreading the blessing of the Gospel to "the regions beyond."

A MUTUAL RECOGNITION

At the conclusion of Rev. Mr. Young's address, Rev. Mr. Symonds referred to similar interdenominational meetings in Switzerland, and read an extract from a letter of Rev. Hugh Price Hughes, in reference thereto, which took a most hopeful view of the prospects of a closer unity among the church as evidenced by the broader spirit developed in late years. He said also that Rev. Mr. Young had spoken his whole mind on the subject and that was what he was expected to do. Mr. Symonds except a few words, and he could not then even recall what they were. Especial reference was made to the statement that uniformity was not to be expected. It was God's will that there should be unity in variety; while there was imperative variety in the world of nature, and there was expected to be similar variety in the denominational bodies. In respect to the idea of federation that was a mark of the times in the political world. Men's minds ran together politically as well as ecclesiastically. There was a certain correspondence in national and church divisions. The idea of imperial and international federation was engaging increasing attention, and men were in a mood to deal liberally with the idea of federation in ecclesiastical matters. For himself and on behalf of the Christian workers of St. Luke's, Rev. Mr. Symonds thanked Rev. Mr. Young for his admirable lecture, and he welcomed the many present from other congregations.

The next address of the series will be given by Rev. J. G. Potter of St. Andrew's on Friday evening next on the subject of "The Unity of the Spirit."

CLEAN THE SIDEWALKS.

The Slush Can be Easily Removed During a Thaw.

A little work on the sidewalks by the citizens would mean a great deal to those who have much walking to do.

Yesterday the ice was softened into slush, and could easily have been removed with a shovel, and a small gutter cut in the ice along the edge of the sidewalk would soon have drained it of water.

It is work which the snow plow cannot do, and at the expense of a little exertion the streets could easily be made far more passable than they are at present, as many sidewalks are still ankle deep in slush.

The sidewalk at the base of the Court House hill is made a most dangerous one for pedestrians by every frost which follows a thaw. The water runs off the hill and settles in pools on the sidewalk, where it eventually freezes. A few hours' work by the prisoners in cleaning it and making a gutter would tend to greatly benefit those having to pass over it. As hundreds of school children use it several times a day, the danger of a broken limb, caused by a fall, is not by any means slight. Scores of other sidewalks are in just the same condition, but the one illustration will suffice.

MUSICAL KINDERGARTEN.

The Principle Practically Applicable to Teaching Music.

The Musical Kindergarten which Mrs. Klingenfeld, of Toronto, intends starting, will be a novelty to Peterborough. All over the United States the idea of training children from 4 to 15 years of age in the "Rudiments of music," as well as other musical accomplishments, has met with universal success and approval.

By the most approved and simplest methods, children are taught to read music intelligently, and given also a fundamental knowledge of the key board, so as to even acquire a musical tone quality when striking the keys or when singing. Everything that can develop their talents will be brought out with little effort, and make them juvenile musicians, and the system has proven to be as great a success in music as in the schools. Those interested are referred to advertisement in the local columns of this issue.

Straw for Fuel.

A Barrie man advertises a new machine for compressing straw for fuel and building purposes, which he claims to have proved a great success. By this system eight pounds of compressed straw will bake an oven of bread, and the cost of compressing and preparing that straw does not exceed $1.50 per ton. Fifty tons pressure is put on every bundle. It is claimed that one ton of straw will last a month and give heat equal to coal or wood. For building purposes the compressed straw is submitted to a solution of cement, which gives each block the consistency of stone or brick, and is much cheaper.

THE PRESENT LICENSE AMENDMENT BILL.

THE EXAMINER has been requested to publish the following resolution, which is said to have been passed at a meeting, on Thursday night, of City Lodge I.O.G.T., Peterborough:—

"That whereas the Provincial Legislature in its regular session has seen fit to introduce a bill at direct variance with their repeated pledges to the Temperance community, we the officers and members of City Lodge herewith enter our vigorous protest against such legislation; and be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to each of the local papers, and also to persons representing the Ridings of East and West Peterborough in the Provincial Legislature."

THE EXAMINER cheerfully gives space to this resolution, for, in the interests of effective legislation in the direction of improving the existing license law, it is desirable that as full an expression of public sentiment as possible should be available for the guidance of the members of the Legislature. But at the same time it is desirable that such resolutions should be as nearly in accordance with the facts as possible, and also that they should be accompanied by the names of the movers and seconders, so that the public might know with whom they are dealing in the matter, and so that it might be, to some extent, surmised how far these resolutions are the results of full consideration and matured judgment in respect of the matters dealt with by them.

Mr. Stratton, M. P. P., West Peterborough, who was in town to-day was shown the above resolution. In regard to it he said that it seemed strange that temperance lodges who are at least supposed to give some consideration to what is put forth in the shape of formal resolutions should omit such precaution, and that it was to be regretted that more mature consideration of the proposed legislation had not been given before adopting a resolution whose terms are at "direct variance" with the facts, and are expressed in language of so intemperate a character as to rob it of the respect due to an expression of opinion founded on mature consideration of the facts it purports to deal with.

In the first sentence of the resolution Mr. Stratton pointed out, it is asserted,

"That whereas, the Provincial Legislature in its regular session has seen fit to introduce a bill at direct variance with the repeated pledges to the temperance community."

He remarked in reference to this that he was not aware that the "Legislature at its regular session" had promised anything. He understood that Sir Oliver Mowat promised, in case the decision of the Privy Council was favourable, to give certain legislation in the interests of prohibition and it was well known that the decision was that the province had not the prohibitory power, and he understood that Mr. Hardy had promised that "he would introduce legislation as far as provincial jurisdiction would permit and popular sentiment approve," and it was a fair matter of opinion as to whether the bill went as far as public sentiment approved or not. It was thus seen that the Legislature promised nothing, but that Sir Oliver Mowat and Mr. Hardy had made certain promises on behalf of the government and the first half of the resolution is therefore at "direct variance" with the facts, and a resolution framed with so complete disregard of the facts applying to the case set forth cannot be regarded as a very valuable contribution to public opinion.

"The bill is at direct variance with the repeated pledge to the temperance community."

Mr. Stratton wished to point out that the language was not in accordance with the facts. For instance, take the bill as it affected Peterborough. The provisions of the bill as introduced would operate thus:

1. Seven licenses will be cut off on the first of May in this town.
2. Saloons are to be abolished under the bill.
3. Under the bill it is unlawful to furnish liquor to any person under the age of 21 years—under 18 years is the present law.
4. The bill prohibits the sale of liquor by druggists.
5. The bill reduces the hours of sale in rural municipalities.

The bill besides reduces the number of hotels in Lakefield from four to three licenses, the number at Norwood by one, and at Havelock by one.

It seems, Mr. Stratton said, that a bill which proposed to do all this, was fairly to be regarded as an advance in temperance legislation, and the temperance lodge that enters its "vigourous protest against such legislation" can hardly be regarded as a safe and fair exponent, of the temperance sentiment of the community, which is, by no means, confined to the membership of any temperance organization. It might be that the bill did not go as far as some extreme temperance advocates think should be gone, but it is certainly an abuse of language and perversion of fact to say that the proposed bill is not an advance in temperance legislation. So far as the amendment of a license law is concerned, it seemed to him that this "vigourous protest against such legislation" was made from a superficial acquaintance with the subject and that a perfectly legitimate zeal in the promotion of a good cause had been permitted to subordinate discretion to the extent of employing strained statements and intemperate extremity of language not at all warranted by the circumstances. There were a great many excellent temperance men who are well pleased with the tendency of the bill and there were others who wish the legislation to be much more drastic and there were those who think that the bill is as advanced as the sentiment of the community will endorse, and as advanced as it is possible for any government to pass into legislation with a reasonable prospect of effective enforcement. As to the prospect of the bill being adopted as it stands, Mr. Stratton said that as a rule no bill passed the House without more or less amendment. Especially was this likely to be the case in respect to the License Amendment bill, which might be subjected to some changes, especially in regard to the clauses affecting large centres of population, but it was probable that those clauses affecting smaller places would pass without such amendments.

At this season old riders congregate and talk wheel before purchasing their new mounts.

Young men and riders who desire a particularly light wheel and one with a distinctive touch of grace and beauty, should examine the Stearns. Upon general lines one bicycle is much like another. It is, therefore, a matter in which Stearns & Co. are entitled to take no little pride that, out of the thousands of wheels which are shown, the Yellow Fellow stands out the most characteristic and distinguished bicycle in the market.

UNTOLD MISERY FROM RHEUMATISM

C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphine. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur, in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months, my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith."

MGR. MERY DEL VAL'S APPOINTMENT

Was Not a Concession to the Canadian Bishops, Says Mr. Russell, Who Has Been at the Vatican.

London, March 12.—Mr. Russell, who with Charles Fitzpatrick, Solicitor-General of Canada, visited Rome for the purpose of presenting the Manitoba school case to the Pope, and also to obtain the appointment of an apostolic delegate to Canada, has returned to London. In an interview with a representative of the United Associated Presses to-day Mr. Russell said he was highly satisfied with the result of the several interviews which he had with His Holiness, who evinced a particular interest in Canadian affairs. Mr. Russell expressed regret that some persons had claimed that the nomination of Mgr. Mery Del Val as apostolic delegate to Canada was a victory for the Canadian bishops. That view, he said, would greatly pain the Pope, who felt the greatest confidence that Mgr. Mery Del Val would conciliate the conflicting parties.

AN IMPORTANT LETTER.

SHOWING HOW A SUFFERER FROM SCIATICA WAS CURED.

A Correspondent of the Orillia News-Letter With Permission From the Author Makes the Letter Public—It Will be Gladly Read by Other Sufferers From this Painful Malady.

From the Orillia News Letter.

The following letter has been forwarded us by the Coldwater, Ont., correspondent of the News-Letter, which we have great pleasure in publishing:

COLDWATER, Sept. 25th, 1896.

A few weeks ago I became very unwell from an attack of sciatica, and remembering that a while ago a well known friend of mine, Mr. C. T. Hopson, of Fesserton, a few miles from here, had been a great sufferer from this painful complaint, I thought it would be well to consult that gentleman as to the medicine he gives credit to for his relief and cure, as I was aware that he was now well and hearty and had ever since been in steady work among lumber—his regular business. He gave me the information required and wrote out the following testimonial which he desires to have published in any way I think proper, hoping that it will meet the eye of many sufferers like myself who are anxious to get relief. I therefore forward it to you to publish:

FESSERTON, Sept. 18th, 1896.

"It is with the greatest pleasure that I testify to the marvellous benefit and cure that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills effected in my case. In the year 1892 I was taken very bad with sciatica. I was treated at different times by two doctors but dispensed with their services as I found I was not getting the hoped for relief. I then tried different remedies advertised as a cure for sciatica, but with no better result. Then I tried strongly recommended electrical appliances, but still to no purpose. I did not improve any and the pain was excruciating, and I began to lose all hope of ever getting better. I could not sit down or move about without suffering intense pain, and the only relief I could get was when I lay down with my legs stretched straight out and then the pain was somewhat less. I was in this position one day when I picked up a newspaper lying by my side and there I read of a man cured of sciatica by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Always having but little faith in proprietary medicines, and in view of the experience I already had, I would not have tried them but for the fact that my wife insisted on going at once and procuring some. She got a box and persuaded me to try them. By the time I had finished the box I felt stronger, so I kept on taking the pills, and by the time I had taken six boxes I was entirely cured. I had been laid up for four months before taking the Pink Pills, and I shall continue to take them occasionally as I know them to be an excellent medicine. I shall never cease recommending them. Yours truly,

CHARLES T. HOPSON.

Our correspondent adds that this letter is from a much respected resident of Fesserton, whose word is generally considered as good as his bond.

GERALD DU MAURIER

TELLS SOME RECOLLECTIONS OF HIS GIFTED FATHER.

The Young Man Himself and His Point of View—The Novelist's Opinion of the Dramatization of "Trilby"—Answered by Proxy.

It seems peculiarly appropriate, and is a satisfaction to one's sense of the fitness of things, that one of the parts in "Trilby" should be played by a son of its author. And Gerald du Maurier, the Zouzou of Mr. Tree's production, now at the Knickerbocker, says the New York Tribune, is exactly the kind of frank, genial young fellow that one would expect to find in his father's son. He has a most attractive way of speaking, and a quiet, keen sense of humor which strongly suggests the happy little touches in his father's writings. It is only a few years since young Mr. Du Maurier first went upon the stage, but he had played many other parts before he joined the forces of "Trilby." In speaking of the way in which he came to do this, he said last week.

"I was really under an engagement at that time with Arthur Bourchier and expected to play with his company for some time. One day I met Mr. Tree at the Garrick, in London, and he said at once:

"'Oh, Du Maurier, I want you to play with me in "Trilby," will you?' So in a short time I got my release from Bourchier, and it was settled that I should take the part of Dodor in Mr. Tree's company. He wanted me to play Little Billee at first, but I am much too tall for that part; it would have been absurd. Besides, I liked the part of Dodor for personal reasons and so did father. He was very anxious that I should play it for a while at any rate. You know Dodor was drawn from life pretty faithfully, from an uncle of mine who was in the French Dragoons. Afterward, I changed to Zouzou, which is, of course, a better part.

"Father never thought that 'Trilby' would be a success as a play when he was first told that it was going to be dramatized. However, he said he didn't care what was done with it so long as he was not obliged to see it. He always hated the theatre, anyway, and never went unless he had to for the sake of some one else. But he rather changed his mind later about 'Trilby.' That is, he thought it was awfully clever to be able to make a play out of it at all, and was quite pleased at the way in which several of the scenes were reproduced. He went to the dress rehearsal and several times after that.

"He had not the slightest idea of fashion, or what was the correct thing in dress. People supposed that he noticed those things, of course, and girls used to call upon my mother and sisters, got up beautifully, and expect that father would at least get some ideas from them. But, dear me, he hadn't the least notion of what they had on! My sisters looked to it that he got the right things in his pictures. He would come home sometimes and sketch something which had attracted him in a passerby on the street. Often it would be some impossibly queer arrangement, and my sisters would protest: 'Why, father, you mustn't use that in Punch. Nobody wears those things now; they're dreadfully old-fashioned,' and he would give in immediately to what he recognized as their superior judgment.

"He was even putting poor Trilby in those Latin Quarter scenes of forty years ago into modern garments, and had to be brought before the family tribunal for that. My sisters had to hunt up some old-style clothes for him to use. He did have models, you know, for the postures and the clothes, and so on, though the face of Trilby was purely ideal. Little Billee's sister, by the way, and Sweet Alice, were both taken from photographs, I forget now of whom, which he had in the house.

"It was such a standing joke in the family about father's ignorance on the subject of dress that I tried one day to see just how far he could be deceived. I put on a dress suit, a white waistcoat, a dark-colored four-in-hand tie and high brown boots—in fact, got myself up in as incongruous a fashion as I could. He had wanted me to pose for a smart young man in one of his Punch society sketches. He looked at me when I came in, and hesitated just a moment as he took in the details of my costume.

"'Is that right?' he asked, a little puzzled, but putting the question in perfect good faith. I assured him that all fashionable young men in London were wearing that sort of evening dress; that it was the latest and only proper thing. He was entirely satisfied, and was drawing away diligently when I couldn't keep in any longer, and told him the joke. Otherwise, he would most certainly have sent the sketch to Punch."

"It must have been a tremendous tax to supply Punch regularly with jokes and caricatures for so many years," remarked the writer, thoughtfully.

"Ah, indeed, you may well say so," returned Mr. du Maurier with animation. "It's true, people used to send him jokes from all over England, but he didn't use so very many of them. At least three-fourths of all those that appeared were his own. It was a tax. Sometimes it worried him not a little, and to see him walking up and down the room trying to think of a joke," added the son, smiling in spite of himself at the recollection, "oh, it was awful!"

"After his books became so popular he was quite overwhelmed with letters from all parts of the world. A good many came from admiring women, especially American women, and some of them were vastly amusing. I have no doubt many of them thought he was a young man. Well," reflectively, "he used to let his grandchildren answer most of them. I fancy the writers were rather disappointed. Then there were numbers of letters relating to the dream part of 'Peter Ibbetson.' My father didn't believe in any of that, of course, though he wrote it perhaps as if he did. But so many people took it absolutely seriously. I don't know how many inquiries he had about it. 'I have tried sleeping on my back,' one would write, 'with my feet crossed, as you describe, and my hands clasped under my head, but I can't succeed in "dreaming true."' Such complaints used to amuse him very much. He seemed to consider hypnotism an interesting subject, though he never investigated it particularly nor believed much in it."

HUGH JOHN ACCEPTS.

He Will Become the Conservative Leader in Manitoba—Protest of the St. Boniface Election Talked of.

Winnipeg, March 11.—(Special.)—Representative Conservatives of all Manitoba districts met at Winnipeg last night, when Hon. Hugh John Macdonald was formally tendered and definitely accepted the provincial leadership. It is understood that at the close of the present session of the Legislature one of the members of the Conservative Opposition will resign to make way for Hugh John in the House. It was determined to do aggressive work and W. H. Hastings, barrister, of Winnipeg, was chosen as salaried organizer for Manitoba.

The Tribune to-night intimates that the St. Boniface election is to be protested on the ground of clerical interference. The Tribune announcement seems to leave no doubt that this course has been decided upon.

Flood at Ann Arbor.

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 11.—The heavy rains have flooded the Michigan Central Depot and the newly macadamized street leading thereto has been washed out in several places. The Huron River is higher than ever before, and it is feared the dam will give way. The Michigan Central track in the western part of the city is covered by about a foot of water.

Seems as if consumption always picks out the brightest and best. Fully one-sixth of all the deaths that occur in the world are caused by consumption. Many things were once considered impossible. It would be strange if medical science did not make some progress. The telegraph and telephone, the phonograph, the electric light—all were once impossible, and once it was impossible to cure consumption. That was before the time of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Taken according to directions, this standard remedy will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. Consumption is caused and fostered by impurity in the blood. It is cured by purity and richness in the blood—surely, certainly cured by the "Medical Discovery." It builds up solid healthy flesh and vigorous strength.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a 1008 page medical work, profusely illustrated, will be sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to cover postage only. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Strength of Nature.

According to the ancient mythology, when Hercules wrestled with Antæus, every time he was thrown he jumped up again stronger than ever, gaining fresh power from every contact with the earth. Hercules conquered him at last only by holding him in the air away from the source of his strength, until he grew weaker and weaker and finally became exhausted.

Antæus is a perfect symbol of mankind. Nature is the real source of health and vigor. The closer we keep to Nature's laws the stronger and healthier we grow. When we get away from them we are surg to be overcome by weakness and disease.

When sickness gets hold of a man the only remedy to really cure him must be a natural remedy. It must work according to natural laws and bring him right in touch with Nature. Any unnatural stimulus or mere temporary "appetizer" does no permanent good to a person who is debilitated and "run-down."

In these conditions the most perfect, natural strength-builder is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It acts directly upon the natural nutritive processes, and creates solid, permanent strength and vital force in the same way that Nature creates them.

It capacitates the stomach and liver to vitalize the circulation and feed the nerve-centres with pure, healthy blood. This is exactly Nature's way of curing nervous exhaustion, debility, insomnia, and neuralgia.

During the past 30 years, Dr. Pierce's medicines have become recognized standard remedies throughout the world. His "Pleasant Pellets" are a perfect and permanent cure for constipation.

Sister Elisa L. de Falcon, of Corpus Christi, Nueces Co., Texas, writes: "This is to tell you that I have been ill for twenty-one years and was finally cured by your medicines 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription.' I was completely cured after taking the medicine."

NEW BLOUSE BODICES

THE DINNER TOILETS SEEN AT SAN REMO, ITALY.

The Latest and Freshest News From an Exhibition of Fashion — Skirts and Waists Were Different and Great Daintiness Marks the Latter.

(Special Correspondence.)

San Remo, Italy, (Special.)—The anemones are already in blossom. This means that San Remo is the sunniest spot in the whole Riviera, which means that San Remo is full to overflowing, which means that table d'hote is at present writing a more than usually ceremonious function, which again means that the prettiest blous bodices ever made are to be studied at 7 o'clock every evening.

Toilets for Table d-Hote.

Some day I shall write a poem in honor of table d'hote, its flowers, its music, and its pretty girls. Whatever you have been about by daylight, whether sailing or driving or climbing the steep streets to the heights crowned with cypresses or loitering under the palms and pepper trees, you must be back in season to give a full half-hour to dressing for dinner. The evening table d'hote is the great event of the twenty-four hours. The long table that seemed a little cold and perfunctory in its stateliness at "cafe" and "dejeuner" wakes up to new life with the shine of its tall silver pieces under the chandeliers and the color and the scent of its burden of fresh flowers. The waiters, who moved in the morning as if they had eternity before them, have put no new seal with their white gloves and bow, as if it were necessary that their heads should knock the floor. The pyramids of oranges, half buried in laurel leaves, and the Swiss houses of confectionery, with flags of all nations flying from their windows, testify to the festive character of the occasion. As table d'hote is the summit and crown of fashionable life, so table d'hote toilets are here among the most important in a woman's wardrobe.

The Blouse Glorified.

In all of which is the blouse glorified. Just why the blouse is 7 o'clock toilet par excellence I do not know. Perhaps it is reason enough that it gives a chance for unlimited prettiness and unlimited variety. However this may be, I am fresh from what was a veritable exhibition of blouse fashions. Just opposite me and half hidden behind a tall stand of roses there sat a young Russian. I believe she has some title, but since the day I sat in a shop, with my back turned upon the King of Servia for lack of knowing that he was any more than an insignificant-looking boy of 18, I have given up any attempt to keep track of degrees of elevation. The young woman wore a charming dress of silvery-gray silk made in rather original fashion. The blouse of gray mousseline de sole was cut out a little in the throat, leaving a square opening. It was gathered in loose folds under a belt made of two circlets of violet velvet ribbon, each circle fastening in front with a big rosette bow. Over the blouse was worn a little bolero of silver-gray cloth entirely covered with arabesque embroidery in ivory white cord. The bolero fastened across the top of the blouse, forming itself the boundary of the square neck opening. The skirt had a very narrow panel of ivory-white cloth in front, flanked by rows of ivory buttons.

For a Fair English Girl.

At the end of the table sat a bluff Briton, who found pleasure in sending his private store of horse-radish around for everybody to try. "To eat with meat," he repeated over and over again in English, without greatly enlightening the people who do not speak that language. On either side of the Englishman sat his two daughters, tall, fair girls of brilliant complexion. The young and more slender wore a gray cloth skirt, with a blouse of glace silk of a pale mauve figured sparsely with pink. I do not think I should be far wrong if I called this blouse the prettiest as well as the simplest I have yet seen. It was cut out in a point at the throat, not long enough to give any hint of decolletage, but to avoid the almost universal high collar. As a substitute finish the narrow plastron of silk which formed the decoration of the front of the blouse was cut out in a V also and carried around the neck, its points meeting behind. A full ruffle of narrow lace made a dainty edge to the plastron. Cascades of wider lace fell from the shoulder somewhat in the manner of a bolero. The sleeves were slightly puffed at the shoulders, then wrinkled to the wrists. Pearls were worn at the throat, and narrow mauve ribbon at the belt and in the hair.

The costume of the sister was striking, but a little more conventional. She wore bronze-brown silk, with a high corselet of bronze velvet. Revers of velvet made great triangles upon the front of the blouse, meeting at the top of the corselet. There was a high lace collar, with a jabot of lace in front, and ruffles of lace were let into the puffs of the sleeves.

Other Stunning Effects.

A big man, with a blonde beard, whose nationality I cannot guess, sat next a little French woman, who chattered to him volubly. He looked gravely polite, but puzzled, when she told him she had been biting off little pieces of her heart all around because it jumped into her mouth at a fright she had in the afternoon. The heroine of this gastronomic feat was very pretty in a blouse of old-rose velvet, with high collar fastened with old-rose ribbons. The sleeves had puffs of old-rose cloth at the shoulders, but were of velvet below and tight to the arms. The waist finish was a corselet of cloth opening in a V in front down to the waist line, this corselet being one with the skirt, or else one might say that the dress was cut with blouse and polonaise top being so low cut as to make nothing more than a corselet, opening down to the waist in a V. The corselet was edged with a thread of fur. Knots of ribbon caught in at the blouse, their streamers falling nearly to the ground. The skirt had a ruffle of velvet at the hem, with a narrow band of fur above.

There was a man with a system to break the bank at Monte Carlo, which be expounded with such single-mindedness that the waiter carried away the soup before he had lifted a spoon. With him was his wife, a woman not of pleasing countenance, but gloriously arrayed in a waist of yellow silk, with a blouse front finished at the waist with innumerable rows of tiny puffings, forming a corselet, below which the silk flared again like the full skirts of a basque or a waist ruffle. More rows of puffing gave the semblance of a bolero about the armholes. The sleeves made little balloons on the shoulders, were gathered in to fit the arms by bands of puffing, were then laid in plaits to the wrists and there allowed to flare over the hands. The prettiest feature of this waist was its neck arrangement. A folded band of black velvet ribbon was drawn about the throat and crossed in front, forming a cravat, whose ends fell down upon the skirt draperies. With this bodice a black brocade skirt was worn.

There was a bride, too, who looked a little frightened as the line of waiters bore down upon her with the great silver platters and sauce boats. It is an art to learn to help oneself nicely, and especially to replace properly the fork and spoon. The little bride felt it an ordeal. She was English, I believe, though I didn't hear her speak, and quite simply dressed in water-green silk, with a blouse cut out on either side in front in a Greek fret pattern, bordered with rows of narrow black velvet ribbon. The blouse opened on a chemisette of white mousseline de soie, and was gathered under a folded belt of velvet. The fret patterns in ribbon were carried under the belt and down upon the skirt, giving a pretty effect to the figure. The neck finish was a black velvet collar, with a rosette on the left side, from which fell a lace jabot.

There are many ways to eat an orange. The American girl halves hers crossways, and proceeds with a spoon. The English woman or French woman takes the peel off in quarters and breaks the fruit into sections. The Italian pares it like an apple. The American way is least familiar at table d'hote, and representatives of the land of the free usually give up the effort after two or three attempts to educate the waiters to bring them small spoons.

Men wear evening dress at table d'hote usually, though this is far from being obligatory. From soup to coffee takes an hour and a half, and unless I skip some of the costumes this tale will be equally long-winded.

ELLEN OSBORN.

We hear a great deal about purifying the blood. The way to purify it is to enrich it. Blood is not a simple fluid like water. It is made up of minute bodies and when these are deficient, the blood lacks the life-giving principle. Scott's Emulsion is not a mere blood purifier. It actually increases the number of the red corpuscles in the blood and changes unhealthy action into health.

If you want to learn more of it we have a book, which tells the story in simple words

The Family Dinner.

Why is it that in most households the dinner table becomes a dumping ground for the wholesale plaints of its members? Probably because this is the only meal of the day when the entire family meet together, each one feels it a duty to air a few personal grievances in order to seek consolation from the others.

One of deference to digestion, if for no other reason, dinner table conversation should be of the spiciest, but this fact is lost sight of in the general desire of everybody, from papa down to the youngsters, to serve up only those topics which have marred rather than made the day's happiness.

Hardly has the man of the house finished his carving duties before he falls into an animated financial discussion with his wife. Household expenses, are rehashed; bills grumbled over, and the cost of living recalculated with tedious regularity.

Mother, in her turn, eagerly pours into any listening ear her domestic woes. The day's errors below stairs are minutely recorded. She sighs over Bridget's butter waste, declares that the butcher's indifference to her order is becoming intolerable, and so on.

Then the small boy (poor little target for family flaw-picking) comes in for his share of criticism. His failures at school are relentlessly raked up and all orts of punishments threatened unless there is speedy reform.

If there are guests present this talk of the inner circle is for courtesy's sake given a less personal flavor, but only then. "Good cheer and plenty of it," is not the motto of the average family dinner.

It is not to be wondered at that Ayer's Pills are in such universal demand. For the cure of constipation, biliousness, or any other complaint needing a laxative, these pills are unsurpassed. They are sugar-coated, easy to take, and every dose is effective.

To Get Good Color Effects.

In furnishing a house make up your mind exactly as to the wished-for effect of each room before you begin to buy furniture, carpets or curtains, for, says the New York Journal, it is essential that there should be harmony of colors, even if suites of furniture are discarded in favor of odd bits. But here again be careful you do not run to the extreme of an inharmonious whole. That is to say, do notarrange a portion of a room in Moorish fashion, for instance, or with bamboo, while near by are strictly modern English chairs and tables. If you begin to decorate a room in one distinct style carry it out within those four walls, though other rooms may represent totally different periods. It is very important that the tints of the carpet, of the paper or paint of the walls and of the window curtains blend together in each room; that is, either possess a general resemblance of color or various colors in pleasing contrast or harmony with each other.

People buy Hood's Sarsaparilla year after year because it does them good. It will do you good to take it now.

The Production of Eggs

The whole secret of egg production is—after you have a healthy hen—a properly balanced ration. As long as the hen's food lacks one or more of the elements necessary to egg production, it is silly to expect a well-filled egg basket.

In the past few years poultrymen have been greatly favored by having an ideal egg food placed at their disposal at a very small cost, viz.: green cut bone. By analysis and experience green bones have been found to contain every element that is in an egg, and in such proportions as can be used to the best advantage. It is unfortunate that so many farmers are neglecting this most valuable adjunct to the chicken yard. Green bones can be obtained for the hauling of them away; but even if purchased they are cheaper than grain, and worked into a grain ration, the bone makes the grain go much farther.

Spot Cash---One Price---Money Back If You Want It.

THIS IS OUR METHOD OF DOING BUSINESS.

OLD CREDIT-AND-CASH-SYSTEM DONE AWAY WITH.

It is a well-known fact that a great proportion of the losses in any credit business are caused by about 4 main items:

1st. Bad Debts. 2nd. Interests on accounts carried.

3rd. Expenses of collecting and keeping track of Accounts.

4th. Losses sustained through not being able to cash Discounts when buying stock.

These losses, in the aggregate, are quite a heavy item, and are all a direct charge on any business run on a Cash and Credit basis, and must, of necessity, come out of the profits. In marking goods one has to figure on the cost of giving credit just the same as for rent, taxes, help, etc. For example:

Take a business where there is an average credit given of $6000.00; that is, at times books show $8000.00, and at other times accounts would be reduced to $6000.00, leaving the average on books for a year about	$ 6000 00
Losses from Bad Debts would be not less than	150 00
Cost of Stationary, Postage, Extra Help, Books, etc	300 00
Interest on average of Accounts, ($6000.00) at Book rate 6 per cent	400 00
Losses through not having $6000.00 in cash to take Discounts in buying stock 5 per cent	250 00
Or to an $8000.00 credit business there is an extra cost over cash of $100.00, or an expense of 4 per cent.

In comparing our own experience with other merchants we find that as near as we can approximate the above figures are correct.

After looking at these facts we have determined to live up to the experience gained, and dispense with credit altogether, believing that a Spot Cash business will be mutually beneficial. It is an undoubted fact that the man who sells the cheapest is the man who sells for Cash—selling for Cash we can and will sell at lower prices than ever before.

Buying where credit is given you not only have to pay for your own goods but have the extra cost of paying for credit business losses.

In marking our Spring Stock of Hats we have kept in view the ONE PRICE, SPOT CASH rule which we now adopt. All old customers, both Cash and Credit, and all those who will favour us with their patronage, will find that our goods are being sold at fully from 10 to 15 per. cent. lower prices than formerly, and the high quality of stock strictly maintained. In stopping this leakage customers will be money in pocket and we will be better off.

Synopsis of its Annual Report

SUBMITTED BY

The Temperance & General Life Assurance Company at its Last Annual Meeting.

At the outset the report expresses great satisfaction with the results of the year's business.

It shows an income of $171,755 for the year, which was an increase of $12,508 over that for 1895.

It shows disbursements for all purposes of $92,117. This was $9,732.00 less than the total expenditure of 1895, although endowments amounting to $4,000 were paid in 1896 and nothing in 1895.

The realized income for permanent investment was $78,163.

The death claims for the year amounted to only $2.37 per thousand dollars of average risk, and was perhaps the smallest ever experienced by any company in it's eleventh year. The interest income for the year exceeded the death claims by $3,765.

The report says: "Again we are able to report as we did for the years 1894 and 1895 that we close our books on the 31st ult., without a single dollar's worth of real estate in our hands or a single dollar of interest in arrears. Our position in this respect has been altogether unique."

Total assets increased during the year to $507,356, or an increase of $61,527.

Total liabilities increased during the year to $404,596, or an increase of $61,527.

The increase in assets after paying surplus to both shareholders and policy holders was $83,173. This means surplus earned of upwards of $26,500.

One thousand six hundred and eighty-three applications were received during the year for $2,022,000 insurance, and 1,536 policies for $1,782,000 were issued and placed.

At the close of the year we had 5,685 policies in force on 5,372 lives for $6,750,711.51 of insurance, distributed as follows:

In the temperance section we had 4,336 policies for $4,940,942.51.

In the general section we had 1,352 policies for $834,700

Our gains in business were: In the temperance section 528 policies for $636,307 of insurance, and in the general section 141 policies for $151,724 of insurance, making a total gain for the year of 669 policies for $708,031 of insurance.

The directors recommended a dividend of 5 per cent. to shareholders and a further dividend to policy holders, and referred in most complimentary terms to its officers and agents, citing the fact that for six successive years its annual statement had been sent forward to Ottawa at the earliest moment allowed by law as evidence of the efficiency of its office staff, and pointed to the large business secured as evidence of the ability of its agents.

The former Board of Directors and officers were all re-elected, and the Manager was advanced from his former position of Manager to that of Managing Director by the unanimous consent of the large body of shareholders and policyholders present at the meeting.

Detailed reports can be had on application at head office or to any agent of the company.

HOCKEY.

The citizens are anxious to see one more game of hockey before the season is over. What is the matter with asking the Belleville team up for a game? The expense in bringing them here would be small, and they are a fine lot of fellows.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY.

Report of the Year's Work in Peterborough.

From the report of Mr. J. J. Kelso, Ontario Government Superintendent of neglected and dependent children, is taken the following resume of the work done in Peterborough the past year:

The Children's Aid Society of Peterborough report that during the past year they have dealt with forty-six cases of neglected and ill-treated children. Among the cases of ill-treatment might be mentioned that of a boy of seven who was sent by his grandmother on a bitterly cold night to stand for an hour on an ice pond as a punishment for some trival offence. The pond was about a hundred yards from the house and the lad had neither hat or suitable clothing for such exposure. The case was brought into court and the woman was given a severe warning by the magistrate. In another case a husband who had been spending all his earnings in drink, and leaving his wife and children to starve, was brought to task, with the result that he is now discharging his duties as a parent and has greatly altered his conduct. The public approves highly of the movement, but the hard times makes people insufficiently responsive to enable the Society to cope with the work that should be done. The full value of the work has not yet been grasped and there is a tendency to place responsibility for it on the Government. The curfew law is in existence but has not been properly enforced, and is therefore not as effective as it ought to be. The town council gave the Society a grant of $100, while the general contributions to the work was about $110. Foster homes were found for eleven children, and these children seem to be growing up nicely in their new surroundings. The Secretary suggests that there should be some Government assistance given the local Society, and also points out the need of a Provincial Shelter, owing to the fact that children are not regarded with much favour in the neighbourhood where their history is known, and that an entire change of surroundings is therefore desirable.

MECHANICS AND ELECTRICIANS.

References to Local and General Items of Interest Concerning them.

The last issue of the Canadian Engineer contains the following items of interest:

Lead pencils made from the Renfrew, Ont., graphite are found to be of the best quality by Johann Faber, the famous manufacturer of lead pencils in Bavaria, and M. Schneider of Nuremberg, another large manufacturer.

A. J. G. Swinney, the general manager of the Deloro mines, of the Canadian Gold Fields Co., in Hastings County, recently stated that his company had not the slightest doubt that by means of the new bromo-cyanogen process the mispickel ores of Hastings County can be successfully treated. Already $350,000 has been spent on the mines and plant, and that investment is to be increased at once to $2,000,000.

The William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, Peterborough, Ont., recently shipped to the Lillooet, Fraser River and Cariboo Gold Field Co., Ltd., of Illecillewaet, two pairs of "Boss" turbine waterwheels. Each pair, set in steel cases, is to work together on a horizontal shaft. Along with this shipment was sent the necessary steel piping, one pair for electric lighting purposes, and the other for driving an electric power generator, which will be employed on a concentrating mill, which the above company has erected on their valuable property at Illecillewaet.

The seventeenth annual meeting of the shareholders of the Bell Telephone Company was held in Montreal last month. The annual report showed that the total number of sets of instruments now earning rental was 24,462. The company owns and operates 341 exchanges and 275 agencies. During 1896, 176 miles of poles and 1,013 miles of wire were added to the long distance system; of these 11 pole miles and 236 wire miles are in the Ontario Department, and 165 pole miles and 777 wire miles are in the Eastern Department. The long-distance lines now owned and operated by the company comprise 15,864 miles of wire on 6,060 miles of poles.

HAND-IN-HAND.

Health and Happiness go Hand-in-Hand—With Stomach and Nerves all out of Sorts, Health and Happiness are Unknown.

Frank A. Gadbois, Cornwall, Ont.: "I was for several years a great sufferer from indigestion, dyspepsia and nervousness. I took many remedies without any relief. I saw South American Nervine advertised. I procured a bottle, and I can truthfully say it is the best medicine I ever used, and I strongly recommend it to anyone suffering as I did. A few doses wonderfully helped me, and two bottles have made a new man of me." It cures by direct action on the nerve centres. Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

AS WELL AS EVER.

A Brickmaker Listens to Reason—Uses Six Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and Tells it.

Brockville, March 1st—(Special)—Mr. W. H. Odell, perhaps one of the best known citizens of this town, has lately recovered from a long continued and painful kidney ailment. He tells the story of his experience to the correspondent as follows:

"I have suffered for over a year from kidney disease, the pain in my back being so severe that I was unable to stand to my work.

Noticing the published cures of what Dodd's Kidney Pills were doing for others, I concluded to try them.

"Having used only six boxes I can say that I am perfectly cured and well so that I can attend to business as well as ever I could."

SCALES LIKE A FISH

Terrible Condition of a Baby from a Scaly Skin Humor.

Our baby boy was born July 1, 1896. In the fall his legs became rough, from some skin trouble, from his knees down to his toes, also his arms, breast, and abdomen. We tried a great many different kinds of remedies, but without success. In the summer of 1895 it became a little better, but in the fall, and all winter, it was a sight to behold. He had scales on his body and arms like a fish, and almost black. In fact we were ashamed with it, but could not help it. We were almost in despair until we had used CUTICURA REMEDIES for about four days, when we noticed an improvement. Every time my wife washed him, her apron became covered with a scale-like skin. To-day it is gone, his skin is as smooth as any child, and we owe it, with the blessings of God, to CUTICURA REMEDIES. If you can use this testimony, we give our full consent.

GEO. HUYSKEN & WIFE,
375 Maple Street, Detroit, Mich.

In all the world there is no other treatment so pure, so sweet, so speedily effective as CUTICURA, greatest of skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies. CUTICURA REMEDIES daily perform more great cures of torturing, disfiguring, humiliating skin, scalp, and blood diseases than all other blood and skin remedies combined. A warm bath with CUTICURA SOAP, gentle applications of CUTICURA (ointment), and mild doses of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, greatest of blood purifiers and humor cures, constitute the only unfailing external and internal treatment for all forms of skin, scalp, and blood humor known.

THE "SLATER SHOE"

Intellectual Feet.

Large feet indicate ability, intellect, perseverance and integrity.

Scores of distinguished men have been as much noted for their big feet as for their large noses.

As your foot should look.

George Eliot, Madame de Staël and other supremely intelligent women had also very large feet.

It is not the size but the shape of the foot which makes it beautiful or ugly, and the shoe worn decides its shape, as well as its comfort.

There is more care used—more time spent—in shaping "Slater Shoes," and in taking the stretch out of the leather so it will retain that shape, than in the entire making of ordinary shoes.

The Goodyear Welt process admits of this fine modelling, and the stamp on the sole ensures to the wearer these hidden qualities.

A tag on each pair of "Slater Shoes" tells of the leather in it.

$3.00, $4.00 and $5.00 per pair.

We Want Women

To be protected from the delusive arts of the "smart" business man of the day. We want more sincerity and less cuteness. We want shoppers to be treated honestly. We pledge ourselves that when you see it in our ads, its true.

We like women who want BRAND NEW GOODS, to visit our store and do their buying personally. The reason is that they can appreciate good things when they see them, and are fearless in their criticisms when men attempt to push old goods on them for new at new goods prices.

There's enough new goods here now to hold ladies from being taken in with leftovers of last year's styles or the wreckage from disasters in business. Keep your wits about you, ladies, and be cautious in buying your spring purchasers.

Constant Newness

Will be found to mark this store from day to day, already the warmer sunbeams shimmer on the new spring leaders. Dame Fashion, has put no second-hand seal on our stock to mar its freshness. Everything is fashionable and profitable to buy.

Shun the ticket-puncher! Shun the furniture prize! Shun the ancient auctioned stuffs, much of which is about as fashionable as hoops or bustles!

Have returned from their visits to the wholesale openings in the cities, and are now hard at work preparing for our opening displays, which will be a real revelation to the ladies.

EAST AGAINST WEST.

The Powers Said to be Divided on the Eastern Question.

GREAT BRITAIN, FRANCE AND ITALY

Arrayed Against Germany, Russia and Austria, According to One Correspondent's Idea—Greek Army Mobolized the Same as in War Time—Turkish Troops Blown Up.

New York, March 14.—The Sun's special London cable says: The general belief now is that the powers will condescend to argue the subject of Crete with Greece, in spite of their absolute ultimatum which King George has disobeyed. The reason for this concession is, as was telegraphed mid-week, that the French Government is unable to commit itself to drastic measures of coercion without the consent of public opinion in that country. M. Hanotaux has postponed until Monday his appeal to the Chamber of Deputies to support the Government in whatever policy seems necessary, but it is pretty clearly indicated that this policy will not include any punitive action against Greece at the present moment, although the three Emperors are openly desirous of dealing with King George in a high-handed fashion. Each day's delay is making more conspicuous the new cleavage of Europe which the Greece-Cretan crisis has caused.

Public opinion is now openly divided, east against west. Great Britain, France and Italy are arrayed against Russia, Germany and Austria. It would not be surprising or unnatural if this division became more distinct and permanent. I do not desire to imply that there is any desire on the part of the Cabinets of the Western powers, or any one of them, to secede from the European concert. The new cleavage is the work of public sentiment, and nothing else. Lord Salisbury, M. Hanotaux and Signor Rudini are all opposed to it. Nobody can calculate yet to what it may lead.

Sympathy with Greece in this country is being strengthened daily by the growing antagonism against Germany. Emperor William's naval program has aroused intense feeling in all parties. Its virtual rejection by the committee of the Reichstag to-day will not mitigate English bitterness.

There is immense significance in the British Government's reply to the German Emperor, announced last night by Mr. Goschen, First Lord of the Admiralty, in the House of Commons. His language means more than is contained in the ultimatum to Greece. He said: "In the present year there will be built sixty-six ships, and there will be 108 under construction. Is that program sufficient? It had been settled on the principle of seeing what force we might have to meet. Looking at the normal shipbuilding of various countries we took a survey, and the result of that survey is embodied in the estimates we propose. But there is what I may call a balance of power in navies of Europe, and we should watch with some anxiety that that balance should not be disturbed by any abnormal effort on the part of any other power.

"I am not frightened by programs. You have programs of all sorts, political and naval programs, and they are not always executed. Some of the largest programs of foreign countries have never come into execution, and, therefore, when a program is first launched to the world we cannot take it too seriously, because, like other programs, it may be for home consumption or it may be for foreign consumption. I make these remarks in order to assure the House that, though we may not take into consideration any particular program, yet if any abnoral efforts are made or any abnormal program is actually put into execution, that would seem to disturb the general amount of naval power which would belong to different countries, certainly I should think it to be my duty, and the Government would think it to be its duty, to reconsider its position; and they would be perfectly certain, whatever happened, if it were necessary in consequence of abnormal efforts on the part of any other power to make corresponding efforts here, to receive the support of the House of Commons."

These few remarks on behalf of Lord Salisbury's Government will cause more bitterness in Berlin than anything that has happened since the flying squadron was sent out. They were applauded by both sides of the House of Commons, and they are indorsed by Great Britain en masse.

BLEW UP TURKISH TROOPS.

A Railroad Bridge Near Salonica Shattered by Dynamite and Many Drowned.

Athens, March 13.—A despatch from Larissa, in Thessaly, says that a railway bridge over the River Vardnaris, near Salonica, Turkey, was blown up with dynamite while a train with 3000 Turkish troops on board was crossing over it. A large portion of the bridge was completely wrecked. Several of the cars were overturned and fell into the river. Many of their occupants were unable to get out and perished before assistance could be rendered them. Other soldiers who managed to get free from the cars were dragged down by the weight of their accoutrements and drowned. It is not known how many lost their lives, but it is reported that the number is large.

It is supposed that the explosion was caused by Macedonian malcontents.

Advices from Canea show that the pillaging of the houses of Christians is being continued, not by Turkish troops alone, but by the Turkish municipal authorities, and despite the fact that sailors and marines from the foreign warships landed ostensibly to protect the town, no attempt has been made to stop the robberies. Last night and to-day the municipal officers went to the houses of Christians, who fled from the city, and opened them under the pretext that they were to be used as lodging places for some of the many refugees. The object of the officers, however, was to steal anything they could place their hands on. They even took away the furniture and household utensils, to say nothing of other valuables they found. In some cases the house was completely dismantled.

Gave Him Five Minutes to Leave.

Athens, March 13.—The Greek steamer Smyrna arrived at Canea this morning. Immediately after she had come to shore her captain received an order from one of the foreign admirals directing him to leave at once. The captain of the Smyrna refused to do so, whereupon the admiral who issued the order sent him notice that he would be given five minutes in which to obey his command. In view of this peremptory notice the Smyrna weighed her anchor and left Canea.

MORE WARLIKE AGAIN.

Greece Issues a Decree of Mobilization, the Same as in War Time.

New York, March 14.—A special cable from Athens to The Journal says:

A royal decree just issued declares the army in a state of mobilization, excepting those exempt from service, amounting to 60,000. This measure authorizes requisitions and the formation of battalions of unlimited numbers as in time of war. This order, issued at a time when all advices from Europe indicate that the powers have agreed to maintain their decision with regard to Crete, and are on the point of issuing their ultimatum to Greece, is proof that the Government has resolved not to recede from its position.

English Radical Demonstration.

London, March 14.—Another radical manifestation to express sympathy with Greece in her efforts in behalf of the Cretan Christians was held this afternoon in Trafalgar Square. There were 20,000 persons present. The speakers included Michael Davitt, Francis C. Hanning J. Havelock Wilson and J. H. Dalziel, all members of the House of Commons, and several Nonconformist ministers. The speakers maintained the right of the Cretans to settle their political differences themselves without any intervention on the part of the powers, and denounced Prime Minister Salisbury for the part he has taken in connection with Russia, Germany, Austria, France and Italy to compel Greece to abandon her attempts to liberate Crete and to save the Christian population of the island from Turkish misrule, oppression and massacres.

The resolutions adopted protest against the use of the British forces to suppress the laudable efforts of Greece in behalf of civilization and Christianity. They also declare that the reply made by the Hellenic Government to the note of the powers offers a satisfactory basis for a settlement of the whole question, and urge the Government not to assent to the policy of coercion that is advocated by certain of the Continental powers, notably Germany.

ANATOLIA IS TROUBLED.

Armenians Are in Fear of Their Lives and a Massacre is Reported.

London, March 14.—The Morning Post will to-morrow print a despatch from Constantinople, saying that advices have been received there from Adana showing that the people of that town are in a terrible condition. The Armenians are in fear of their lives, and dare not leave the quarter allotted to them for occupancy. The Turkish officials are using every means to enforce the collection of taxes, despite the fact that the district has been devastated and the people have scarcely anything to met the demands made upon them. The Turkish troops have not been paid in months, and they threaten to commit excesses if their arrears of wages are not promptly settled. Many similar reports have been received from other provinces in Anatolia. It is rumored that a massacre of Armenians has taken place in Sivas, but no details are given.

It is stated that the Russian troops on the Anatolian frontier will occupy the country in the event of the disorders breaking out. Advices from another source are to the effect that disorders have occured at Gemerak in the vilayet of Sivas and that several Armenians have been killed. An agent named Yusuf, who was disbursing relief to the sufferers at Sert in the vilayet of Diarbekr, has been murdered and robbed of five hundred pounds which had been furnished to him for relief purposes by the Duke of Westminster's Armenian fund. The offenders were probably Kurds. Sir Philip Currie, the British Ambassador, and Hon. A. W. Terrill, the American Minister, have demanded that the Porte punish the murderers and restore the money stolen.

The Porte Agrees.

Constantinople, March 14.—The Porte has agred to concentrate the Turkish troops now on the island of Crete in the fortified towns as soon as the Greek forces are withdrawn.

Will Proclaim It.

Canea, March 14.—The fact that the powers have decided to establish an autonomous government in Crete is not generally known to the insurgent leaders. This it is said is due to Admiral Reinrek, lately in command of the Greek fleet, who refused to act as an interpreter between the foreign admirals and the insurgents for the conveyance of information furnished by the former. Great Britain has now taken steps to have the Christian leaders informed of what it is intended to do, in the belief that as soon as the information spreads it will have the result of stopping the fighting. Sir Alfred Biliotti, the British Consul here, has been instructed by his Government to have printed as soon as his colleagues receive similar instructions a proclamation announcing the decision of the powers to grant autonomy to the island. The proclamation will give no details of the scheme, but will declare as a cardinal point that Turkey shall have nothing whatever to do with the internal affairs of Crete. The proclamation will be distributed as widely as possible and it is thought that the effect will be very beneficial.

Still Holding Out.

Athens, March 14.—Advices received here this evening from Canea show that the insurgents are continuing their bombardment of the town of Spinalonga. The Turkish garrison is still holding out, though the cannonading has now been going on for nearly three days.

Soldiers are Suffering.

London, March 14.—The Standard will publish to-morrow a despatch from Janina, Southern Albania, stating that the weather has become very severe. It adds that the Turkish soldiers on the frontier are badly fed and lodged and that they are suffering from disease. The Mussulman Redifs destined for the frontier, upon reaching Arta, returned hurriedly, not liking the looks of the Greek irregular troops. The despatch further says that the Greek troops on the Macedonian frontier are also suffering from cold and exposure, but notwithstanding this, their ardor is unabated.

Blockade Will Begin Wednesday.

London, March 14.—The Chronicle will in its issue to-morrow claim to have authority to state that the blockade of Crete and certain unnamed Greek ports will begin on Wednesday, an ultimatum to that effect having been delivered to Greece. Various reports concur that a blockade of Crete is immediately imminent and a blockade of Grecian ports later if Greece persists in her present attitude. Negotiations are proceeding towards having France and Italy jointly occupy Crete or Italy alone with a mandate from the powers.

ALMOST PROHIBITORY

Are the New U. S. Duties Upon Canadian Products—A Talk With a Prominent Canadian.

Chicago, March 14.—William E. Curtis wires from Washington to The Record: The duties upon Canadian products are almost prohibitory, and the rate on white pine, spruce and similar lumber will probably be $2 a thousand, which is double that of the McKinley law.

I asked a prominent Canadian to-day what effect these duties would have upon the people and politics of the Dominion.

"Of course it will be very serious for us," was the reply. "It is proposed to increase the duties on hay, eggs and all other farm products so that they will be practically prohibitory, and if this is done it will deprive the Canadians of their market."

"Will this promote annexation?"

"The people will be forced to realize that if they want freer trade they will have to follow Mr. Blaine's suggestion, that if they wish to sit at the American table they will have to join the American family. It will promote the exodus of farmers to the United States. Whatever may be said about who pays the duty, it comes to this: When the man who has the monopoly of selling fixes the price, the duty comes out of the buyers; when the man who has the monopoly of buying fixes the price, the duty comes out of the seller."

The new tariff bill has been sent to the printer.

Even Kindling Wood Taxed.

New York, March 14.—The Herald prints what purports to be a synopsis of the new tariff bill, in which it is stated that the wood schedule stands as in the McKinley Act, with the exception that white pine has been made dutiable with spruce at $2 per thousand feet, and a paragraph has been inserted taxing kindling wood in bundles not exceeding a quarter of a cubic foot each, three-tenths of a cent a bundle, and larger bundles three tenths of a cent for each additional quarter of a cubic foot or fractional part.

In the agricultural schedule horses and mules shall pay $20 per head, provided that horses valued at $50 and above shall pay a duty of 25 per cent. ad valorem; cattle more than a year old, $5 per head, valued at more than $20 a head, 25 per cent. ad valorem; one year old or less $2 per head.

High Duty on Barley.
